5.13 SHORELAND PROTECTION STRIP BOAT DOCKAGE – FUNNEL DEVELOPMENTS – MARINE SEWAGE PUMP OUT FACILITIES PUBLIC ACCESS SITES

A Shoreland Protection Strip
No building or structure, except docks or launch ramps, shall be erected closer than fifty (50) feet from the shoreline at normal high water level of any lake, stream or creek within the Township. In addition, a strip of land thirty five (35) feet wide from the normal high water mark bordering the body of water shall be maintained in trees and shrubs in their natural state. Trees and shrubs may be pruned, however, to afford a view of the water.

B Limitation of Boat Dockage
Not more than one (1) mooring, OR one (1) slip, OR one (1) dock space for each one hundred (100) feet of lake frontage, as measured along the water's edge of the natural shoreline at the normal high water mark of the lake, may be provided for mooring or dockage of boats in any zoning district in the Township. "One (1) mooring," or "one (1) slip," "one (1) dock space," as used herein, means space for a single boat which is powered by an engine, including a sailboat powered by an auxiliary engine. This Ordinance does not intend to limit, and there is no limit on the number of row boats, dinghies, rubber boats, canoes or small sailboats which may be kept and used on lake or stream frontage of any width, provided that no such boat shall have engine power of any kind other than hand or foot power. In computing the number of feet of natural shoreline, as above described, the measurement shall be along the water's edge of normal high water mark of the lake at the natural shoreline undisturbed by any excavation, channel, lagoon or canal. The measurement shall not be made along any man-made channel, lagoon or canal.

C Limitation of "Funnel Development"
Any development in any zoning district which shares a common lakefront or stream area may not permit more than one (1) single family home, cottage, condominium or apartment to the use of each one hundred (100) feet of lake or stream frontage in such common lakefront or stream area as measured along the water's edge of normal high water mark of the lake or stream. This restriction is intended to limit the number of users of the lake or stream frontage to preserve the quality of the waters, avoid congestion, and to preserve the quality of recreational use of all waters and recreational lands within the Township. This restriction shall apply to any parcel regardless of whether access to the water shall be gained by easement, common fee ownership, single fee ownership or lease. This restriction shall not apply to a "Public Access Site" as hereafter described.

D. Marine Sewage Pump-Out Facility
Any dock facility providing dockage for four (4) or more boats with marine sewage holding tanks on board shall provide a marine sewage pump-out facility which shall be capable of providing pump-out service to a Health Department approved sewage disposal facility

E. Modification by the Zoning Board of Appeals
The Zoning Board of Appeals may, upon petition and after notice and hearing as provided in Article VII, vary or modify the strict application of this section (5.13 A-D) if it shall determine that undue hardship will otherwise result and the spirit and intent of this Ordinance will be preserved by such variance or modification. The Board of Appeals may, as a condition of such variance or modification, impose such conditions upon the use of the lands and lakefront or streamfront as it shall deem necessary to preserve the spirit and intent of this Ordinance.

F Public Access Sites
Land abutting a lake or stream, which land is under the possession and control of a governmental agency including Hayes Township, the County of Charlevoix, the Charlevoix County Road Commission, the State of Michigan, or other governmental agency, and which governmental agency allows public access across the site to the lake or stream abutting the site, is herein described as a "Public Access Site."

Such Public Access Sites may be owned or leased by the public agency, or dedicated to the use of the public, but shall, in any case, be under the exclusive control of one or more public agencies which have the authority to impose regulations and restrictions upon the use of the site and upon access to the abutting lake or stream

The restrictions of this Section 5.13 (A-D) shall not apply to a "Public Access Site," as above described, provided that such sites are subject to governmental control enabling the controlling governmental agency to limit boat docking, moorage and boat launching, prohibit overnight mooring, camping, vehicle parking, and other controls upon use of the site.

The governmental agency shall have the authority to impose such controls and restrictions upon the use of Public Access Sites and the abutting waters as are deemed necessary to protect the lake or stream and adjoining properties from pollution, congestion, other damage, or unreasonable impositions upon the use and enjoyment of others using the site, using other private property in the proximity of the site, or the waters which the site abuts.

If not otherwise prohibited by law, the Hayes Township Board shall also have the authority to pass ordinances and adopt rules restricting the use of such Public Access Sites and the use of the abutting lake or stream in such manner as it deemed necessary in the future to protect the lake or stream, the users thereof, and properties in the proximity thereof from pollution, congestion, other damage or unreasonable imposition upon the use and enjoyment of others. Such ordinances may designate different rules, regulations and restrictions for each individual Public Access Site as shall be deemed appropriate for the protection of the particular site, the waters, or private property in the proximity of the particular site.

G. Shoreland Protection Strip Replanting Requirement
A planted strip of land thirty five (35) feet wide from the normal high water mark, bordering the body of water. The replanted strip shall consist of a mix of deep rooted trees (either deciduous or evergreen) and woody shrubs, with not less than thirty percent of the replanting consisting of deciduous or evergreen trees.

Spacing Requirements: Deciduous trees shall be no further apart than 8'x8', evergreens (pine, spruce and cedar) no further apart than 6'x6' and woody shrubs no further apart than 3'x3'.

Section 2 – Violation of this Ordinance shall be subject to the Enforcement and Penalties as set forth in Section 8.07 of the said Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance dated July 2, 1979, as amended.

Section 3 – This Ordinance shall be subject to the provisions of Section 8.09 – Validity – of said Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance dated July 2, 1979, as amended.

Section 4 – This Ordinance shall become immediately effective upon publication here of following adoption by the Hayes Township Board.

Section 5 – A copy of this Ordinance may be purchased or inspected at the Office of the Charlevoix County Clerk, Charlevoix County Building, Charlevoix, Michigan, or at the residence of the Hayes Township Zoning Administrator, Upper Bay Shore Rd., Hayes Township.

Section 6 – Those sections of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance in conflict herewith are herewith repealed.

Adopted at a Regular Meeting of the Hayes Township Board, July 1, 1985.

Sandra Somerville, Clerk

Engagements

Christine Spencer and Timothy Bruce

Spencer - Bruce

Christine L. Spencer of Milford and Timothy M. Bruce, also of Milford, will be married on July 20 at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix.

The intended bride is the daughter of James C. Spencer of Trenton and Shirley A. Kowalski of Walled Lake. She is a graduate of Walled Lake High School.

Her fiance is the son of Dewey Bruca, Sr. of Charlevoix and the late Mrs. Bruca. He is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1984 graduate of North Central Michigan College. He is employed by the Prudential Life Insurance Company of America as an agent in Pontiac. (Photography by Impressions Photo Studio)

Parents Sue and Skip Smith of Ypsilanti look on as son Ronnie Smith signs a national letter of intent to play college baseball with the Eastern Michigan Hurons. Ronnie is the grandson of Ruth and Les Payne of Charlevoix. Smith's coach looks on.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. D. Brad Campbell

Kimble - Campbell

Debra Jean Kimble and D. Brad Campbell, both of Charlevoix, were married in Edinburgh, Scotland on Thursday, May 20.

A civilian service in Registrar James Morton's countryside office was followed by an exchange of vows in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Two Scottish citizens witnessed the double-ring rites in which rings designed by Artisan's Gallery of Petoskey were presented to both the bride and bridegroom. The wedding march was played for the couple by the jazz pianist in the Caledonian Hotel.

A carriage ride to the castle and around the city climaxed the festivities.

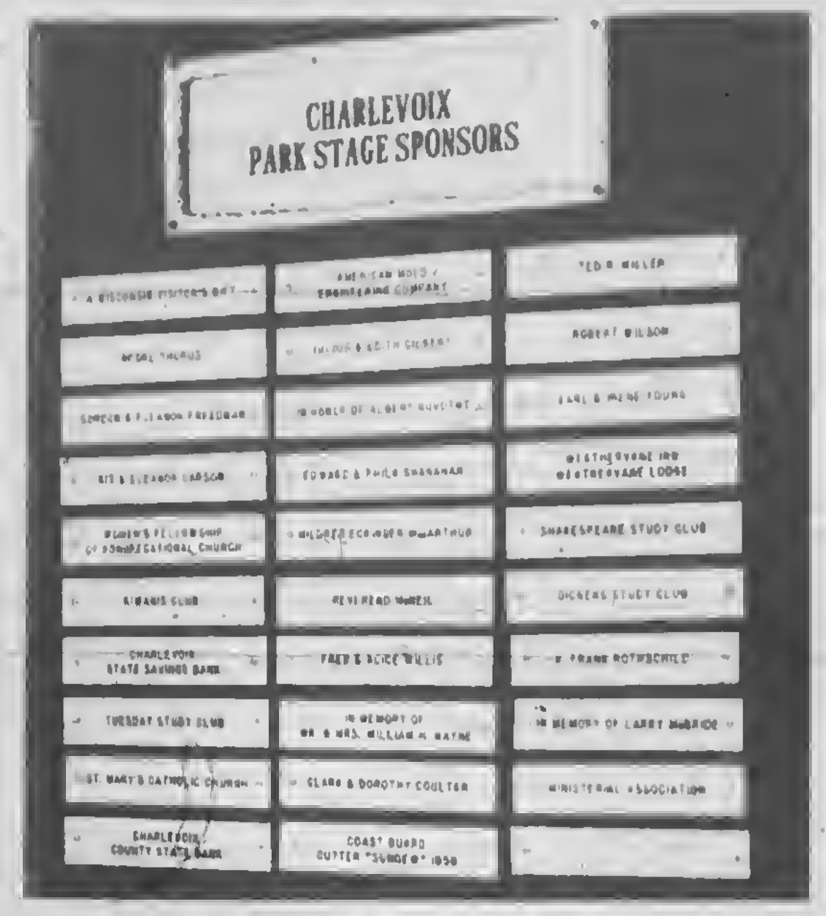
For her wedding, the bride was attired in a cream-colored linen suit with a dusty pink silk blouse fashioned with scalloped edges, embroidery front, and small covered buttons. Her cream-colored wedding hat with veil was selected from Harrod's Department Store in London.

The bride is the daughter of Gordon Wolgamott of Charlevoix and Barbara Kain of Traverse City. The bridegroom is the son of Patricia Campbell of Wheeling, West Virginia and Ron and Eunica Campbell of Novi.

A small reception honoring the newlyweds was held at Ricciardi's Inn of Charlevoix upon their return. They are at home in Charlevoix, where the bride is the Charlevoix County Probate Court Register-Administrator and the bridegroom is the Juvenile Court Officer and Referee.

University women seek donations for annual used book sale

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) would appreciate donations of used paperback and hardcover books for their annual sale on July 26. Please drop them at Lucile Martin's house, 304 Dixon or phone 547-2077 to arrange a pickup.



Several years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Odmark, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miles, and Mrs. Kit Carson ware members of a committee which collected funds for the renovation of the Band Shell in East Park.

The names of those who contributed money for the renovation have been engraved on a plaque which now hangs in the Charlevoix Historical Society Museum.

Craftsmen to display work here

Hobbyists of every description will be making their way to Charlevoix this weekend for participation in the 17th annual Charlevoix Craft Show in East Park, Claudia Kenifeck, executive sacratary of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the show, has announced.

Chairing the event is Linda Bahringer, with Sally Ochs heading a hospitality committee to assist axhibitors.

Hobbyists totaling 190 from throughout the midwest and as far away as New York are entered in tha fair, a spin-off of the original Waterfront Art Fair.

"We had to start cutting off anteries in aarly May because of the wida interest in the Craft Show," Kenifeck said. "We hated to do it but we returned many entries because our spaca filled up so fast."

A wida range of hobbies will be featured at the fair which will open at 9 a.m. and continue until 7 p.m. Among them will be antries of pottery, ceramics, woodwork of evary description (including shipwreck furniture for the first time in sevaral yaars) bandcrafted quilts for any size bed including children's, weavers with loom-woven items ranging from pillows and placemats to robes and shawls, jewelry, handcrafted stationery, dried flower arrangements, grapevine and pinecone wreaths, dolls, doll clothes, handcrafted items for the house and inlaid wood pictures to name a few of the offerings being featured.

Many people who visit the fair say that it's an ideal place to find cute, clever, unusual or practical gift items especially if you're looking for something special as a Christmas gift. "What ever the reason, people find their way to the fair," Behringer, chairman of the fair for tha second year, commented.

The Charlavoix Chamber of Commerce building at 408 Bridge St. will serve as Craft Show headquarters.

Livery stable hurt by insurance rates season. In the meantime, they are going it on their uwn.

"We talked to our attorney about it," says Jan Proulx, owner of the Dark Star Stables in Wolverine. Most of the insuranee companies we spoke with wouldn't touch stables. The ones that would had rates too high - between $800 and $1,000 per horse per year. We're going without insurance."

Ms. Proulx said her stables charges $8 per hour for riding. To pay the going rates each horse would have to be ridden a minimum of 100 hours. Then they would work to pay the rest of the considerable overhead associated with horses - vets, hay, grain, and shelter.

Swan, at Windmill Farms, says of each $10 per hour ride, $3 is set aside for insurance. He reports an average summer season sees about 1,800, $10 rides.

The gross profits of trail riding sound attractive. June Mittler, owner at Sogonosh estimates gross receipts from trail riding to average between $20,000 and $30,000 annually. Aside from the astronomical insurance, each horse costs about $600 a year to vet, shoe, and feed. Thus her lotal costs per horse are about $1,000 or $8,000 per year for her five trail horses, unless there are additional emergency expenses, most frequently veterinary bills. Her net for the five horses is less than $20,000.

"Our expenses are offset by boarding private horses, training horses, and breeding with our Appaloosa stallion," Mittler says.

Sympathetic to the problems of insurers, Mittler comments, "You don't know who walks in the door. It's like this hijacking. You just don't have anyway of knowing who will sue you."

Mittler says no matter how cautious trail riding organizations are, people find a reason to sue.

"Last year we had an inexperienced rider who walked her horse up a hill, then started down. Well, as anyone knows, horses change the way they walk when they start down a hill. She panicked, jumped off, and broke her ankle. Sued us for $250,000. We fought and she only got $25,000," Mittler said with an ironic laugh.

"The market has closed up on writing insurance for trail riding," reports Mia Hubbert, of the Rhulen Agency of Monticello, New York, one of the largest insurers in the horse world.

"We can write almost any kind of horse insurance - racing, showing, jumping - but not saddle horses for hire," Hubbert said.

"Everyone thinks they are John Wayne. They get on a horse and then they sue you," the insurance agent states.

"The consumer is doing it to themselves," says Gail Knapp of the Knapp Agency of Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, another major insurer of equestrian operations.

"It's not just horses, It's true in everything. People have no moral obilgation anymore. They go to an attorney and he sues for them.

"To defend a claim cost thousands of dollars. Even to win is expensive.

"We need to go back to old values, where people take some responsibility. If I am riding a horse and there's a tree in my path and I don't duck and it knocks me off my horse, whose fault is it?" the insurance agent asked.

Insurance agencies and riding stable owners agree, people are very ready to sue.

Stable owners are also quick to point out their own responsibilities to use caution, to check out their riders, and instruct them carefully about safety.

"But there's always that skunk or bunblebee," says Mittler, recalling with horror her own near accident this week when her horse slipped in the mud and went beserk. "The only reason I didn't bail out was because it was a long walk home," the experienced horse woman says. "I had the run of my life."

As for a solution, Mittler says the borse business is typically a "cutthroat competitive business and we have to stop that attitude. We have to get together, monitor our operations, establish guidelines and consider self-insuring."

Swan agrees and adds, "Our elected representatives talk all the time about helping small businesses. We in the horse business are Michigan small businesses. Why don't they come forth with some limits to liability and opeational guidelines. That would help."

Well, it was a very tough decision but, after great consideration, the winning Official Venetian Festival T-shirt design is that of Miss Judy Mabee, age 21, local retailer from the Clothing Company in Charlevoix. Congratulations! The abstract impact of her design is what caught the judges' eyes.

Suspense will mount until July 22 when the shirts will go on sale at the Chamber.

A total of ten entries were submitted, oll very well done. Special thanks go out to all who participated.

Beginning July 8, you will be seeing the Charlevoix Host & Hostess on the city streets. Their job will be to help answer questions, pick up litter, and greet passers-by in a friendly, positive way.

Christy Coolman and Matt Miller will be acting as these goodwill ambassadors. They hope to help our summer tourists find their way around town and give them an image to remember.

Republicans plan picnic

The Annual Charlevoix County Republican Picnic will be held Sunday afternoon, July 14, at Whiting Park, beginning at 1 p.m.

Barbecued chicken and a smorgasbord of other foods, along with door prizes and guest speakers will highlight the occasion.

Tickets, at $5 each, may be purchased from party members or obtained at the door on the day of the picnic. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Trail riding at Windmill Farms

Today (Wednesday) is the first day of the Windmill Farms Trail Riding program sponsored by the Charlevoix County Youth Activities Department.

Those who are interested but who have not yet signed up for the program should contact Youth Activities at 547-5930, or stop by the lower level of the County Building Annex.

The Trail Riding program will meet every Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for eight weeks. Cost of the program is $64 for eight weeks, or $8 a day. Payment for eight weeks will entitle riders to a special tee shirt.

Windmill Farms is located on the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road, about half way between Charlevoix and Horton Bay. Riders will also have the use of the swimming pool at Windmill Farms and are encouraged to take a picnic lunch to eat.

A limit of 36 young people will be permitted to enroll in the riding program, whieb will be supervised by the Youth Activites Department.

County road report issued

There are 790 miles of roads in Charlevoix County and last year it cost $1,945,907 to keep them in shape for travel by local residents and visitors, according to the County Road Commission's annual report.

The greatest portions of the expenditures, the report shows, were for road maintenace, $1,146,028; and road construction, $391,411. The remaining expenses were for trunkline maintenance (for which the Road Commission is re-imbursed by the federal government), administration expenses, equipment expenses, capital outlay, and Interest, among other office details.

The Road Commission bought several pieces of major equipment during 1984, which brought capital outlay expenditures to $156,221. These expenditures are described in the Commission's report as being for "Single Axle", "Oshkosh", "Underbody Scraper" and other important items.

Operating funds for the Road Commission came from the Michigan Department of Transportation in the amount of $1,355,891; the federal government, $159,632; and Road Commission contracts with local townships, $175,398.

Township contracts included Boyne Valley, for work on Skop and Brown Roads, $45,715; Eveline, for work on Phelps Road, $38,122; Hayes, for work on Stephens Road and Susan Shores, $44,267; Melrose, for work on Washburn Road, $230; and, South Arm, for work on Lord Road, $47,061.

Attorney General charges Big Rock 'obsolete'

by DOUG TRUAX

The Big Rock nuclear power plant in Hayes Township is costing its customers more to produce electricity than it would cost to purchase power on intrastate and interstate markets, witnesses sponsored by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley told the Michigan Public Serviee Commission (PSC) in testimony on June 27.

The charges came in written testimony filed by the Attorney General's office in Consumers Power Company's pending rate case.

The Attorney General's office asked that Big Rock be removed from rate making, redueing the PSC's recommended rate increase by $31 million.

Testimony was presented by William A. Peloquin, a CPA and member of the Attorney General's staff, and Engineer J. Kumar of Washington, D.C. based on internal studies done by Consumers Power Company management between 1981 and 1983.

"We don't consider the plant useful onymore," Hugh Anderson, an assistant attorney general in charge of the special litigation division told the Courier. He said Big Rock, one of the oldest commercial nuclear plants in the United States, was "obsolete."

Anderson cited the high cost of maintenance as a major factor in their conclusion that buying power from outside sources would be cheaper than producing it at Big Rock.

Big Rock Public Affairs Director Charles MacInnis said the charges "were based on outdated information, figures that are two years old.

"A number of things have changed since 1983," MacInnis said. "Capital costs have been reduced from around $3.5 million in 1983 to $900,000 in 1984," he said. He noted that reorganization had led to fewer support people needed at the company's headquarters in Jackson, Michigan.

MacInnis said changes in Big Rock's maximum allowable power regulations had permitted the plant to produce more power. Output increased from some 345,000 megawatt hours in 1983 to 415,000 megawatt hours in 1984.

Consumers Power maintains that there are costs associated with buying power that are not recognized in the report, MacInnis said. He cited costs such as decommissioning the Big Rock plant, maintaining the nuclear fuel, and upgrading the transmission lines to handle the increase in purchased power.

The price of power purchased from other sources can fluxuate, MacInnis said, leading to new cost anaylsis conclusions.

"It is true that the company was concerned about the viability of Big Rock," he said. "After Three Mile Island we knew that we had some problems." Changes in regulations and In the company's management practices, however, have led to the Consumer's positive outlook for Big Rock. Big Rock's license expires in May 2000. MacInnis said that he is confident that the plant will keep running until, and possibly beyond, that date.

Water project stalled again

by DOUG TRUAX

Construction of Charlevoix's new water intake system, designed to replace the city well contaminated with trichloroethylene(TCE), has reached yet another impasse.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the prime contractor, Union Indemnity Co. of New York, cannot agree on Union's payment of damages for previous delays in the construction of the Lake Michigan water intake project.

Union Indemnity refuses to return to work on the project until it receives $25,000 in "liquidated damages" withheld by the Corps because of construction delays.

Union Indemnity, a bonding company, took over as prime contractor on the project after South Shore Equipment Co. of Avon, Ohio was fired by the Army Corps of Engineers for failure to meet project deadlines. Union rehired South Shore to build the project and June 15, 1985 was set as the new deadline.

Union Indemnity has subsequently filed for bankruptcy in New York state.

Work was expected to begin again despite the bankruptcy proceedings after the New York Supreme Court on June 25 accepted a stipulation agreement between Union and the Corps guaranteeing that contractors would be paid. The agreement was designed to assure that funds for the water project would not be tied up in court during the company's bankruptcy hearings.

On June 26, the Corps sent Union a $62,000 progress payment and issued a direct order to return to work on the project. Union refused, says Christine Dowhan, an attorney for the Corps, unless it received an additional $24,000 in liquidated damages withheld by the Corps. Liquidated damages were assessed by the Corps against the contractor for being beyond the deadline for the project. The amount of the damages was agreed to at the time that Union Indemnity took over as prime contractor from South Shore Equipment Co.

Dowhan said that the Corps is concerned about the company's ability to complete the job. They have asked for financial records from Union. "I don't know how long it will take," Dowhan said of the request for financial data.

"We believe that the prudent course of action is to take a look at the information requested," Dowhan said. She added that they would terminate the contract with Union and seek a new contractor "if it appears that they do not have the resources to continue with the job."

The Detroit office of the Corps of Engineers has requested from the division headquarters in Chicago the authority to terminate the contractor, she said. No response has been received.

"We haven't had a default by a contractor in 17 years," Dowhan said, "and we have never had a default by a bonding company." She added that it was a normal procedure for the bonding company to take over from the contractor in the event the contractor was in financial difficulty.

"It is critical that we know they can complete the job," Jack Kratz-

Condo rezoning is denied by county

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission rejected by a 6-3 vote a proposal to change the zoning on 40 acres owned by Water's Edge from R-2 Residential to R-4 Planned Residential Zone.

The commission's action was advisory only. The matter will now be sent to the Charlevoix Township Board for final action.

Water's Edge is seeking the rezoning to construct a major new condominium development on the property located between the junction of M-66 and Ferry Road and Lake Charlevoix. Water's Edge owns 1450 feet of shoreline and hopes to develop the property in conjunction with First Centrum Corp. of East Lansing.

On June 26 the Charlevoix Township Planning and Zoning Board approved the change in zoning by a 3-1 vote.

The Planning Commission's rejection of the rezoning followed a staff recommendation of County Planner Larry Sullivan who said the rezoning should be denied because of weaknesses in the Charlevoix Township zoning ordinance. Sullivan said he was not convinced that the township zoning ordinance contained the necessary standards to allow the township or the developer to determine what was or was not a good site plan.

"There is nothing in the ordinance to allow the commission to make a determination on what is allowable and what is not," Sullivan said.

Sullivan told the Courier that the state legislature passed zoning enabling legislation in 1978 that requires all zoning ordinances to establish definitive guidelines for such developments. "It then gets away from a popularity contest when a developer brings in a site plan," Sullivan said.

The county planner said the ordinance should not be ambiguous on the density allowed on the property or the placement of the residences.

The motion to reject the rezoning at this time was made by Vivian Visscher, Beaver Island, and stated that "due to discrepencies in Section 7.4 a and b of the township zoning ordinance, the Planning Commission should return the issue to the Charlevoix Township Board until Chapter 7 of the zoning ordinance(which deals with R-4 zoning) is clarified and consideration is

Consumers' industrial electric rates high, business group charges

Electric rates charged to industry in Michigan are among the highest in the Midwest, according to the Association of Businesses Advocating Tariff Equity (ABATE).

ABATE represents 29 major Michigan employers concerned about the high cost of energy to industry in the state.

Consumers Power ranked sixth highest in industrial electric rates of 32 midwest investor-owned utilities surveyed for ABATE by independent utility rate consultants. Detroit Edison ranked fifth highest. The two utilities serve about 90 percent of Michigan industry, the group said.

The survey was based on actual rates in effect at the end of 1984 for two types of large manufacturing plants.

"Both Consumers Power and Detroit Edison will probably receive additional rate increases in 1985 as a result of requests now pending before the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) which would make their rates even higher," said Charlea Williams, chairman of ABATE. "the manner in which increases are allocated to various customer classes will have a serious impact on the state's ability to attract new industry."

"Energy costs are a significant factor in the industrial decision making process relating to new and existing plants," Williams said.

Charles MacInnis, public affairs director for Consumers Power's Big Rock nuclear plant added that "Consumers' electric rates are skewed in favor of residential customers and have come at the expense of industrial customers."

The residential preferred rates are the result of the PSC's philosophy on rate aetting, he said.

Council turns down Dixon Ave. rezoning

City Council rejected an appeal to rezone a lot on Dixon Avenue from single family (R-1) to two-family residential (R-2A) at its meeting Monday.

The lot is just east of the Lodge, overlooking Round Lake.

The council voted three for and two against the rezoning request of John Hisey who plans to build a duplex on the site. Four affirmative votes are necessary to approve rezoning.

Councilmen Michael Greeley and Robert Wood voted against the plan.

Greeley said he was opposed to the rezoning at this time because everything did not appear to be in order. He said he would like to see a complete site plan and questioned the confusion expressed at the meeting over whether the lot was going to be split or whether it needed merely to be rezoned for a duplex.

Hisey told the council that his goal was to build a duplex and not a condominium and that he wanted "cut and dried" ownership of the two lots and duplex. He intends to live in one unit and sell the other, Hisey said.

Neighbors of the project present at the council meeting did not object to the duplex but one questioned whether the architecture would fit into the older, residential nature of the neighborhood. Several residents asked whether rezoning would set a precedent for multiple family dwellings on other parts of Dixon Avenue.

In other business, council heard Mrs. Kay Brinker ask for a closed session to discuss a personnel matter. City manager Michael Wiesner objected, noting that he had fired Mrs. Brinker last Friday and that it was within his authority to do so without any action by council. He cited sections of the city charter to support his argument. "Any council action is in violation of the charter," he added.

Ward found after search

Dorothy Ward, 67, a victim of Alzheimer's disease, was found at approximately 9 p.m. Saturday in a wooded area west of the former C&O railroad bed midway between M-66 and Clark Road after being missing for approximately 12 hours.

She was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she was treated for multiple insect bites and mild dehydration and released.

Mrs. Ward's family had advised the Charlevoix Police Department at approximately 9:30 a.m. that she had wandered away from 604 May St. but said they would search for her themselves. When they were unsuccessful in their search, they notified the department and a full scale search was initiated by the police and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

The information was broadcast via radio and television stations. The sheriff's department mounted posse and tracking dog joined the search and a helicopter from the Traverse City Air Station was called in. Following the broadcast, an area resident called to say she had seen a person she believed to be Mrs. Ward near M-66 and the railroad bed earlier in the day. The search was concentrated on the area where Mrs. Ward waa found, resting on a log.

A person suffering from Alzheimer's disease has a loss of memory and becomes disoriented.

given to density with particular emphasis to lake frontage."

In recommending against the rezoning, Sullivan added that the property "was not a bad site for multiple family housing."

William Johnson, head of William J. Johnson and Assoc., has been hired by the developers to prepare site plans for the property. He addressed the commission meeting and outlined the preliminary project plans.

Johnson, who has developed L'arbre Croche, Leelanau Schools, Sugarloaf, and other northern Michigan resorts, said he hoped to develop the land "to a reasonable extent" within the constraints of the land.

The land is divided into three natural zones, he said. The first is a flat shoreline area where there are currently some single family residences. Under the development plan these houses would be razed and much of the shoreline turned into a common recreational area.

Behind the flat shoreline there is a wetland covered by cedar and transected by a natural stream. Johnson's plans showed the dredging of the central portion of the wetland into a pond, with a recreational center with pool and tennis courts between the pond and the lake.

Property on the north and south ends of the wetland would be developed for condominiums.

Additional housing would be constructed on the third zone, a wooded upland. Johnson said this area "lends itself to direct and easy construction."

Johnson told the commission he was concerned with the impact of the development on the view of the land from the water.

He said they would seek to avoid a development like Hemingway Pointe which he described as "so exposed it looks like a battlefield."

The proposed plan would "lean on the existing boat docking system," Johnson said. Water's Edge currently has a 400-foot dock on Lake Charlevoix. In presenting the plan to the township, the developers had indicated that there was a "possibility of fantailing off the existing dock" to create space for 36-50 boats.

Several area residents attending the commission hearing expressed concern about the density of the development, particularly its impact on the waterfront.

Marcia Trimper, who is building a home south of the proposed development, noted that there were "a lot of people with good intentions but suddenly we have a lot of density on that part of the lake.

"We've got to stop (further marine development) and spread these marinas out to other areas," she said. Trimper said there were 11 boats now at the tip of the dock. "I hate to think what that area is going to be like when you put in 32 more boats," she added.

Dean Davenport, a summer resident in the area and former Charlevoix recreation director, told the commission that there were over 500 boat slips currently in the vicinity of the development "plus one of the finest boat lauching sites in northern Michigan." Davenport said that there was "also one of the finest beaches in the state" that had been closed three times when he was recreation director, in part because of the boat traffic.

"I don't think the area can take another congestion like a large boat marina," he said.

George Weber, a resident of the area, expressed corcern about the sewer assessments for the new development. He said that although Water's Edge was one of the main forces to get the new township sewer to the area, it would be assessed for only 32 units.

In other business, the Planning Commission unanimously rejected the rezoning from C-2 Resort-Commercial to C-3 Commercial of a 3-acre parcel of land on the corner of Petoskey Avenue and Mercer Road from C-2 Resort-Commercial to C-3. This vote was also advisory and the rezoning will be sent to the Charlevoix Township Board for final action.

The C-3 zoning is being sought by Jim Uhrick, owner of the property, for a proposed used car lot on the site.

On June 26 the rezoning had been approved by the Charlevoix Township Planning and Zoning Board.

There was no formal staff recommendation from the County Planner's office, but Sullivan told the commission he "still feels the C-3 zoning is not the appropriate or best use of that type of property."

Jim Brinker, city treasurer, spoke on his wife'a behalf, urging the council to hear the matter in closed session.

Council voted to support Wiesner and deny the closed personnel session. Councilmen Greeley, Timms, and Roloff voted not to hear the matter; Councilmen Wood and Bellows voted in favor of the closed session.

Approval was given to an engineering contract for the industrial park, contingent on the receipt of a $285,000 Michigan Small Cities Grant. The contract was awarded to McNamee, Porter, and Seeley of Ann Arbor for an amount not to exceed $42,600 for basic engineering and $29 an hour for construction inspection. The contract was approved unanimously.

meyer, project coordinator for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, added. EPA is funding 90 percent of the cost of constructing the water intake system and the new water treatment plant.

"The last thing EPA wants is to get the job 80-90 percent complete and then discover overruns," Kratzmeyer said, noting that EPA was "not going to allow this to drag on too long."

He said it was important to get the job completed for "the contracted amount since no new money would be available until the next fiscal year starting October 1 and because Congress has not yet reauthorized Superfund which is paying for the project.

"It is a very complicated situation," Kratzmeyer said, but EPA hoped to "work with Union as long as it is to our advantage to keep them on the job."

A spokesman for Baker and Hostedler of Cleveland, Ohio, the law firm representing Union Indemnity Co., had no comment on the situation.

Neilson urges state to help with Lake Charlevoix problems

"We believe Lake Charlevoix is an irreversible accident about to happen," Howard F. Neilson, president of WATCH, Inc. (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) told the Natural Resources Commission Thursday, July 11.

Neilson spoke by invitation during the public appearance portion of the meeting.

He asked for positive action by the Department of Natural Resources on several issues including rigid enforcement of the Wetlands Act, strengthening of pump out laws to reduce lake pollution, a DNR voice in determining what density is allowed on undeveloped riparian areas, and requiring developers to seek and get DNR approval of proposed densities prior to application for zoning approval.

Neilson also asked the DNR to consider working with the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee in developing a joint plan for the lake.

"Dr. Skoog has gone on record as favoring the development of a statewide lake management plan," Neilson said. "I suggest that Lake Charlevoix would be a good place to start such a project collaboratively."

He said that Lake Charlevoix could be used as a model for other inland lakes.

Neilson also attacked funnel developments proposed for Lake Charlevoix as an attempt to circumvent local ordinances. "WATCH opposes funnel development and high density residences on an inland lake for both limnological and sociological reasons," he told the commissioners.

Lake Charlevoix's water quality is currently good to excellent, he said, but "recent tests show worrisome trends downward in water clarity and quality." Neilson said that Lake Charlevoix is "the fountainhead of the county's economy. The continued good health of the lake is vital to the well being and quality of life of those citizens."

WATCH nominates local directors

WATCH Inc. (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) has announced the nomination of twelve members to its Board of Directors.

The nominees will stand for election at the WATCH annual meeting at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday July 20 at the meeting room of LaCroft Condominium.

In accordance with WATCH's recent restructuring of its Board of Directors, eight out of a total of 13 directors must be year-round residents of Charlevoix County. "This action has been taken to dispel the perception that WATCH, Inc. represents any specific interest group other than all citizens interested in clean air and water resources," the group said in announcing the meeting.

Nominated for election to the board are: Cliff Biddick, Charlevoix; James Campbell, summer resident; Rod Cortwright, Boyne City; Terry De Bruyn, Horton Bay; Cal Gould, Charlevoix; Timothy Hall, summer resident; William Henne, Hayes Township; Howard F. Neilson, summer resident; Jerry Puhl, Charlevoix; Bruce Sanderson, Eveline Township; Robert P. Scherer, summer resident; and Robert Silver, summer resident.

"We are pleased and excited with the increased membership by Charlevoix area residents," Howard F. Neilson, president of WATCH said in making the announcement of the annual meeting.

"The spectre of uncontrolled and unplanned development by insensitive real estate developers can do irreversible damage to Lake Charlevoix and the entire area," Neilson added. "I'm sure the people living here all year welcome economic development and the benefits it brings to them; so do we want that for them. But let's make it a long-term benefit prperly planned so that Charlevoix will still be called "Charlevoix the Beautiful" twenty-five or fifty years from now."

State funds lake atitude study

In a joint announcement, State Senator Mitch Irwin and State Representative Ralph Ostling revealed that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Division of Land Resource Programs, has awarded a $12,500 Coastal Management Grant to Charlevoix County.

The grant will enable the County Planning Commission and the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee to complete the first part of a two-year process to develop a Lake Charlevoix Management Plan. The project involves date collection and analysis.

Senator Irwin said the plan is needed because of the "ever-increasing demands upon the lake which, if left unmanaged, could affect the water quality in a negative way."

Project funds will be used to develop and mail an attitude survey to county residents to help determine community view and concerns about the lake. "The survey will serve a dual purpose; it will provide important information to the committee, in addition to involving local residents in the process," Representative Ostling said.

A technician will also be hired, for a short period of time, to help gather information and prepare reports for the Advisory Committee.

Bird dogs

By Doug Truax

The first field trial I ever attended was as a young teenager. It was held at a local beagle club. The hounds coursed the hills in packs, bellowing wildly, each with a different pitch or inflection. Together they lifted up a great canine chorus that was a joy to hear.

Unfortunately my entry and pet was as young and inexperienced as I was in the ways of field trials ... or hunting for that matter. We beat an erratic and solitary course, my young hound and I. He would occasionally howl at nothing in particular, distracting the other more serious dogs. Eventually we were asked to retire to the clubhouse early. The invitation came from a meaty handler who looked a bit perturbed, so we accepted.

But I never tired of hunting dogs, or field trials for that matter. It was later that I grew to love bird dogs, particularly graceful setters bred to run the north woods and point grouse and woodcock. The primal link between man and dog is nowhere stronger, I think, that the relationship between a sporting dog and his owner. A dog whose instincts have been refined over centuries of breeding can amaze you with its ability and dedication.

So it was with more than casual interest that I received Carroll Seabrook Leatherman's phone call last week telling me about her new book, The Old Man ... And The Dog. It was about field trials and bird dogs, she said. My curiosity was mixed with a certain skepticism. What could this refined and thoroughly charming woman really know about bird dogs, or writing for that matter?

The answer, I soon found out, was plenty. She has written an exciting book that chronicles the life an English pointer.

Field trials are a sport in and of themselves, distinct from hunting. They are the genetic proving ground of the hunting dog, an attempt to refine the breeding stock.

The trials Leatherman writes about are those held on southern plantations and the prairies of Saskatchewan, with big running dogs who hunt quail and prairie chickens. The pinnacle of success in these circles is the Grand National Championship held each year at the Ames Plantation in Grand Junction, Tennessee.

It is with hopes of winning this championship that Mr. John Gardner, the trainer in The Old Man ... And The Dog, embarks on an eight-year quest with Miss One Dot. The result is a tale that will please any dog man and a good many who are not.

It is at its heart, as the title states so simply, the tale of a man and a dog, a classic story written along the lines of Old Yeller and Biscuit Eater and other animal stories. The prose is fine and clean, carefully wrought.

The author has directed her story at the young people to whom she wished to make this story her legacy. And I am sure it will be read by and for many appreciative kids. I am sure, too, that after the children's eyelids have closed, ending the story for the night, a good many moms and dads will take the book downstairs with them and curl up to finish the tale.

It is good story telling and good reading, and along the way Mrs. Leatherman manages to teach the reader much about the art of training dogs and the sport of field trials.

The Old Man ... And The Dog captures not only the sport but the carefully nurtured bond between man and dog that it takes to win at it.

Letters to the editor

U.S. 31 tunnel proposed

Dear Editor:

Each summer, as the car and truck travel on Bridge Street increases and the number of boats using the channel increase, the traffic tie-ups due to the opening and closing of the bridge become more and more a problem. Within a few years this situation will become unbearable. As a solution I propose a highway tunnel under Charlevoix's Pine River Channel.

It would:

Eliminate the truck traffic from downtown Bridge St.

Allow free passage of boats of all kinds at all times.

Permit a free flow of vehicular traffic at all times.

Eliminate the frustrating traffic stagnation that occurs every half hour during the summer months.

Create a much quieter and more pleasant shopping area.

Encourage more boat traffic to Charlevoix. The bridge bottleneck keeps many away.

Encourage more tourist traffice to this area via U.S. 31, for the same reason.

Eliminate the danger of delaying the ambulance on either side of the bridge in case of emergency.

Eliminate the need for a fire truck on the north side of the bridge every time a large boat negotiates the channel.

Save over 100 gallons of gasoline per day. (It has been estimated that a car burns on the average ½ pint of gasoline during the time spent waiting for the bridge to close and open.

Eliminate the heavy expense of a bridge.

Do away with any need for a much larger and higher bridge in the future.

Clockwise

Motor inn

By Bob Clock

HAVE YOU NOTICED the number of posh motor homes in motel parking lots?

I always thought the whole idea behind the motor home was to give you a place to bed down and fix meals while you were on the road.

However I guess that after so many nights of sleeping on the sofa and showering in a broom closet you get a little ancy for more spacious quarters.

I'm not knocking motor homes, mind you. They are beautiful. I'd like to have one if I could afford it. But I often wonder how many nights you could spend in the best motels and how many meals you could enjoy in the best restaurants for just the down-payment on a motor home?

CITY MANAGER Michael Wiesner assures me I have been worrying needlessly about the unguarded stairway to the under-bridge walkway on the north bank of Pine River Channel.

He says a barricade across the top of the stairway has been in the planning all along.

He also says that a barrier-free path to the channel also has been planned for the Hoffmann property on the south side of the channel. Florence Wojan had suggested that such a path would be used by mothers with strollers and wheelchair patients.

The late Dr. Walter Hoffmann and his wife, Betty, donated the property to the city for the public enjoyment. The old homestead has been removed and the property is ready to join the city's roster of parklands.

SPEAKING OF Dr. Hoffmann, the silver Christmas tree which stood in a second story window of his home for at least 20 years was removed before the house was demolished and is now in the custody of Mrs. Hoffmann. Doc's friends will recall that Christmas was his favorite holiday. He could be a bit waspish with patients who neglected their teeth. But he was never happier than the days before Christmas when, dressed as Santa Claus, he took Christmas orders from kids in the lobby of the Charlevoix County State Bank.

IT APPEARS WE'RE in the midst of the most musical summer on record in Charlevoix — starting with extended visit of the American Wind Symphony Orchestra in early June.

Wednesday concerts by the City Band are under way and on Thursday night hundreds of listeners were on hand when the Air Force Band of Flight appeared in East Park. Thanks to two gigantic speakers, the acoustics were impeccable and the performance light and entertaining.

Monday night, musicians from the Bay View Conservatory were to appear, as they will for the next three Monday nights under auspices of merchant members of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

There is going to be a lot of foot-tapping in the park before fall sets in.

Correction

In a story about Charlevoix Township zoning board's rezoning of Water's Edge the Courier incorrectly reported that no public notice had been given for the meeting of June 26. This meeting was considered a continuation of a meeting held on June 19.

Notice was given at the county courthouse and the township hall on June 24 and people attending the meeting of the 19th were called about the subsequent meeting.

Township rules state that on meetings held in recess, 24 hours notice is required rather than the "not less than 7 days or more than 20 days" notice required for regularly scheduled meetings.

Thank you Charlevoix

Dear People of Charlevoix,

We would like to thank you all for the friendliness and hospitality extended to us during our stay in your beautiful town.

We honeymooned in Charlevoix and Western Michigan the second week of June and had a lovely time.

We especially wish to thank Jeff Gagnon, the American Wind Symphony and others who welcomed us to the 'patron concert' of the orchestra. It was an experience we'll never forget.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. James Pettis

Walker-Pettis

Kathleen Conklin Walker and James Lee Pettis exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, July 6, aboard the Star of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of David Conklin of Davidson, North Carolina and Julia Bresemen of Petoskey. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Waller of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Larry Grooters presided at the double ring ceremony, which were witnessed by approximately 100 guests.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length white satin off-the-shoulder gown with fitted bodice trimmed with Schiffli lace, and chapel length train. Her headpiece was a halo of silk flowers with ribbon streamers, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Barbara Murray served the bride as maid of honor, and Mary Karlskin, a sister and Kelly Mulholland, were bridesmaids. The maid of honor was gowned in white taffeta with pastel film dotted overskirt and the bridesmaids wore off-the-shoulder gowns of lilac taffeta fashioned with bodices and ruffled hemlines.

Laura Conklin, another sister of the bride, served as flower girl wearing a dress similar to that of the bridesmaids. Anthony Karlskin, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Gary Pettis, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Alfred Bagaglia, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Don Sproul assisting as groomsmen.

A reception on the Star of Charlevoix followed the marriage ceremony. For the occasion, the boat was decorated with satin swans made by the bride's mother. Kim Sutherland was in charge of the guest book. The rehearsal dinner was held on Friday evening at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Northern Michigan and Mackinac Island, the newlyweds will be at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is a Charlevoix County deputy sheriff. The bride is attending Petoskey Beauty Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vincent

Moore-Vincent

Dee Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smith of Charlevoix and Charles D. Vincent of Charlevoix were married July 5, at a small family wedding at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. Jimmie McWatters performed the double ring rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and her children, Melissa and Jason Moore. For the ceremony, she chose a full length gown of pastel pink with lace trim. She carried a bouquet of daisies and pink carnations.

Wendy Smith, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She carried a bouquet of daisies and miniature pink carnations.

Bob Smith, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception, honoring the couple, is being planned at the home of the bride's parents on July 2[illegible].

The couple are honeymooning in Ohio and will make their home in Charlevoix.

The bride is a medical assistant for J.E. Henry Simard, M.D. in Petoskey. The groom works at Gulf and Western in East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Farmer

Henry-Farmer

Bethany Lutheran Church of Charlevoix was the setting for the June 29 wedding of Laura Lynn Henry and Dwayne Allan Farmer. The altar and chancel was graced by an arrangement of fresh cut flowers. The bride entered the church through an archway surrounded by garlands of myrtle, ivory, pink and mauve ribbons and ivory satin bows. Matching bows also marked the church pews.

The Rev. Kenneth Bernthal performed the double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Coreen E. Henry of Charlevoix and the late Daniel P. Henry. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Daniel Farmer of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Dennis H. Pellicci of Fenton, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder ivory satin and lace gown with full length lace sleeves and a bodice trimmed with rosettes. The scalloped skirt was complemented by a hoop and her double tiered chapel length veil was attached to a headpiece of silk flowers. She carried a cascade bouquet of ivory silk roses.

Organist and soloist for the ceremony was Marina LaBlance.

J. Colleen Bartley attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaid was Carla E. Henry, sister of the bride. The maid of honor wore an off-the-shoulder mauve taffeta gown with a bow trimmed bodice and full hooped skirt. She carried a bouquet of mauve silk roses and wore matching flowers in her hair.

The bridesmaid wore a pink taffeta gown with puffed sleeves and full hooped skirt with an overskirt drawn up with bows. She carried a bouquet of pink silk roses and also wore matching flowers in her hair.

David P. Farmer and Darrin S. Farmer, brothers of the groom, were best man and groomsman respectively. Ushers were Casey Curtis, Michael Diehl and Geoff Themm.

A reception, held at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix, was given by the mother of the bride. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Themm and Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Young. The wedding cake was made by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Cunningham and the buffet was catered by Dick Edwards. Kathleen Buday attended the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the parents of the groom, was at Nanny's Old Place.

After returning from a wedding trip to Toronto, the couple are now residing in Charlevoix. The bride is employed by Marti Walker in Petoskey and is pursuing an associate's degree at North Central Michigan College. The groom is employed by Michigan State Department of Natural Resources.

Class of '30 hold reunion

The Class of 1930 of the Charlevoix High School gathered recently at the VFW post home for their 55th class reunion.

A social hour preceded the dinner served by the VFW Auxiliary. A beautifully decorated cake, made by Sue Staley, daughter of one of the graduates climaxed the dinner. Each was given a miniature magnet scene of Charlevoix produced by Bob Miles.

Attending from out of town were Audrey (Staley) Hilliker, Alice (Partridge) Seberdis, Ferne (Crandell) Friend, Bessie (Baumbach) Coleman, Marguerite (Gimble) Hammond and Kenneth Christenson.

Members of the class attending from Charlevoix were Rex Supernaw, Ruth (Yemmans) Swanson, Helen Mary (Campbell) Buckler, Esther (Goldstick) Miles, Anne (Tuhy) Staley, Elizabeth (Sharrow) Dixon, Oscar Stroud and Lee Shapton.

Wojan, Gables win

MEN'S LEAGUE

In a closely contested confrontation Friday night, Wojan Aluminum edged Swanson's 10-9 with Jim Ciuk allowing 12 hits to 16 for Phil Skeel who took the loss.

A home run by Dave Storm was a key play in the Wojan victory.

Grey Gables fought off a strong Paul Bunyan Lane offense to come out of the game with an 11-9 victory.

The lanes were unable to take advantage of the 16 hits allowed by Ray LaVoie. Mike Crain who took the loss allowed 13 hits.

In the nightcap, Townhouse defeated Charlevoix Garbage 12-2. Bill Trubilowitz allowed 11 hits. Bob Jones, who took the loss, gave up 16.

With the beginning of the second half of the season in the men's league, the league will be divided into two divisions.

Grey Gables, Wojan Aluminum, Paul Bunyan Lanes, Swanson's, and Tidy Car-Family Video will be in Division 1. The remaining five teams, Simpson Electric, Townhouse, H&L Softball Club, Charlevoix Garbage, and Glen's Market will be in Division II, according to Dwight Boss, city recreation director.

In the first night of action following the new format, Wojan Aluminum defeated Tidy Car-Family Video 5-2.

Jim Cuik as the winning pitcher allowed 13 hits. Kirk Heckendorn, who took the loss, gave up 15.

In the second game, Ray LaVoie pitched Grey Gables to an 8-2 win over Swanson's, allowing only seven hits. Joe Jones hit one of the league's rare home runs for Grey Gables. Phil Skeel, as the losing pitcher, allowed 13 hits.

In Division II, Glen's Market downed Townhouse 7-3 in a game that saw the winning pitcher, Steve Leazler, allow 11 hits. Jim Wernew gave up 13 hits.

In Division 1 action Wednesday night, Paul Bunyan Lanes edged Tidy Car-Family Video 11-10 in a game that went 11 innings

A single by Clay Jones in the bottom of the eleventh inning with the bases loaded forced in the winning run.

Mike Crain, the winning pitcher, allowed 23 hits. Kirk Heckendown allowed 15 hits.

Swanson's shut out Charlevoix Garbage 12-0 with Alex Niadzielowicz allowing only two hits. Bob Jones, who took the loss, gave up 11 hits.

Glen's Market came to life and blasted H&L Softball Club 24-5.

Steve Leazier, the winning pitcher, gave up 14 hits. Mike Mapes allowed 21 hits.

Fastpitch tournament on Venetian weekend

Plans for the annual Venetian Fastpitch Tournament scheduled for the venetian weekend have been announced by Dwight Boss, Charlevoix Recreation Department director.

Ten teams, including three new entries, will be entered in the 10-team invitational tournament sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, July 26-28. The tournament will begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday and continue through the weekend at the Carpentner Ave. field.

Par-T-Pac, of Boyne City, a former Charlevoix team and the defending champion, will open the tournament at 6:30 p.m. Friday against one of the new entries, Carpet Country of Coldwater. This game will be followed by the meeting of the Knights of Columbus of Cheboygan and Little Caesar's of Petoskey at 8:00 p.m., with Budget Rent-A-Car of Petoskey meeting newcomer, Akron Merchants in the nightcap at 9:30 p.m.

Firebird Lanes of Clawson will take on Spartan Roofing of Lansing at 8:00 a.m. Saturday followed by a game between the winner of the Cheboygan KCs and Apex Polishing of Grand Rapids, the third new entry, at 9:30 a.m. Miller Lite of Ann Arbor and the winner of Budget Rent-A-Car and Akron Merchants will play at 11 a.m.

Action in the loser's bracket will begin at 12:30 p.m. and continue throughout the afternoon with games at 2:00, 3:30 and 5:00 p.m.

The semi-finals in the winner's bracket will be played at 6:30 and 8:00 p.m. Saturday with play suspended during the Venetian Boat Parade following the 8:00 p.m. game.

Games in the loser's bracket will be played at 8:00 and 9:30 a.m. Sunday prior to the finals in the winner's bracket at 11:00 a.m. Sunday.

Games at 12:30 and 2:00 p.m. in the loser's bracket will bring the meet to the tournament finals at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three teams and individual trophies to the members of the championship team. MVP's will also receive trophies.

Further inquiries may be directed to the Charlevoix Recreation Department at 547-3253.

Seniors defeated

The Charlevoix Senior League team defeated Gaylord 15-14 in the first game of district Little League competition at Petoskey on Monday but fell to a strong Harbor Springs team by a score of 13-11 in the semi-finals Wednesday.

In Monday's action, it was a see-saw battle all the way with Charlevoix scoring the winning run in the seventh inning on a two out single by Mike Gauthier to score Derek Dutcher who had walked Charlevoix had led by a six run margins twice in the game, 9-3 and 10-4.

A four-run sixth inning put Charlevoix ahead 14-12 before Gaylord added two runs in the bottom of the inning to tie the score 14-11. Gauthier's single brought the winning run home in the seventh.

There were a combined total of 20 walks and nine errors in the game.

Charlevoix had scored two runs in the first, one in the third, six in the fourth, one in the fifth, four in the sixth and a single in the seventh.

Mike Ilimebauch, Nick Mellios, and John Foster saw duty on the mound for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix had 10 hits including two by Dutcher, a single and a double, Scott DeYoung had two hits, Mellios a double, and Marv Witthoeft, Gauthier, James Corwin, Foster, and Chad Thorp had singles. Dennis Mathews with two hits was the leading hitter for Gaylord.

On Wednesday, Charlevoix lost to Harbor Springs who had defeated Johannesburg-Lewiston 20-2 to advance to the semi-finals.

Harbor Springs scored six runs in the sixth inning to tie the score 11-11 before adding two runs in the seventh for the win.

Charlevoix had scored two runs in the first, one in the second, three in the third, and five in the fifth before Harbor hitters went wild in the sixth.

Derek Dutcher went the distance for Charlevoix giving up 13 hits.

Charlevoix collected seven hits off three Harbor pitchers including four by Mellios including a double and single by James Corwin, Foster, and Gauthier.

Fowler in All-Star game

Meg Fowler, recent Charlevoix High School graduate who was named to the All-State Softball team, has been invited to participate in the Senior All-Star Softball game by the Michigan High School Softball Coaches Association, her coach Ron Cox, has announced.

Fowler, a four-year veteran as a catcher on the Rayder softball team, earlier led the team to a Class C District title and to the Class C regional finals.

The Class C-D game to which she has been invited will be played at Ranney Field in Lansing at 1 p.m. August 10 and will be followed by the class A-B game. An award ceremony will follow the A-B game. The presentation of All-State 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place plaques, honorable mention certificates, and outstanding coaches plaques will be awarded at this time.

While in Lansing, the players will stay at Michigan State University as guests of the association.

Earlier, Fowler had been named to the all-region team of Region 15.

Fowler plans to attend Alma College in September. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fowler.

Junior League bows in second game

The Junior League (13-year-olds) of the Little League posted an 8-3 win over East Jordan in the opening game of the district tourney at Indian River before bowing to the Roscommon-St. Helen's team 17-8 in the second game on Wednesday.

In the opening game, Corey Richardson pitched Charlevoix to the win, giving up only two hits.

Steve Shepard, the losing pitcher, allowed five hits.

Collecting hits for Charlevoix were Dave Loder and Charlie Witthoeft who had doubles, Bob Jess who had two singles, and Tom Herriman a single. Pat Russell had a double and Pat Muma a single for East Jordan.

In the second game, Roscommon-St. Helen's ran rough-shod over Charlevoix.

Mark Murphy was the winning pitcher, allowing five hits. Dave Loder pitched 1 2 & 3 innings and took the loss. Herriman came on in relief Leading hitters for the victors were Mark Church with four hits and Wally Sidelko and Murphy with two each.

Loder had two hits, Ryan Holmes, Jess, Witthoeft, and Chris Dombrowski one each for Charlevoix.

Softball tournament teams sought

The H&L Softball Club of Charlevoix is seeking teams for a tournament to be played at the reconditioned Charlevoix Township field Aug. 2-4.

Plans call for a 10-team tournament according to Mike Reinhart who is arranging the tournament to be played on the township field in which drain tile has been installed and a new infield construction. He may be reached at 547-2780. The team entry fee is $50 plus $5 per player.

Volleyball tournament at Depot Beach

The Youth Activities Program is sponsoring a volleyball tournament at Depot Beach in Charlevoix. The date is July 29-August 16, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 6:30-8:00 p.m. The Tournament is open to both teens and adults.

Soccer volunteers needed

Adult volunteers are needed to assist in the development of the Charlevoix Soccer program. Assistance with coaching and refereeing is needed for all age groups.

A meeting will be held on Monday, July 22, 1985 at 7 p.m. All interested persons are asked to attend. For more information, please contact Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, or the Charlevoix County Youth Activities Program.

Venetian boat parade seeks entries

Applications are now being taken for the 55th annual Venetian Boat Parade to be held Saturday, July 27, in Charlevoix. The boat parade is the traditional centerpiece of Charlevoix's Venetian Festival which will start Thursday, July 25, and extend through Sunday, July 28.

It was in the summer of 1930 that a group of Charlevoix boaters decided to mount an event that is said to have originated in the canals of Venice, Italy. Decorated with lit candles, boats were lashed together and paraded around the perimeter of Round Lake just after dark. The Venetian Boat Parade soon became a popular summer tradition in Charlevoix and eventually expanded into a fun-filled, four-day celebration which is now held on the last weekend of July each year.

While the boats in the parade are no longer lashed together and the candles have been replaced by hundreds of elecric lights, the Venetian parade still circles Round Lake as it has each summer for over half a century.

This year there are four categories, or divisions, of boats in the parade, each of which will be judged by a committee aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite. Divisions include "Sailboats Under Sail," "Classic," "Decorated with Entry Fee," and "Decorated without Entry Fee." The first three places in each division will be awarded a photograph of their entry with an engraved plate attached.

For those who submit the $25 entry fee in the decorated division, there will be cash prizes of $200, $100 and $50 awarded for the first three places.

The parade will begin at about 8 p.m. with the sailboats going first, the classics following and the decorated boats last. All divisions will be assigned specific times and locations to assemble in Lake Charlevoix before the parade.

The parade is open for anyone to participate, including local residents and visitors. Applications and further information can be obtained from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI 49720. All applications are to be returned by July 26.

Environmental Health offers many services

The annual report of the Environmental Health division of District Health Department No. 3, presented to the County Board of Commissioners last week, indicates a busy year in the many fields of service covered by the division.

Charlevoix is one of four counties served by District Health Department No. 3, the others being Emmet, Antrim, and Otsego.

During the year, the Environmental Health division issued 154 well permits in Charlevoix County and 489 in the district.

They also issued 201 permits for on-site sewage systems in Charlevoix County and rejected seven, for a district total of 949.

In another category, the division licensed 16 well drillers, five mobile home parks, four septic tank cleaners, 22 campgrounds, 70 full service food establishments, 26 limited service food establishments, and 56 temporary food service establishments in Charlevoix County for a total of 177 of these commercial endeavors and 555 in the district.

In still another category, the division evaluated 37 nuisance complaints in Charlevoix County and 131 in the district. They also evaluated four nursery schools in Charlevoix County and 25 in the district; 21 foster homes in Charlevoix County and 83 in the district; and eight recreational camps in Charlevoix County and 16 in the district, for a total of 33 evaluations in Charlevoix County and 124 in the district.

In the last category, Environmental Health personnel made 74 land evaluations for on-site septic systems in Charlevoix County and 208 in the district. They also made 46 land appraisals for Farmers Home Administration and Veterans Administration in Charlevoix County and 245 in the district; studied one plat and eight lots in Charlevoix County, for a total of four, and 41 in the district; licensed 24 swimming pools in Charlevoix County and 74 in the district; and surveyed 21 bathing beaches in Charlevoix County and 45 in the district.

All in all, the Environmental Health division of District Health Department No. 3 provided 13,513 different services during the year.

F. Dean Mikulski, a registered sanitarian, is director of Environmental Health for District Health Department No. 3. He is assisted by Larry Levengood, Walter Franczek, Ron Boss, William Henne, Kenneth Greenhoe, William Lubs, and Penny Massey.

Beaver Island Museum week underway

The Beaver Island Historical Society will celebrate its 6th annual Museum Week from July 15-20. Special activities include a tour of five St. James residences built prior to World War I, a Quilt Show by noted quilters Swen Marston and Joe Cunningham, and a lecture by Prof. James Gillingham of CMU on Beaver Island snakes, featuring live specimens.

Chosen for their cultural as well as historical significance, the five residences on the tour are: the McCann house, a classic turn-of-the-century home still lived in by McCann descedants; the Bride's Cottage, known to most Islanders as Nonie's House, a simple 19th century country Victorian Gothic structure; Hoffman Cottage, one of the first summer cottages built on the island, used by four generations of the family, and almost unchanged since 1916; the King Strang Hotel, built in 1901, which retains most of its original atmosphere with its restored rooms in period fashion; and the family apartment above McDonough's store, originally constructed in 1901 for the Lumber Co. and now representing an almost lost lifestyle. The tour will be held Tuesday, July 16, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Thursday evening Prof. James Gillingham of the biology Department of CMU will not only show slides of the snakes of Beaver Island, their habitats and natures but also will reveal the fallacies surrounding snakes in general. To illustrate this, he will demonstrate with live specimens. The lecture is July 18 at 8 p.m. at the Beaver Haven Marina.

Other features of museum week include a lecture by Great Lakes Historian Steve Harold of Manistee on the "Manistique Connection" Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Beaver Haven Marina and an open house at Protar's, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 1-3 p.m. Built of hand-hewn logs and looking much as it did when the famous "doctor" and legendary Island hermit, lived there from 1893-1925, Protar's house is being restored and maintainted by the Historical Society.

As in other years, Island artists will show at the Gallery, Island musicians will perform on the Print Shop porch, the children will have a Pet Show, and the grownups will have a dance. Beaver Island can be reached by ferryboat daily from Charlevoix or plane from Traverse City, Harbor Springs, Pellston, and Charlevoix.

Marketplace 29 AD restages biblical times for young people

Marketplace 29 AD, the Bible-times ecumenical summer experience for area children ages four through completing fifth grade, will be held Aug. 12-15 on the grounds of the First Baptist Church in Charlevoix.

It is not too late to register your child. Applications will be accepted until July 28. Additional applications may be obtained by calling Cheryl Yingling 547-5168.

Marketplace is a four day experience of reliving Bibletimes events of their Christian heritage. It is an interdenominational effort sponsored by the churches of Charlevoix: United Methodist, Congregational, Episcopal, Lutheran, Assembly of God, First Baptist, Church of God, Community Reformed, and St. Mary's Catholic.

Registration fee is $4 per child for the four days. For further information call: Cheryl Yingling or Jane Sarasin, 547-9131.

Gospel music festival ahead

The 9th annual Northern Michigan Gospel Music Festival will be held July 19 and 20, at the Emmet County Fair Grounds. In case of rain it will be held at the Petoskey Middle School. The music will begin at 5:30 p.m. through 11:30 p.m. each evening. For more information please contact Martha Sutlin, 4848 Maxwell Road, Petoskey, MI 49770 or phone 616-347-1868.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

A thirty-five knot southwester welcomed those intrepid crews that brought their sloops off Dyster Point for the opening race of the Yacht Club's Summer Series, July 10. Rapid sail changes were in order as crews attempted to find combinations that would allow them to sail into the gusting spray, while keeping their shoes dry. Not all were so fortunate... that old veteran of a mainsail on "Tireless" tried to divide itself into a dodger and a storm sail before Mike could reef it down and package it up for Gleason's. More than one spinnaker sheet was seen blowing unattended about 30 feet above a boat deck.

But 28 boats came out and 28 boats finished without losing crew or suffering injury and the race itself produced stories that will be told around the club for weeks to come.

The order of finish for Fleet 1: 1 - Plastic Fantastic; 2 - Kritter; 3 - Charlie Brown; 4 - Pygmalion; 5 - Tigger; 6 - Flying Machine and 7 - Valhalla.

The order of finish for Fleet II: 1 - Merry Hell II; 2 - Babe; 3 - Night Moves; 4 - Maranatha; 5 - Bandit; 6 - Canusa; 7 - Wing Nut; 8 - Ribit.

The order of finish for Fleet III: 1 - Foxy Lady; 2 - Blasen III; 3 - Tireless; 4 - Flash; 5 - Mikie.

The order of finish for JAM: 1 - TiGi; 2 - Apothecary; 3 - Cygnus; 4 - Phoenicia; 5 - Stalworth; 6 - Sandpiper and 7 - Coolwhip.

The Club welcomes Mike Miller in his new entry, a Coronado 25. We'll sure miss seeing that little blue Cal 20, Mike. Just won't seem right.

The club also welcomes six-year-old Paul Sievertson who is sailing with his father in the JAM fleet. You can't start them too early.

Till next week.

...The end of the Mouse's Tale

Sheriff issues report

Sheriff George T. Lasater had some good news to report when he presented his quarterly Jail Report to the Charlevoix County Board of Comissioners last week.

During the second three months of 1985, 143 persons were booked into the Charlevoix County Jail, compared with 228 in the same period last year. Also, only 14 women were included among those booked during this period in 1985, compared with 27 last year.

The smaller number of women being booked is especially important to the Sheriff because, due to lack of sufficient matron personnel, they are sent to the Emmet County Jail for the term of their sentence and the Charlevoix County jail is billed for their care.

Sheriff Lasater could not explain the smaller number of jail bookings; which are also lower than last fall and early this spring.

CARDS OF THANKS 072

WE WISH to thank the U.S Coast Guard, City Police, Sheriff's Department, Mounted Patrol, and our many friends and relatives for their assistance in the search for our missing mother. A Charlevoix Hospital physician has thought to rename her Dorothy "Houdini" in honor of her quick disappearing act. Our heartfelt thanks, Brad and Kaye

(07-17-1-172)

A SPECIAL thank you to the Pat Martins, Arloa Ferguson, George Kleiber and the Harvey Coles.

(07-17-1-072)

I WISH to thank the nurses, aides and Dr Gels of Charlevoix Area Hospital for the care that was given me. Also my friends for flowers and cards they sent. Beatrice Grunch.

Auto Tour Book offers whimsical look at Charlevoix

Carol Bartley of Charlevoix is the author (and artist) of a new "What Can We Do?" book covering day-long or shorter trips to interesting places in the Charlevoix area.

Called the "Auto Tour Book", it is designed for people behind the wheel as well as their squirming, restless young passengers. It is full of historical and trivial facts which could enlighten the most knowledgeable oldtimers and newcomers alike. Did you know:

That Holy Island, a small island in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix where there are several summer cottages, was once the feast site for King Strang and his band of followers on Beaver Island?

— That the fronton Ferry is the subject of a famous "Ripley Believe it or Not" cartoon?

— That the Pine River Channel is the only channel of water that has a two-way current, depending on the winds?

— That you can visit the State of Michigan Fish Hatchery near Lake Michigan Beach every day during the summer?

— That the main part of the Greensky Hill Indian Church was built in 1840, when there was only a handful of white people in Charlevoix County?

These are some of the lessons to be learned from reading about and visiting many places within 20 miles of Charlevoix. The illustrations depicting these places of interest are fanciful and clear all at once.

The Horton Bay Store, with its long front porch, lacks a lower level entry door. The faithful reproduction of the small church on Highway 31 south of Atwood is accompanied by a number maze to answer the question, "Who else visits the world's smallest church?' (A church mouse, of course).

Little gnomes pop out from behind the leaves on trees surrounding Earl Young house.

Author Carol Bartley is not new to creative work. She has operated a pottery shop for years and she and her husband Ken, are now building a new house with a wing for a Creative Center to accommodate her work and her husband's computers. (He teaches computer science at the Charlevoix High School and North Central Michigan College.) Carol is already planning a larger edition of her book for next year.

"Auto Tour Book" is available in Charlevoix at the Literary News Center and Brown Bag; in Petoskey at Show of Hands; and in Boyne City at Bob's Pharmacy.

Residential building takes upward swing

For the first time in many months, more permits were issued in June for construction of new residences than for any other type of building project.

Also, in issuing 71 permits, June was the busiest month so far this year for the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection.

Of the 71 permits, 24 were for new residences. Twelve of these, including five double units, were for condominiums in Eveline Township (Hemingway Pointe), three were for new houses in East Jordan, two for new houses in Bay Township, two for new houses in Charlevoix Township, two for new houses in Hayes Township, one for a new house in Melrose Township, one for a new house in Norwood Township, and one for a new house in Wilson Township.

In addition to the new condns and houses, 21 permits were issued for additions to and remodeling of living units, six for residential garages, three for decks and porches, three for residential outbuildings, four for additions to and remodeling of commercial properties, three for demolitions, and seven for mobile homes and additions to mobile homes.

Total cost of work for which permits were issued in June is estimated at $577,758.

City Band concert Wednesday

The Charlevoix City Band directed by Terry Isenbarger will countinue its weekly Concert in the Park at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The concert, to be presented from the state in East Park will feature "Zia Zia", a spanish march by Claude Smith; "Lyceum Overture," by Otto Taylor; "Dixieland Spectacular" by John Edmondson; the John Phillip Sousa march, "The Gallant Seventh"; "March Lamon" by Clifton Williams; and "Vista Point".

A rehearsal will be held at the high school band room on May St. at 7 p.m. Anyone who plays a band instrument is invited to join the band by attending the rehearsal.

Grandvue Tag Day is Friday

The annual Grandvue Medical Care Facility Tag Day will be held throughout Charlevoix County Friday under the sponsorship of the facility's Auxiliary.

Proceeds from the event will be used to rennovate the physical therapy department at the facility and to underwrite the cost of a tilt table, walking bars for patients recovering from strokes and injuries, and a platform mat. The estimated cost of the project is $3,200. In 1984 the Tag Day benefit brought in $3,399.

Charlevoix United Way names new chairman

Darrel Linder

A colorful background and a wealth of experience in several areas can best describe Darrel Linder, recently appointed campaign chairman of the United Way of Charlevoix.

He served as a chaplain on the college campus; a teacher; an interpreter and tour host in southern Europe, the Near-East of Asia, and Africa; a sales manager; an administrative assistant to two corporate presidents; a personnel relations manager; and most recently divisional director of advanced underwriting for the east central division of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Liner is a graduate of Findlay and Oberlin Colleges and holds four academic degrees, including an Honorary Doctorate. His post graduate studies were done at the University of Chicago, Purdue University, and the University of Colorado.

Linder and his wife, Glenna, now make their permanent home in Charlevoix after being summer residents for the past 38 years. "I've been all over this world," said Darrel "and have lived a good many places, but Charlevoix is where we 'choose' to live."

Kids' immunizations urged by health office

Childhood immunizations

District Health Department Number Three is warning parents of the continuing danger of childhood diseases and urging them to make sure that all of their children are fully immunized.

Brian Youngs, M.D. medical director, is especially concerned at this time because of the recently reported case of pertussis (whooping cough) in the area. Pertussis is a serious disease, especially in small children. The cough becomes worse as more and more mucus is discharged from the throat and bronchial passages.

Between violent coughing spells, a high pitched gasp for air may occur which has given whooping cough its name. Complications of the disease include pneumonia and brain damage. Pertussis, as well as polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diptheria, and tetanus, may be prevented by property immunizing children.

The District Health Department recommends a series of immunizations that should be started at two months of age for most children. The series should be completed prior to the child's entry into kindergarten. A tetanus and diptheria booster should be given to adults and children every ten years.

Immunizations are offered by District Health Department Number Three at the following locations on the dates and time indicated:

Bellaire: Health Department Office, County Building, first Thursday, 9:30-11:00 a.m.

Charlevoix: County Building Annex, second Monday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.

Boyne City: Presbyterian Church Basement, South Park Street, second Tuesday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.

Petoskey: Health Department Office, 2233 Mitchell Court, third Monday, 9:00-11:30 a.m. and 1:00-4:00 p.m.

East Jordan: East Jordan Family Health Center, Main Street, fourth Tuesday, 9:30-11:30 a.m.

For more information about immunizations contact your physician or any office of District Health Department No. 3. Bellaire: 616-533-8670; East Jordan: 616-536-7371; Charlevoix: 616-547-6523; Petoskey: 616-347-6014; or Gaylord: 517-732-1794.

Chamber Chatter

by CLAUDIA KENIFECK
Executive Director
Chamber of Commerce

Temperatures soared on Saturday as the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce hosted the 17th Annual Craft Show. Special thanks to Sally Ochs, Phyllis Hess, Marianne Otmanowski and all those who helped direct the pedestrian traffic and make the show a success.

We are pleased to have two summer interns at the Chamber office, helping answer questions, recommending where to eat and sleep, and talking about things to do while in Charlevoix. Sue Annis, daughter of well-known artist Jim Annis, will be majoring in Computers at Central Michigan University this fall. Beth Revoir is in her second year of Dental Hygiene at Ferris State College. With their friendly smiles and knowledge of the area, both girls are a real asset to the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Be sure to attend the Charlevoix Home Tour on Thursday, July 19 from 1-5 p.m.

Excitement is now mounting for the 55th Annual Venetian Festival, July 25-28. Make plans now for the following highlights:

Thursday: 6 p.m. - Miss Charlevoix Pageant Coronation at the high school gymnasium.
Friday: 7 p.m. - Reef Petroleum Band in East Park.
Saturday: 9:30 a.m. - Foot Race starting at the elementary school, Division Ave.
11 a.m. - Grand Venetian Street Parade on Bridge St.
8 p.m. - Venetial Boat Parade.
Dusk - Fireworks.

Other 4-day activities include: Harsha House open house, U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite open house, booths in East Park, Ronald McDonald fast pitch tournament, pancake breakfast, model airplane fun-fly and the Leisure Time Amusement Carnival.

Deadline for Venetian Parade applications is July 18.

More details to come in next weeks column. For more information, contact the Chamber of 547-2101.

Davis's rep visits area

Congressman Davis' District Representative Mr. Bill Huber will be visiting Whiting Park at 11:30 a.m.-5 p.m., July 17. He will attending the Charlevoix County Commissioners Annual Senior Picnic. Anyone wishing to meet with Huber is invited to do so without an appointment. Mr. Huber will be available to discuss any problem you may be having with state or federal government.

Levin's aide visits

U.S. Senator Carl Levin (D-Michigan) has announced that his aide, Jim Moran, will have the Senator's Mobile Office open to the public on Wednesday, July 24, at the following locations:

Petoskey, 9-10 a.m., City Hall lot, Mitchell and Division Streets.

Charlevoix, 3-4 p.m., County Building lot, State and Antrim Streets.

"I hope that area residents will stop by my mobile office to meet with Mr. Moran if they are having difficulties with the federal government or if they would like to make their views known to me," Senator Levin said.

A praying mantis may be the answer to your prayers, reports International Wildlife magazine, if you have a cockroach problem, that is. Laura McInnis, of Escatawpa, Mississippi, tried every roach treatment she could think of, then a praying mantis flew into her home. Within a week, the roaches were gone. Mrs. McInnis has grown so attached to the insect that she has named it Mandy Pandy. "Every home should have one," she says.

The newest neighborhood of the endangered American crocodile is at a place called Turkey Point, Florida, the home of a nuclear power plant, reports National Wildlife magazine. Over 10 percent of southern Florida's crocodiles live and breed in the plant's 168 miles of cooling canals.

Summer resident writes book:

Man and dog story is legacy to family

By DOUG TRUAX

When Carroll Seabrook Leatherman speaks, the words roll out like Tupelo honey dripping on a homemade biscuit. In a liquid southern accent she relates many stories of her hometown Memphis and the Mississippi plantations where she grew up and still spends much of her time.

A summer resident of the Belvedere Club for over three decades, Mrs. Leatherman has recently committed her finest story to paper. The result is a book entitled The Old Man ... And The Dog (Nassau Press, Inc., $15.95).

It is the true story of Miss One Dot, 1979 Grand National Bird Dog Champion, and the dog's relationship with handler Mr. John Gardner.

Miss One Dot was one of many bird dogs owned by the author's husband, Richard Leatherman, Jr. This one, however, enduring a string of misfortunes and near misses went on to win the Grand National Championship at Grand Junction, Tennessee at the fine old age of eight. That is something akin to Jimmy Connors winning Wimbledon in his mid-thirties.

What prompts a woman of means to suddenly tackle the writing of a book?

"I was in my lawyer's office and writing this will," she recalls. "And he said to me, 'I wish someone could leave something someday that wasn't material.' "

She thought seriously about that, what she could leave her grandchildren, and the story of Miss One Dot emerged. She recalled in particular the story of Miss One Dot's winning of the Canadian championships. On a hot, dry day with birds scarce and hard to find, Miss One Dot went far out of sight to find a covey of birds. Her trainer, needing to get the dog in view of the judges or have her disqualified, and unaware that she was on point, called her. She left the covey and returned to her trainer in a great show of sportsmanship and discipline.

The story intrigued Mrs. Leatherman. "I became titillated about how there could be a relationship between a man and an animal that was strong enough for the animal to go against all natural instinct of hunting game and come to the trainer.

"It was a natural thing when I decided to write this book as a legacy for my grandchildren that I would use this subject."

She reflects on the book's theme, a little reluctant to go much deeper. "The thing I try to show in the book is how does a mentor teach anything all there is for them to teach without breaking their spirit. How do you discipline and teach without breaking the relationship."

Her tale begins with her husband receiving Miss One Dot as a gift, the runt of a litter. Leatherman takes the dog to an elderly, respected trainer who lives not far from the family farm, Commerce Landing Plantation, in Mississippi.

Mr. John, too, sees a spark of something special in the dog after returning from training dogs in Texas over the winter. He decided, to train the dog not as a hunting dog but as a field trial competitor and takes him north to Saskatchewan for the summer training session. Thus begins Mr. John's intimate relationship with this special bird dog.

Leatherman's determination to write the story took her back to the school room. "I'd never had any courses in creative writing or journalism," she says. She enrolled in creative writing at Memphis State University with the sole purpose of learning how to write the book. Although she had written short stories before and had had them published in southern literary journals, this project was of a different magnitude.

She discovered after a couple of semesters of writing 17 more short stories "they don't teach a class on book writing."

"My instructor finally kicked me out of class and sent me home to write the book," she recalls. "I made a commitment on the first of September that I'd do nothing but write that book and go to church and the beauty parlor. I finished the first draft on the twelfth day of December."

Mrs. Leatherman grew up in the grand tradition of southern sportsmen. As a child, she spent her weekends and summers at O.K. Landing, the family plantation located on the Mississippi River and the Beever Dam Lake. She remembers hunts for quail, ducks, geese, deer, wild turkeys and other game. As a teenager she hunted with the renowned southern outdoor writer Nash Buckingham; her brother and other relatives are the subjects of several Buckingham stories. She grew to appreciate other writers of the southern sporting life, like Havilah Babcock and William Faulkner.

Soon after she married her husband of 36 years, she began attending field trials and has continued to observe as he bred, trained, and campaigned dogs for the field trial circuit.

Carroll Seabrook Leatherman

Yet when it came time to write the book, she recalls, there was a great deal of research to do. The things she had been observing all these years, she now had to understand. She began asking questions, carefully piecing together the process of training a bird dog. She was determined that the story would have authenticity.

Although her book is intended for a broad audience, from children to adults who have never seen a bird dog, she still takes special pride in remembering that her husband on reading the book told her. "You've written the best bird dog manual I've ever read — even without the plot."

Mrs. Leatherman is currently planning a novel about a southern family in northern Michigan. The Old Man ... And The Dog is available at Literary News Center and other area bookstores.

Therapy funds sought for area probationers

by PEG OHLE

The Thirty-third Judicial Circuit Court, which covers Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, is applying for $8,088 from the Michigan Department of Corrections with which to carry on its work with persons on probation from the court, as well as some persons who are victims of crime.

The request for funds is divided into three sectors, called "Probation Enhancement Proposals".

The greater portion of money, $5,000, is requested for a Psychological Evaluation-Therapy Fund, which would be used for psychological evaluations of probationers, obtaining diagnostic opinions for therapy, and implementing various forms of therapy.

This proposal notes that these are functions which the probation agent is usually not qualified or equipped to perfrom. Currently there are 144 persons on probation from Circuit Court in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. These are the persons who need psychological evaluation, testing, and therapy, according to the request for funds. As in the past, these services would be provided by local counseling agencies such as Woodland Counseling Center in Petoskey, and local psychologists.

Psychological counseling for criminal sexual conduct offenders would be continued, through the Woodland Counseling Center, as well as other sources, such as the East Jordan Mental Health Clinic. Diagnostic evaluation would be contracted for from private psychologists, and in addition, the grant proposes to purchase computerized personality profiles, which would reduce the cost of evaluations from the present $250 to $50 per probationer.

Also, this proposal provides for counseling of victims of criminal sexual conduct. This would be done under contract with the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey, which has employed a full-time counselor, Kathy Robinson, who would provide the service.

The proposal notes in conclusion of this sector that while the main thrust of the funding would concentrate on persons who have criminal sexual conduct backgrounds and victims of such offenses, other probationers who need such services would participate in the program. The value of such a program is stressed by the fact that, to date, none of the probationers referred for psychological counseling during the last year have been involved in another criminal offense.

In another sector of the request for funds, some $2,000 is sought for emergency funds to help probationers while they are under the court's supervision.

Last year, $1,088 was used for such purposes as emergency travel, medical assistance, dental care, reimbursement for vocational training, G.E.D. testing fees, and rehabilitation therapy.

The remaining $1,088 requested in the third sector would be used to further the education and training of probation officers, and to finance meetings of the Community Corrections Board, whose members would act in an advisory capacity, monitoring how these funds are being spent, the success of the program, voicing local interests and concerns.

Administering the funds would be the job of Charlevoix County Probation Agent Kenneth Mulka and Emmet County Probation Agent Talivaldis Lapins.

Charlevoix County members of the Community Corrections Board are Kari Walker, Director of Chip Counseling Center; the Reverend Clifford J. Molnar of the Faith Community Fellowship in Boyne City; Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater; the Reverend David Yingling of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church; Gordon VanWieren, Superintendent of the Charlevoix Public Schools; Don Smith, Charlevoix County Commissioner; Chief Jack Mol of the Charlevoix Police Department, Chief John Talboys of the Boyne City Police Department, and Charlevoix County Probation Officer Kenneth Mulka.

Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas will serve as chairman of the committee.

Miss Charlevoix to be named Thursday

The kickoff to this year's Venetian Festival, will again be the Miss Charlevoix Pageant and Coronation at the Charlevoix High School Gymnasium.

Four talented and pretty young residents will vie for the title of Miss Charlevoix at the pageant which gets underway Thursday, July 25 at 8 p.m.

This year's contestants include Karolyn Bearss, Mary Camilleri, Kristin Foster, and Cheryl Hartnett.

The committee directing this year's pageant includes Sandi Bonello, Colleen LaBlance, Lois Hodgson, and Beth Jones (Miss Charlevoix 1983).

The theme for the 1985 queen contest is "Summer Nights" and the show will be staged on a set designed and painted by Patty Muma that depicts a formal summer garden scene. Frank Cook of the Wood Wright Shop has built an arbor for the backdrop.

Co-chairmen for the contest are Sue Anne Wiesner and Candi Smith. Smith directs the Vital Options excercise program in Charlevoix and will be choreographing the girl's opening dance number and the dance portions of their individual talent performances.

Wiesner is a former contestant in the Miss Michigan pageant. She was the assistant director of the Michigan School of Modeling and worked as a professional model for seven years. In addition she helped to start the Junior Miss Pageant in Cadillac and has judged a variety of beauty contests throughout the Midwest.

The judges for this year's event are Eugene Hovey of the Hovey Dance Studio in Petoskey, Teresa Schroeder, anchorwoman and reporter for TV 7&4, Traverse City, and Sharen Thierback, affiliated with the Blossom Time Festival, St. Joseph, Mi.

The judges will get their first and only opportunity to interview the Miss Charlevoix contestants during a dinner at the Grey Gables restaurant prior to the pageant. The Queen Pageant will open with the girls dancing to "The Heat is On." The bathing suit portion of the contest will take place against the sound of "I'm So Excited" by the Pointer Sisters. There will also be an evening gown contest, backed by the sounds of "Hopelessly Devoted to You," and a performance of individual talent by each of the girls.

Entertainment during the pageant will be provided by James Boggs, vocalist and piano player, Susan LeButt, vocalist, and break dancers Jamey Northover, 13, and Gary Haines, 12.

The Master of Ceremonies will be Chet Jessup of WKHQ, Charlevoix.

Power cut to city's downtown district

On one of the warmest days of the year, store clerks and shoppers sweltered without fans and air conditioners and most cash registers were out of commission Friday when a fire in an underground terminal cut electricity to the downtown business district for two hours.

The fire occurred in a manhole at Bridge and Antrim streets, shutting off power at 1:06 p.m. It was restored at 3:18 p.m.

Edward Whitley, head of the utility department, said the fire was believed caused by a faulty cable.

Whitley said cables manufactured in the 1970s sometimes had flaws which caused them to burn from the inside out, as this one did. The resulting fire then damages other cables.

The heat from the fire built up enough pressure to blow off the manhole cover, allowing crews to pinpoint the problem, Whitley said.

Working underground to restore power was John Whitley, who had to replace 14 electrical components after clearing away debris.

Working topside were Edward Whitley and Randy Holecheck.

The area affected by the outage included both sides of Bridge Street from Hurlbut Avenue to the bridge, from State Street east to Round Lake, and along May Street.

Power was off for about 10 minutes on the north side of the city just prior to return of full power.

Police officers were forced to direct traffic on Bridge Street because the traffic signal was inoperable.

Whitley said this was the first major daytime outage in years.

Accident takes life

An East Jordan man, Steven Bruce Kidder, 36, was killed in a one-car accident in Boyne Valley Township at 5:10 p.m. Saturday, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff's officers. The accident, the county's second highway fatality in 1985, remains under investigation according to officers.

Officers said Kidder was a passenger in a 1976 Pinto when the driver, Timothy B. Sorenson, 36, of Ellsworth lost control of the vehicle which was traveling south on the Deer Lake Road Officers said the vehicle apparently dropped to the shoulder of the road and, as the driver attempted to bring it under control, slid along the ditch into a roadway that had been built over the ditch, causing it to roll over.

Officers said that Sorenson, who was wearing a seat belt, received only bruises and abrasions. Kidder was not wearing a seat belt.

Kidder was pronouned dead of multiple injuries at the Charlevoix Area Hospital by Dr. Reed Friedinger, medical examiner. He had been taken to the hospital by the Boyne City ambulance. Officers said the medical technicians on the ambulance had assisted them at the scene.

Sorenson was treated at the hospital before he was taken to the county jail. He had been arrested at the scene for drunk driving.

The body of the victim was taken to the Vanderwall Funeral Home in East Jordan for funeral services and burial on Tuesday.

Venetian Festival

Probably nowhere other than Charlevoix can you go to a street parade and a boat parade in the same day.

Well, Charlevoix has that and a great deal more during its annual Venetian Festival, July 25-28... one of the state's major summer celebrations.

The big street parade begins at 11 a.m. Saturday and travels along Bridge Street from Garfield to Clinton. There will be a little of everything... bands, floats, queens, drill teams, color guards, horses, you name it.

The Venetian Boat Parade stars at 8 p.m. with Sailboat Under Sail, Classic, and Decorated Boat categories. The boats will circle Round Lake after entering from Lake Charlevoix and will compete for prizes including a $200 first prize in the top division. There is still time to enter your boat until Friday, July 26. Application forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce on Bridge Street.

For a complete rundown on the Festival see the special Venetian Times supplement in this issue of the Charlevoix Courier.

Petunia Auction

Auction items are starting to roll in for the annual Petunia Auction on Saturday, Aug. 3, from 1-3 p.m. in East Park.

Over $10,000 (retail value) of goods have been collected so far, but the auction needs $20,000 worth to meet its goal of $7,000 in net proceeds.

Money from the auction is used each year to buy petunias for planting along U.S. 31.

Among the goodies collected recently are a 16-foot fiberglass power boat with a 115 h.p. Evinrude motor, complete with trailer. Bidding for the boat and trailer will begin at $2,100.

Also received recently was a Wayler sailboard.

Items can be donated at the auction headquarters on Clinton Street (former site of the Off-Bridge Street Artists). Pickup is available. Call Clarence Goldstick at 547-2636.

Oil removed from beach

Ambassadors take to city streets

Charlevoix's young host and hostess, who patrol the streats with broom and dust pan, have a new twist to their act...a unicycle.

For the last several years, Charlevoix has hired a boy and girl each summer to clean up the streets in the downtown area with broom and dust pan and to act as "mini-ambassadors" while answering questions and handing out literature.

This year's host, Matt Miller, 14, has taken to cruising along Bridge Street on his unicycle after his cleaning chores are done. He hands out copies of the Chamber of Commerce brochure from the one-wheeler and finds the reaction "stunning."

When he is on foot, Matt says, few people are interested when he hands out the promotional literature. But when he mounts his wheel things change. "Everyone I ask wants one then," he says.

The host and hostess program was devised by the Chamber of Commerce several years ago to promote Charlevoix and Tourism. Two young

Boyne City paves way for LexaLite venture

by PEG OHLE

LexaLite International, one of Charlevoix' most progressive industrial plants, in expanding again.

Last week it was announced that LexaMar, a joint venture of LexaLite International and Magna International, Inc., a Canadian based company, will lease a 50,000 square foot facility in Boyne City which will be build by Magna of America as soon as proper funding and zoning can be arranged.

Present plans call for production to begin in February, 1986, with orders already on hand for rear quarter panels for Pontiac Fieros and Fiero GT's.

When in full production, the LexaMar plant will hire about 150 men and women, according to Jim Kline, general maager of LexaMar.

Kline, who is also an officer of LexaLite, was quick to point out that the LexaMar plant will provide jobs for many Charlevoix area residents, just as the Charlevoix LexaLite plant provides jobs for people from all over Charlevoix County, and even from other counties.

LexaLite International came to Hayes Township in 1965. It suffered a disastrous fire in August of 1981 but bounced back with the help from the County Economic Development Corporation which helped the company issue $3 million worth of low interest bonds. Then a $2.5 million expansion and modernization program was undertaken in 1984. At that time, LexaLite president Josh Barnes stated in a news release that the expansion reflected "LexaLite's success in clean, low stress molding".

In 1980, LexaLite bought the former Brown Furniture Company building on US-31 north, which it uses as an auxillary facility.

Today, LexaLite hires approximatley 140 people in Charlevoix in its manufacture of indoor and outdoor lighting components and automatic components. It has another factory in Nashville, Tennessee and joint ventures in Mexico and France.

Magna International, Inc. is a much larger company. Founded in 1957, it currently operates 70 plants in the United States, employing about 6,000 people. Siegfried Niedermair, director of engineering and development for Magna, has expressed the hope that more than just this one plant will be built in Boyne City. There is room on the 82 acres they purchased for as many as eight plants, each employing up to 150 people, he said.

County holds hearings

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners haa set the times for two public hearings; one, on an amended spending proposal for 1985 National Revenue Sharing Funds, and one on an amended 1985 budget.

The first hearing, on spending Revenue Sharing Funds, will be held Wednesday, August 14, at 2 p.m. in the County Building Annex. Tha second, on amending the budget, will be held September 11 at 2 p.m. in the same place.

The only changes in the budget have to do with spending Revenue Sharing Funds.

The original budget calls for using $100,300 in Revenue Sharing Funds for General County Government, while the amended budget calls for using $351,300 for this purpose.

The original budget calls for using $179,700 in Revenue Sharing Funds for Public Safety, while the amended budget calls for using $238,500 for this purpose.

The difference of $309,780 will be taken from Revenue Sharing Funds set aside for "Future Years' Allocation". The money will be spent as follows:

Data processing and computers, $129,000; replacing carpeting in County Building offices, $15,000; asphalt sealing of County Building parking lot, $4,000; job classification study, $10,000; office equipment, $20,000; telephone communications system, $33,000; acquisition of land on Mason Street, $32,000; and making County Building barrier-free, $8,000.

Also, bringing jail building into compliance with state regulations, $13,800; public safety employee and staff training, $5,000; and sheriff's communications system, $25,000.

Auditors make recommendations

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County is doing a good job of keeping records of its financial transactions.

That is the opinion of Breadon & Company, Certified Public Accountants, who recently completed an audit of the county's books

However, Breadon make several suggestions to improve the system further.

One suggestion was that, where possible, the separation of duties should be established within each department that receives and-or handles cash. "The duties of receiving cash should not be performed by the same individual who is responsible for preparing the deposit slips or making the deposits. Also, the duties of receiving cash or preparing deposit slips should be separated from the individual responsible for preparing the transmittal advice which is sent to the Treasurer", the audit report states.

In the field of tax collections, the audit report noted that the tax rolls and warrants had not been corrected for the Board of Review and-or Tax Tribunal changes.

"These changes should be made by the collecting units prior to the information being turned over to the County Treasurer", Breadon cautioned, advising the Treasurer to notify each of the collection units (townships and cities) of their responsibilities to have warrants completed with the required changes, and that the tax rolls be corrected for these changes.

"We recommend that the Treasurer not accept the warrants or tax bills if they are not properly completed", the auditor continued.

Also, in connection with tax collections, the auditor noted that "a number of the tax collecting units were not paying the funds over to the taxing authorities, i.e. the schools and County Treasurer, in according with the payment schedule required by P.A. 211, as amended."

He further noted that "the County Treasurer had notified each unit of their payment responsibilities. The Treasurer indicated that several of the Township Treasurers refused to comply with the law."

Obituaries

VELMA M. BIGELOW

Funeral services for Mrs. Velma M. Bigelow, 69, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Pastor Al Leese of the Calvary Assembly Chapel of Central Lake officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Bigelow died July 16 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The former Velma M. Grant was born in Robsart Village, Sask., Canada, Nov. 10, 1915, and, as a child of five years, came to Lansing with her parents. Gordon Neff mixes carving and typing

His seagulls are a local trademark

by PEG OHLE

How many people in Charlevoix – or anywhere else– operate two such diverse businesses as providing secretarial services and hand-carving birds?

Not many, but Gordon Neff of Charlevoix is a master of both skills.

He began carving seagulls, mostly little ones, 25 years ago, and since that time has turned out about 14,000 of them. He believes he is the largest merchandiser of seagulls in the state.

About five years ago, Neff added other types of birds to his aviary, and now he also has a collection of ducks, owls, cardinals, eagles, pheasants, robins, and others all handcrafted and ready for the collector or just plain bird lover.

Another product of Neff's carvings are high walking staffs make of maple limbs which he cuts and strips and cures before refinishing and adding finials of carved birds or spheres. This item, copied from European woodcarvers, has become very popular with his customers, Neff says.

Viewing the many beautiful birds in the Neffs' combination home and shop on Lincoln Avenue is almost as interesting as going to a museum because other displays are tucked in here and there. There are racks from moose and elk and deer dating back to Neff's hunting days, including an Ontario moose taken in 1965 near Nippegon, which was the fifth largest Onario moose ever bagged.

There are also mounted fish trophies from years past, and "fish decoys", enlarged wooden copies of the lures he made as a child. There are framed pictures of wildlife, including some of fish painted in acrylic by Neff himself.

And, setting it all off, is a lifetime assortment of treasures from all over the world collected by Neff and his wife, Catherine.

But what about the Secretarial Service? In a corner of his showroom is a brand new Silver Reed X-50 typewriter which Neff uses to produce the correspondence, legal papers, resumes, professional papers, or whatever his customers need.

"I bought this machine, then had to go back to high school to increase my speed," Neff explained.

It had been a long time since this 69-year-old graduate of the Business Institute of Detroit had been in school, but his experience served him well. A former court reporter, secretary to the chief inspector of Hudson's five plants, secretary to the manager of the DeSoto plant, and to the deputy Detroit police commissioner did not need much warming up for his new typewriter. Now he turns out the work like the pro he is.

Gordon and Catherine Neff met in Charlevoix when they were children. She spent her summers here with her family who lived in Highland Park, Illinois. Following their marriage and the years spent in Detroit, they returned to Charlevoix in 1943, with Gordon expecting to be drafted any time. While waiting to enter service, he took a job operating the old C & O railroad bridge, a job that lasted five years with no military service.

Neff the fisherman fondly remembers the "great bass and steelhead fishing from the bridge" in those days.

In 1950, Neff began operating Neff Brothers Grocery and Market on Bridge Street where the Wharfside Market is now located. Several heart attacks forced him to sell the business after 20 years, and he is still plagued with heart problems. The physically unstrenuous occupations of woodcarving and typing are admirably suited to his physical abilities, and he makes the most of both of them.

As we were leaving the Neff home, Catherine Neff remarked, "Oh, we forgot to tell you that Gordon studied forestry at Michigan State University, that he used to raise Weimaraner dogs, and at one time made jewelry from Petoskey stones."

Gordon Neff is indeed a many-talented man, so perhaps we shouldn't be surprised that he operates a Secretarial Service and carves and paints birds as well.

Tax plan approved

The City of Charlevoix now has the approval of the three interested tax-collecting agencies for a Tax Increment Financing Authority covering several businesses and industries in the Ferry Avenue-Stover Road area

Last week, Charlevoix County joined the Charlevoix Public Schools and the Intermediate School district in agreeing to give up part of their tax monies from that "tax capture area", with the understanding that up to $785,000 of the monies would be used to improve the area.

The project includes all of the City of Charlevoix property in that general area, Nanny's Old Place Restaurant and Motel, parcels of undeveloped land owned by John Malpeli, Irish Boat Works, land owned by the Charlevoix Development Company (which the city is trying to buy for a beach), Foster Boat Works Condominium, and Northwest Marine.

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE STATE LAND

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that pursuant to the provisions of section 131 of Act 206, P.A. 1893, as amended, State Lands in Charlevoix County will be placed on the market by offering same for sale at public auction on August 20, 1985, 10:00 A.M., Otsego County Court House, Gaylord.

The right is reserved by the State of Michigan to reject any or all bids.

Lists of property to be offered are available at the County Treasurer's Office or Lands Division, Department of Natural Resources, Box 3002B, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

Good week for garbage

By Doug Truax

It was not a particularly good week for lovers of clean water and beaches.

On Monday there was news of kids at Camp McSauba emerging from Lake Michigan covered with crude oil. One theory on the oil spill was that water was pumped into empty oil tanks on a freighter as ballast and then dumped somewhere offshore of Charlevoix.

At the same time, the Lake Michigan beach south of the channel was awash in a sea of litter. With stiff winds from the west and northwest, the litter piled up along the beaches faster than city crews could clean it.

Ike Boss, city recreation director, greeted me on Wednesday morning and took me down to see the mess. He speculated that the junk has washed ashore after being thrown overboard by sailors in the Chicago to Mackinac sailboat race. The influx of garbage coincided perfectly with the time the racing boats would have passed by the Charlevoix area.

Inspecting the litter seemed to reinforce the idea. Much of it was plastic garbage bags and a great many plastic food pouches – the kind you would use on an extended sail.

It is a sobering thought to think that people who could afford boats worth many thousands of dollars would not have the ethics or foresight to take care of their own trash. I found it a little shocking. I had always thought of sailors as a fastidious and enlightened lot.

It certainly gives one pause to think what boaters are doing with their holding tanks before and after entering Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

The news of the litter on Lake Michigan was taking its toll on my good spirits when a friend returned from a fishing trip on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. He was disgusted by the dirty, algae-laden water. You couldn't seen the downrigger cannonball once it was a few feet down, he said. Lines and gear were covered with a filthy green slime.

The garbage theme cropped up again at the county Planning Commission meeting. Talk of land use in the county inevitably turned to solid waste management, or the lack thereof. The commissioners noted that the Charlevoix County landfill was the only licensed facility in the region, and that there had been questions raised about its long-term viability. The state, the commissioners agreed, was doing virtually nothing toward working on a solution to solid waste – garbage.

And then one had to think back only about two weeks to remember the EPA decision to leave the TCE and PCE contaminated water in the ground beneath Charlevoix.

The pathetic fact is that despite many years of ecological awareness we are still fouling our own nest. Too many people who should know and care about preserving the environment do not.

Happily, the oil spill and the garbage on the beach could be cleaned up without lasting effect. It will take longer, much longer, to clean up the attitudes of the individuals responsible.

And one of the clear messages, I think, is that Charlevoix and other communities that depend on clean and unspoiled natural resources are going to have to get much tougher about protecting those resources. We need the visitors, yes. The slobs we can do without.

Petunia Operation copied

Dear Citizens of Charlevoix:

In June of last year we traveled through "Charlevoix the Beautiful", and were amazed as are so many visitors to your city, to see the four miles of Petunia's.

We stopped at the Chamber office to ask who had planted the flowers on each side of the road going through town. We were told that Mr. Bruce MacArthur and Mr. Dale Boss would be happy to explain the project to us.

We have not as yet met these two gentlemen face to face but have talked to them on the phone many times over the past year, and because of what they told us, Pierre the Capitol of South Dakota has become Petunia City. The citizens of Charlevoix are responsible for our success. We have copied every detail of your project. We have shown movies of your petunias that Dale Boss produced to every service club. We now have hundreds of people involved.

We hope that when you travel west you will stop through "Pierre the Beautiful." We think you will be proud of what we have done, because you have had a part of it. Our Chamber of Commerce has asked me to extend an invitation to each of you to be their guest for lunch while you are in Pierre.

Protest ruling protested

Dear Editor:

As a participant in the Wednesday night nummer series of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, I find it necessary to make some observations and comments on the new club rule stating that a yacht's owner or crew must sigo up for protest committee or forfeit the right to protest. Notice of this new rule was posted on the board at the Charlevoix Yacht Club and within the copy of a Yachting Notes article published in the Charlevoix Courier a few weeks ago. And they mean it. It is a dumb rule for these reasons:

1. It's wrong that all participants were not properly notified of a rule change. A proper notice is one that is included in the race instructions and mailed. Something that all will read, not a by chance notice on the board or in the paper.

2. Safety: sailing rules are very explicit and they provide a safe way of establishing the natural progression of boats through the course. These rules are intricate and thorough knowledge of them is imperative. Forfeiting these rights is absurd.

3. Fair sailing; suppose I am Frustrated Fred, tired of only finishing in the middle of the pack so FF sneaks over to the club to see who's been naughty or nice. So here we are on the course, its a port-starboard encounter and FF on port hails me, "You have no rights." I immediately shiver, sweat, and realize that FF isn't kidding as he puts his bow pulpit into my port tumblehome. You naturally protest FF alas to find that in the smoke-filled back room of a protest hearing not only did your boat almost sink, but you have to buy FF a new bow pulpit, etc.

In closing, I appreciate the Charlevoix Yacht Club's effort to get sailors to participate in the protest committee process. I think it is an excellent experience and reinforces the application of very complicated and interesting situations which, by exposure, broadens the knowledge of the member. However, the way they are going about it is wrong, unsafe, and unfair. I hope that this addendum to a mouse's appendage is at least considered by the powers that be.

Sheriff's help appreciated

Dear Editor:

Enclosed is a letter sent recently to Sheriff George Lasater.

Dear Sheriff Lasater:

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of the Lion's Club of Charlevoix, and all of Charlevoix's citizens, to express appreciation for the outstanding assistance you provided recently to the Wind Symphony.

Your involvement and cooperation with regard to the situation with Mr. Boudreau enabled the entire community to enjoy and benefit from this must unusual and worthwhile concert.

Our thanks and appreciation to you and your staff for services "above and beyond the call".

Sincerely,
Al Ranger
President, Lions Club

Boat explosion

By Bob Clock

NO ONE CAN remember a time when more boats — or bigger ones — were jammed into Charlevoix Harbor.

Virtually every slip appears to be filled and rafting-out is the name of the game.

Rafting-out, of course, is the time-honored practice of tethering of boats side by side from the end of a single pier or shore anchorage. Sailors hop from one boat to another to reach dry land. It is sort of a "funnel development" in reverse.

The harbor was particularly busy Wednesday evening when several sailboats from the Chicago-Mackinac race laid over in Charlevoix for the night.

I understand that in order to make better time, racing skippers leave their dinghies and anchors at home, complicating the task of finding a place to lay over for the night. They either have to find a slip, or raft-out and hope they latch onto agreeable neighbors who don't mind them clumping across the stern at 2 a.m.

I once interviewed a Japanese boat operator who lived with his family on a cargo lighter in the middle of Tokyo Bay. To reach his craft I had to board two dozen other lighters rafted into the bay from the wharf at Yokohama.

I muttered a thousand "gomenasai's" and made a thousand deep bows to Japanese boat people enjoying their afternoon tea on deck as I hopped from lighter to lighter. Fortunately, boat people don't seem to mind visitors. Intruders go with the territory.

WE WITNESSED one collision in the harbor Wednesday involving a power boat and a sailboat-under-power. However neither vessel appeared to sustain any damage.

Under the rules-of-the road, the sailboat should have had the right-of-way. But I can't remember what the manual says about sailboats-under-power. Fortunately, the harbor was so clogged, no one was going anywhere very fast.

I DON'T CONSIDER myself an out-and-out bleeding heart, but I have a feeling that the Department of Natural Resources made a terrible mistake by declaring mourning doves fair game in Southern Michigan.

I cannot believe that those delicate little creatures are so plentiful anywhere that they should be shot from the sky. Or that they are a nuisance to anyone.

For years, mourning doves were as scarce as parrots in Northern Michigan. But as the ban on DDT began to take effect, a few of them returned. Their numbers are increasing every year and their gentle cry of "coo, coo, coo" is pure music.

They are so small that the largest of them wouldn't yield any more protein than a fast-food hamburger.

I can't imagine who would want to take a pot-shot at such pretty little songbirds — but it takes all kinds.

Have you tried hummingbird lately? They may be next on the DNR's shoot-'em-up list.

people under age 16 are hired each summer. They work three-hour shifts – one mornings, the other afternoons. Not only do they clean up litter along the street but they also answer questions about Charlevoix and provide a friendly greeting to people on the street.

The hostess this year is Christy Coolman, 14, who goes about her tasks with her feet planted firmly on the ground. She will be a freshman at Charlevoix High School next fall.

Funding for the young ambassadors comes from the downtown merchants. The 7-Eleven store has also donated a free drink to the host and hostess during each shift.

Oil removed

ed at once and after an investigation by Chief Mark Simmons at the Charlevoix Station, inspectors from the Captain of the Port office at Base Soo were informed. After surveying the situation, area contractors were contacted and Site Planning Development was awarded the contract for the work, according to Lt. Daniel O'Shea, head of the Captain of the Port office.

Coast Guard petty officers Paul Seaver and James Murray were sent to oversee the cleanup effort. They said the oil was likely "bunker sea," a crude oil used on freighters. The Coast Guard officers said that efforts would be made to trace samples of the material to boats in the area at the time of the spill.

After being notified of the oily waters, a Coast Guard helicopter from the Traverse City Air Station was called in an attempt to determine the extent of the spill.

Miss Charlevoix to be named

Patty Sitzema, a representative of Mary Kay Cosmetics will give facials to all the queen contestants and will also provide instruction on how to wear makeup.

Kim Curtis, Miss Charlevoix 1984, will climax the evening by crowning her successor. The new queen will receive a $250 award; first runnerup will receive $50.

The new Miss Charlevoix will qualify to compete in next year's Cherry Festival which is a qualifying event for Miss Michigan.

"This year's committee wants to make this a meaningful experience for the girls, win or lose," Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, noted.

Contestants for the 1985 Miss Charlevoix title are:

Karolyn Bearss, 19, the daughter of James and Angel Bearss. Karolyn is 5' 6" and has brown hair and blue-green eyes. Her hobbies are sports of all kinds, ceramics, painting, and pottery. She likes to travel with friends and family and enjoys the outdoors, fishing, walking on the beach, and taking summer classes at NCMC.

Karolyn was on the dean's list her first term at Davenport College in Grand Rapids. She was on the honor roll several times during high school, lettered in track and volleyball, and was assistant captain of the Charlevoix Flag Corps. Her talent performance during the pageant will be singing.

Mary Elinor Camilleri, 17, is the daughter of Francis and Olga Camilleri. She is 5' and has light brown hair and brown eyes. She enjoys playing the flute, cross-country skiing, swimming, and raading. She is also interested in animals and animal behavior.

Mary was co-salutatorian of the 1985 Charlevoix senior class and president of the National Honor Society. For three years she was the drum major of the Charlevoix High School marching band and was selected to the All-State Honors Band. Mary will attend Michigan State University this fall with an academic excellence scholarship.

Her talent will be playing the flute.

Kristin Anne Foster, 17, is the daughter of John and Helen Foster. She is 5' 7" and has sandy brown hair and green eyes. She enjoys horseback riding, reading, and swimming as hobbies.

Kristin participated for three years in the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts program, including drama, individual events, and debate. Her talent for the queen pageant will be story telling.

Cheryl Ann Hartnett, 18, is the daughter of Fritz and Sandra Allard. She is 5' 4" and has light brown hair and blue eyes. Her hobbies include reading romance novels and other books and writing poetry and essays. She enjoys outdoor activities such as sailing, skiing (both water and snow), biking, golfing, and jogging.

She is a 1985 graduate of Charlevoix High School and has been accepted to Central Michigan University with an academic scholarhip. Her talent for the show will be humorous reading.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Warner

Fels-Warner

The Charlevoix Yacht Club, on Lake Charlevoix, was the setting on Saturday, June 29, for the wedding of Lori Fels and Brian Warner. Parents of the couple are Jack and Barb Fels, and Doyle and Bea Warner, all of Charlevoix.

Reverend James Lugibihl, of the Bible Baptist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony, in the presence of 200 guests. Music for the ceremony was provided by Fran Tollas

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of chiffon, accented with tiny roses. She carried a bouquet of silk flowers, complementing the rose accents on her bridal gown.

Gayle Hansen, as maid of honor, and Amanda Warner, niece of the groom, as flower girl, carried bouquets similar to the bride's. Ring bearer was Mike Warner, nephew of the groom.

Michael Fels and Bill Fels, brothers of the bride, seated the guests.

The bride-groom was assisted by Charles Warner, his cousin, as best man.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents followed the ceremony, at the Yacht Club. Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rouland, of Garden City and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fels, of Homestead, Iowa.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents was held at the Other Side of Great Lakes Whitefish Restaurant, on Thursday night.

The couple will make their home in Charlevoix. A wedding trip is planned for later this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Avery

Johnston-Avery

Jamie Marie Johnston and Patrick Arthur Avery exchanged marriage vows on June 15 in an afternoon candlelight ceremony at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Johnston of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Valois A. Avery, also of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Casimer J. Zawacki officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was escorted to the altar by her Grandfather Clarence Johnston and given in marriage by her parents.

Approximately 250 guests witnessed the ceremony for which the altar had been decorated in pink and white gladiolus and carnations.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown fashioned with a high neckline, yoke of English netting accented with Venise lace, and full skirt layered with ruffles and trimmed with silk flowers which flowed into a semi-cathedral train. Her headpiece was a matching picture hat and she carried a cascading bouquet of pink and white silk carnations with lilies of the valley.

Kathleen Campbell assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Karolyn Bearss, Devin Sosnowski, and Renee O'Berg were bridesmaids. They wore pink taffeta gowns with ruffled layers which fell into small trains, and pink and white hats made by the bride's aunt, Bonnie Johnston. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations with lilies of the valley.

Tonya Peterson, wearing a white dress with pink dotted Swiss pinafore, served as flower girl, and Brian Avery, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Joe Borths attended the bridegroom as best man, and Chris Avery, borther of the bridegroom, Mike Martin, and Scott Johnston, brother of the bride, were groomsnen. Doug Johnston, uncle of the bride, and Mike Finley, nephew of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Jeannie Lignell, organist, and Mary Ann Stephan's, vocalist.

The reception, hosted by the bride's parents, was held at the American Legion Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Greg Johnston, aunt and uncle of the bride, served as master and mistress of ceremonies. The rehearsal dinner was held at Nanny's Old Place, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the newlyweds will be at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is a dispatcher for the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the bride is employed by Lake Charlevoix Cable TV.

Women's Club wants books

The Charlevoix Women's Club will conduct its annual book sale Friday and Saturday, Aug. 9 and 10, Lucy Witthoeft, president of the sponsoring club, has announced.

The event will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library Aug. 9 and 10 with the funds going to benefit CHICO, a local Indian children's educational fund, and other cummunity projects including PBS, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Mt. McSauba Day Camp, Junior Sheriff's Patrol, and other local groups.

The club is asking that you sort your books and contribute those books you no longer use to the club for resale.

Books may be taken to the Charlevoix Public Library in boxes or bags marked for the sale. All kinds of books are welcome: children's books, cookbooks, and books on antiques are especially sought. It doesn't matter if they're hardback or paperback, recent or old, the latest novels or old favorites, all books are welcome, Mrs. Witthoeft said.

Those who have books to be picked up may call Mrs. Witthoeft at 547-4575 or Julia Leedy at 547-6916.

Major League falls to Gaylord

The Charlevoix Major League, appearing in the Little League District Tournament at Gaylord Thursday ngiht, dropped their opening game to Gaylord by a score of 20-2.

The team got off to a great start, taking out the first three men at bat. Charlevoix scored two runs in their first turn at bat, according to Ken Olinger, assistant coach.

The next time around however, there were errors of every description allowing Gaylord 17 hits off Randy Wurst and Guy Gengle while Charlevoix collected only seven from the winning pitcher, Kaselniak.

The Little Leogue teams will close out their season at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday with a game between the majors and the minors.

The major league standings for the season follow: Oleson Foods 14-2; American Legion 11-5; Parsel Olds 9-7 and Round Lake Lodge 0-16.

Sailboarda lie in wait at last year's Wayler Championships.

Wayler Championships here, olympic team to hold clinic

CHARLEVOIX — The three day Fourth Annual Wayler North American Sail Board Championships will begin here August 2 in a bright atmosphere of fun and achievement.

Yacht Racing and Cruising magazine, for the first time ever, gives recognition to sailboarding (windsurfing) by ranking the Wayler World Championships, held last March in Islamorada, Fl., as one of the five best organized and run sailboat regattas of any kind on the North American continent.

Richard Lepman, President of G.S. Sports, which markets the Dutch-manufactured sailboard in the United States, attributes the success of The Wayler World Championships to the experience gained at the previous North American Championships in Charlevoix.

"It is also due to the able direction and supervision of Bill Gladstone, who will be running the Charlevoix Regatta this summer," Lepman added.

Gladstone teaches sailing nationwide, and is certified as an Associate Judge by the United States Yacht Racing Union.

There will be an intensive four-day warm-up period for those who want at a clinic covering all phases of boardsailing for beginners as well as experts, July 29-Aug. 1.

Conducted by Major Hall, coach of the U.S. Boardsailing Team (The U.S. Olympic Team) and team members, the clinic was a highly successful event prior to last winter's World Wayler Championships. Details about registration, fees and schedule may be obtained by calling 1/800-323-4059.

The meet itself will feature racing and special events for boardsailors of all ages and description. There will be Relays and Balloon Chases; such special classes of distinction as Professionals (lawyers, doctors etc.) of both sexes, Super Heavy and Dirty Old Men; and there will be Recreation Class Racing and Championship Course Racing in three weight classes.

This regatta will also feature the region's first WINSTAR competition.

Patterned after the Nastar races which have become so popular on ski slopes around the nation, these were developed by Lepman and his crew and inaugurated at the Wayler World Championship last spring.

In these races contestants compete only against the clock, measuring their times against times established by top board sailors on similar courses under similar conditions.

There will be a feast and party for registrants Saturday evening at Nanny's Old Place in Charlevoix. Nanny's will serve as headquarters for the three-day event.

Physicals offered

Free physical examinations for all those students in the seventh through the 12th grade who will be participating in athletics or cheerleading at the Charlevoix Public Schools during the 1985-86 school year have been scheduled for Aug. 5 and 6.

Girls' examinations will be given at the high school study hall at 7:30 p.m. Monday Aug. 5.

Boys' examinations will be given at the same site, the high school study hall, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6.

Charlevoix area physicians will be conducting the examinations and students are encouraged to take advantage of them. Those who do not have their physicals at the appointed times must make their own appointments at doctors' offices as physical examinations are required by the Michigan High School Athletic Association before a student may participate in any sport.

Students and parents are advised that anyone planning to participate in any sport or go out for cheerleading anytime during the coming school year should have a physical examination at this time.

At the same time the physicals are being given, members of the Charlevoix Dental Association will be present to fit mouthpieces for all athletes who need them. There will be a minimal charge of $3 for these. This covers the cost of materials only.

Remember: 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 5 for physical examinations for girls and 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6, for physicals for boys. This applies to all prospective athletes and cheerleaders in the seventh through the 12th grade.

Coaches will be on hand to assist the students.

Steelhead catch

Where do the steethead go in the summer? Fishermen have wondered for years. Now Gerry Rakoczy and Myrl Keller of the Great Lakes Fisheries Station think they have the answer and a way to catch them.

The fish, they discovered, are far out in the lake — from eight to 20 miles — and on the surface.

Rakoczy, pictured left above, and Max Ledbetter, also of the Fisheries Station, caught the steelhead pictured above (the biggest one 11½ pounds) recently in Lake Michigan using the innovative technique. Fishing rapala-type lures near the surface, Rakoczy used planer boards to take the line far to the side of the boat. Linea were also fished some 125 feet behind the boat. Getting the line out and back Rakoczy explains, is important aince the fish on the surface are easily spooked.

He has found fluorescent lures effective.

Since this type of fishing requires getting far from shore, be sure you have the proper boat and navigational equipment to handle it, and keep a careful watch on the weather.

Art Fair scholarship leads to success

Excitement races across Jeff Kelly's face as he flips through the pages of his portfolio.

"Art school's been tough. I've had to work. They've stretched me. I love it."

"I am going into commercial illustration," Kelly says. "Fine art is my minor," he adds, revealing a deep affinity for the "freedom" he finds when working in fine art.

That Kelly went to art school and is now convinced he can pursue a career in art is largely thanks to Charlevoix's unusual summer Waterfront Art Fair. It is one of very few art fairs dedicated to promoting would-be local artists through a continuous program of scholarships. For Jeff Kelly, the scholarships meant several years of summer instruction at Blue Lake Camp and significant help with his first year at Kendall.

The second oldest art fair in Michigan, and one of the most prestigious anywhere, attracting artists from all over the United States and as well as buyers from leading galleries, Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair was founded with the intent of bringing fine art to northern Michigan and encouraging the development of local artists.

Over 700 artists apply for the 100 openings in the annual Charlevoix show. For the fifth year, on August 10, young Kelly will be the youngest artist in this highly competitive and strictly juried fair. He is thrilled and so is the art fair committee which has watched his development.

"When we first gave a scholarship to this young boy in 7th grade to go to Blue Lake for a week to stody art, we could only hope he would continue to grow," remembera art fair committee apokesperson Suzi Reis.

"Jeff has grown tremenduously. Every year he has developed new techniques and tried new approaches.

"We are bursting with pride that we were involved in helping this fine young artist get a start," Reis concludes.

The $500 annual awards that Kelly has garnered for the past five years were awarded after a competitive screening of aubmissions from many Charlevoix area young ortists, according to Reis.

Kelly, who says, "I liked art even in elementary school," remembers his art teacher, Marti Mathers, remarking to him one day, "Wouldn't you like doing this for a living?"

The question inspired Kelly who began drawing and "playing with acrylics and pen and inks more seriously." He toted his sketch pad everywhere, sketching wildlife, sitting beside Upper Peninsula streams on family fishing trips. By high school, when he was also a star on the Charlevoix varsity baseball team, Kelly would aketch caricatures of his teammates as they endured the long bus ride to Florida for "spring training."

The first time he applied for the Waterfront Art Fair Scholarship, Kelly was nervous.

"I'd never put together a portfolio, much less presented it to a committee," he smiles.

"Mrs. Loding, my middle school art teacher, helped me. She also opened me up to a lot of new ideas, new medias and crafts."

We've had other scholarship winners during these years," Reis comments. "But watching Jeff grow with our help has been an Incredible experience."

The $500 Jeff won toward his second year at Kendall will just about cover one class, he says. In addition, like so many students, Kelly has put together a combination of grants, loans, and other awards to cover his art school costs. He also works full time, every summer, in a Charlevoix grocery store - stocking shelves and bagging groceries.

He also draws full time. Describing his style as "realism", Jeff is working hard to prepare for the August 10th art fair, painting familiar northern Michigan land and lakescapes.

Jeff Kelly

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Better late than never, I hope, as the following update on the CYC Womens' Classic was just received:

Despite my not being there with CANUSA, the Race started, as planned, at 1 p.m. on Sunday, July 7. Only four boats completed although COOL-WHIP, with Diane at the helm (ed. note — and John hiding down below) was seen at the starting line. Turned out to be a sparring match between PLASTIC FANTASTIC and FLYING MACHINE at one end of the lake, with BABE and TIRELESS caught in a hole at the other end.

Final results; Claudia Kenifeck, PLASTIC FANTASTIC, 1st; Lynn Haveman, FLYING MACHINE, 2nd; Gina Lepman, BABE, 3rd; and Pat Carland, TIRELESS, 4th. The ladies thank Phil Omar for being Race Committee, especially in view of the many problems (dead battery, taking on water, etc.). Thanks also to Sally Ochs for all the decorations and other work on the Club's Birthday Party — the cake was great.

Wednesday Night at the Races saw KRITTER running away with a time of only 1:43:10, almost 4 minutes ahead of runner-up CHUCK BROWN. SLAPSHOT in 3rd (1:49:19), MINT JULEP, PLASTIC FANTASTIC, and FLYING MACHINE rounded out the top six in fleet and overall. PYGMALION and TIGGER were 7th and 8th in fleet.

In Fleet 2, it was WING NUT (7th overall), BABE (9th overall), NIGHT MOVES (10th o.a.), BANDIT, MERRY HELL II, AND CANUSA. MARANATHA dropped from 5th to 7th on an acknowledged protest, while RIBIT trailed. Protests by BABE on two different yachts were not heard.

In Fleet 3, SPECTRE really moved out for first in class and 6th overall. Following, in order, were BLASEN III, TIRELESS, :%&!#)%$ (Mike Miller), FOXY LADY, and FLASH.

The Jib and Main Fleet had a total spread of only 11 minutes with TIGI, PHOENECIA, and CHEEMAUN in the money; and CYGNUS, SANDPIPER, STALWORTH, COOL-WHIP, APOTHECARY, and MAUREEN in that order.

Avoid hard feeling and maybe an otherwise unfair penalty — be sure someone representing your yacht is signed up on the Protest Committee Schedule before the next race! If there is not — your protest) or defense) will not be heard! If you are signed up, be there after the race or your yacht gets a DNS (Did Not Start) for that race!

We've heard how much fun, how many beverages, what neat prizes, and about everything else except the formal results of the Irish Cup Race. Sorry, next year we'll have A. Mouse on site!

The Big Venetian Weekend — and being a participant is always more fun than being a spectator. If your Yacht is being decorated —GREAT, but if not, still join us in the early evening sail through the Parade Course — see you there...

...the End of the Mouses' Tale.

Dance scholarships

Bay View Department of Theatre Arts has announced the recipients of several dance scholarships from Northern Michigan Panhellenic. The scholarships are provided through gifts from Mrs. James Hempstead in memory of Mrs. Charlotte Hager.

The recipients are Philip Redmond, Petoskey; Margo Ann McKenney, Petoskey; Holly Spaulding, East Jordan; Mary Crockett, Alpena and Bay View; Dianna Weltrich, Petoskey and Melody Champion, Petoskey.

All scholarships were awarded after auditions held by Cate Deicher, Bay View's new dance teacher.

Potluck planned

The Northern Michigan Environmental Action Council will hold a potluck and program on July 24 at the Sleeping Bear National Park. The group will meet for potluck at the North Bar Overlook off of Stocking Drive at 6:30 p.m. The program, beginning at 7:30 p.m., will focus on recreational activities and environmental concerns within the Park.

Dr. William Scharf from Northwestern Michigan College and Richard Peterson, park superintendent, will address the group. For more information call the Action Council office at 946-6931.

Official Notice

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
SYNOPSIS OF PROCEEDINGS
OF JULY 10, 1985

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on July 10 with all members in attendance.

In addition to reviewing a variety of routine correspondence, the Board heard the annual report of the District Health Department and the Sheriff's bi monthly status review.

In other action, the Board heard a review of the 1985-86 circuit court probation enhancement grant and adopted a resolution of endorsement for it. The Board also adopted resolutions endorsing the City of Charlevoix Tax Increment Financing Authority agreement, setting public hearings for amending the 1985 general fund budget; and authorizing repairs to the heating system at the jail.

Complete minutes of the proceedings of the Board are on file in the office of the County clerk and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

Jane E. Brannon, County Clerk

Judy Mabee

T-shirt design winner

The winner of the first annual Chamber of Commerce Venetian T-shirt contest is Judy Mabee. Her design was picked by a panel of judges as the one to appear on T-shirts commemorating the 1985 Festival.

The bold abstract design suggests sailboats, water, and fireworks – hallmarks of the Venetian Festival.

The T-shirts are available from the Chamber of Commerce for $8 each.

Judy, 21, is the daughter of Jim and Sue Mabee, owners of The Clothing Company.

This will not be the first time Judy has seen one of her designs marching up and down the streets of town. A "Charlevoix" sweatshirt she designed for her parents' store has been selling very well and can be seen on any number of tourists and natives alike.

She has attended Michigan State for two and one-half years in clothing and textiles and is hoping now to go into fine arts or commercial design.

Judging by her recent design successes here, she is well on her way in either field.

Campers learn about local flora

Children attending Camp McSauba this summer have had the opportunity to learn about the flowers and conifers of the area, thanks to the efforts of the Charlevoix Garden Club.

Two times a week, campers have been able to select a one-hour session on identifying wild and domestic flowers of the region. They also learn the important lesson in identifying poison ivy which is abundant in the dunes near Lake Michigan. Campers also take walks along the Mt. McSauba nature trails.

Instruction stresses conservation and the preservation of protected species. Lois Lewis, Ginny Woods, Derith Lane, and Anna Belle Webb of the Garden Club have been providing the lessons.

The kids are also given a chance to make up booklets with dried and pressed flowers from the area. Their work will be on display at the Garden Club's Invitational Flower Show on August 13.

Pokey and Lita Wheeler turn over summer hideaway to state:

Bell's Bay cabin was site of much colorful local history

by ANNE KELLY

Nostalgia seldom effects practical decision. Time and progress have marched over the railroad bridge, the old fog horn, and the Depot railway station.

When Pokey and Lita Wheeler worked on their summer hideaway cabin, situated on a Bell's Bay bluff overlooking Lake Michigan, they probably didn't think much about time and progress. No telephone and only a generator for necessary electricity - that was the way of slowing down and enjoying life away from Chicago.

So Lita, handcaulked the spaces between rugged logs, and otherwise made homey the little cabin, while Pokey laid the stonework for a patio area and walkway leading down to the beach. Their cabin was the site of many get-togethers, friends gathering round, while Pokey entertained with guitar-strummed songs of the sea.

Then came the DNR's master plan for Fisherman's Island State Park conserve. In time theirs became the only privately owned parcel.

For some years the Wheeler's resisted offers presented to them by the DNR. Now, Pokey and Lita reside permanently in St. Petersburg, Florida, where both are in failing health. Recently, they turned over the key to the cabin and their land to park officials. A decision on the fate of the Wheeler's cabin will be made by the Parks Division Office of the DNR in Lansing sometime after Labor Day.

The cabin itself was originally built in the mid-thirties by Harold Bedford, owner of the Fountain City House, a hotel which once stood on the present site of the Weathervane Terrace. Bedford's daughter, Ruth Ann Curtis, remembers the cabin as being built and used by her family for weekend excursions and parties.

"There was no electricity out there, and we got water from a pump on the hill." The logs used in construction were fashioned from timber felled on the property; the large stone fireplace was no easy construction project. The Bedford's sold the cabin and property to Ralph and Dorothy McRae in the early 1940s, following the death of the Bedford's 21-year-old son, Harrison, in an automobile accident.

"My father lost interest in it after that," replied Mrs. Curtis.

From the Bedfords to the McRaes to the Wheelers, the little cabin continued to provide summer hospitality. McRae sold the cabin to Pokey and Lita in 1951, when the McRae's bought their home in town.

So it is the Wheelers, natives of the Chicago area, who continued the tradition of summer living at the primitive cabin and who added some special touches of their own: many improvements to the cabin itself, the music, and the sailing.

Lita, an accomplished musician, traveled with an all women's orchestra. It was an experience which took her around the world for performances. Pokey, who started out with all good intentions of being a successful attorney, answered early in his career an invitation to sail around the world. He never went back to practicing law. He formed the Seven Seas Corp., adjusted compasses, and kept a 45 foot ketch rig in Florida.

"Pokey was quite a renowned sailor, you know," explained Jim Elliot, a friend of the Wheeler's for over 28 years. "He sailed in more Mackinac races than any other member of the Chicago Yacht Club. As far as I know, he's the second longest standing member of the club."

Apparently Pokey would sail into Charlevoix from Chicago on what he called the "Wolverine Cruise." When they got in, there was always a party at the cabin.

"There was no telephone, and only a generator to produce their electricity and pump the water," recalls Elliot. "I can remember Pokey saying, as the lights dimmed, 'You gotta go now, the generator's out of gas.' It got so that we used to take a fifth of whiskey and a gallon of gas to those parties."

Another friend, Seberon "Boo" Litzenburger had fond reminiscences of time spent with Pokey.

The Wheeler cabin today.

"He was the kind of guy who actually lived all the sailor's fantasies. The rest of us are armchair sailors, but Pokey did it. He sailed around the world. He looked like someone who had just stepped off a square rigger....steely blue eyes, silvery white hair, barrel-chested."

For the past ten years, Litzenburger answered invitations to sail from Pokey that read something like this:

Dear Boo,

"Are you ready for the Geriatric Cruise? ...If the wind is south, we go north; if the wind is north, we go south, if the wind is east or west, we toss a coin...

Poke

In later year, conversations on the "Geriatric Cruise" included talk of former shipmates who had, as Litzenburger recalls the phrase, "swallowed the anchor." "I thought at first, they were talking about friends who had died," remembers Litzenburger, "until I realized that they were simply referring to buddies who no longer sailed."

If there are still "Geriatric Cruises", there is doubtless talk of Pokey having "swallowed the anchor" himself. And at an empty cabin, on the unpaved trail leading out to Fisherman's Island beach, are a lot of memories, shared by a lot of Pokey and Lita's friends, washing up on the shore and whistling softly around the pines.

Friends of the Wheeler's, like Jan Biddick, Elliot's daughter, have taken a personal and sentimental interest in what will become of the property.

"I think it's kind of sad to think that the cabin might be destroyed," Jan sympathized. "I quess I'd like to see it put to good use, anyway...maybe a trailside museum." Razing the structure, according to Duane Schillal, head ranger at Fisherman's Bay State Park, is one of the most realistic possibilities.

According to William Kusey, assistant regional park supervisor in Roscommon, a decision on the future of the Wheeler's cabin will not be made until after Labor Day. The options include: making it into a rustic trailside cabin; using the building for some official park purpose or utilizing the faciltiy for a nature museum; moving the cabin; razing the building.

"As I view it, Kusey explained, "the location of the cabin makes it too close to the road for use as a rustic cabin." Rustic cabins are used by scouts and campers by permission of some parks like Wilderness State Park. "It is not really primitive enough."

Even the possibility of turning the building into a trailside museum for campers and hikers is questionalbe, according to Kusey. "It would take a lot of money to bring it up to safety standards and allow barrier-free access."

As for moving the structure, "When this is feasible," continued Kusey, "we (the DNR) advertise the building and put it up for bid, with no minimum limit. The highest bidder gets it. Unfortunately, in many instances, the buildings aren't worth moving. The structures aren't designed to withstand a move. The Wheeler's cabin may be one of these cases.".

The DNR and park officials, in the meantime, must guard the cabin against vandalism which is especially a problem when the road is closed in the winter.

The cheapest option, would be razing the cabin, utilizing any salvageable materials for park use.

Concerns or opinions reagarding the Wheeler's cabin may be directed to: David Dilts, Regional Park Supervisor, or Wm. Kusey, Assistant Park Supervisor, Department of Natural Resources, Roscommon, MI. 515-275-5151.

Well wishes by old friends for the Wheelers: Mr. & Mrs. L.A. Wheeler, 2020 Inner Circle South, St. Petersburg, FL 33712.

Venetian promises spectacular celebration

All roads will lead to Charlevoix the weekend of July 25-28 when the community hosts its annual Venetian Festival for the 55th straight year.

One of the premier summer festivals of the state, the Venetian Festival thrills tens of thousands of local residents and visitors alike with pageantry steeped in over a half a century of tradition.

The fun starts at 8 p.m. Thursday night at the high school gym with the crowning of the Venetian Queen – who will also reign for a year as Miss Charlevoix.

On Friday the carnival rides set up for the weekend in the parking lot next to East Park and the Venetian Fastpitch Softball Tournament gets underway at the city ballpark at 6 p.m.

Friday's main event will be a Night of Music at the stage in East Park featuring the Reef Petroleum Band of Traverse City, a 16-piece "big band" which will play from 7-11 p.m. There will be several food concessions operating so people can have their supper in the park while listening to the music.

Saturday's activities begin with the Venetian Footrace starting at 9 a.m. at the Elementary School. Prizes are awarded for various age categories and distances.

At 11 a.m. the Grand Venetian Street Parade starts at Garfield Street and proceeds north on Bridge Street through the downtown to the stoplights at Clinton Street.

Following the parade, an afternoon of musical entertainment will be staged in East Park beginning with some of the marching bands and combos featured in the parade.

The Venetian Boat Parade starts at 8 p.m. with Sailboat Under Sail, Classic, and Decorated Boat categories. The boats will circle Round Lake after entering from Lake Charlevoix and will compete for prizes including a $200 first prize in the top division.

The day's activities are capped by a spectacular fireworks display over Round Lake at about 10:30 p.m.

On Sunday there will be a pancake breakfast at the American Legion Hall from 8 a.m. to noon, a children's show at East Park from noon to 1 p.m., and a Fun Fly for model airplanes hosted by the Charlevoix Buffs at their field off Sequanota Road a half mile from Ferry Road.

Other events during the weekend include open house aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cuter Mesquite from 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and open house at the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House museum from 1-4 p.m. Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

See page 7 for complete schedule.

Queen Kim Curtis, who was crowned Miss Charlevoix 1984, will pass along her title at this year's competition Thursday night.

The Boat Parade is always a highlight of the Venetian festivities

Boats parade in Round Lake

Colorfully decorated boats of all descriptions will once again be featured in the annual Venetian Boat Parade. This year's Boat Parade, the 55th running of the popular event, will be held Saturday, July 27 beginning at 8 p.m.

It was in the summer of 1930 that a group of Charlevoix boaters decided to mount an event that is said to have originated in the canals of Venice, Italy. Decorated with lit candles, boats were lashed together and paraded around the perimeter of Round Lake just after dark. The Venetian Boat Parade soon became a popular summer tradition in Charlevoix and eventually expanded into a fun-filled, four-day celebration which is now held on the last weekend of July each year.

While the boats in the parade are no longer lashed together and the candles have been replaced by hundreds of electric lights, the Venetian parade still circles Round Lake as it has each summer for over half a century.

This year there are four categories, or, divisions of boats in the parade, each of which will be judged by a committee aboard the coast Guard Cutter Mesquite. Divisions include "Sailboats Under Sail," "Classic," "Decorated with Entry Fee", and "Decorated without Entry Fee." The first three places in each division will be awarded a photograph of their entry with an engraved plate attached.

For those who submit the $25 entry fee in the Decorated division, there will be cash prizes of $200, $100, and $50 awarded for the first three places.

The parade will begin at 8 p.m. with the sailboats going first, the classics following, and the decorated boats last. All divisions will be assigned specific times and locations to assemble in Lake Charlevoix before the parade.

The parade is open for anyone to participate, including local residents and visitors. Applications and further information can be obtained from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridgs St. All applications are to be returned by July 26.

Fun Run draws all ages

Runners take aim at Foot Race records

Runners take your marks. The eighth annual Venetian Festival Footrace is about to be run.

Entries for the race scheduled for Saturday, July 27, are now being accepted according to Pete Spieles, coach of the Charlevoix High School Cross country team and sponsor of the popular race.

There will be three divisions of the race: both men's and women's in the one-mile, 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer races, Spieles said.

Runners will be divided into various age categories in both men's and women's divisions.

This year's participants will be aiming at new records set in the 1984 for the 5- and 10-kilometer division. In the 5-kilometer event the records are 18:19 set by Debbie Rode of Traverse City and 14:35 set by Jeff Drenth of Charlevoix.

The 10-kilometer records are 39:11 set by Gania Rode of Traverse City and 31:54 set by Ron Kinnunen of the Canadian Soo.

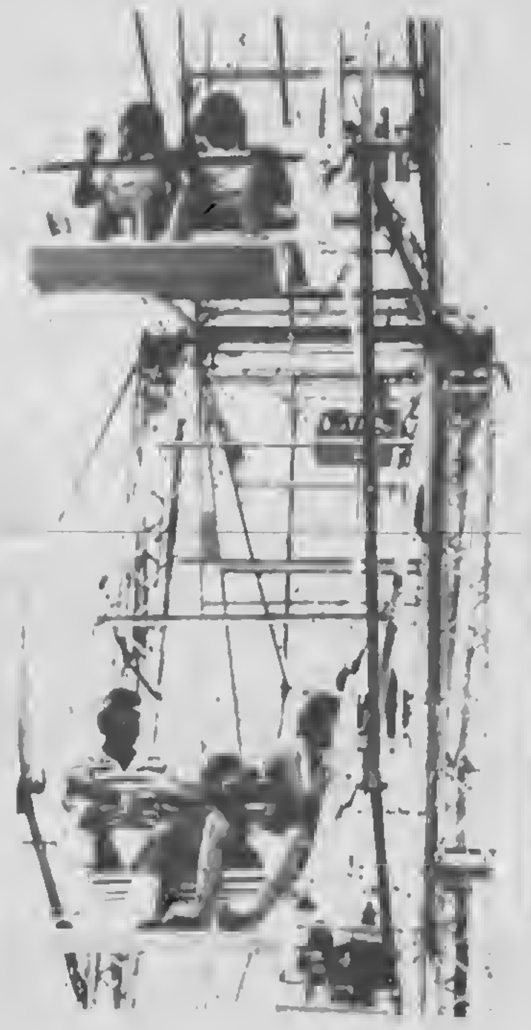
The first 100 entries receive T-shirts.

All entries receive ribbons, the first three in each catagory receive medals, and the first place winners trophies.

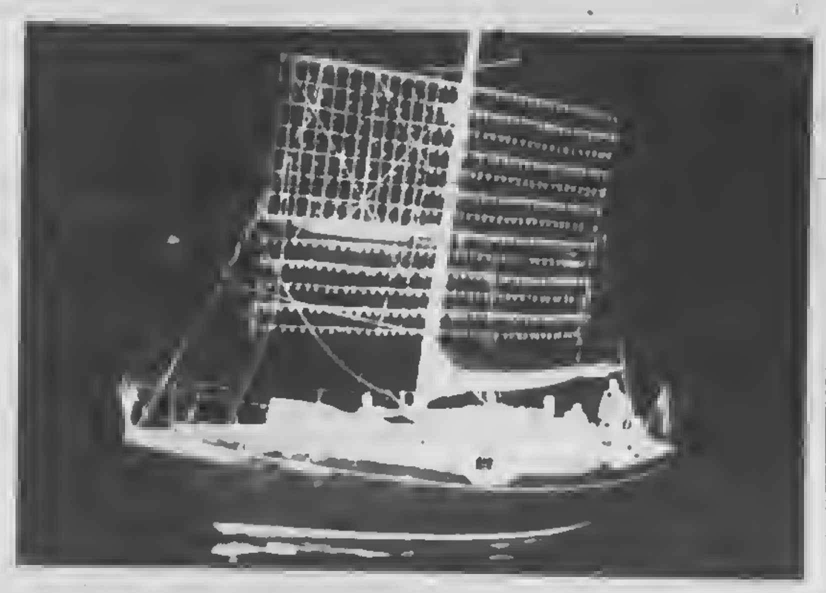
Prizes are awarded immediately following the races. There will also be post-race refreshments courtesy of the Charlevoix Merchants and an aid station for the 10-kilometer runners.

The entry fee is $6; there is also a $5 family rate for the one-mile entries.

Registrations will be accepted from 8:30 until 9:30 a.m. the day of the race with the one-mile race starting at 9:30, the 5- and 10-kilometer races will begin at 10 a.m.



The amusement rides near East Park attract large crowds throughout the festival.



Colorfully lit and imaginatively decorated boats will tour Round Lake during the Boat Parade.

Iowa Rose plays old-time music

"Old Wave, New Time" music will be featured as the group Iowa Rose comes to the Venetian Festival for a concert beginning at 5 p.m. Saturday, July 27.

Iowa Rose, a West Michigan quartet, entertains with a program of acoustic folk, swing, country, old-time and bluegrass music they call "Old Wave, New Time". A band member explains, "We combine elements of traditional styles and bring it up to date to make our own sound. This is especially true of our original material which is an important part of each performance."

The group, which has been together since 1980, features Mary Sue Wilkinson on guitar, flute, and vocals; David Raffenaud on piano, accordian, and vocals; Jeff Rose and Mark Schrock, who take turns with mandolin, fiddle, bass, guitar, and vocals. Rose also palys banjo and dodro and Schrock adds harmonica.

Iowa Rose has played extensively in Michigan appearing at folk festivals, concerts, and coffeehouses from Marquette to Detroit. They have appeared on numerous public radio broadcasts in Michigan as well as on "The Flea Market" from WBEZ in Chicago. Their 1985 summer schedule includes an appearance at the Winnipeg Folk

Fastpitch Tournament draws top state teams

Charlevoix will again host one of the state's premier fastpitch tournaments during Venetian weekend, Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

The annual Venetian Fastpitch Tournament 10-team invitational will be held July 26-28. The tournament will begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday and continue through the weekend at the Carpenter Avenue field.

Par-T-Pac, of Boyne City, a former Charlevoix team and the defending champion will open the tournament at 6:30 p.m. Friday against one of the new entries, Carpet Country of Coldwater. This game will be followed by the meeting of the Knights of Columbus of Chegoyban and Little Caesar's of Petoskey at 8 p.m., with Budget Rent-A-Car of Petoskey meeting newcomer, Akron Merchants in the nightcap at 9:30 p.m.

Firebird Lanes of Clawson will take on Spartan Roofing of Lansing at 8 a.m. Saturday followed by a game between the winner of the Cheboygan KC's and Apex Polishing of Grand Rapids, the third new entry, at 9:30 a.m. Miller Lite of Ann Arbor and the winner of Budget Rent-A-Car and Akron Merchants will play a 11 a.m.

Action in the loser's bracket will begin at 12:30 p.m. and continue throughout the afternoon with games at 2, 3:30 and 5 p.m.

The semi-finals in the winner's bracket will be played at 6:30 and 8:00 p.m. Saturday with play suspended during the Venetian Boat Parade following the 8 p.m. game.

Games in the loser's bracket will be played at 8 and 9:30 a.m. Sunday prior to the finals in the winner's bracket at 11 a.m Sunday.

Games at 12:30 and 2 p.m. on the losers bracket will bring the meet to the tournament finals at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three teams and individual trophies to the members of the championship team. MVP's will also receive trophies.

Further inquiries may be directed to the Charlevoix Recreation Department at 547-3253.

Cloggers will dance Saturday

Musical instruments won't be the only thing making noise at the Venetian Festival Concert in East Park this Saturday.

The sound of cloggers will also resound from the stage during the concert scheduled for 5-7:45 p.m. Saturday, July 27.

Dance All Night, a group of Northern Michigan clog dancers, will perform dances originated in several different parts of the world.

"Our shoes become the percussion instrument," a group spokesman said of their performance. "We play our feet."

The group wil include a French-Canadian and English waltz clog, danced in wooded shoes from England, as well as Appalachian clogging and Irish step-dancing.

Members of the groups include Jeannine Sladick, Patricia Reeser, Daniel Gorno, and Mykl Werth.

Water intake contractor goes belly up

Corps fires Union Indemnity, puts project up for bids again

by DOUG TRUAX

The financially beleaguered contractor building Charlevoix's new water intake system has been fired by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

On Friday the Corps told Union Indemnity Insurance Co. of New York that it was removed from the job. New bids for the project have been sent out and will be opened Monday, Aug. 5.

"Union was going nowhere," said the Corps' District Counsel Alan Shapiro. "We had to bite the bullet and default them."

Union Indemnity, a bonding company, assumed responsibility for the intake structure after South Shore Equipment of Avon, Ohio, failed to complete work by a Jan. 1, 1985 deadline. The bonding company then rehired South Shore to complete the project by June 15. Work on the project stopped again in mid-June when Union Indemnity filed for bankruptcy in New York.

A special decision of the New York Supreme Court granted the Corps' request that funds be provided to Union Indemnity for the exclusive purpose of completing the water intake system.

That attempt failed, the Corps said, because of the insolvency of the bonding company. "Union is belly up," Shapiro concluded.

"The mission now," he added, "is to get new drinking water for Charlevoix. In military terms, we are under orders to 'take the hill'."

He noted that the Corps' decision to fire Union will not be without repercussions – there has already been talk of lawsuits. "But we cannot allow that to cloud the issue," Shapiro said. "People could be harmed unless we get this (new water system) in."

Shapiro said that the job would go to "the lowest responsive, responsible bidder."

"The number of things that have gone wrong on this job is staggering," Jack Kratzmeyer, EPA project coordinator, said, reflecting on the situation."The tragedy of this is that so much of the work is done."

Kratzmeyer added that the Aug. 5 date for new bids is "an extremely short time period" and that he thought the work remaining – mainly trenching and the installation of the pipe – was "pretty straightforward."

The new contractor will have 45 days to complete construction once it has been given a "notice to proceed" from the Corps.

Kratzmeyer stopped short of predicting when exactly the work would be done. "I am confident that this action will..." He could find no words to complete the thought or, remembering the history of the project, thought it safer to leave a comfortable margin for error.

Bids for the principal part of the project, the water treatment plant itself, are to be opened in Detroit at 2 p.m. Wednesday, July 31.

Election primaries slated for city

Charlevoix voters will have a chance to go to the polls on Tuesday, August 6, to vote in the city's primary election.

At stake are spots for city council on the November ballot in two wards. In the First Ward, incumbent Mike Greeley faces Norm Probert and Lee Barta. In the Third Ward, Earl Muma, incumbent, is opposed by Tom Black and Paul Burlew.

The candidates and their views on some of the issues follow:

First Ward

Mike Greeley, 37, is the owner of the Wharf Side Market on Bridge Street. He has served one two-year term on council. Greeley says he is running for council again "to continue things we have started to do." Among those projects, he says, are the new city park on Ferry Avenue, the improvements in the city infrastructure, developments in the downtown area, and the new industrial park.

Michael Greeley

Among future items for council to consider, he says, is separation of the storm and sanitary sewers on the Norman Probert, 48, has been a secondary teacher for 20 years and is currently teaches at the Middle School. He coached wrestling for 15 years and supervised wrestling tournaments in Charlevoix for nine years.

Norman Probert

Probert says he has attended City Council meetings since giving up coaching in 1981 and believes he "can make a contribution to the city of Charlevoix.

"f think this is an outstanding community and I'd like to see it keep growning," he adds.

He would like to work toward a "lot better feeling of cooperation with Charlevoix Township and other surrounding townships." Among the key issues in the First Ward, Probert says, is to see some sort of industrial park developed, either at its current site or the airport. "f think Lee Barta, 35, is assistant vice president of the Charlevoix County State Bank. He has lived in Charlevoix since 1967 and is making his first run for public office.

Leland Barta

"I didn't agree with some of the things the person in my ward was saying and doing," says Barta of his motivation for running for council. "Either you find someone to run or you run yourself."

The issue he sees as paramount is aid to business. "Business could be helped a little more, which in turn would draw more people to our

Third Ward

Earl Muma, 52, is Emergency Services Director for Charlevoix County. He has lived in Charlevoix County since 1947 and the City of Charlevoix since 1952. He has served on City Council continuously since his first term in 1974 with the exception of two years when he made an unsuccessful bid for mayor.

F. Earl Muma

Muma says he is running again because "I enjoy what f'm doing. f

Tom Black, 22, has lived in Charlevoix for one year and is a clerk at the Charlevoix Co-op True Value Hardware. This is his first attempt at public office.

Thomaa Black

"Ever since I have been here I have heard that city council doesn't represent people, doesn't check with the people," Black comments. "If we fail on the city level, the state and federal levels are surely going to fail."

He says that if elected he will try and check with people in his ward before making decisions. "City government should be much closer to those it represents," he says.

Black says he has heard many complaints about things being tied up in council. "We need to clear out some communication channels and tie it back together again," he states.

He believes problems facing council are often the result of a lack of research. "If people don't want to work at the job, why did they run."

Black supports efforts to expand

Paul Burlew, 62, is self employed as the owner of Accents by Burlew and has lived in Charlevoix for five years. This is his fourth time as a candidate for City Council.

"I think there are some things that need attention that haven't been getting it," Burlew says of his run for council. "Today the council is loaded with people who have been here ad infinitum."

Burlew says he would like to see "some things that need to be done other than business – things that affect the general livelihood of the people who are here all the time."

Paul Burlew

He cites as an example of those concerns the recently installed 25 mph speed signs on Bridge Street south. "There is no real attention to enforcing this area," he says, adding that the situation is further confused by a 35 mph sign in front of MacDonalds, one block ahead of the 25 mph sign.

He would also like to see white pedestrian lines and a traffic signal on the south side of downtown. Kids crossing the road during lunch

New Venetian queen

The new Miss Charlevoix and Venetian Queen is Mary Camilleri. She was picked at the annual Venetian queen pageant Thursday at Charlevoix High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Camilleri of Boyne City Road.

A 1985 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Camilleri intends to study veterinary medicine at Michigan State University. She performed a flute solo in the talent segment of the queen competition.

Cheryl Hartnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Allard, was voted Miss Congeniality. Other contestants were Karolyn Bearss and Kristin Foster.

Chicago Club tax rollback accepted

Units of government and schools have agreed not to press for a rehearing of the Chicago Club tax appeal for the years 1980 and 1981.

Acting on the advice of their respective law firms, the various units (the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Charlevoix School District and the Char-Em Intermediate School District) have agreed to accept the Tax Tribunal's decision and await the results of the club's appeal regarding the years 1982-85.

The valuation placed on the Chicago Club property by the city's appraiser was $977,300 in 1980 and $1,006,400 in 1981. The Michigan Tax Tribunal rolled the valuation back to $575,000 for both years. These figures were later upheld by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The 1985 assessment on the property was $1,135,700. If the city loses the second appeal, it will have to reimburse Chicago Club another $29,978.38, Michael Wiesner, city manager said.

The other taxing units, the school district, and county and the intermediate school district stand to be hardest hit by the results of the appeals, Wiesner added.

The total payback for the other taxing units for years 1980 and 1981 will be an estimated $28,256.64. For the years 1982-85, the figure would

Sorenson charged with negligent homicide

Timothy Brent Sorenson, 36, of Ellsworth is scheduled to appear in 90th District Court at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6, for arraignment on a negligent homicide charge in the death of a passenger in the Sorenson car in a one-car accident on July 20.

Steven B. Kidder was a passenger in the Sorenson vehicle when it was involved in the accident on the Deer Lake Road at 5:10 p.m. July 20. Kidder was dead at the scene.

Sorenson was charged at the time of the accident with drunk driving. However, that charge has now been dropped.

Sorenson was released Thursday on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Sports Roundtable to discuss history

The Charlevoix Historical Society will feature a special program to be knows as the Charlevoix Sports Roundtable at its regular meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6.

Former coaches and athletes have been invited to serve as a panel to lead the discussion relating to all types of sporting events in the community including skiing, bobsledding, independent sports such as the Polar Bears as well as high school sports from its early days until 1960.

All sports-minded persons are invited to attend the meeting. However, a special invitation is being issued to those who participated on high school teams or in sports not affiliated with the school, Louis Orlowski, society president, emphasized. "Sports have always played a major role in Charlevoix. The Charlevoix Historical Society would like to call attention to this in the Aug. 6 program," Orlowski said in announcing the meeting.

The meeting will be held at Harsha House, 103 State St., at 8 p.m. on Aug. 6.

REASONABLE ZONING ORDINANCES BENEFIT EVERYONE

The Walloon Lake Association supports Hayes Township in Zoning Litigation

The trustees of the Walloon Lake Association are solidly behind Hayes Townsbip in its opposition to the litigation filed against it by Fox and Associates in tbe zoning dispute at Oyster Bay on Lake Charlevoix.

Tbe Hayes Township zoning ordinances are reasonable and well balanced guide lines for preserving the environment, between profit motivated real estate development groups on one hand and extreme environmentalists on tbe otber.

These moderate zoning restraints benefit not only the land owners fronting on tbe lake but all land owners and others who enjoy tbe natural waters in tbe area.

All of us are striving for a world where harmony can exist between mankind and nature, a world where we can achieve the twin goals of economic development and responsible environmental protection. No one today can afford not to be an environmentalist — both for their own well being and that of future generations.

And finally, we ask: Is there a more reasonable and logical place from which the responsibilities of local land use guide lines should emanate tban the local political representatives of tax paying land owners? We of the Walloon Lake Association think not.

Meterman keeps the traffic rolling

Forget the excuses, he's heard them all

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Darrin Podskainy strides rapidly from parking meter to parking meter, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., daily dispensing bright yellow envelopes wherever the red "Violation" appears.

"On the 4th of July weekend, I gave almost 170 tickets one day, but I usually average about 100."

"They told me I'd be doing alright with 100 a day," Charlevoix's meterman laughs with embarassment.

"Is that a quota? A hundred paking tickets a day?" he was asked.

"Guess so," he shrugged.

Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol denies Podskainy has a parking ticket quota. "If there's a quota, it's a self-imposed quota."

But downtown regulars recognize Podskainy's efficiency.

"We have such an efficient meterman," Chamber of Commerce Director Claudia Kennifeck observed.

"We just watch the reaction of people when they come back and find those yellow tickets on their windshield. I don't think people resent it. They expect to pay for parking," Kennifeck laughed.

Charlevoix's parking meters go into action on the 15th of every June and come down, just ahead of the first snowplows, about October 1st. Year-round residents generally collect a few tickets before they readjust their parking habits.

Some people never adjust. A few let Podskainy know how they feel, some rip up tickets (that means a $10 fine in October when the computer finds you) and some would rather pay than walk a few extra blocks.

"We have some pretty heavy violators," Kennifeck acknowledges.

City officials and merchants agree with Chief Mol: "The object of the parking meters is to keep parking moving - not revenue.".

In 1984, revenues from parking meters amounted to $13,128. Fines accounted for another $4,700.

As Podskainy strode down Bridge Street, Sherry Withera, co-owner of Village Inn Pizza commented, "He's doing a good job. We have a terrible time keeping business people from parking on Bridge Street."

Jim Mabee, at The Clothing Company, agreed, "I love him. He's efficient. The parking meters keep merchants from parking on Bridge Street."

Mike Greeley admitted, "I have fun watching the expressions of locals wben they get their first ticket.

"But the purpose is to keep people moving downtown, and that's important," Greeley said.

Podskainy figures he has heard most of the possible excuses by the end of July.

"Hey, I'm coming. Wait."

"I was out of change."

"Don't you know who I am? You can't do that to me."

"The meter must be broken."

"Don't do that. That's not nice on such a pretty day."

Some encounters amuse the 19-year-old college student. He seems to enjoy a quick banter with people he tickets.

"The good thing about this job is that the Police Department is behind me 100 percent. They told me, 'Never apologize for a ticket'."

Attitude and tone of voice are Podskainy's subjective measurements in deciding one of those close calls. A sense of humor helps.

"If some fellow shouts at me, 'Don't ticket that car,' I will generally ticket it," he said, explaining that a plausible excuse and a gentle approach can persuade him to stop in mid-ticket, although it always looks as if he is a bit sorry to give up a good catch.

"Sometimes I get into foot races with people I know. They see me, look at their car and start running. Usually I beat them to the car and usually I let them go," he laughted.

Podskainy wants the public to know that the stick he sometimes carries is a chalk stick, for marking curbs, not a club, that he spends a lot of time helping people, that 80 percent of the people tell him he is doing a good job, and that switching "Out Of Order" signs from one meter to another may be funny, but it does not work.

New school formed

Organizers of a new Christian school in Charlevoix expect to start operation this fall with classes for kindergarten through grade 6.

The school, to be called Sure Foundation Christian School, is holding registration from July 29-31. Classes will be held at the Assembly of God Church on M-66.

"We feel that the kids aren't getting everything they should in the public schools," Earl Weir, president of the new school board said.

Weir notes that the new school will be nondenominational and has the support of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association. The christian school hopes to add one grade per year so that children enrolled now will be able to stay enrolled through high school graduation.

Weir said he expects from 15-20 children in the school the first year. Jim Crowell, currently a teacher in Boyne Falls, has been hired as administrator and principal of Sure Foundation. One additional full-time teacher will be hired, Weir explained, for each 15-20 students enrolled.

The school schedule will be similar the that of the Charlevoix public schools. The curriculum to be used was developed by Alpha Omega in Arizona.

In addition to Weir, members of the new school board include Steve Stargardt, vice president; Theda Williams, secretary; Steve Goebel, treasurer; and members Chuck Britten, Carri Henniser, and Pat Lietner.

Art Fair here soon

Some 110 artists will converge on Charlevoix's East Park on Saturday, August 10, for the annual Waterfront Art Fair.

That day the park will be filled with fine art in all forms – paintings, sculpture, exquisite jewelry, blown glass, etchings, ceramics, photography, weavings – a panoply of color and form, backed by the masts of the yachts in the harbor.

Twenty-seven years ago the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair was founded by a small committee of year-round and summer visitors. They hoped that by bringing fine art to northern Michigan they would stimulate local artists as well as create an exciting cultural event.

They did that and more. Now some 900 artists enter the competition for acceptance to the show. From that number the jury selects just over 100 exhibitors.

Art Fair day now accounts for more money being spent in Charlevoix than any other day of the year.

Charlevoix has developed a year-round community of fine artists who first came north because of the fair. They include: Sue and Russ Bolt, Linda Beers and Jerry Aydlott, Bonnie Staeffel, and Barbara Godwin. Norman and Judith Brumm and many others have also chosen to move north and open studios.

Among the 110 artists exhibiting this year in Charlevoix on August 10 is Mike McConell, who is described by on of his avid collectors, Attorney William McTaggart of Boyne City as having "miraculous control of watercolors."

Other artists include Corinne Workmaster who creates white on white dimensionalized paper paintings; Henry Benson, internationally known Impressionist; John Church, jeweler; Dee Knot, watercolorist. And there will be dozens more outstanding artists, some well known, some about to be "discovered" who will be displaying their works at the art fair.

Brownie summer fun at Ferry Beach

A fun day of games, water activities, and swimming is being offered to Brownie Girl Scouts entering the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th grades.

The activities will take place August 26 and 27 at Ferry Beach on Lake Charlevoix from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The cost of the program is $6.50. For further information call Sarah Boss evenings at 547-5858 before August 3, 1985.

north side of town. He believes action should also be taken on the new fire station ("with the agreement of the voters," he adds), the relocation of the Post Office, and work in the downtown area under the Tax Increment Financing program.

Greeley believes that "council is functioning a lot better now. Council understands the city manager form of government better. We are planning ahead instead of reacting to present situations."

His general philosophy on council, Greeley says, is "thinking before you vote, understanding how it effects the future of the city." He cites as an example the proposed apartment complex on Petoskey Avenue. "The voters did not want the apartments to happen, but when you have the city attorney's opinion that you are going to lose in court and it could cost the city $100,000, I had to vote yes."

the best place for the industrial park would be next to the airport," he adds, "but the city doesn't own it."

He does not want to see strip zoning in the area.

Among his chief concerns is financing. "I will strive to keep a close eye on city finances as a homeowner and taxpayer," he says. Probert is concerned with the letting of city contracts without bids and believes that "we should spend a lot of our money locally."

Probert says he would also like to keep "a close watch on toxic, environmental, and solid waste pollution."

"I believe I can be a voice for the people of the First Ward with an eyue on the future and what is best for the community, he concludes.

area," he says.

Barta says he disagrees with the decision not to provide the mayor with an office. "We elected him so that people with ideas or problems could go to him. He should be a tittle more accessible with an office," Barta says.

His general philosophy toward government is conditioned by his six years as an umpire of summer softball games, Barta adds. "I have learned how to deal with people who disagree with me, but have also found that afterwards you can still be friends and respect each other's views."

saw a need a long time ago for someone who wants to be a good representative."

The council, he says, needs to "hold things down to where this is a good place to live." Future priorities, he adds, should include seeing that the water treatment plant is in and operating. He would also like to "finish the Ferry Avenue Beach acquisition without dragging our feet." The city should see that the land is purchased, Muma adds, even if the state's land trust does not pay for its purchase.

He cites the need to extend sewers to more homes as a future city project, along with the separation of sewers on the north side. Muma would like to see a conference ceoter in Charlevoix and believes that the town needs clean industry to keep people here.

"The Downtown Development Authority should have parking as its number one concern," Muma notes.

A councilman is no better than the people who elect him and call on him, Muma says. He thinks people who are unwilling to get involved should not criticize.

business in Charlevoix, to keep people here in winter as well as during the summer. "I want to make sure that the beauty of Charlevoix is enhanced while we are getting all of this 'progress'," he adds.

He has attended council regularly since coming to Charlevoix, Black says, and believes that "If my candidacy can just get out the vote, then to me it was worth it."

The Third Ward, he says, is the 'forgotten ward' and "99 percent of the action is elsewhere." He would like to focus more attention on the Third Ward if elected.

breaks at school are put at risk by the lack of proper crossing areas, Burlew says.

Another issue of concern, he notes, is sidewalks in the area. "I haven't seen anything this year. It should be an ongoing program."

In the winter, he adds, people are forced to walk in the road.

Burlew says he would "sure like to see people vote. There is great voter apathy, especially in the primaries and during an off year."

Letters to the Editor:

McSauba scholarships appreciated

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the special education students at the Charlevoix Elementry HIP Program I would like to thank Jack Gebott and his staff at Camp McSauba for the numerous scholarships presented to these children in order that they may attend the Day Camp. These scholarships provide many children with a camping experience they may not otherwise have been able to participate in.

Jack and his superb staff deserve the highest of praise and recognition for all of their efforts in making the summer enjoyable, educational and constructive for so many many young children. They are providing a prime environment conducive to healthy social and emotional growth in children which is a treasured gift in these times. Their support and understanding of the special needs of all children make Camp McSauba a very special place run by very special people.

Tunnel under the straights

Dear Editor:

In your issue of the Courier July 17 I was intrigued by the letter of Bob Miles about a tunnel to relieve the traffic problem. I was reminded of the Michigan Tunnel Authority formed by state and county employees to construct a tunnel under the Straits of Mackinac (prior to the building of the Mackinac Bridge). It was to start at Ellsworth and end at Rudyard, allowing a free car wash as you passed under the Straits.

My solution would be a bridge to start at Garfield and end at Prospect, with a 150' height when crossing the channel which would cover the beight necessary for all yachts and sailboats. At the top, you could view the Islands and the Big Mac Bridge on a clear day, and the cost would be less than the Zilwaukee Bridge or the People Mover in Detroit.

Mr real reason for writing this letter is a bit of nostalgia concerning the postcard submitted by Mrs. Arthur Edward of the bayou on the Belvedere. As a youngster it was the summer job for my two brothers and me to rent rowboats. My dad obtained the concession from the Belvedere and we had twenty rowboats that we rented for 25 cents ao hour of $1.25 for the day. We operated in the summers in the early 1900s.

Good neighbor policy urged in Nicaragua

Dear Editor:

Back in the early part of this century, there were forward-looking men and women working for equality of the sexes a the polls. Incredible as it seems to us in the 1980s, there were also some sincere womeo as well as many men who were opposed to woman suffrage.

Some of these women organized public meetings and rallies, including a sizeable demonstration in New York City; several thousand strong they marched down Broadway carrying signs, reading "A Woman's Place is in the Home" and chanting anti-vote messages.

Apparently they saw no inconsistency between their slogans and their activities - after all, a woman can not be holding aloft a placard in the street while cooking dinner in her kitchen at home. And incredibly now, there are many well-meaning Americans who see no inconsistency in our government's strong denunciation of terrorism and the terrorist acts being committed by the U.S. itself. And as for the Reagan Administration, perhaps it is to justify past and possible future acts of terror against Nicaragua, that it is now accusing that country of being a member of Murder, Inc. along with Iran and Libya.

However, it is not Nicaragua which has mined our harbors - we have mined theirs; it is not the Sandinistas who have circulated "how-to" terrorist manuals, It is our own C.I.A.; it is not Nicaragua which is funding a terrorist group bent on overthrowing our government, it is the U.S. which is helping to fund the Cootras. Not is it the Nicaraguan Army which is massed on our southern boundary, it is tbousands of American troops on maneuver in Honduras near the Nicaraguan border.

Understandably there is frustration in Washington over our inability to deal effectively with the recent bombings, kidnappings, and hijackings. But, taking out our frustration on a small, weak country which happens to be nearby will serve no good purpose. It will merely create more anti-American feeling in Central and South America where there are bitter memories of our past interference in their affairs. A Good Neighbor policy will serve us far better.

Hoffmann property history

The Courier has recived a letter from Betty Hoffmann, widow of the late Dr. Walter F. Hoffmann, who, in 1983, deeded over his property at 103 park avenue to the City of Charlevoix "to be a park forever".

The letter contains information, taken from the abstract for the property, dating back to 1853, when the United States government sold the parcel to Abram Wadsworth. Mrs. Hoffmann's information is, of course, correct, and refutes in some places information which appeared earlier in the Courier.

The succession of ownership, as it appears in the abstract was:

1853 – United States of America to Abram Wadsworth; 1853 -- Wadsworth to Charles F. Bush, an undivided half interest; 1854 – Wadsworth sold his half interest to C.A.B. Pratt and Bush sold his half to John S. Dixon; 1858 – Pratt sold his half to Phebe S. Dixon (wife of John); 1863 – the Dixons sold four and a half acres (more or less) to Seth F. Mason; 1865 – the Dixons sold one acre to Philo Beers; (1866 – Village of Charlevoix platted by John Dixon); 1879 – estate of Beers to Amos Fox; 1891 – Amos Fox to Ella Fox; 1899 – Ella Fox to George F. Brown; 1901 – George Brown to Addie L. Brown; 1908 – Addie Brown to United States of American (lighthouse keeper's residence); 1944 – United States to Edward J. Smith; 1947 – Smith to Harry C. Knowles; 1950 – Knowles to Fern K. McIntyre; 1953 (beginning of second 100 years) – McIntyre to Dr. Walter F. Hoffmann (dental office); 1983 – Hoffmann to City of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Hoffmann adds that a plaque on the park property will tell of its transfer from the United States government in 1853.

Potato bugs

By Bob Clock

WHERE ARE the potato bugs this summer?

That's a question area farmers and gardeners are asking each other.

The little striped creatures that love to gnaw on the tender leaves of potato plants have all but disappeared from the Charlevoix area. I have only found two on our modest planting at the city gardens and they were readily dispatched with Sevin.

Other years I have had pulled them off the plants by handfuls.

Many gardeners have sprayed their plants out of force-of-habit; others have held off, reluctant to waste expensive insecticide if it isn't needed.

However, the dearth of potato bugs appears to be a local phenomena and probably has something to do with Charlevoix's long, cold spring. Inland, potato bugs reportedly are thriving.

Kathy Sulak, an employee of the Charlevoix County Extension Service who lives between Boyne City and East Jordan, reports a bumper crop of potato bugs this summer in her garden, even after soil treatment.

MAIN STREET is all a-twitter in Spring Hill, Tenn., the likely site for General Motors' new Saturn auto assembly plant.

With only 1,200 souls, the hamlet is only one-third the size of Charlevoix. But it will be expected to absorb a workforce of about 6,000 once the plant is in production — if Spring Hill wins the GM nod.

Spring Hill, incidentally, is only about 25 miles northeast of Mount Pleasant, Tenn., birthplace of Charlevoix's mayor, Hal Hill. If you drive from Mount Pleasant to Nashville, you'll go right through Spring Hill — probably without slowing down — unless one of the town's two police officers stops you and gives you a ticket.

SPEAKING OF MOUNT Pleasant, Tenn., Middle School custodian Jimmy Woodward, who hails from the same area, says the folks of Mount Pleasant have the most pleasing southern accent in all of Dixie. He claims residents of nearby towns sometimes travel to Mount Pleasant just to hear the people talk.

Charlevoixans, however, don't have to travel any farther than city hall to hear Mayor Hill's Mount Pleasant accent every Monday night.

Jimmy's right. The mayor's accent is easy on the ears.

A few weeks ago, a couple of fellows from Arkansas representing the Southern Baptist Church appeared at a council meeting to ask permission to use East Park for a Christian music concert. As soon as they started to speak, the mayor's ears perked up like boll weevils.

When the business was taken care of, Hill told the visitors to stick around after the meeting, "and we'll 'you-all' a little."

reach an estimated $73,256.18 with the Charlevoix School District having to pay back the largest percentage.

The school district will be responsible for approximately 60 percent of the payback, Vincent Olach business manager at the school, said.

The total repayment by all the units would be an estimated $141,711 according to Wiesner. Interest for the years the money was held will be added to that figure.

Olach, on Thursday, said that he was waiting for the county's equalization department to compute the totals for the school district.

Chamber Chatter

by Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

We hope everyone had as great a Venetian weekend as we at the Chamber did. Thanks to all who helped make it possible: queen pageant cochairmen, Sue Anne Wiesner and Candy Smith; makeup, Patty Sitzema; decorations, Colleen LaBlance; sound, Jim Boggs; dinner, Grey Gables Inn; flowers, Charlevoix Floral; gifts, Voorheis Jewelry and Fine Arts; photos, Merle Plagge, M.D.; printing, Seeley's Printing Service.

Thanks also to Dave and Ken at the high school who helped with everything.

Others the Chamber would like to thank Includa: street parade cochairmen, Sheilah Bogart and Georgia LaBlance; street parade committee members Suelane Hamilton, Sandy La Voie, Kay Fiedouk, Diane Novotny, Terri D'Angelo, Coleen La Blance, Carrie Richardson, Judy Russell, and Gayle Gennett.

Boat parade cochairmen Tom Hawley and John Ochs and committee members Judy Edger, Bob Schofield, Ken King, Comander Bob Young, and Roger Bush.

Thanks also to Dale Boss and Lois Orlowski who helped with the Charlevoix floats.

Not unnoticed was the help of the city employees, those who had booths and kept them so clean, and those who volunteered. Without the help of so many people this year's Venetian would not have been such a great success.

Special thanks goes to Dave Knight who was the Venetian Festival chairman. Dave was also responsible for lining up all of the outstanding entertainment that played in East Park during the weekend. Thank you Dave.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. John Fagan

Mr. and Mrs. R. Terry Kennedy

Eby — Fagan

Lynn Eby and John Fagan exchanged marriage vows on Sunday afternoon, July 14, at St. Johns of Nepoceme Church near East Jordan.

The bride, who has been making her home in San Francisco, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Eby of Charlevoix. Her bridegroom, who also lives in San Francisco, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fagan of Okemos.

Father Gemuend officiated at the single ring ceremony before approximately 150 guests. For the occasion, the church altar was decorated with bent twig baskets filled with white lilies, pink stephanotis, heather, baby's breath and alstrameria.

The bride's white dress was fashioned with lace and seed pearls on the bodice, a sweetheart neckline, lace sleeves, and a low back with bows. She wore a wreath of pink sweetheart roses aod baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of white lilies, pink roses, stephaootis, and baby's breath.

Virginia Eby assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Allison Townsend, Sandy Phillips, and Susie Stoever Fagan were bridesmaids. They wore off-the-shoulder dresses of ice pink polished cotton in ballet length. They carried sprays of lilies, heather, pink alstrameria and baby's breath.

Paul Fagan was his brother's best man, and three other brothers, Jim, Tom, and Mike served as groomsmen and ushers.

Music for the ceremony consisted of Bach's "Trumpet Tune" and "Trumpet Voluntary".

The parents of the bride and bridegroom hosted a reception at Nubs Nob following the marriage ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a vacation in the Charlevoix area, the newlyweds will return to San Francisco, where the bride, a 1973 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is Director of a Reading Center in nearby San Mateo, and her bridegroom is an attorney. They plan a trip to Hawaii in the fall.

The home address of Mr. and Mrs. John Fagan is 1935 Filbert Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94123.

Long — Kennedy

Kendra Mae Long and R. Terry Kennedy were married July 13 at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church in Lansing. The Rev. David Hooper performed the double ring nuptials before 200 wedding guests from many Michigan cities and Scarborough, Maine.

Mrs. Patricia Long and Lynn Long, both of Charlevoix, are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kennedy of Scarborough, Maine.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of organza over taffeta with a sheer yoke, fitted bodice of Wedgewood lace and pearls and renaissance sleeves with fitted cuffs. The hemline was bordered with Alencon lace and a deep ruffled flounce of Wedgewood lace, ending in a chapel length train. The bride's waltz length veil of nylon illusion as accented with lace and she wore a cameo brooch belonging to ber great-grandmother. She carried a bouquet of lavender and white roses, azaleas and baby's breath.

Mary Beth Thomas, soloist, was accompanied by Craig Galer on the guitar.

Mrs. Lynda Busick, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joyce Richardson, Mrs. Mary Ann Thelan, Sandy Kuchta and June E. Cronk. They wore lavender gowns fashioned with V necklines lace Bertha collars. Each carried a bouquet of lavender and white roses, azaleas and baby's breath. The silk flower bouquets were made by the bride's aunt.

Ringbearers were Mark Thelan and Joshua Busick.

Best man was Bob Konczal and groomsmen were Dave Wittstock, Mike Beauregard, Kenneth Kennedy and Michael Kennedy. Ushers were Stan Weber, Dean Fournier, Jeff Van Steel and John Crowley.

A reception, catered by friends of the bride, was held in the church hall.

Following rehearsal on July 12, a dinner was hosted by Jim and Ginny Joy at their home.

The newlyweds traveled to Seattle and British Columbia and are now residing in Lansing where they are employed. The bride works for MSU Clinical Center and the groom is employed by Burroughs Computers.

Engagements

Karen Ann Eskew and Roxy A. Van Loo

Eskew — VanLoo

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Eskew of Dallas, Texas announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Ann, to Roxy A. Van Loo of Austin, Texas. He is the son of Roxy A. Van Loo and Fay Stephenson of Charlevoix.

The intended bride graduated from Berkner High School in 1981 and later attended Richland College in Dallas. She is presently employed as a secretary for an engineering firm.

Her fiance graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1980 and manages The Fudge Company in Austin.

The wedding will take place June 7, 1986 in Dallas.

Seniors health exam offered

Health Screening Clinics for senior citizens will be held in Charlevoix County on August 6 and 12, the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging has announced.

The clinics are conducted at the East Jordan Family Health Center, 601 Bridge Street, and are performed by staff from the Charlevoix County Health Department.

Tests include, but are not limited to, blood pressure and pulse, hemoglobin or hematocrit, urinalysis, vision and hearing, weight and height, breast exam, stool guaiac, and complete physical examination.

A donation of $5 is requested, a fee well below the normal cost of the tests.

Appointments can be made through the Charlevoix Senior Center in East Jordan at 536-7831. Since only 10 persons can be scheduled per screening day, it is important that reservations be made in advance with the senior center.

Charlevoix Rotary formed

Charelvoix now has it's own Rotary Club. Under the promotion of the Petoskey Rotary Club, it has been announced by Charles F. Themm, the President Pro-tem of the Rotary Club of Charlevoix, that "we are about to file for our Charter. The club is now meeting (as a provisional club) each Thursday at 12 noon in the 218 Bridge Street Restaurant in Charlevoix.

"We are now planning our projects, have elected the board of directors and officers for the provisional club, and are conducting our regular Thursday nooo meetings as any Rotary International Club, complete with programs and other normal happenings," Themm said. "We are now receiving guest Rotarians from all over the U.S. at our club meetings, which is very interesting."

Themm added that the Charlevoix Rotarians "extend our heartiest welcome to all Rotarians that are in the area to meet with us on Thursdays."

Library throws party for summer readers

The closing party for the Charlevoix Public Library summer reading program will be Tuesday, August 6, at 1 p.m.

All kids who participated this summer by reading and filling out their book logs are invited to attend. "We will be playing games and eating cake and passing out certificates," says Librarian Marybeth Wallick.

Jazz pianist at Arts Center

Marian McPartland, jazz pianist supreme, will return to Petoskey and appear in concert Saturday evening, August 3, 1985 at 8 p.m. at the McCune Arts Center. Tickets are $12. The date marks Marian's second appearance in this area.

Aside from her piano keyboard mastery she is a successful composer, her music having been recorded by Peggy Lee, Tony Bennett, Ray Anthony, and Sarah Vaughan. She also composed the score for a prize-winning documentary film titled "The Light Fantastic Picture Show" which won an award at the Chicago Film Festival.

She started her own record company, Halcyon, issuing a steady stream of records on her label as well as others. She has written feature articles and reviews, hosted radio and television series and recently opened a fifth season of her Piano Jazz Programs as the recipient of the prestigious George Foster Peabody Award. The popular 13-week series, is a production of the South Carolina Educational Radio Network and is made possible by a grant from Exxon.

Since coming here from England in the late 1940's Marian McPartland has become a legend in jazz. She has appeared at clubs, and concerts throughout the United States, and made regular appearances at famous jazz festivals around the world including the exciting Montreaux-Detroit Kool Jazz Festival held in Detroit's downtown Hart Plaza in the Renaissance Center. McPartland has also performed with major symphony orchestras playing classical repertoire. An avid champion of women in jazz, she is currently writing a history of great female musicians in the jazz world.

Sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council, this event is the first in the new Performing Arts Jazz Series supported in its first year by the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Beach Boys will be performing in concert at the Castla in Charlevoix on Thursday, August 1 at 8 p.m.

Hand-beaded jewelry on exhibit at McCune

Poupine Thomas, a native of Paris, France, remembers "doing things with my hands since I was a kid." This month, her hand-beaded earrings are featured as part of a jewelry showing at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

Her original, high fashion designs are constructed using glass beads she imports from Paris. She began making earrings for fun, and discovered that people liked them.

"Lately I discovered I can make money at it," she says, indicating that what started as a hobby is now beginning to pay off.

The McCune Arts Center sales gallery is located at the corner of Mitchell and Division streets in downtown Petoskey. Representing the original, handcrafted artwork of over 150 Michigan artists and craftspeople, the gallery is open from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Venetian weekend in review

Venetian Festival 1985 took place under almost perfect conditions: blue skies, warm weather, and the usual abundance of activities.

Festival goers saw the new Miss Charlevoix, Mary Camilleri; took in a spirited parade down Bridge Street; and watched boats pass through Round Lake.

Saturday evening was capped by an impressive fireworks display.

Entertainment ranged from sophisticated big band jazz to downhome country music and clog dancers.

Petoskey team wins fastpitch title

It took three games against the same opponent, to capture the title in the 10th annual Venetian Fastpitch Tournamnet, but Petoskey's Budget Rent-A-Car managed the feat by a 3-2 score in overtime game here Sunday.

The Petoskey team first met Spartan Roofing early in the tournament and sent the Lansing team to the loser's bracket by a 2-1 score.

The Spartans clashed with the Petoskey team in the finals between the winners of the two brackets and shut out Budget 6-0.

Budget Rent-A-Car then took on Spartan Roofing for the third time and, behind the pitching to Tom Paul who allowed seven hits, won the title in the 19th game of the tournament. Bruce Miller, who took the loss, allowed five hits.

The game was tied 1-1 going into the ninth when Budget put two runners across the plate. The Spartans managed only one run in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Miller was named Most Valuable Player for the tournament.

In games leading up to the title game, Miller had allowed only two hits as Spartan Roofing shut out Rent-A-Car, 6-0. Ed Kullik, on the mound for the Petoskey team, had given up 11 hits.

The Petoskey team reached the finals in the winner's bracket by defeating the defending champions, Par-T-Pak of Boyne City, 3-2 in eight innings with Paul allowing five hits and Jim Potter, who took the loss, four.

In another eight-inning game, Spartan Roofing edged Par-T-Pak 4-3 with Miller giving up only two hits and Potter, the losing pitcher, four.

Dwight Boss, recreation director of the Charlevoix Recreation Department which sponsors the tournament, called it one of the best tournaments in tis 10 year history. "The scores were close, four games were won in extra innings. It was great," Boss said.

In the first games of the tournament which opened Friday night, Par-T-Pac, the defending champion, defeated Carpel Country of Coldwater 7-0; Cheboygan Knights of Columbus edged Little Ceasar's of Petoskey 5-3; Budget Rent-A-Car won over Akron Merchants 2-1; Spartan Roofing defeated Firebird Lanes of Clawson 2-1; Cheboygan KC's shut out Apex Polishing of Grand Rapids 2-0; and Budget Rent-A-Car defeated Miller Lite of Ann Arbor 2-1.

Par-T-Pac then sent the Cheboygan KC's to the loser's bracket by a score of 3-0, and Spartan Roofing followed them after losing to Budget Rent-A-Car 2-1.

In the loser's bracket, Caesar's of Petoskey eliminated Capret Country 10-2; Akron Merchants won over Firebird Lanes 5-0; Caesar's then shut out Miller Lite 1-0; Akron Merchants won over Apex Polishing 3-2; Cheboygan KC's knocked off Caesar's 7-0; Spartan Roofing, in their first game in the loser's bracket, dumped Akron Merchants 4-3 in eight innings before eliminating Cheboygan KC's 4-3 in eight innings. The Spartan Roofing team then found it necessary to stop Par-T-Pac 3-1 before battling it out in the next two games with Budget Rent-A-Car.

Between games, prizes contributed by the following businesses, were raffled to raise funds to send LaBlance Insurance, a local women's team that plays in a Petoskey league, to a state tournament: Oleson's Food Store, Kit Carson Lumber, Holiday Station Store, Charlevoix Co-op True Value Hardware, McDonald's of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Pizza Hut, Ace Hardware, Village Inn Pizza, Judy's Restaurant, Staley Hardware, and Linda's Dairy Barn.

Grey Gables downs Wojan, takes first

Grey Gables (5-1) defeated Wojan Aluminum (4-1) 9-6 in a battle for first place in Division I of the men's softball league in action Wednesday night.

Ray LaVoie allowed 12 hits to Jim Ciuk's 14.

Two games were played in Division II. In the first one, Glen's Market trounced Charlevoix Garbage 11-1.

Steve Leazier, as the winning pitcher, allowed only three hits. Bob Jones, who took the loss, gave up 13 hits.

In the second game, Simpson Electric won over Townhouse 9-4 with Alex Niedzialowicz claiming the win. He allowed nine hits. Bob Alexander, who took the loss, gave up 12 hits.

Paul Bunyan Lanes trimmed Swanson's 11-5 in one of three games played Monday, July 22.

Clay Jones aided the winning cause with a home run in a game that saw the winning pitcher Dan Gillispie allow 15 hits. Phil Skeel allowed 19.

In a second Division I game, Grey Gables defeated Tidy Car-Family Video 8-2. Jeff Drury, who took the loss, allowed 13 hits while Ray LaVoie gave up six.

In a Division II game, Wayne Sharrow hit an inside the park homer as H&L Softball Club dumped Charlevoix Garbage 12-1.

Mike Mapes gave up nine hits as winning pitcher to Bob Jones' 16.

In a game postponed from last week, Glen's Market defeated Charlevoix Garbage 7-3. Steve Leazier held the losers to five hits while Alex Niedzialowicz allowed 15.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

In games played Tuesday, July 23, Hoskins edged County State Bank 9-7 while Sally Ann Company defeated Townhouse 9-8.

Jean Duckworth as the winning pitcher allowed seven hits. Meda Kehrer, who took the loss, allowed 10.

Lori Holtzman pitched Sally Ann Company to a tight 9-8 win over Townhouse, allowing only five hits to Sherry McFalls 11 hits.

Foot race records fall

Three new records were set in the seventh annual Venetian Foot Race held here over the weekend, Pete Spieles, coach of the sponsoring group, the Charlevoix High School Cross Country team, said following the race that attracted 250 runners.

Jeff Orenth set a time of 14:08 in the 19-29 year age group in the 5 Kilometer race topping the old time of 14:35; Judy Nykirk of Traverse City bettered the former time of 22:35 in the master's division (40 years and over) covering the 5 Kilometer race in 19:57, and Howard Campbell of Charlevoix covered the 5K in the men's master's division (50 years and over) with a time of 41:25, bettering his record of 1984 which was 45:26.

This is only the second year that a master's division has been included in the races, Spieles said, adding that the interest is growing and that he expects records to continue to fall.

Results of the men's one-mile race follow: 18 years and under: Scott Miller, Charlevoix; Dave Ryan, Westland; Bill Miller, Boyne City; Time: 5:35.

14-18 years: Dave Knight, Cx; Todd Grammatico, Wyoming, Mi.; Time: 5:38.

40 years and over (master's): Terri Jones, trophy winner in the Women's 10 division: Bunny Nikamin, Cx; Marianne Barrone, Laingsburg. Time: 43:44.

In reporting the results of the seventh annual foot race, Spieles thanked the many people who assisted at the race and the participants who made it such a success.

The top three finishers in each race received ribbons and the person with the best time in the event a tropby.

Speiles also expressed the gratitude of the cross country team as well as himself to the fine support given the project by the merchants of the community who furnished refreshments and prizes.

Charlevoix Township sponsors soccer program

The youth activities program is sponsoring a soccer sign-up in the Charlevoix area on August 1 from 5-7 p.m., at Charlevoix Township.

Parents need to be present for the sign-up, their signature is a must before their child will be allowed to participate in the soccer program.

There will be a mandatory meeting for all parents of youth that will be involved in the program, on August 14 at 7 p.m., at Charlevoix Township.

Parents are incouraged to help out with the soccer program. At the meeting discussion will be held on volunteers, soccer rules, sponsorship and the like.

Youth need not be present for the sign-up or the mandatory meeting.

Boarders here soon

Sailboard enthusiasts are gathering here this week to participate in the Fourth Annual North American Wayler Championships on Lake Charlevoix Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Aug. 2-4.

They are coming from across the nation, from California and Washington, Florida and Connecticut.

Friday will be devoted to fun events, with Saturday and Sunday for races involving men and women, young and old, beginners and experts.

A party for all registrants will be held Saturday evening at Nanny's Old Place, 219 Ferry Ave. Nanny's will also serve as Regatta Headquarters for the duration.

During the four days preceding the Regatta more than 30 experienced boardsailers are perfecting their abilities in a clinic conducted by Major Hall, coach of the United States Boardsailing Team, aided by his wife, Sue, and members of the team, who will also participate in the regatta.

The U.S. Team has just returned form Europe where it competed in the LaGrande Motte Championship races in Southern France and in the European Championships at Travemunde on the Baltic seashore of West Germany.

"We were getting acquainted with the board which is to be used in the Olympics three years from now, for which we are now training," Hall said. "The Europeans have been using it for a year, so they had an advantage over us. Even so, we did well."

The fees collected from the clinics help maintain the training program for the US team during the next three years, Hall explained.

"The US Olympic Committee takes care of one third of our budget," Hall added. "The rest comes from what we can raise ourselves from activities like these clinics, from foundation grants and corporate gifts."

Hall was editor of Yacht Racing and Cruising Magazine, and his wife was an executive with Windsurfing International before they became involved with the United States Yacht Racing Union in training the US 1984 Olympic team, which won the silver medal last summer.

"Through their continuing efforts and plain hard work a continuing program for young people interested in sailboard racing and a possible chance to become representatives to the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea is now in existence," states Richard Lepman, President of GS Sports, Inc., U.S. importer of Wayler Sailboards.

Free exams

Parents and students are reminded once again that free physical examinations will be given by area physicians at the Charlevoix High School study hall on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 5 and 6.

Girls examinations are scheduled for Monday, Aug. 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Boys examinations will be given at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6.

This applies to all students in the seventh through the 12th grade who will be participating in athletics and cheerleading during the 1985-86 school year.

Members of the Dental Association of Charlevoix will also be present to fit mouthguards for those students who will need them. There will be a $3 charge to cover the cost of materials for the mouthguards.

Any student not having his or her physical at this time will have to make an appointment at a doctor's office because the Michigan High School Athletic Association requires a physical before a student can participate in any sport.

Coaches will be on hand to assist students.

Support the merchants who bring you the news.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

A very breezy Wednesday Night at the Races saw some unusual sailing maneuvers, close calls, panic hails and lots of red flags. Lots of exciting sailing as the winds held just at under 30, gusting to 40 throughout the entire race. Mint Julep, in Fleet 1 and Night Moves, in Fleet 2, walked away with first and second overall on corrected times of 1:28:56 and 1:27:28, respectively. Kritter was first to finish, just over a minute ahead of Mint J., not enough to save her time but ample for 2nd in Fleet, 3rd Overall. Just behind Kritter were Pygmalion, 3rd (4th OA); Slap Shot, 4th (5th OA); Plastic Fantastic, 5th (7th OA); Flylog Machine, 6th (8th OA); Charlie Brown, 7th (10th OA).

The balance of Fleet 2 trailed Night Moves by a mile, with Babe in 2nd (6th OA), four minutes back! Three minutes later, Merry Hell II held a solid 40 second advantage over Bandit to capture 3rd in Fleet and 9th OA. Following Bandit were Marantha & Canusa; Ribit croaked out (DNF). In answer to the Race Committee question, believe sail No. 1923 may be J-Hawk, the J-24, she was sailing with this Fleet and is not shown on the score sheet.

Despite the reputation of the P-26's as heavy weather movers, they were only able to beat the others in Fleet 3. The top pig iron, Tireless, was almost 9 minutes off the Overall winning time and ranked 13th OA. Still, that was enough for more than a minute lead over Blasen III, 2nd in Fleet. 'Way back were Foxy Lady, Flash and Spectre. Miller nosed Miller out of the cheap seat as San-Sue-She corrected ahead of Mike's Coronado 25 (Name it, Please!). No, don't name it; "Please", Please.

Maureen eclipsed the Jim and Main Fleet, whipping Coolwhip (2) by 5 minutes! Apothecary (3) drugged in a full 3 mintues later, singing a swan song to Cygnus's (4) hope of an in-the-money finish. Then there was Cheemaun (5), TiGi (6), Phonecia (7) and Sandpiper (8). Stalworth wasn't stalworth and did not finish but sure looks good, knifing through the waves in that kind of wind.

SYNOPSIS
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
July 24, 1985

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular session with all members in attendance.

The Board heard reports from Jim Moran, representing Senator Carl Levin, and Reino Nelson, field representative for the Michigan Association of Counties.

Resolutions authorizing fund transfers for the Treasurer and Grandvue were adopted as were resolutions supporting part time probate judges, accepting the contract of Healthshare Services for a wage and salary study, and approving a new hire for the Equalization Department.

In other action, the Board appointed Laurie Howell, District Court probation officer, and W.D. Schneider, deputy sheriff, to the Advisory Council of the Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services.

Complete minutes of the proceedings of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners are on file in the County Clerk's office and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

Ranger joins firm

Arthur R. Ranger

Arthur R. Ranger, eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. Alvin Ranger of Charlevoix, has joined Ranger Engineering Company as a licensed land surveyor. Arthur was recently notified by the Department of Licensing and Regulation that he had successfully completed all of the requirements for the practice of land surveying in the State of Michigan.

Arthur's father, Al Ranger, established Ranger Engineering Company in 1975 at its present location at 211 Bridge Street. The company specializes in the practice of civil engineering and land surveying.

Ranger's main responsibility at Ranger Engineering will be to expand the current surveying activities and to plan and supervise all of the field operations of the company.

Arthur is a fourth generation Charlevoix native. He is a 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Following graduation from high school he attended Ferris State College in Big Rapids, Michigan were he received a Bachelor of Science degree in surveying in 1981.

On graduation from Ferris State College he was employed by Wightman and Associates, Inc., consulting engineers, architects and surveyors located in St. Joseph, Michigan from 1981 to the present. While at Wightman & Associates he was second in charge of an operation of four survey field crews. His responsibilities included planning and directing the efforts of the field crews in accomplishing togographic surveys, boundary surveys, mortgage surveys, construction surveys, construction staking, subdivision plats, and condominium surveys.

He is a member of the Michigan Society of Registered Land Surveyors and a member of the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping.

He is married to the former Beth H. Ward of Big Rapids, and they are making their home in Charlevoix.

Hospice offers Mackinac trip

"Ticket to Adventure", a project of Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc. is now under way.

Led by a weekend for two at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, there are 18 prizes for lucky ticket holders whose names will be drawn on August 19.

There are also weekend vacations at The Harborage in Boyne City and Wildwood-on-Walloon on Walloon Lake, and for an athletic person, there is a season's ski pass to Boyne Country.

For those who like good food, there are dinners for two at 218 Bridge Street in Charlevoix, The Depot in Boyne City, Grey Gables in Charlevoix, Phillips Mill in Charlevoix, Stafford's Hospitality in one of three locations, the Walloon Lake Inn in Walloon Lake Village, and a luncheon cruise for two aboard the Star of Charlevoix.

For the thrifty, there are $100 savings bonds from the Charlevoix County State Bank, First National Bank and Trust in Boyne City, and Northwestern State Bank in East Jordan; and $50 savings bonds from the First State Bank of Charlevoix and Old Kent Bank of Petoskey at Walloon Lake.

And, in addition, there is a $25 gift certificate from the Boyne Avenue Greenhouse in Boyne City and a one year free movie pass to the Boyne Cinema in Boyne City.

"Ticket to Adventure" is the major fund-raising undertaking of the Charlevoix County Hospice organization. Since its founding in 1983, 30 volunteers have been trained to help care for terminally ill persons by relieving the primary care provider and doing whatever is necessary to carry the patient and his or her family through these trying times.

Tickets are available at the Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City Chambers of Commerce, all the banks in the county, from Hospice board members, and the Hospice offices, phone 536-2832.

Ribbon of peace to encircle Pentagon

UCC CHARLEVOIX
MICHIGAN

An applique panel sewn by Charlevoix's Carol Dutcher will join others like it to form a 50-mile long "ribbon" to encircle the Pentagon on August 4.

The event is being staged to commemorate the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan. The ribbon, part of a nationwide project that has been underway for over a year, addresses the threat of nuclear war by joining together 18 x 36 inch panels made with embroidery, quilting, applique, paint, and many other mediums on study fabric.

The individual panels, each bearing a unique sign of life, were sewn together to form the ribbon which was intended to circle the Pentagon.

The panel grew in size, however, and is now expected to reach the 50-mile length by the time of the event, making it long enough, as one Washington worker put it, "to cross the Potomac, circle the Capital building, and link up to the Lincoln Memorial.

Dutcher's panel bears the initials of the Congregational Church of Charlevoix. Several other northwestern Michigan churches will be represented in Washington for the observance. A special peace offering will be taken in the Congregational Church on Sunday.

Many panels for the peace ribbon were created during public sew-ins on Memorial Day of 1984 and 1985 in many county courthouses across the nation. Recently panels of the individual states were joined together and the 50 lengths are now being assembled in the nation's capital in preparation for the "tying on" August 4. The ribbon will then go to Chicago to reside permanently in the Peace Museum.

Levin's aide brings sad news, revenue sharing funds to end

by PEG OHLE

Jim Moran, Senator Carl Levin's roving ambassador, drove his mobile home into the parking lot at the County Building last Wednesday to spend an hour talking with the Senator's constituents and answering their questions about Washington matters that personally affect them.

This reporter confined her questions to federal budget matters, about which he was scheduled to talk to the County Board of Commissioners that evening.

So far as local units of government are concerned, the saddest news Moran had to report was that Federal Revenue Sharing Funds will cease at the end of the fiscal year October 1, 1986. These funds added $256,628 to the county treasury last year and enough in previous years to accumulate $843,720 in the local account, most of which will be spent this year, and thousands of more dollars to cities and townships in the county.

Counties, cities, and townships have relied upon this distribution of federal monies for over ten years. Each unit of government has spent the funds in whatever ways it deemed necessary. Charlevoix County's 1985 allotment and accumulated balance is being spent for General County Government and Public Safety, with $253,920 being held back for "Future Years' Allocation".

Since both the House and Senate have voted to eliminate Revenue Sharing Funds, they will definitely be discontinued. However, the Senate budget resolution, which must be coordinated with the House version, also assumes termination of several other programs:

Trade adjustment assistance to businesses, sale of Conrail, Appalachian development program, Economic Development Administration, urban development action grants (after 1986), work incentive program, Section 312 rehabilitation loans, U.S. travel and tourism program, and local rail service assistance.

Among the programs slated for reduced funding in the Senate budget resolution are Amtrak, Small Business Administration, mass transit, impact aid, job corps, student aid, National Institute of Health grants, postal subsidies, soil and water conservation, agricultural programs, energy research and conservation, rural housing, and veterans' health and housing programs.

Also, in the Senate budget resolution, Medicare-Medicaid funding is reduced by $17.5 million through 1988 and Part B Medicare premiums will be increased beginning with fiscal year 1987. Social security, veterans, and military and civilian retirement cost of living allowances are frozen for one year.

While House and Budget committees struggle to come to a meeting of the minds on a budget for 1986, Moran says Senator Levin is supporting, as he has in the past, a "shared sacrifice" program wherein everyone would share in program cuts.

Moran reports that about half of the people who come to visit him in his motor home have some kind of an opinion to pass on to the Senator and the other half ask for help with Social Security, Veterans' Administration, and other casework problems. Usually the Senator's office can assist with the request, according to Moran.

A native of Creswell, in the Thumb area, Moran is a graduate of Northern University and also received a master's degree in political science from Western Michigan University. Really the "eyes and ears" for Senator Levin in northern lower Michigan, Moran has traveled 5,000 miles in the motor home since the 5th of May. The vehicle serves not only as an office, but as a bedroom, dining room, and sitting room as he pulls into state parks or grassy areas along the side of the road.

Moran plans to come to Charlevoix once a month to talk with local people.

Petunia auction this Saturday

The Petunia Auction headquarters is beginning to fill up in preparation for the annual fundraiser on Saturday, August 3, at 1-3 p.m.

The latest item is a 1930 Model A Ford two-door sedan that was featured in the Venetian parade. The car has new white wall tires, hydraulic brakes, and sealed beam headlights. Starting bid is $3,800.

The vintage auto will be on display at Gaskin's gas station on Bridge Street until the auction.

Among the recent items received by the auction are: an overnight stay on Beaver Island including ferry passage, dinner for four catered by Tom's Cafe on the Mint Julep sailboat, fishing charter for six on the Blue Fin, sailboat ride on the 40-foot True North from Basket Fair, tennis lessons, musical entertainment, boat cleaning, gourmet dinner, golf lessons, golfing at Belvedere and at Boyne Mountain or Boyne Highlands, season pass to Charlevoix Golf Course, MacDonalds birthday for six, and much, much more.

Additional items can be brought to auction headquarters until 8 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 2.

In case of rain the auction will be held at the auction office on Clinton; if fair weather it will be held in East Park. There will also be a yard sale held in conjunction with the auction, beginning at noon.

Fire help appreciated

The South Arm Township Board recently passed a resolution extending "its deepest thanks" to the various fire departments that helped fight the fire at East Jordan Plastics on July 4.

The township expressed appreciation to the fire department of East Jordan, Charlevoix, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Banks Township, and Charlevoix Township. They also thanked the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department for its assistance in traffic control.

Industrial park work slated for this fall

by DOUG TRUAX

Construction on Charlevoix's industrial park could begin as early as this fall now that the state has approved a $285,000 Michigan small cities grant, according to City Manager Michael Wiesner.

Approval of the grant was announced by state officials last week. The funds will be used for construction of a sanitary sewer, water main, and drainage system for the park. The city will pay $100,000 of the project costs.

City Council approved the grant offer on Monday and had given prior approval (conditional on the grant acceptance) to the firm of McNamee, Porter, and Seeley to do the necessary engineering work for the industrial park improvements.

The engineering company will have six weeks to prepare plans ready for bid. Bids should be received by the second week in October, Wiesner said, with some sewer work likely this fall.

Wiesner said he was "elated" by news of the grant.

The approval came despite opposition by several Charlevoix Township residents who protested the location of the site near a residential neighborhood. They pressed their objections to the state's Commerce Department which administers the grants.

One of the first companies expected to locate in the park has dropped out. Bullfrog Light Co. of St. Charles, Michigan, a company which makes a unique brand of candle, was expected to the among the first new plants in the park. The company decided in mid-June, however, that it would locate on M-66 instead, citing delays in getting assurances that sewers would be built in the industrial park.

The site includes just over 20 acres of land that had been zoned public reserve until recent rezoning to industrial by the city council.

Two companies currently operating near the industrial park, Charlevoix Manufacturing Company and American Field Corporation, are expected to expand operations because of the anticipated improvements.

American Field Corporation, a subsidiary of Weather Shield Sports Equipment, Inc., is located on Petoskey Avenue and produces vacuum-formed hard gun and bow cases. Charlevoix Manufacturing Co., 400 Martin Road, makes master brake pistons for the automobile industry.

Wilmot Electric Co., 950 Petoskey Ave., expects to relocate to the industrial park on a 1.83 acre parcel that was rezoned to commercial. Wilmot currently installs and services industrial electric supplies and hopes to expand its operations at the new site to include the production of industrial control panels.

Jim Hodder, general manager of Charlevoix Manufacturing, says his company will put in an anodizing operation once the sewer is installed in the area. All the company's anodizing is currently sent elsewhere, he added.

"It is a good thing for Charlevoix, as long as they keep it light, clean industry," Hodder said of the industrial park. He estimates his company will put on seven new workers soon and four more in a year or so.

Charlevoix Industries currently has 51 employees in its 17,000 square foot facility. Although the company owns 7 and one-half acres, Hodder does not expect any physical plant expansion in the near future.

Charlie Wilmot, owner of Wilmot Electric, termed the small cities' grant "fantastic." He hopes to add five or six new employees at his new location when it is completed. A site plan and an offer to purchase are still pending on the relocation, with the site plan expected to go before council in the third week of August.

Wilmot said the grant would help to keep people in Charlevoix. "It is ironic that people move up here because it is a good place to raise our kids, then the kids have to move away because there are no jobs."

The proposed new site of Wilmot Electric is on Taylor Road, just east of Mercer Boulevard. Wilmot said it was an ideal site for a commercial electric company and that his business would would use Ance Road rather than Mercer to enter and leave the business site. The company will maintain a greenbelt to screen the business from the residential areas on Mercer as well, he said.

Richard Beagle, coordinator of the new Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance, said he was happy that the small cities grant was approved. "It is going to be a benefit to Charlevoix," he predicted. "The park site that is proposed will provide intermediate development potential," he added. "It is too small to think that it will meet long-term needs."

Beagle said he knew of no additional prospects for the park, but that "there was some interest from a couple of contacts." The Growth Alliance "will do some marketing once the park is a reality," he said.

The city's share of the park improvements will be paid through a loan from the city's Electric Fund. Of the $100,000, $30,000 will be repaid through industrial land sales. The remaining $70,000 will be repaid from a $500,000 bond issue approved by city voters in August, 1984.

Condo plan opposition formed

A group of area residents have been meeting recently to organize opposition to the rezoning of 40 acres of Lake Charlevoix property owned by Water's Edge.

The request to rezone the property from R-2 residential to R-4 planned unit zone originated with the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board where it was eventually approved by a 3-1 vote. An advisory vote by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission rejected the request by a 6-3 vote.

The Planning Commission cited ambiguities in the Charlevoix Township zoning code as a reason for its no vote and requested that the township rewrite the code.

The rezoning issue will be on the agenda of the Charlevoix Township Board meeting on Monday, August 12 at 7:30 in the Charlevoix Township Hall on Waller Road.

WATCH, Inc. (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) is among those opposing approval of the rezoning until the ambiguities regarding allowable densities are clarified. WATCH has taken out advertisements in the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News Review urging interested citizens to attend the meeting.

WATCH maintains that the section of the township code relating to density in planned unit developments (Section 7.4) could allow up to 600 residences on the tract. In its advertisement WATCH calls on residents of Charlevoix Township to "urge the Trustees to have the Township attorney make his legal interpretation of Section 7.4, specifically clarifying how many residences may be allowed."

They ask further that the developer accept this interpretation in writing. If as many as 600 residences are allowed, WATCH is urging a referendum vote "to have Section 7.4 invalidated and rewritten on a clear, acceptable basis as to density."

Jerry Puhl, a member of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board who voted against the rezoning, says area residents are also concerned with the effect of the development on the new sewer system under construction in the area and on potential marina facilities at Water's Edge.

"It would be nice to have a master plan for Lake Charlevoix that developers are going by and that everyone concerned about the lake feels it could handle," Puhl adds.

"Most of us realize that the property has the potential for multifamily development," Puhl says. "The question is the numbers."

Smith suggests attendance changes

by FRAN MARTIN

Proposed changes in the attendance policy at the Charlevoix High School were made by David Smith, high school principal, at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night. Smith proposed to cut the number of days absence allowed before a credit is lost from 15 per semester to as few as eight. Smith said be would prefer in-house suspension in lieu of dismissal from school and favored a new policy relating to pre-arranged absences and vacations and other changes relating to attendance at school.

He asked for input from the board and administrators present.

He also advised that the Petoskey High School would be sending 14 students to the Building Trades program taught in the Charlevoix schools which, combined with the number of Charlevoix students enrolled in the class, would mean a full program. The decrease in school enrollment had threatened the future of the class.

He reported that study halls at the high school would be eliminated and students assigned to various classes to complete their schedules. He added that the number of Language Arts classes would be increased from two to four to meet the needs of students recommended for the class.

A progress report on the work at the elementary school noted that the new roof and insulation of the building were more than half completed and expected to be done prior to the opening of school. The old boilers have been removed and the area readied for the arrival of the new ones in mid-August.

Steve Kehrer of Charlevoix Health & Fitness Center advised the board of tentative plans to build an indoor pool and asked that the board consider entering into a contract to include swimming in its curriculum. Max Novak, board president, said more information would be needed and was advised by Kehrer that he would provide it.

Council to pursue legal case

In a special closed session meeting, City Council Monday night discussed an offer from John Malpeli to settle a pending court case with the city over property on the north end of Lake Charlevoix.

Council Attorney Jeffery VanTreese reported after the closed session that council had rejected the settlement offer and would not give up deed restrictions on the property without a vote of the people.

VanTreese said council will ask the court to decide the issue of whether the 1978 city charter applies to the disputed land case.

The property in question, located on Lake Charlevoix just south of the trailer park on U.S. 31, was sold by the city to private individuals in February, 1957 as a part of a larger parcel of property that included the trailer park.

Deed restrictions were placed on the property by resolution of the council requiring that the property be used for a trailer park and that no more than two residences be built on it. Other restrictions provided for a clear view of Lake Charlevoix.

Malpeli bought the lakefront section of the property and has since sold parcels three individuals including Mike Bonelio, David and Soon Ladd, and Alecia Christoph. The city maintains there are three structures already on the property and that any more would be a further violation of the deed restrictions.

In other matters before the council during its regular session:

–Approval was given to a site plan for Irish Boat Shop to erect another boat storage building on a lot at the corner of West Carpenter and Norwood Roads. Approval was given unanimously, noting the Planning Commission's stipulation that the plan include mature trees and a berm to help screen the building from nearby residences.

–Contracts were approved for City Planner Gerry Harsch and City Assessor Bob Potter. Both were given 5 percent raises over last year's salaries and Harsch received another 7.05 percent increase to pay his own social security rather than having the city do so.

–Council took a preliminary look at a site plan for Wilmot Electric Co. in the industrial park. No changes were suggested. The site plan and an offer to purchase will be presented to the council in two weeks.

Don Carey retires, Gowell named coach

Don Carey, dean of Northern Michigan Football Coaches and a member of the Michigan High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame, has resigned as coach and teacher at the Charlevoix High School, positions he has held for the past 29 years.

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, accepted the resignation with regret and thanked Carey for his many years of dedicated service.

At the same meeting, Roger Gowell, 33, who has been associated with the athletic program in the Charlevoix Schools since 1975 and as assistant football coach for those ten years, was named as Carey's successor. In naming Gowell it was the concensus of the board members that the football coach should be someone within the school system to give stability to the athletic program in the school. Several applicants applied for the post, Max Novak, president of the board said.

Carey leaves behind him an enviable record of 162 victories, 73 losses and 11 ties. The record spans membership in the former Northern Michigan Class C League and the Michigan-Huron Shores League.

Carey, an alumnus of Charlevoix High School where he was an athlete on Rayder teams in the early 1940's, was among a group of 30 football coaches in the state inducted into the Michigan High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame at the University Michigan Field House in Ann Arbor April 9, 1983. The original 13 inducted were the foudning members of the association who were named to the Hall of Fame in 1982.

A native of Charlevoix, Carey served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He graduated from Alma College in 1950.

He coached basketball and was assistant football coach at Mason for three years before returning to northern Michigan as football coach and assistant basketball coach at East Jordan for one year before returning to his alma mater. During his early years in Charlevoix he was head coach in both football and basketball. In recent years he has been Junior Varsity basketball coach in addition to his grid duties. He also taught history.

Gowell, who came to Charlevoix as a math and science teacher following his graduation from Central Michigan University in 1974, has been a member of the coaching staff since 1975. He has been an assistant football coach since that time and, at one time, was freshman basketball coach.

A native of Shelby where he graduated from high school, he attended Grand Valley State College and graduated from Central Michigan University. He has a B.S. degree and 20-plus hours toward his master's degree.

He and his wife, Kathy, have two children, a daughter, four and a son, two.

Kids get taste of art in classes

by ANNE KELLY

Youth art classes, sponsored by McCune Arts Center and extended to Charlevoix children this summer, were small but successful, according to instructor, Jan Glass. Glass, who conducted a watercolor-drawing class for older children, was excited by the progress her students had shown during the four-week program. "The first class involved a first adventure in watercolors - just letting them experience what could be done in this media," she explained.

That included spattering, mixing colors, and applying paint to quality art paper. From there her students learned sketching techniques and learned to see what was around them from the artist's viewpoint. Among the young art students' experiences was a field trip to the yacht basin where they sketched while visitors wandered by, some peeking over the novices' shoulders. Other experiences included printing, applying color then filling in with charcoal sketching, and a final segment in drawing from their imaginations.

Instructor for the younger set was Vivj Woodcock whose sessions included silkscreening, printing, and papter mache.

The children's work will be on display at the Library this week. A continuation of offerings in art from McCune Arts Center may include an adult watercolor class this fall and a multi-media class for children.

Water plant bids are opened

DETROIT — Comstock Construction Co. of Traverse City submitted a low bid of $2,397,167 for construction of Charlevoix's water treatment plant, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said on Thursday.

Maria Valle of the chief-of-contracts branch said five companies submitted bids, all of which are fairly close to the government's estimate of $2,484,862.

Valle said the bids will be submitted to the corps' Omaha, Neb., district office for evaluation.

Leonard Karasek, a contract specialist in the Omaha Procurement and Supply Division, said it probably will take a week to ten days before Comstock is checked out and the contract awarded.

Valle said the other bidders were Indiana Construction Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind., $2,694,700; Triangle Associates (no address), $2,492,900; Lerner Linden, Novi, $2,583,400; and Franco Corp., Lansing, $2,609,000.

The plant construction will be financed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The city of Charlevoix will pick up the cost of increasing the capacity of the plant from 2 million to 3 million gallons of water a day. The added capacity is needed to meet peak demands and future needs. Voters have approved a $500,000 bond issue for that purpose.

Bids for the marine portion of the partially completed intake structure on the Lake Michigan shore will be opened in Detroit Monday, Aug. 5.

The contractor on that portion of the project, Union Indemnity Insurance Co. of New York, was dismissed July 26 by the Corps of Engineers. The firm had encountered financial difficulties and had halted work on the intake structure in June.

The corps is now deciding how to proceed with the shore portion of the intake structure.

Kaiser back at Medusa

Elbert Kaiser, formerly plant manager at Medusa Cement Co., is returning to that position effective August 12. He replaces Jack Schmidt who resigned on July 15 and has purchased Edwards IGA on Petoskey Avenue.

John Dixon, maintenance supervisor at Medusa, has been acting plant manager.

Kaiser initially joined Medusa in June of 1972 at the Charlevoix plant. In December of 1976 he was transferred to the manufacturing staff at the company's Cleveland headquarters. In mid-1984 he left Medusa to accept a position with Lone Star Cement in California.

Kaiser is a graduate in chemical engineering from the University of Michigan. Prior to joining Medusa in 1972, he was with Peerless Cement Co. for 22 years in various operating and staff positions.

He and his wife, Beverly, were active in community affairs when last is Charlevoix.

Watershed Council has attorney on staff

Gail Gruenwald was recently admitted to the Michigan State Bar and is now the staff environmental attorney for Tip of the Mitt Watershed Concil, a non-profit conservation organization representing over 7,000 families in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan counties.

Gruenwald is involved in many legal issues related to water quality. She frequently reviews waterfront development proposals to see if they meet state and local laws, including zoning codes, the Plat Act, and the Wetlands Act. She works with developers, government officials, local citizens, and other interested parties to see that water quality safeguards are included in the plans.

"I respond to a lot of citizen inquiries," states Ms. Gruenwald. "People often ask me to interpret a law or explain a legal procedure."

Gruenwald is currently doing legal research for Hayes Township's legal defense in a zoning lawsuit filed by developer William Fox. The zoning section being challenged limits housing density to one unit per 100 feet for shoreline. The intent of the code is to protect the township's lakes and streams, including Lake Charlevoix.

Gruenwald uses her legal background to help townships and counties strengthen their zoning codes as well. She helped Emmet County add a waterfront setback provision to their code this year, and worked with Burt Township on their wetlands ordinance.

"Gail is a valuable asset to our organization," states Carol Magee, Director of the Watershed Council. "She helps us become more effective at protecting the beautiful lakes and streams of Northern Michigan."

Gruenwald is a graduate of Oregon Law School. Following law school, she practiced law in Washington state, she returned to her home state in May, 1984 when she joined the Watershed Council staff. She took the bar exam last February and was ~~sworn~~ in by 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas in June.

Her new status allows her to offer legal advice and to appear in court.

Substance abuse meeting

A public hearing on substance abuse services in northern Michigan will be held Tuesday, August 6, from 3 to 5 p.m. This hearing, hosted by Community, Family and Children Services, will be held at the City-County Commission Room, 200 Lake Street, Cadillac.

Representatives from Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services will be available to provide information and receive public input on the substance abuse service delivery system in northern Michigan. For more information please contact Julie A. Shankland at Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services, (517) 732-1791.

Book sale at Library

Books are still being accepted for re-sale at the annual Book Sale to be held Friday and Saturday, Aug. 12 and 13, under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Women's Club.

The sale will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday.

"We will accept any kind of books, hardcover or paperbacks, new novels or old favorites," Lucy Witthoeft, chairperson for the event which is the organization's only fund-raising project during the club year, said.

"If you have one, 51 or 101 books to offer, we'll be happy to pick them up" Mrs. Wittheoft added. Call 547-6916 or 547-3675 for pick-ups.

Books may also be left at the Charlevoix Public Library in bags or boxes marked for the sale.

Petunia auction nets $9,000

The annual petunia auction held on Saturday netted $9,000, Bruce MacArthur of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful reports, putting it $2,000 above the amount needed to buy petunias for next year's planting.

It was also $2,000 above the previous high for the fundraiser, he adds.

There were 170 registered bidders for the auction and a crowd that MacArthur estimates at between 400-500.

The winner of the "glamour prize" of the auction – a wine tasting party for 24 aboard the 90-foot "Haggis" was taken by Charlie Wilmot for $950.

Of the total funds received, $200 was for cash donations, $200 for yard sale items, and $500 for T-shirts, license plates, and the like.

MacArthur adds that anyone with suggestions on how the additional $2,000 should be spent is encouraged to write to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, P.O. Box 1, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

United Way seeks new volunteers

The United Way of Charlevoix Board of Directors, in their meeting July 30, disclosed that presently funded agencies must submit their request for funds by August 1. The Board will review them at its August 20 meeting.

Organizations and agencies which are not presently members of The United Way, but feel they qualify for United Way support, may make application by contacting President Jim Marshall, 307 Michigan Avenue, 547-9619 or Secretary Kay Ball, 1032 May Street, 547-6816 by August 12, 1985. The campaign goal will be set in September.

A summer campaign to enlist the support of all summer residents is now underway. Any summer resident of the Charlevoix area who has not been contacted personally but wishes to contribute to Charlevoix United Way is asked to send their contribution to: Charlevoix United Way, P.O. Box 532, Charlevoix 49720.

United Way is also seeking volunteer help. "We have an outstanding board," said Jim Marshall "and we are looking for volunteers for the fall campaign. This is a Charlevoix area effort and we need people from the entire area to make it a success. Please call us and volunteer some of your time for the big push in October."

To volunteer call Jim or Kay at the above numbers, or contact any of the board members: Darrel Linder, Bruce MacArthur, Helen Emmons, Pauline Austin, Stewart Boat, Barbara Lane, Rebecca Myers, Nancy Porter, Robert Sooy.

Water's Edge rezoning is premature

On Monday, August 12, the Charlevoix Township Board of Trustees takes up an issue of critical importance to everyone concerned with the future of Lake Charlevoix: the rezoning of Water's Edge.

Developers have proposed a rezoning to "planned residential zone" in order to proceed with a condominium project on the property which consists of 40 acres of natural, largely undisturbed woodland and wetland.

The Water's Edge project has the potential to be the largest condominium development on the shores of Lake Charlevoix. Among the problems with this project is the fact that no one is quite sure how large it is going to be. The developers have steadfastly refused to discuss the number of condos planned for the property or the number of boats to be berthed on the water. Their argument has been that such details can be worked out in the site plan approval.

Waiting for the site plan is too late. All citizens with an interest in the stewardship of the lake deserve to know more before committing themselves to the development of the property.

Furthermore, as the Charlevoix County Planning Commission noted in rejecting the rezoning on an advisory vote, the Charlevoix Township zoning ordinance is flawed. It is ambiguous on the critical issue of permissible density in a planned unit development and it establishes few clear standards for evaluating site plans.

The Township would be ill-advised to approve a rezoning with such critical issues unresolved. We believe the zoning ordinance should be rewritten so that there is no doubt about the number of units allowed under planned unit zoning. Clear standards should be established for evaluating site plans.

In addition, the developers should lay their cards on the table regarding the size of the development they have in mind. How many boats do they expect to put on the water? How many condos will be built and where? This information is fundamental to any informed and logical decision on the zoning of the property.

Many other issues beg for a rejection of the rezoning at this time. The issue of whether or not this is an appropriate site for multi-family development has been dealt with in only the most cursory fashion. Several county and township officials have stated that it is. By what standards are they making their judgement?

The unfortunate fact is that there is no master plan for the management of Lake Charlevoix and there are few, if any, environmental assessments available to guide such decisions.

The Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee was formed with just that intent. In conjunction with the Planning Commission it is in the process of developing a lake-wide management plan.

The public would be better served if the developers and the Charlevoix Township Board waited for that plan before proceeding with the carving up of Water's Edge.

A prudent decision on Water's Edge requires far more information than has been presented to date. There is absolutely no reason to rush this project. If Water's Edge is to be developed in the future, let it be a model of intelligent land-use planning and public decision making and not another hasty decision to turn a buck at the expense of the environment.

We urge all interested citizens to attend the Charlevoix Township meeting on Monday, August 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Stroud Hall on Waller Road. Make your views known.

Letters to the Editor:

No more Hiroshimas

Dear Editor;

Forty years ago on August 6, Hiroshima was devastated and several days later another densely populated Japanese city met the same fate. The planet Earth had been ushered into the Atomic Age and its inhabitants were made hostage to a new and terrible threat.

Throughout recorded history, those in military uniform had been the chief victims of war. But now with the atom unleashed, the children, the sick, the aged and all living things are at risk, even the good, green earth itself. An all-out nuclear war would respect no national boundaries, no treasures from the past; it would mean the denial to the right to life of present and therefore future generations. It would be world genocide.

Those who hijacked United Flight 847 and held its passengers hostage, killing one of them, were terrorists who apparently thought they were acting in a worthy cause. Those who build and threaten to use nuclear weapons in what they perceive to be the national interest are, in a sense, terrorists also. In the one case they are fanatical individuals trying to achieve an objective; in the other they are nation-states trying to become militarily superior so as to be able "to negotiate from a position of strength."

Fanatics cannot be entrusted with hand grenades and nations cannot be entrusted with weapons of mass destruction. One of our Trident submarines carries more fire power than all the explosives which were used on both sides during World War II; and the USSR has similar juggernauts. It is as if we are all afloat on a sea of gasoline, with each of us fearful that somebody else will drop a lighted match. For our self preservation if nothing else, grievances against governments and disputes between countries must be settled in the World Court, not in a plane hijacking or a nuclear holocaust.

Locally, at noon on August 6 there were church bells ringing, not sirens sounding; during the evening on August 9 there will be flowers, not bombs, dropped into Bear River from the Lake Street bridge in Petoskey. These symbolic acts are to remind us of the sacredness of life which we must cherrish and the beauty of the earth which we must protect. No more Hiroshimas!

Rezoning challenged

Dear Editor:

I would like to make the citizens of Charlevoix Township aware of some facts pertaining to the rezoning of Water's Edge property on Lake Charlevoix:

1. Water's Edge on Lake Charlevoix is seeking to change the current zoning of their 40-acre parcel from R-2 to R-4 in order to develop the property and waterfront for multiple units (condos, townhouses).

2. The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board, which is an advisory board to the Township Board, voted by a 3-1 vote to recommend the change be approved.

3. The request was then forwarded to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission, which also acts as an advisory board. They recommend the zoning change be denied by a 6-3 vote.

4. The Planning Commission in recommending a denial of the proposed rezoning also recommended that the township work on clarifying the zoning ordinance so consideration could be given to density with emphasis on lake frontage.

5. The Charlevoix township zoning ordinance does specify in Section 7.4 that not more than 15 percent of the area of each R-4 zone may be occupied by residential buildings and that not more than 15 dwelling units per acre shall be permitted in this district. (It would seem then that 15 percent of the 40 acres would allow 6 acres for building with 15 units allowed per acre - 6x15 or 90 units on the property).

6. There appear to be some different interpretations on this ordinance with at least one point of view that 600 plus units could be built. (15 units per acre x 40 acres equals 600 units).

7. The site planners and developers have not presented any specific plans on units to either the zoning or planning boards, claiming they do not know what they will be doing.

8. The problem of density is the major concern that must be addressed and resolved before a zoning change is approved.

9. The area may be nearly saturated already with the following located in a three-quarter mile stretch: Foster Boat Condo, Northwest Marina, Irish Boat Marina II, the public Ferry Avenue bathing beach, a large boat launching ramp, Irish Marina I. There is a total of nearly 600 boat berths in this short strip of lake shore already being used.

10. The northern boundary of the Water's Edge property is approximately only one-quarter mile from the beginning of this high density strip.

11. In the past the bathing beach at Ferry Avenue has been closed for period of time due to pollution and unsanitary conditions.

12. Between bathers, sailors, fishermen, skiers, nature lovers, joggers, walkers, sunworshippers, and moongazers, Lake Charlevoix is for all.

On August 12 the Charlevoix Township Board will officially vote on changing the current zoning of Water's Edge. If you wish your input, opinion, and voice to be heard before it's too lake, plan to attend the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix Township hall.

Return of the potato bugs

By Bob Clock

POTATO BUGS are back by the zillions in Charlevoix gardens, and it is almost a relief that the balance of nature has been restored.

Gentlemen, man your bug-bombs.

Last week I was crowing that the nasty little creatures which love to devour the young leaves of potato plants had all but disappeared. However, after several heavy rains, the bugs have returned and all-out warfare has resumed.

I am dusting my plants with a 10 percent Sevin powder, which is not exactly heavy artillery among insecticides. But it does the trick.

I powdered my plants last Tuesday night and an hour later, when I had finished hoeing, I checked for survivors. There were none. A few victims were still curled up in potato leaves, but a close inspection revealed they were sleeping the sleep that knows no awakening, as they used to say in the obituary columns.

The surprising thing about potato bugs is that they don't seem to affect the quality of the potato crop. Of course, if they destroy the plant you won't have any potatoes. But if the plant remains relatively healthy, the potatoes will be OK.

I am also surprised that the bugs don't appear to have any natural enemies — except man. If I were a seagull flying over the city garden, I certainly would swoop down to see if there were any tidbits for the taking. But the only birds which frequent the city gardens are killdeer, and they apparently don't like potato bogs any more than I do.

INCIDENTALLY, the number of residents who are taking advantage of the city gardens this year is disappointing.

Many plots are not being worked and we suspect the dwindling number of gardeners may have something to do with the terrible condition of the access road. Gardeners risk losing mufflers, tailpipes and shock absorbers just to get to their allotments.

Furthermore, after tilling, the city more or less abandons the acreage near the airport to the gardeners, many of whom are elderly folks who cannot keep the weeds between the road and the gardens under control.

As a result, the gardens on the whole have a ragged, unkempt appearance — although some of the individual plots are beautiful.

The gardens — which were started in 1974 — also have suffered from a lack of promotion on the part of the city in recent years. What could be an attractive city asset is being allowed to die on the vine, so to speak.

I suspect that part of the problem is that no one appears to be in charge. I, for one, would like to see the gardens come under the jurisdiction of the Recreation Department, because gardening is a form of recreation, particularly for senior citizens.

In addition to road repairs and proper maintenance, I would like to see a sign erected near the entrance on State Street indicating that the gardens are a pioneering citizen self-help project on the part of the city.

Check around. The gardens are unique to Northern Michigan — and probably to the rest of Michigan.

Tour guide is mayor

The following letter was sent to Nancy Kaufmann and Claudia Kenifeck at the Chamber of Commerce:

Dear Nancy and Claudia,

The Rockford Area Senior Citizens had a wonderful time in your city Tuesday, and I want to thank you for all your help! I was amazed when I learned that our tour guide was the Mayor. He was great and all the Seniors enjoyed his commentry on the history of Charlevoix.

We arrived back to Rockford that evening feeling we had had a perfect day.

Writer on communism challenged

Dear Editor,

I have read many letters to the editor on the subject of communism, but the one of July 3, 1985 from Bernice C. Wexstaff has prompted me to answer. Perhaps some editorial errors made the letter unintelligable; I had trouble following it. In any case, the writer has some misunderstandings and I have some questions.

I know nothing of the "infamous" star she refers to which "advised Americans to pray for the advent of communism," nor do I know how she surmises, from the variety of methods people celebrate the Fourth of July with, the strength of their loyalty to this country. I am an avid movie goer, yet I also have no idea what film she refered to as purporting communistic "advice and cures for the agricultrual element."

I would like Ms. Wexstaff and others with her viewpoint to look a little closer at communism, what it is and what it is not. While it is true that this system has been used primarily by atheistic government leaders, this does not make it, as a system, inherently atheistic or inherently evil, just as a scientific discovery made by an atheist would not be inherently atheistic or inherently evil.

Communism and atheism are not synonyms. I must also disagree with her statement that political dissidents will "foist atheism." Some political dissidents are, indeed, atheists, but so also are some doctors, teachers, lawyers, parents, and even church members. If we look at what the Bible says about belief in God, ("You believe that there is one God. Good! Even the demons believe that and shudder." James 2:19, The New International Version) we see that it is not intellectual concurrance with the existence of God that constitutes being a Christian, but rather the receiving of Jesus Christ as one's personal Savior and Lord and obedience to Him. ("But to as many as did receive and welcome Him, He gave the authority to become the children of God, that is, to those who believe in- adhere to, trust in and rely on- His name." John 1:12, The Amplified Bible; "and, once made perfect, He became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey Him." Hebrews 5:9, The New International Version).

Lastly, I would like to point our that "political dissidents" as she calls them, are not necessarily bad for a nation. Surely, Ms. Wexstaff would confess the importance of "political dissidents", for the two-party system is based on the idea of loyal opposition. One does not hate one's country by virtue of the fact that one wants it to change, even drastically change. We have no reason to "learn to fear... our own dissident citizens." It is better to be active in polictical life, Ms. Wexstaff, and attempt changes than to be apathetic and ignore the need for governments to evolve and change to satisfy a changing people and meet a changing need.

Drinking youth get off easy

Dear Editor:

I recently attended your Venetian Festival, and had the time of my life. Charlevoix is beautiful and so are all the people that I met. There are some I'll never forget. But there is one thing that bothers me. Why do you go so easy on minors who drink and drive, and at the same time lean much harder on an adult who was in the possession of one illegal firework, a roman candle?

The police seemed to have had their priorities a little mixed up that night. They put the above mentioned adult in their police car, threatened him with jail, and gave him a ticket for possession of illegal fireworks. At the same time the police officer is stopping car loads of minors who are trying to enter this party, they're drinking right as they pull up.

Sure they were told to pour their beer out and asked to wait so they could be given a minor in possession ticket. Big deal! After they stood around for awhile and got their ticket, they drove away to go drink and drive some more.

Those kids were laughing because they were driving away with a lousy M.I.P. ticket and the guy in the police car might go to jail for having in his possession one roman candle. These kids weren't even give a sobriety test, and they were visibly drinking and driving, and some were visibly intoxicated.

What right do they have to turn those kids loose, when they could see with their own eyes they were drinking. What if they were in an accident caused by their drinking? Drinking and driving is illegal no matter what the age. Adults are put in jail for that and less.

Drinking and driving kills. And it's up to your police to enforce this on minors, just as they do adults. I just can't believe what I saw that night. I'd rather watch illegal fireworks than see a bunch of kids pulled out of a wreck caused by their own drinking.

Weddings

Mr. & Mrs. John Fratrick

Ferguson-Fratrick

The Ironton Congregational Church was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Nancy F. Ferguson and John Wayne Fratrick.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Mary Ferguson of Traverse City and the late Kendall Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Fratrick of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Harold Kruse officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 200 guests. Arrangements of gladioli graced the altar for the ceremony.

William Horton played a program of traditional music and the wedding march and recessional.

For her wedding the bride chose an unbleached muslin full-length peasant gown purchased in Italy. Pastel embroidery accented the bodice. An eyelet lace ruffle enhanced the round neckline of the gown which featured long sleeves with three-button cuffs. She carried a wildflower bouquet arranged by Carol Elliott.

Danya Drost, as matron of honor, wore a blue floor-length gown fashioned with a ruffle at the neckline, short puffed sleeves, and a wide obi sash.

Chris Drost assisted the bridegroom as best man.

A reception planned by the bridegroom's mother and sister, Carol Ward, was held at the couple's farm home on Shaw Road. A roast pig, prepared by John Martin, was a feature of the refreshments.

A fall trip to Mackinac Island is planned by the couple as a wedding trip.

The bride teaches in the Ellsworth School System. The bridegroom is employed at the Charlevoix County Road Comission.

The couple will make their home at Rte. 2 Box 123A, Charlevoix.

Obituaries

TED ORNDOFF

Funeral services are pending at the John S. Rhodes Funeral Home in St. Petersburg, Fla., for a local summer resident, Ted Headlee Orndoff, 67.

The Rev. Curt Hess will officiate. Interment will be in Menorial Park, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. Orndoff, whose home is in St. Petersburg, Fla., died July 27 at Ann Arbor. He lived at the LaCroft Condominium when in Charlevoix.

Born in Waynesburg, Pa., the son of Charles and Grace Orndoff, Mr. Orndoff was a graduate of Grove City (Pa.) College. During World War II he served at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio. He was a management consultant in Dayton, Ohio.

He was a member of the Christian Church, President's Honorarium of Eckerd College, St. Petersburg, and the St. Petersburg Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Imogene; a daughter, Janice Mills, and two grandchildren, Michael and Jennifer Mills.

The family suggests memorials to the American Heart Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Lee

Staley-Lee

Susanne Marie Staley and Lowell E. Lee were wed July 19 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. The Rev. David W. Yingling performed the double ring rites before 150 guests. Candelabra with white candles flanked altar arrangements of white gladioli, miniature blue carnations and stephanotis for the 6 p.m. service.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare L. Staley of Charlevoix are parents of the bride. The goom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lee of East Jordan.

Given in mariage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of sheer dotted organza over a taffeta skirt with a ruffled bodice and hem. Venise lace trimmed the bodice and short sleeves. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white rasebuds, lilies of the valley, miniature blue carnations and baby's breath. She wore an arrangement of baby's breath in her hair.

Wedding music was offered by pianist Steve Stargardt and soloists, Susan Baughman and Vincent Chew.

Matron of honor was Nancy Staley, sister of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Danielle Lee, daughter of the groom. The matron of honor wore a sheer off-the-shoulder gown of swiss dotted blue and white voile with lace inserted panels and a triple tiered lace neckline. The junior bridesmaids wore a long blue dotted swiss dress and wore a comb with blue and white daisies in her hair. The attendants each carried a bouquet of miniatrue whie carnations, lilies of the valley and blue forget-me-nots.

MacDuff Stewart was flower girl and wore a long blue dotted swiss dress and a comb with blue and white daisies in her hair. She carried a wicker basket of flowers.

Hank Anderle of Holly was best man and junior groomsman was Ryan Celaschi. Ushers were brothers of the groom, Leon and Carmon Lee.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride, was held at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. Assisting with the guest book was Vada Lee, sister of the groom. The gift table was attended by Donna Smith and Genetta Cole served the wedding cake. Helping with the punch bowl and buffet was Joanne Keller. Music at the reception was offered by guitarist, Laurette LaCrosse.

On July 18, the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner at Beach Haus.

Evans-Heusted

Ann Louise Evans and Paul Clifford Heusted were married on Saturday afternoon, June 29, at the Assembly of God Church of Charlevoix.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Evans of Ellsworth, and the bridegroom's mother is Mrs. DeForest Heusted of Atlas, Michigan.

Rev. Lowell Anderson officiated at the double ring ceremony before the altar. Floor standing candleabras decorated with greens and white bows sided the couple.

Approximately 65 guests participated in the service in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride wore a floor length gown of white satin and chiffon. It was styled with a chapel length train and fitted bodice with Venise lace overlay, pearls, sequins and satin brocade, a sweet heart neckline and Queen Anne collar. Leg of Mutton sleeves of Venise lace were overlayed with brocade lace, pearls and sequins. Her hat was trimmed with lace and pearls with elbor length veil trailing off the back.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses arranged on her Bible, bookmarked at Proverbs 31.

The bride's friend, Sherry Bergmann, was her maid of honor. She wore a tea length gown of clean blue aqua color, with a sweetheart neckline, natural waist and cap sleeves. She carried a single white rose.

The bridegroom was attended by Steve Miller his brother-in-law.

Music for the ceremony was provided by pianist, Steve Stargardt and his wife Sarah, who sang "Love Was When" and "Wedding Song."

A reception was hosted by the bride's parents in the church fellowship room. Sue Coen and Karen Kirschner were in charge of the cake. Ginny Miller served the punch. The bridegroom's nieces Carrie Miller and Becca Price attended the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's mother at the Village Inn Pizza party room.

Following a wedding trip around Northern Lower Michigan the newlyweds are at home in Grand Blanc, Michigan.

Clark School holds reunion

The Clark School reunion is scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 15, William Parsons, general chairman, has announced.

This year's reunion, the first in two years, will be held at the Barnard Grange with a potluck dinner at noon. Those attending are asked to be at the hall at 11:30 a.m. so the food can be prepared for the noon meal.

The Clark School was one of four schools located in Norwood Township and was among the first of the rural schools in the county to be closed. Other schools located in Norwood Township earlier in the century were the Norwood, Hilton, and McGeagh schools.

Brumm Showroom features etchings

by ANNE KELLY

The Norman and Judith Brumm Showroom, Charlevoix's gallery of nature inspired art, located on US 31 South, announces a collection of framed etchings from 18th and 19th Century England.

Discovered by Norman in a used book and print shop in Wales during a trip to Europe last year, the prints are delicately executed in still true-toned watercolors. Brumm has taken care to accent the prints from the collection in a complementary array of mats and frames.

Brumm, whose showroom is a delightful combination of museum and curio shop, displays the fruits of his and Judith's combined and singular talents and travels throughout the world. Items for sale and on display represent the Brumms' dedication to nature and fine art. To visit the showroom is to enter a world of carved ivory and ebony, exotic shells and rocks, curios from India, Africa and the Orient, and of course, the world of nature as found in northern Michigan, rendered in paintings and sculptures and enamel on metal.

"I have always been a collector," explained Norman Brumm. "I fill buildings with my collections."

Brumm admits that his collecting tends to go off on tangents - things that fascinate him at the moment or for a time.

So it was with the English prints.

"There's magic here," Brumm pointed out as he paged through a book on display in the far corner of the showroom.

"With 70-150 illustrations in each book, there's an unbelievable amount of labor involved here," he marveled.

According to Brumm, the books of prints were published in the 1700s and 1800s, an era in which Britain was celebrating her glory as entrepreneur of the civilized world. History was made in a rapid succession of discoveries as explorers made new discoveries for the Crown and collected in their wake a store of souvenirs and artifacts from distant and exotic lands.

A residual benefit of these treasures was the recording of a vast store of knowledge. Books were published which described and pictured the minutest details of birds, beasts, and flora encountered in other lands. They were some of the first illustrated dictionaries and encyclopediae in the world.

Copper engraving were used to print the pictures when the book went to press, but, since there was not yet a means to print in color, each rendering needed to be hand painted by artisans hired by the publisher for this purpose.

"I don't look through just one window at things," Brumm continoed, surrounded by the trappings of the collector, the artist, and naturalist.

I feel such a wonderful rich interplay in nature... I enjoy all these things and take a great deal of pleasure in finding people who enjoy them as much as I do."

Gourmet luncheon offered at Art Fair

The Women's Guild of Christ Episcopal will serve its traditional gourmet chicken salad luncheon at the church at State and Clinton streets Saturday, Aug. 10, Barbara Rogers general chairperson of the event, has announced.

The luncheon, held annually during the Waterfront Art Fair, will be served between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in both the dining room and outside.

The luncheon will feature the chicken salad, green peas, homemade muffins and cookies, fresh fruit, and a choice of beverage.

The price will be $3.50.

Charlevoix is theme of area flower show

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will present its biennial Standard Flower Show at the Community Reformed Church located at Peoskey Ave. (US 31 N) and Meech Street on Tuesday, Aug. 13.

The show, which will feature entries by all members of the club plus several special exhibits, will be open to the public from 1 until 7 p.m.

Theme of the 1985 show will be "Our Town: Charlevoix the Beautiful." The 1985 show will be dedicated to the protected wildflowers of Michigan.

Mrs. John Lane is general chairman of the event. She has been assisted by Mrs. James Block. Mrs. E.H. Leedy is club president and Mrs. AnnaBelle Webb is consultant and organizer of courses in preparation for the show which will follow the requirements and the objectives as established by the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

Four national judges and three student judges from throughout the state will adjudicate the entries during the morning hours of Aug. 13.

The show will be divided into several categories to emphasize the various interests of the club.

The Artistic Design Division chaired by Portia Crawford will feature four sections depicting the varied uses of fresh and dried flowers in various settings and for different purposes. These will be eligible for the Tricolor Award and the Awards of Distinction and of Creativity.

Marge Dinwiddie, Inge Ledahl of Boyne City, and Kate Brady head the Horticulture Division which features 12 sections. These are also to be judged for awards.

There will be an Educational Division chaired by Joyce Hosmer. These will relate to herbs, birds, and trees.

An Invitational Division will include the Wildflower Identification for children attending Camp McSauba and exhibits by the Orchid Society. These will be informational exhibits and will not be judged.

A State and National Objectives category will feature a photographic display of pictures taken at the Grass Lake Project taken by the Charlevoix Photography Club arranged by Bonnie Staffel. "Operation: Wildflower" featuring the Mt. McSauba Nature Trails and directed by Mrs. Webb. A display of publications including state and national magazines will also be offered.

A luncheon honoring the visiting judges will be hosted by Mrs. Joseph Moris, Jr., at her Belvedere Club home. Mrs. Leedy will be the cohostess.

In announcing the details of the second biennial show, Mrs. Leedy, club president, issued an invitation to all residents of the area, especially members of area garden clubs, to attend the flower show.

Mr. Lane, Mr. Leedy and Mr. Block have assisted with preparations for the show. All club members will assist with dismantling the exhibits.

Bus service resumed

Charlevoix will again have bus service that will make connections with buses coming into Traverse City and departing that city daily, Peter Gaskin, who operates the local terminal, has announced.

The service to Traverse City departing Charlevoix at 8:10 a.m. daily and making connections at Traverse City with southbound buses became available Aug. 1.

The bus that arrives from Traverse City at 8:15 p.m. daily will now continue north to Mackinaw City, Gaskin said.

The service is operated by Shortways/North Star Bus Lines.

It marks the re-instating of service discontinued earlier this year.

Further questions regarding the service may be directed to Gaskin's Standard Station.

Quartet plays in a unique 'hard to categorize' style

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

The members of Take Four say the greatest anquish in their mutual musical venture was finding a name. Nothing seemed to characterize their style, their repertoire, which wanders with abandon between the classics, country, folk, and Cole Porter.

No name would adequately describe this combination of talents and instruments, not to mention sense of humor.

Take Four has a four-week gig at 218 Bridge Street through August, playing their "hard to categorize," "uncontrollable" style, every Friday night, starting at 8 p.m.

On stage, in rehearsal, the improvisation is interesting, the harmony close, the sound arresting, the instruments an unlikely combination: violin, flute, guitar, and washtub bass.

"We simply exploit the fact that people love a good melody, no matter what it is," Dave Knight says with a self-conscious philosophical smile as he plucks his stand-in for a string bass, a washtub bass, otherwise known as a "gut bucket."

Michelle Rick-Biddick leans into her flute, bends her knees, twists her torso, and drives into the final chorus of Hava Nageela. She probably puts more body English into her flute sounds than any other "professional." Her lilting, sometimes haunting, flute melds with the intensity of Krista Knight's gypsy-style violin on the traditional Israeli piece.

Jim Davis laughs as he pushes the beat with his guitar and Michelle reaches for a pie tin, "forgot the tamboruine." She slaps the pie tin off her knees, off Dave Knight's knees, around the players, against her flute.

Take Four is hard to predict, in rehearsal, on stage.

They got together sometime in the fall of 1983. The yacht club wanted a dance band for Halloween. About that time Jim and Michelle had been playing and singing together.

Michelle had a gig at Nanny's. She had played flute and guitar and sung in clubs since high school. In "real life", Michelle is a fisheries biologist with the DNR. She does not come from a musical family, she says, "they just clap, a lot."

Jim, whom Dave describes as "the best spontaneous musician in the group," is a botanist by training. He works at Irish Boat Yard ("someone has to know what grows on the bottom of boats"). His musical career developed "in jam sessions, with friends, totally informal."

Krista is the classicist, who credits playing with various jazz groups for improving her classical playing. A Suzuki violin teacher, Krista has a degree in music from Lawrence Conservatory of Music. She debates her husband Dave as to when she began "fiddling."

Dave claims to have corrupted Krista and upset her family. Krista says she "fiddled" before she met Dave.

In any case, when Dave, a journalist by training, now marketing director at Charlevoix Area Hospital, was playing with a Wisconsin group, The Bad Bananas, he cajoled Krista into trying something other than classical.

Dave claims his ability to play the washtub bass came naturally. "It was innate. I picked it up and played it. I never got much better, never got much worse. It was fate."

Working through a new arrangement, Krista and Michelle improvise naturally. Jim cocks his head, listens and picks up the key. Dave pops the long handle of his bass onto the washtub, tightens the parachute chord, and swings into the tune. Jim nods at Dave, who clearly picks up the key and rhythm.

Later Dave says his instrument does not play in any key. "It's closest to the trombone, no buttons to push. It's linear. A quarter of an inch tighter is about a half step up."

Jim listens to Dave and asks rhetorically, "Can he play notes?" Despite the primitive appearance of Dave's bass, he clearly produces round clear notes.

They pause to listen to a recording the Bad Bananas, later known as Joel Gunn and the Sex Shooters made of "Hey Good Looking'." "It was 'Country-Punk'," Dave explains, straight faced. They begin adapting a new arrangement. Krista directs, announcing she'd like to sing. The rest join. "Sing the harmony, in thirds," she suggests. The sound comes together.

Take Four has divided their repertoire into three sections: Classical and Irish - Humoresque, Scotland the Brave, Danny Boy, End of a Pointed Gun, Pachabel's Canon; Traditional - Sailor's Hornpipe, Bile Them Cabbage Down, What Do You Do With A Drunken Sailor, Dueling Banjos, Orange Blossom Special; and Jazz and Swing - Take Five, Satin Doll, Girl from Ipanema, Moondance, Ain't Misbehaving, It's a Sin to Tell a Lie, just to name a few.

"We plan our sets and never follow the plan," Krista admits. There's alot of audience involvement with Take Four, they encourage it. Their humor ranges from dry to off-the-wall, sometimes hard to read, especially when Krista, with all her classical form, wearing an outrageous hat and wry expression takes off on a rip roaring version of Orange Blossom Special, while Michelle dances and flutes and the string section goes wild.

Water levels near all-time high

The elevation for Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of June was about 7 inches above what it was one year ago and about 1 inch below one month ago. The end of June level of the two lakes was at 580.80 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The June monthly mean level was about 26 inches above the long-term average and about 1 inch below the all-time monthly mean high for June, which was set in 1973, and about 59 inches above the all-time low June monthly mean set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of June level was 48 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of July, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 1 inch below what they were at the end of June.

The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into December. At the end of December 1985, the lakes are expected to be 4 inches below what they were at the same time in 1984. The December mean would be above the long-term average for that month but 6 inches below the all-time high mean for December, which was set in 1973.

To Charlevoix Township and Area Residents

Do You Know the Facts Concerning the Water's Edge Development?

It is a time for careful thought by the citizens and officials of Charlevoix Township. Seventy-five percent (75%) of the county's population (15,000 people) live on or near the shores of Lake Charlevoix, and are sincerely concerned regarding overdevelopment of Lake Charlevoix, and the sociological, ecological and limnological damage such overdevelopment will cause.

As all local residents know, a Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee (15 dedicated citizens) representing each of the 10 communities fronting on the Lake, are diligently working on a Lake management plan which, hopefully, will prevent future damage to the Lake and to the economy of the entire County. We are talking about CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S MOST VALUABLE NATURAL RESOURCE.

Concurrent with this activity, the Charlevoix Township Trustees will be discussing and voting on a petition from a developer on August 12, specifically to change the zoning status of 40 acres of property, located on Waters Edge, from R-2 to R-4, thus allowing multiple housing (condos) to be constructed. This, despite the fact that this area of Lake Charlevoix is already overcrowded with marinas and boat traffic.

Section 7.4 of the Charlevoix Township code, relating to allowable density, is so ambiguous that no clear understanding exists as to how few or how many residences may legally be built if the R-4 classification is allowed by the Township Trustees. What is known, however, is that by one interpretation, Section 7.4 could allow up to 600 residences on this tract! This is too high a density for the lake frontage involved. WATCH, INC. does not believe a "blank check" should be given to any developer!

WATCH, INC. therefore urges the residents of Charlevoix Township, and other area residents interested in the future health of Lake Charlevoix to do the following:

- Attend the Charlevoix Township meeting on August 12 and make your thoughts and feelings known!
- Urge the Trustees to have the Township attorney make his legal interpretation of Section 7.4, specifically clarifying how many residences may be allowed. The citizens of the Township have a right to know the facts.
- Insist that the developer submit his "written agreement" accepting the Township attorney's interpretation, stipulating the number of units he plans to build.
- If 600 residences are allowable by legal interpretation, and you agree with WATCH, INC. that this density is too high, petition your Trustees for a Referendum Vote to have Section 7.4 invalidated and rewritten on a clear, acceptable basis as to density.
- Charlevoix Township has a responsibility to its own citizens, the public trust as well as to its nine other sister communities fronting on Lake Charlevoix. Make that fact known to your Trustees.
- All of the above should be done before any zoning changes are granted. To do otherwise is irresponsible and creates the first hole in the dike protecting Lake Charlevoix.

WATCH, INC. supports the right of Townships and Cities to zone their environs as they choose, SO LONG AS SUCH ZONING ORDINANCES ARE CONSISTENT WITH THE TOWNSHIP ENABLING ACT, AND FEDERAL AND STATE STATUTES RELATING TO THE ENVIRONMENT. SECTION 7.4 CLEARLY DOES NOT PROTECT THE "PUBLIC TRUST".

Polo games draw big crowds

The Lexington Polo Club trotted away with the trophy in Windmill Farms' second annual polo series after defeating Louisville in the final game on Saturday.

The Detroit Polo Association was defeated earlier in the three-game elimination series.

Ken Swan, manager of Windmill Farms, termed this year's event a great success, noting that it brought in three times the number of spectators that last year'a inaugural series did.

"I think we have some real polo fans and are making new ones," Swan said. "We have brought it down to the grass roots level," he added. "We run a whole cross-section of spectators here."

The final match ended tragically Saturday when a horse ridden by J.D. Cooper of the Louisville Polo Club collapsed and died with only one minute to play in the final chukker, or period. The game was called at that point.

Cooper suffered a sprained ankle in the fall but was not seriously hurt.

The polo matches were started by Swan and members of the Louisville club who were drawn to northern Michigan by the cool climate in August. They saw a unique opportunity to vacation while continuing their polo when it was too hot and humid in Kentucky.

Swan warmed to the challenge. "I love to be told I can't do something," he said. He noted that the enterprise is an expensive one for the teams involved, which this year brought 63 horses with them. Swan hopes the program can grow to the point they can put in a professional playing surface, temporary bleachers, and other amenities.

Grey Gables takes lead

Grey Gables won over Paul Bunyan Lanes 4-1 in a game played Friday night.

Ray LaVoie, as the winning pitcher, allowed seven hits. Mike Crain, who took the loss, gave up 13 hits.

In a second game in Division 1, Wojan Aluminum trounced Swanson's 11-1.

The winning pitcher, Jim Ciuk, gave up seven hits to Phil Skeel's 16 hits.

In a Division II game, in which H&L Softball Club defeated Charlevoix Garbage 18-1, three homeruns were hit, the most in any single game all season.

Beano Archey hit two inside-the-park homers off Bob Jones who gave up a total of 18 hits. Mike Mapes, the winning pitcher, allowed eight hits including a homer by Mike Martin.

Both Divisions will close out their regular schedules Wednesday.

A play-off for the title in the league will follow the regular season. The top three teams in Division 1 and the first place team in Division II will vie for the title.

Boardsailing Regatta draws some of nation's top talent

One hundred thirty sailboard enthusiasts from across the country converged on Charlevoix this past weekend to participate in the Fourth Annual Wayler North American Championship regatta.

The sailboarders, encountering light to moderate breezes under beautiful blue skies, competed in a variety of weight and age classes and in events ranging from one-on-one Winstar races to championship course racing. There was also a day of fun events, including relays, balloon chases, and acrobatic sailing.

Participants included several members of the U.S. National and Junior National teams, along with Olympic coach Major Hall.

The National team members scored well in the event. Mike Gebhardt, 19, of Fort Walton Beach, Fl. proved that he is the fastest racer in the country these days by taking first in the lightweight class(139 pounds or less). Gebhardt scored three firsts and two seconds to win the class. Scoring was based on six races with the competitors allowed to throw out their worst race.

Kathy Steele, 25, a member of the 1984 Olympic trial team and a resident of Annapolis, Md. took second place overall in the lightweight class. She won the women's lightweight division championship.

Two young boardsailors that Hall is looking at closely for the 1988 Olympic team placed third and fourth. Mike O'Bryan, 14, of San Diego, Ca. took the third spot and Ted Huang, 15, of Los Altos, Ca. placed fourth.

Several Charlevoix boardsailors were entered and placed well. In the lightweight division, Adele Lepman, youngest daughter of regatta organizers Richard and Gina Lepman, came in 18th, followed closely by her mother in 20th place. Adele's finish put her seventh in the women's class and Gina finished first in the senior women's lightweight division.

Claudie Kenifeck placed 30th overall and 12th in the women's division. Charlevoix's Rusty Coolman, 16, was 12th in the men's middieweight class and second in the junior men's category.

Dave Irish, Harbor Springs, finished third in the heavyweight class for men, followed by Hagen Manken of Charlevoix who had a fifth place finish in the division. Richard Lepman took a sixth in the superheavyweight division.

The Wayler North American Championships are a national ranking regatta which allows competitors to earn points toward a national ranking.

National rankings are the primary criteria for selecting the U.S. National Boardsailing team, according to Hall.

Hall was gratified with the regatta. "I'm extremely pleased that it was a very tactical series," he said.

Horseback riding for kids continues

The county's horseback riding program for children at Windmill Farms is continuing this summer and will run through Labor Day, Mike Davis, Charlevoix County recreation director, has announced.

The horseback riding takes place on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Registration must be completed by Tuesday at 5 p.m. by calling Davis at 547-5930 or visiting his office in the basement of the county building annex.

The program is open to children 8 years and up and includes swimming and tennis in addition to the trail riding. Children are requested to bring a picnic lunch and bathing suit. Parents are invited to come along.

The cost of the day's activities is $8 payable to Windmill Farms. Attendance is limited to 30 children per day.

Kathy Steele proves her mettle on circuit

by DOUG TRUAX

It has been only fifteen years since someone (said to be Hoyle Schweitzer) rigged a sail to a surfboard and invented the sport of boardsailing.

In that short time, some 1.5 million boardsailors have taken to the waters in the U.S. alone. Perhaps even more remarkable is sport's international acceptance and its emergence as an Olympic sport in 1984, with Scott Steele of the United States taking a silver medal in the first Olympic event.

Steele doesn't have to go far to get top quality competition. His wife, Kathy Steele, is among the finest sailboarders in the country and perhaps the top woman competitor on the circuit -- facts she demonstrated so well this weekend with a second place overall in the Wayler Championships' lightweight division and a first in the women's division.

She compiled four second place finishes and one third during the two-day event.

"I was pretty happy with how I did," she said afterward: "I usually depend on board speed, but this time it was a lot more tactical." She said she especially relished the competition against the men in the lightweight class (the most competitive of the weight classes).

Kathy, 25, and her husband now train year-round for sailboarding under the sponsorship of several companies. She has her sights set on the Olympics of 1988 despite the fact that only one person will be picked to represent the U.S. There is talk, she says, of a women's class in the 1992 Olympics.

She trains with "a lot of running, stretching, and eating right." The better you get, she notes, the less strength is a factor and the more important finesse becomes.

Sailing tactica are nothing new to her since she has been racing sailboats competitively since she was 12 years old.

Kathy and Scott met, you guessed it, on the water, she in a sailboat, he on a sailboard. "I was out sailing a little boat and saw him on a windsurfer. I asked him how it was done and one thing led to another and he asked me out for a date."

That was 1978 when both were in college in Maryland. They have been windsurfing together ever since. In the winters they train in Florida and during the summers it is a routine of continual travel to events throughout the country.

"This was a great regatta," Steele said of the Charlevoix championship. "I love one-design where everyone is on the same board. It is a true test of tactics."

Her first visit to Charlevoix brought equal enthusiasm. "I'm in love with the place," she said.

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES
P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

TAKE NOTICE. That the Michigan Department of Natural Resources proposes to hold a hearing in the Eveline Township Hall, on Ferry Road between Peninsula and Ironton Ferry Roads, Boyne City, Michigan at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, the 20th day of August 1985.

The purpose of this hearing is to secure the views of interested persons concerning the following application for permit.

Application for a permit 85-5-21 under the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (1972 Public Act 346, as amended) by Carol McTaggart, 2682 Clute Road, Boyne City, Michigan 49712, to dredge existing lagoon entrance 20 feet wide by approximately 60 feet long, and place rock riprap on banks for stabilization connecting to Lake Charlevoix in Section 14., Eveline Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

The application may be reviewed in the Division of Land Resource Programs Office, DNR, Region II Headquarters, 8717 North Roscommon Road (I-75 and M-18 South), Roscommon, Michigan, during normal office hours.

The hearing will be held pursuant to Section (6) of the cited statute. The hearing will not be a court-type proceeding; witnesses will not be sworn, and there will be no cross-examination. Public Hearings are primarily informational and are held to encourage the expression of views and presentation of facts.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will, upon written request, provide a copy of the hearing transcript and/or advise of the Department's decision on this application.

Personal health services offered by county

by PEG OHLE

The broad range of personal health services provided to the public by District Health Department No. 3 is indicated by the annual report of the department.

Divided into two categories of services, Family Health Services and Adult Health Services, the report explains that Family Health Services are provided to persons in the community who are essentially healthy and who use the services of the Health Department to maintain their health. This is done through teaching, health screening and counseling, through clinic services, school services, and community services of home visits and office and telephone calls.

Through clinic services, 808 children from birth to age 21 received health screenings, and of these, 37 percent were referred for medical, dental or nursing care.

Also, 601 kindergarten entrants received health screenings, 15 percent of whom required medical, dental, or nursing referral.

By December, 1984, 2009 women, infants, and children had participated in the WIC food supplement program, which included parenting and prenatal information classes. The WIC clinic service is considered the nucleus of child health care.

In 1984, 1,554 persons received services of the Family Planning Clinic from a Family Planning Nurse Practitioner who also participates in family planning education in the schools.

Immunizations against communicable diseases were given to 5,605 persons in 1984. The Health Department notes, however, that there were 25 cases of vaccine preventable diseases in its four-county area, which proves the need for continued efforts with immunizations.

Among services rendered to children in school was scoliosis screening held in conjunction with the Northern Michigan Medical Society for 3,696 children in sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. Of these, 37 were referred for medical follow-up and care.

Also, 4,718 school and pre-school aged children were screened for hearing defects, and three percent were found to have hearing problems. Vision screenings were given to 7,288 school and pre-school children. Of these, seven percent were identified as having vision defects.

In the field of community services, 252 children were enrolled in the Crippled Childrens Program, which provides specialized medical and health-related care to children with crippling conditions. The Public Health Nurse provides counseling and teaching to the family and coordinates the care of the child in the community.

In 1984, 8,761 home visits were made to families in the community for therapeutic and preventative care. Services ranged from teaching a new mother how to care for her child to changing dressings for an elderly person.

The long list of Adult Health Services includes 10,577 home health visits, 5,859 skilled nursing visits, 3,770 home health aid visits, 669 physical therapy visits, 212 speech therapy visits, and 67 occupational therapy visits.

In 1984, 155 individuals received 3,194 visits by home health aides for personal care. The nurses assess the individual and supervise the care provided by the home health aide; 1,762 individuals received influenza vaccine at the annual fall flu clinic; 285 individuals had their blood pressure evaluated and monitored at the blood pressure clinics, with 69 being referred for medical care; and 69 senior citizens participated in adult health screening clinics, with 21 being referred for medical care.

Health care persons working out of the Charlevoix office of Health Department No. 3 are Carol Paxton, director of personal health services; nurses Kate Smith, Marian Martin, Suzette Daily, and Judy Moak; and health aide Virginia Stevens.

Watershed Council gets wetlands grant

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council was awarded a grant for $43,000 from the C.S. Mott Foundation to develop and test a wetland evaluation system which will help to further wetland protection in Michigan. Educating the public and wetland owners about wetland values and protection techniques are also part of the project.

"Michigan once had 11 million acres of wetlands, and now only 3-4 million are left," explains Carol Magee, Director of the Watershed Council. "Wetlands are very important for water quality protection because they remove nutrients and sediments. They also provide essential wildlife habitat."

Wetlands are areas commonly called marshes, swamps, and bogs. Despite their ecological importance, the remaining wetlands are threatened by increasing development pressure.

The Michigan Wetlands Act, passed in 1979, requires wetland property owners to get a permit before filling or draining a wetland. The Watershed Council is using the grant to better understand and evaluate development impacts and wetland values.

The first phase of the project, which is being implemented this summer, involves collecting existing wetland evaluation models and applying them to Michigan wetlands. Scientific research which documents wetland values is also being compiled.

The second phase, which will begin in the fall, involves testing the evaluation system locally. The Watershed Council will use the Department of Natural Resources wetland inventory maps and will test a variety of wetlands with the help of townships and take associations.

Gail Gruanwald

"Now that the DNR's wetlands inventory is nearing completion, it is an ideal time to utilize their date and apply it to e citizen-initiated wetland protection program," states Project Coordinator Gail Gruenwald. Gruenwald, also staff attorney for the Watershed Council, is interested in developing a wetlands evaluation system which would be defensible in court.

Also assisting with the project are Ken Sargent and Myra Perlin who ere graduate students specializing in wetlands. They are residing at the University of Michigan Biological Station on Douglas Lake.

The Watershed Council is working with wetland experts across the nation, state and federal government wetlands staff, and professors from the University of Michigan Biologicel Station to assure development of a scientifically sound evaluation system.

The final phase of the project involves implementation of local protection techniques. "We want to encourage preservation in a way that is fair to the land owners," states Gruenwald. "Protection options include conservation easement which can provide tax relief, and land trusts which can sometimes provide a buyer or tax relief."

The information gathered will also be distributed to the public and to government employees who deal with wetlands.

In future years, the project will include further implementation locally, development of educational materials, and statewide workshops given to groups who are interested in starting a wetlands protection program. The Watershed Council plans to seek additional funding for future years.

The U of M Biological Station made initial contacts with the C.S. Mott Foundation to work on a local project. This effort evolved into the wetlands grant proposal submitted by the Watershed Council. U.M.B.S. is working closely with the Watershed Council on the project.

"Citizens who are interested in working to preserve our wetland heritage need to employ a more systematic, seeientifically backed evaluation process when considering wetland values. This grant is an important step toward protecting wetland locally, and eventually throughout the state," explains Magee.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Just another perfect evening for last Wednesday's Race; a steady breeze of about 10-12 knots provided just enough shifts to make the skipper either a hero or a goat, depending upon his ability to read those shifts. A very nice crowd at the Club, after the race, received these results soon after the finish, thanks to Wes Dilworth and his trusty computer filling in for Dale Troppman and his KayPro, while Dale's enjoying a couple weeks vacation.

Once again the big boats took top honors in overall as Charlie Brown and Kritter picked up 1st and 2nd in both Fleet 1 and OA. Chuck led the Kritter by just 20 seconds - sort of a long leash which is desirable anytime you're leading one of those kritters. Two minutes back, still good enough for 3rd in Fleet, was Plastic Fantastic (4th OA); then Slap Shot, 4th (5th OA); Flying Machine, 5th and Pygmalion, 6th (7 & 9 OA). Trailing were Mint Julep, 7th and Tigger, 8th (back at 15 and 17th Overall).

Babe took the No. 1 spot in Fleet 2 with 3rd Overall. 2nd, 3rd, and 4th went to Wing Nut, Night Moves and Bandit (6, 8, and 10th OA). Canusa, 5th bedeviled Merry Hell II, 6th with Marantha and Ribit hopping in 7th and 8th as these four placed 11, 14, 20 and 21 Overall.

Fleet 3 is still not sailing up to its ratings as the winner, Blasen III, had only 12th Overall, still blowing away Tireless, 2nd (13 OA) by just 20 seconds. Spectre, 3rd and back a couple minutes, must have badly scared San-Sue-She as she waited another five minutes to finish 4th (16th and 18th Overall). Flash alighted ten (Yes, TEN) ahead of Mike Miller's new Coronado to capture 5th (19th OA) while Mike got the Cheap Seat in Fleet and Overall (22nd). (They go faster with a name!)

It was ladies first in the Jib and Main fleet as Maureen got the gun, and Cheemaun placed 2nd by only seventeen seconds better than Ti-Gi. Coolwhip iced 4th with Cygnus back by two minutes. Sandpiper took a two position Penalty to drop back to 7th as Stalworth and Apothecary then moved up to 5th and 8th places.

To answer the question posed last week at the club: we do not include the JAM fleet in overall scoring because of the lack of consistency in percentage of downwind legs in our various race courses and the resulting probable handicap errors. Checking back to some recent corrected times indicates that such errors do, in fact, exist, especially when high winds reduce the effect of not using a chute. Without those high winds, this Fleet simply does not compete (on corrected time) with the other Fleets. Example: despite a nice breeze this week, the first yacht in JAM would have been 22nd overall.

We'll give you Summer Series Standings after next Wednesday's Race - if Dale can run them before this Mouse leaves to take a houseboat down the Colorado River!

...the End of the Mouses' Tale.

Expo demonstrates environmental techniques

Lake Expo 1985 offers a fun and facinating afternoon exploring the northland's lake environments.

On Saturday, Aug. 10, the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council is sponsoring Lake Expo from 1-5 p.m. at the University of Michigan Biological Station at Douglas Lake. The expo is free and the public is invited and urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Especially fun activities include trips in the station's pontoon boat to collect water samples, measure water clarity, and see how oxygen and temperature vary at different lake depths. Watershed Council Science Advisors Jim Bricker and Becky Glover will host the boat trips and assist with water sampling and testing.

The public may collect microscopic animals and plants to study through a microscope on shore. Authorities will be on hand to provide information and assistance.

The award winning movie, "Rise and Fall of the Great Lakes," offers an education, humorous look at these wonderous lakes.

There will also be demonstrations of the Peeper Beeper, the device used to detect septic system effluent seeping into a lake. Bob Wagner and Diane Rekowski, who have used the Peeper Beeper to assess Northern Michigan lakes, will conduct the demonstrations. And visitors will have the chance to examine nutrient sensitive algae that grows at the source of take pollutants.

Lake Expo attendants will also have the opportunity to net fish and plants for closer examination.

Various exhibits with experts in each field will cover a variety of topics relating to lakes and lake environments. Exhibits include: Wetlands Values, hosts Gail Gruenwald and Ken Sargent; Waterfront Development, hosts from Walloon Lake and Lake Charlevoix; Greenbelts, hosts Debbie Messer and Tom Lagerstrom; Recycling, hosts Jom Magee and Scott Blanchard; Lake Associations, hosts from Northern Michigan lake association boards of directors.

"This year's lake expo enables Northern Michigan residents and visitors the unique opportunity to learn more about our lakes in a fun and relaxed atmosphere," said Carol Magee, Watershed Council executive director. "We have assembled a variety of authorities on lakes, aquatic biology and issues of concern to water quality so the public can learn and be entertained at the same time."

The Watershed Council, Ms. Magee said, is a non-profit organization striving to protect lake water quality in the Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Emmet county areas. Lake Expo is but one of the many educational programs the organization provides.

For more information on Lake Expo, and to make reservations for the pontoon boat trips, phone (616) 347-1181.

Hunter's choice applications

Application forms for Hunter's Choice (either sex deer) and Landowner Limited Hunter's Choice deer licenses for designated areas in Michigan are available now, report Michigan's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division personnel.

DNR studies show Michigan's deer herd has increased, setting the stage for an outstanding hunt this fall. Over-winter deer losses were minimal and fawn recruitment excellent.

The number of Hunter's Choice licenses issued this fall will be determined by the Natural Resources Commission at their August 8, 9, meeting in Escanaba. Hunter's Choice applications and a guide diagramming available deer management areas may be obtained at any DNR District and Regional Office; DNR's Information Services Center, Box 30028, 7th floor Mason Building, Lansing; 48909 and through licensed dealers. Deadline for application is September 24.

Hunter's Choice licenses will be valid for use during the regular firearm season from November 15-30, and during the muzzleloader firearm season, December 6-15.

A Hunter's Choice license and a valid firearm deer license allows a hunter to take a deer of either sex within the area-season specified on the license.

The Landowner Limited Hunter's Choice license and a valid firearm deer license authorizes the hunter to take a deer of either sex on their own lands, on adjoining private lands (with owner's permission), or on land leased by the permit holder, lying within the area-season specified on the license.

Antique auto show in Boyne

The Boyne Country Region of the Antique Automobile Club of America will hold its 11th Annual Antique Auto Show and the largest flea market in the north on the shores of Lake Charlevoix at Veterans' Memorial Park, Boyne City.

The event takes place on Saturday and Sunday August 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Food will be available, and there is free spectator admission to the show. At 3 p.m. on Sunday, 51 trophies will be awarded in 16 classes of automobiles.

Summer vacation expenses increase

The average cost of a Michigan summer vacation for a family of four rose 5.9 percent over last year's cost to $150 per day, according to AAA Michigan.

The cost is based on a family of two adults and two children who eat three restaurant meals a day, stay in a hotel or motel, and travel 300 miles daily by car.

This year's suggested budget allows $72 for meals, $57 for lodging, and $21 for 300 miles of travel. The cost for meals excludes tips, cocktails, and snacks.

Vacationers should expect to spend 7 cents per mile for gas, oil, and car maintenance. Fuel expenses are based on a car averaging 23 miles per gallon.

Lodging at Michigan's 503-AAA approved establishments averages $57 per night for a two-person two-bed room. That price includes an average of $5 per night for each child. However, some properties waive charges of children under a specified age.

This summer's state vacation budget is up more than $8 from last year, but is $14 below the nationwide average vacation budget. An AAA national survey shows vacation costs for a family of four to be $164 per day - $143 for meals and lodging, plus $21 for car travel.

The survey also shows meals and lodging may cost 30 percent less in small towns and rural locations, and 80 percent more in large metropolitan areas and at resorts in season.

The vacation budget does not include road tolls, souvenirs, entertainment and recreation costs, and emergency funds.

Water's Edge rezoned for condo development

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix Township Board approved the rezoning of 40 acres owned by Water's Edge Inc. from residential to multi-family zoning before a packed township hall Monday evening.

Over 50 people attended the board meeting to discuss the controversial condominium project. Voting for the rezoning were Rose Bergmann, Nancy Rajewski, Linda Porath, and Oscar Stroud. Opposing the move was Dale Glass.

In approving the rezoning from R-2 residential to R-4 planned unit zone, the board requested the township zoning board to consider an amendment to the zoning code providing for site plan review and control. The rezoning of Water's Edge will not occur for 120 days, giving the board time to enact the new controls. After 120 days the rezoning will take effect regardless of whether or not the zoning has been amended.

Jerry Puhl, a member of WATCH and the township zoning board, said after the meeting that efforts would be made to put the rezoning to a vote of the people through a referendum. Dean Davenport, a summer neighbor to the Water's Edge project, agreed with Puhl. "I think it needs a referendum vote," he said.

The board sought the opinion of attorney Donald Berlage regarding the existing zoning ordinance. Berlage told the group he found the ordinance "comprehensive, well written and containing modern land use and zoning criteria and standards." He suggested a site plan review and control section be added similar to one contained in the City of Charlevoix zoning ordinance and recommended a 90-day delay in the rezoning to accomplish the change.

He said the developers would be allowed to build 174 units if they were one-story buildings or 348 if they were two-stories.

Berlage recommended that the amendment include the additional provision that "Consideration shall be given to the impact of the development upon the waters of Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix."

The board heard appeals by several persons in the audience to reduce the allowable density of the development and to enact controls on marine facilities for the project.

William Connett, president of the Belvedere Club, told the board that his group was for "orderly development." The area, he said, must grow according to some plan. "Uncontrolled growth is like cancer," he said. "We are against excessive, hyperintensive development in any one area."

Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., noted that the development would be the size of five LaCroft condominiums if built to the maximum density of 348 units.

Puhl added that the "density factor is not designed to go along with Lake Charlevoix. Three hundred and twenty units is not the type of development that they (people in the township) would like to see."

Steve Andreae, realtor and member of the Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, spoke in favor of the development noting that "what I am hearing is not so much the density issue as the issue of condos on the lake. He said the Water's Edge site was well suited to condos because it would have sewers and good ingress and egress.

Youth drowns off Charlevoix pier

Louis J. Knudtson, 21, drowned early Saturday near the south pier in Charlevoix. The State Police underwater recovery team found the body at 1:25 p.m. in 32 feet of water approximately 50 feet from the end of the pier.

City police were notified of the apparent drowning shortly after 3 a.m. Two Coast Guard lifeboats were called in to search soon after the report and a Coast Guard helicopter from Traverse City joined the effort at 4:50 p.m.

Police said that an eyewitness reported Knudtson was sitting on the pier at base of the lighthouse with a companion. He appeared to slide into the water voluntarily, the witness reported, and to swim into the lake. The victim was heard choking and then disappeared from sight.

Knudtson's companion and longtime friend, Alex Stoneham, reported that the two had been drinking wine coolers on the pier. Stoneham said he fell asleep and was awakened by someone who reported a man had been seen in the lake. Stoneham said Knudstson was afraid of deep water and did not like swimming in Lake Michigan.

The team of underwater divers was called in from state posts in Kalkaska, Houghton, and Lansing. They began their search at approximately 1 p.m. and found the body soon after in the location indicated by the eyewitness.

An obituary appears on page 12 of this issue of the Courier.

Big Rock testimony dismissed in rate case

An administrative law judge has excluded from a Public Service Commission rate case expert testimony and internal company documents indicating that Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant is uneconomical.

Robert Shankland last week ruled that testimony submitted by the office of Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley could not be allowed on procedural grounds, noting that this was not the point in the case to present new testimony.

The Attorney General's office sought to prove that Big Rock was costing customers more to produce electricity than it would cost to purchase power on intrastate and interstate markets. It argued that Big Rock should be taken out of Consumers' electric rates at a savings of some $25 million per year, a move which company officials say would force the facility's shutdown.

The testimony, from William Peloquin, a certified public accountant on the attorney general's staff, and Jatinder Kumar, a private consultant, was submitted as rebuttal to a complex Consumers rate case..

The outcome fo the case will help determine whether the firm gets to keep a $137 million interim rate hike allowed by the PSC a year ago, plus about $9 million more, according to a company spokesman.

Shankland said the company's case was based on "hundreds of assumptions," but he said that did not open it all to rebuttal by the attorney general. "To rule otherwise would be to say the entire case is open to rebuttal," Shankland said.

Shankland also said he had doubts about the internal company study extensively cited by the experts.

"We are real happy with the ruling," Charles MacInnes, public affairs director at Big Rock, said. "The studies the attorney general is trying to put forward are irrelevant, not good, and didn't amount to a hill of beans."

Assistant Attorney General Hugh Anderson said his office will appeal the decision to the full PSC.

Voters pick candidates

Voters in Charlevoix's City Council primary on Tuesday, August 6, narrowed the field for the general election in November.

Norman Probert and Michael Greeley will be the candidates running in the First Ward on November 5. Probert lead all candidates in the primary with 130 votes. Incumbent councilman Greeley received 48 and Leland Barta gathered 30.

In the Third Ward incumbent Earl Mums lead the field with 49 votes. He will face Paul Burlew, who received 37 votes, in November. Candidate Thomas Black was eliminated with 32 votes.

There was no primary in the Second Ward where incumbent Robert Timms will face William E. Russell in this fall's general election.

Arlene Staley, city clerk, is running unopposed in the election.

Voting was light in the primary with only 21 percent of the registered voters in the two wards casting ballots. A total of 326 of the 1,546 registered voters participated.

In the First Ward, 27.5 percent of the registered voters went to the polls (208 of 755 registered voters); in the Third Ward the figure was 14.9 percent (118 of 790 registered).

ART FAIR 1985

Charlevoix's annual art fair endured early morning storms that scattered crowds and forced artists to cover their works with plastic and makeshift awnings. But the sun broke out at midday and many reported the best crowds and fair ever.

For Bonnie Staffel, right, it was an art fair to remember. After 24 years of showing her pottery at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair, Bonnie is moving on. She will be the resident potter and an instructor at the John C. Campbell Folk School, Brasstown, North Carolina this fall and is planning to move after Labor Day. A mentor to many state potters and artists, Bonnie's contributions will be missed.

Also enjoying this year's fair were Charlevoix's Sue and Russ Bolt, below, of Grange Hall Pottery and Print.

Accident takes life of Kewadin man

A highway accident on US 31 near Faculak Road which claimed the life of a Kewadin man and injured three others remains under investigation by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

The accident which occurred at 9:36 p.m. in Norwood Township six miles south of Charlevoix claimed the live of Marshall Leroy Coyne, 20.

Injured were Michael R. Wheeler, 25, of Onekema, driver of the second vehicle, a 1978 Chevrolet two-door, and his passengers, Gordon Greiner, 22, of Onekema and Dwayne Mark Soper, 23, of Manistee.

Wheeler remained in fair condition as of Monday. Greiner was reported in good condition and Soper was released.

According to sheriff's officers, Coyne, driving a 1984 Ford pickup truck, was northbound on US 31 when it collided with a southbound 1978 Chevrolet two-door driven by Wheeler. As the two cars met, the Coyne vehicle became airborne, going over the top of the Wheeler vehicle and landing in front of a 1982 Pontiac driven by Lisa Ann Holling, 16, of West Bloomfield Hills who was vacationing in Antrim County. A sheriff's deputy said only excellent handling of her vehicle kept Holling and her three passengers from serious injury. All were wearing seat belts.

Coyne was pronounced dead at the Charlevoix Area Hospital by Dr. Reed Freidinger, county medical examiner.

The injured men were transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital via Charlevoix ambulance.

Coyne and the injured men were not wearing seat belts.

Corps gets new bids on intake

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Detroit District, has received new bids on the Charlevoix water intake project and the new contractor is expected to begin work soon.

Low bidder was Ryba Marine Construction of Cheboygan, according to the Corps' procurement section. Ryba bid $334,981, some $200,000 below the next lowest bidder.

Other bids were $567,400 from Durocher Dock and Dredge, Cheboygan and $593,000 from Roen Salvage Co., Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

The water intake construction project was left incomplete when Union Indemnity Insurance Co. of New York City, the bonding company charged with completing the project, encountered financial difficulties and was fired by the Corps on July 26.

The water intake construction has gone through a series of misfortunes including the dismissal of the original contractor, South Shore Equipment of Avon, Ohio, for failure to complete the job by a January 1,1985 deadline. Union Indemnity, South Shore's bonding company, was hired to complete the work and rehired South Shore as contractor.

That arrangement encountered difficulties when Union Indemnity filed for bankruptcy in New York in mid-June. The Corps received a special decision of the New York Supreme Court that provided for funds to be channeled to Union Indemnity for the express purpose of completing construction, but the insurance company's continuing financial problems forced the Corps to remove them from the project.

Some sections of the 1,450 feet of polyethelene pipe have been fused on the Lake Michigan shore and 650-pound weights attached. The intake structure must still be placed beneath the bottom of Lake Michigan and a seven-foot deep trench dug on the lake bottom for the intake pipe. The entire section of intake pipe will then be floated into place and sunk in the trench.

Noirot given 3-10 years

Timothy Lee Noirot, 18, was sentenced Monday in Ciruit Court to 3-10 years in the Riverside Youth Facility on a count of assault with intent to commit a felony. Noirot received an additional 2-4 years on a charge of felonious assault. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Noirot, who will receive 30 days credit for time spent in the county jail, was present at the sentencing with his attorney, Timothy Arner.

The charges against Noirot resulted from the robbery of a couple at their home near Susan Lake on March 23, 1985.

CHIP Counseling Center idea matures, activities expand

Chip Ransom memorial started 10 years ago

It has been 10 years since the Woodbury Ransom family and a group of local residents conceived the idea of establishing a counseling facility to stand as a lasting memorial to Charles A. "CHIP" Ransom (1946-75) who was killed in a boating accident in Lake Charlevoix.

This past Monday the 10-year anniversary was observed at the Belvedere Club Casino with a program on the center's past, present, and future activities.

The CHIP Counseling Center has come far since its inception 10 years ago. After a year of planning, the center opened its doors in October, 1976 with Oren Schroeder serving as its first director and counselor.

Today CHIP has offices in Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Bellaire and employs six counselors under the supervision of Executive Director Karl D. Walker.

CHIP offers a full range of general mental health counseling services and for the last five years has served as the Substance Abuse Agency for Antrim, Charlevoix, and Bellaire counties.

Fees for counseling are on a sliding scale based on ability to pay. General counseling ranges from $20-49 per hour (as of Oct.1) and substance abuse counseling ranges from $5-49.

Fifty percent of the substance abuse counseling is subsidized by the state. Other sources of support are the three counties (which contribute approximately $6,000 each), United Way, and community groups and individuals.

In addition to Walker, the staff consists of Patricia Gaskin, clinical coordinator; Sally A. Davies, who is responsible for the Alcohol Highway Safety program; Robert Sell 11, who will focus on substance abuse prevention education and consultation and training services to area professionals; John Grebe, the substance abuse counselor in Bellaire; and Ann Rose, a specialist with youth.

In September the staff will be joined by Preston Greene who will work out of the Petoskey office and specialize in group therapy for substance abuse cases.

The center was heavily dependent on the contributions of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom to keep things going during its first three years. It received state funding for the substance abuse program in 1980, but soon aced a crisis in supporting its other counseling activities.

In the fall of 1981, mounting deficits forced CHIP to lay off counselers and staff not involved in the substance abuse program. Community support rallied, however, and the center was able to reinstitute its general mental health services in 1982 although staff for those services was limited.

In 1984 CHIP gained accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH). It has recently been approved by Blue Cross-Blue Shield for the reimbursement of client services involving substance abuse.

"I am very impressed by the support of the center by the community," says Walker who joined the staff as director in June. He said future efforts will be directed at working with substance abuse prevention and assistance in industry and the schools. He also hopes the center can establish a trust fund to provide continuing financial support.

Walker hopes also to expand the center's work with groups in treating substance abuse. "The court referral drunk driving clients are not always dealt with effectively in individual sessions," he notes.

The center's general counseling services, says Pat Gaskin, "help people to strengthen their coping mechanisms." Many of the problems are adjustment issues – including a lot of divorce. "We do a lot of work with couples experiencing difficulties in their relationships," she adds.

Gaskin says she comes in contact with a good many adults of alcholic families. Adults that have experienced that chaotic life experience often feel there is little predicatbility to their lives. They are left with anxiety and have seldom paid much attention to their feelings. "One of the most important things we can assure them of is that they are not crazy...,that they're feelings are normal for what they have experienced," Gaskin says.

One of the major problems in treating such situations, she states, is that "there is often a lot of denial."

Among the myths of alchohol abuse, she adds, is that "people tend to think of it as only hard liquor and not beer."

Another area of increasing concern is children from single parent families. "Demographics show that more women are single parenting," Walker says, "and we are sensitive to that need. We want to develop ways they can get help from our agency."

Much of the general counseling is relatively short-term, Gaskin says. "It averages about three months before people feel that they have a hold on life," although many return periodically as stress arises.

There is still a stigma attached to mental health counseling, particularly among men, that prevents people from seeking help, Gaskin explains. "I believe men in our society are conditioned to be tough. Sometimes they feel it is weakness to present themselves as caring and involved in nuturing relationships. It is important to encourage men to allow that part of themselves to unfold."

"Because of the stigma," she says, "people sometimes wait too long, until the hurt is too deep."

In its first ten years, the CHIP counseling center has proven to be an important part of the communties of northwestern Michigan. The memorial to "Chip" Ransom established by his family continues to provide new life and hope for many area families.

Year in Switzerland agrees with Charlevoix's Jill Raecke

by FRAN MARTIN

"It's been a great year! I still count myself lucky to have had it. If I never have an opportunity to go back I have treasured memories of Switzerland, my (Swiss) family and many good friends," Jill Raecke who returned home recently after attending school for a year in a suburb of Zurich, said of her experience.

Probably the one thing she is most proud of is the mastery of the language. With only a few months tutoring before her departure, she had difficulties in the beginning but after 10 months exposure to the German language, speaks it well and understands it even better.

"I was lucky that my family spoke fluent English. They helped me a great deal and now I understand the spoken language very well and do a pretty good job of speaking it," she said of the language barrier.

Her impressions of the country and the people? In the beginning, she said, she found the people reserved to a point of being cool. However, when they knew her better, she said, they were warm and very caring. Life there, she commented, is very family oriented. Holidays are family affairs and people seem to have a limited social life compared to here.

She loved the country. "It was beautiful. The lakes, the mountains, the villages we visited. and skiing! you'd ride up on the ski lift and it would take you 20 or 30 minutes to ski back down. It was neat! I still can't believe I skied on a glacier. There's skiing year round there without going too far from home," she recalled. During a vacation in February her family took her skiing at the noted Laax resort.

Because of the language barrier, she did not gain a great deal academically though some of her classes will be counted toward graduation, she said. One thing she was able to do was assist in the English class.

She feels that schools there are unfair to all but the academically talented. After students have completed what would be the middle school here, they take an examination, she explained. If there marks are good enough, they can continue in school with an academic program. If not, they attend trade schools.

"At the age of 14 or 15, I would not be mature enough to decide what I wanted to do the rest of my life. These kids go into a trade. Here you get to finish high school and then decide if you want to go on to college or if you want to go into the job market. I don't think it gives the kids a chance."

"The last day of school I was invited to the principal's office to discuss my experience at the school and told the principal how I felt about the system. She explained their system and the reasons for it,

Letters to the Editor:

Keep the lid on condos

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the picture of the garbage that washed ashore on Charlevoix's Lake Michigan beach. It should be blown up and put on a full page of the paper, so no one reading the paper could fall to see it.

It is only a small example of what will happen if we don't keep the lid on condo development in the area. So far the city council has done a good job in protecting our beautiful Charlevoix and the waters that surround it. True, there are some condos, and Round Lake has all it can stand, and if we don't all keep a close eye on developers they'll build all around Lake Charlevoix and start on Lake Michigan. When they have that completely built, they'll dust off their hands and move on to some other lovely town and proceed to crucify it.

I have lived 62 years and I don't claim to be an expert on many things, but I am an expert on condominiums, having managed one for nine years in Florida. Upon acquisition of the land, they proceed to flatten all the trees, change the contour of the land, and build as many units as they possibly can. Now you have one (or many) big building, plenty of concrete for parking all around, and worst of all, the property is now Private.

Then they put in boat docks so people can bring all their noisy, dirty toys here. That spot is forever gone to Charlevoix. Never mind it is possibly used 3 months out of a year. The land is gone to someone else. We, as residents can no longer use it. We can't see the water as we drive by. The developers would wall our entire lake with condos if they had their way.

Now we get to the ownership. Make no mistake, just because people can afford to buy one or rent one doesn't mean they know how to behave or they care about our pretty little town. They came to get away from the dirt and smog of the big city, have fun, use everything and then leave.

Many of these condos become high class "gettos." Has anyone noticed the towels, bathing suits, etc. hanging on the railings of the already existing condo's? Well they are daily adorned. The waters become an oil slick, with all the boats, so forget swimming, forget eating the fish and as the picture shows our beaches are loaded with garbage.

These people, amany of them have not lived near water and trees, they haven't grown up loving nature and realizing how long it takes to grow a tree and of the many birds who build their homes there and the animals that use our shoreline. Lovely places like Charlevoix are fast becoming history.

It scares me to know what can happen. My nine years on Marco Island, Fla. taught me what greed can do. Purchase land, build quickly, and sell the units quickly and then move on to greener fields. Marco now has completely used up the shoreline and its all Private. Think about this Charlevoix, and please residents, become aware and attend council meetings. Don't wait until it's too late, and all land is used up, the damage is done then. There are some things more precious than money, and our beautiful lakes, trees, and shoreline is one of them. Let's hope we will be able to see and enjoy them for many years to come.

Art Fair history recalled

Dear Editor:

As the annual dates of the Waterfront Fairs have passed for 1985, those among us who were active in promoting the events look back with satisfaction that our humble efforts have gained such acclaim for Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

It was the spring of 1958 that Dean Davenport (father of the Dean Davenport who was the speaker to the 1985 Charlevoix High School graduation) was the head of the Chamber of Comerce at the time and somebody had made the suggestion that the city try promoting an Art Fair.

Dean was enthusiastic and he tagged Sue (Mrs. Edward) Lemke of Ironton and myself to work with the chamber in organizing a fair. We all soon were hard at work and by soliciting local artists and craftsmen we had a modest beginning.

Irene Harsha (Mrs. Earl) Young, who had taught art in New-York schools before her marriage, had a gold mine of offerings as did several local artistic "daubers" who had taken painting as a pass-time relaxation from hectic business duties. Among them was Kit Carson who has since left the scene of mortal existence but whose name lives on in the Kit Carson Lumber Company now owned by Glenn Kenny and Dick Meyers.

The first fair in 1958 had 14 entrants and was a successful venture for the amateurs and the one trained artist, Irene Harsha Young, a native born Charlevoian. Mr. Davenport was enthusiastic about it's continuance so it continued along, gaining entrants each year, but it took a promotional genius to put it in the "big time" status the Waterfront Art Fair enjoys today.

That multi-talented individual is Edith (Mrs. Julius) Gilbert who was living in Charlevoix year-round although they had formerly spent only summers here.

Mrs. Gilbert personally knew connoisseurs in metropolitan areas and soon persuaded her friends to show their prize possessions at the Waterfront Fair and that did the trick. The publicity of masterpieces offered for display drew artists from far away places and today the fair is a real bonanza as the crowds gather from far and near for the gala weekend.

Local churches offer bazaar items and delightful luncheons to the visiting artists and lookers-on. Local restaurants and merchants offer all kinds of inducements to lure the crowd in remembering Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Charlevoix owes a deep debt of gratitude to Mrs. Gilbert and her committees for their tireless efforts for Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair setting in spacious East Park overlooking the harbor with it's summer quota of visiting yachts as an added inducement to "Come visit the fair."

Support Red Cross African relief

Dear Editor:

Many Americans, through their churches and other charitable organizations, have generously given to fight the famine in Africa.

The need is still great.

I would like to ask your readers to consider a special contribution directly to the American Red Cross African Relief Campaign.

Here is all the necessary information to do so.

Mailing address: American Red Cross, African Famine Relief, PO Box 37053, Washington, D.C. 20013. Make checks payable to: American Red Cross African Famine Relief.

What will the Red Cross do with your contributions?

1. Buy food, such as cereals, edible oils, milk powder, dried fish, sugar, baby food, and protein tablets.
2. Buy medical supplies.
3. Obtain trucks, four-wheel drive vehicles, and airlift services to transport goods in Africa.
4. Provide trained medical and relief personnel to coordinate on-site relief operations.
5. Install long-range food production programs, such as tree planting and backyard gardening, as preparation for increased agricultural production.

Contributions move from Red Cross to Red Cross without deductions for overhead or fund-raising costs. Relief supplies remain in the hands of Red Cross workera throughout the feeding operations, and steps are taken to ensure fair distribution of food to the starving.

All Red Cross relief supplies are reaching their distination without interference from outside elements at this time.

Central Africa:

1. Chad - population in need: 800,000.
2. Djibouti - population in need: 22,000.
3. Ethiopia - population in need: more than six million.
4. Kenya - population in need: unknown.
5. Mali - population in need: 180,000.
6. Mauritania - population in need: one million.
7. Mozambique - population in need: four million.
8. Niger - population in need: 65,000.

These figures are so staggering that one is tempted to say "What's the use?"

We dare not think like this - as an individual or as a nation. Our own spiritual well-being demands action.

If we give only out of our abundance, this is not real compassion. We need to give until it hurts.

Seniors to ride boat

Dear Editor:

We would like you to know that on the 27th of August, the Kent Auxiliary from the Kent Community Hospital of Grand Rapids, MI, will arrive for the trip on your boat.

Being a past citizen of Charlevoix, I still think it is the most beautiful city in Michigan and want others to see it.

These people are most all seniors, and we try very hard to make a little enjoyment for them.

Also I am a patient myself, and still don't get around without a cane.

I thank everybody.

Nudes move slowly

By Bob Clock

WITHOUT A GREAT deal of fanfare, Charlevoix's under-bridge walkway has opened to the public — and just in time.

There has been so much traffic in town this summer, crossing Michigan Avenue (Bridge Street, Petoskey Road, U.S. 31) north of the bridge would have been nigh impossible at times if it weren't for the walkway.

The walkway connects to the Pine River Channel promenade, making it possible to stroll from Belvedere Avenue, along the harbor, across and under the bridge and a smart distance out into Lake Michigan itself without crossing a street or encountering a traffic light.

Sunday evening, the route was crowded with sight-seers intent on seeing the sun sink into Lake Michigan. The sunset wasn't all that impressive, but it was a pleasant stroll, none the less.

We predict the walkway is going to get plenty of use in the years ahead.

AS USUAL, the folks who organize the annual Waterfront Arts Fair lucked out again.

Saturday dawned stormy, with rain squalls on all sides. But by noon the sun broke through and the artists had a beautiful day to display — and sell — their wares.

How did they do? Very well, judging from the number of visitors carrying shopping bags and parcels. One area artist — Stewart Ashlee of Cheboygan — brought 20 paintings to the fair. By 1:30 p.m., 16 of them had been sold.

"I should run home and dash off a couple more," he told me as I stopped to admire what was left of his display.

Ashlee's work puts me in mind of the old Dutch and Flemish masters — with full-bodied people doing such earthy things as eating, drinking and fighting. Ashlee's oils have an old-world quality quite different from all of the other works on display at the fair.

One of the unsold paintings depicted a barroom brawl.

"I call that one 'You should have smiled when you said that,'" he laughed.

Ashlee also had two nudes that looked vaguely familiar. Ashlee admitted that the same two painting were on display last year. Nudes apparently don't move very fast in these climes.

I predict that some day Ashlee's work is going to be worth megabucks.

IF YOU LIKE excitement, leave your back door unlatched.

That's what we did Friday night and when Jennifer returned from work at Ricciardi's in the wee hours Saturday she discovered that two raccoons — a gigantic mama and her little one — had broken in and made a shambles of the pantry. They apparently are very fond of noodles and rice because they had opened several packages and scattered the contents on the floor.

Of course we all got up and managed to get them out by opening some doors and closing or barricading others.

And how was your weekend?

Out of the Blue

The question smolders —
Pepsi or Coke?
So little fire ...
But, oh, so much smoke!

"It is time people clamped down on the true contamination of the lake and get strong pumpoot legislation," Andreae added.

Dawson Way, next door neighbor to the proposed project and president of the Lake Charlevoix Association, said his group felt the responsibility for the preservation of the lake rests with the people. "We encourage planning boards to obtain the support of their consituents through a referendum," he said.

Ed Oelschlaeger of First Centrum Corp., a partner in the proposed development, told the board there would be no more than 320 units. "And we think it is going to be substantially less than that," he added. "I have assembled a team of experts that we think will be very kind to the property," Oelschlaeger said.

but I still think it isn't fair," Jill said adamantly.

One thing she laughed about was the use of the telephone. "Here we call our friends and chat, probably longer than we should. There you call only when you had a good reason for the call and you didn't linger on the phone, making small talk. Some difference from things here," she chuckled.

She loved the food, especially the cheeses... 60 or 70, maybe more, varieties of it.

"And the chocolate! It's a good thing I wasn't a choco-holic or they'd have had to roll me off the plane. In the stores there, they have a department just devoted to chocolate. You can't believe it!" she explained.

Another thing tht took some getting use to was the size of the cars. Everyone drives a small car. "All the time I was there I saw only a couple cars the size of the ones we have here. They really stood out. I'm very conscious of that now that I'm home," she said. In Switzerland, the driving age is 18 so although she had an American driver's license, she was not able to use it there.

She spoke very warmly of her family, Jurg Vontobel, an engineer, his wife, Erika, who worked as a secretary one day each week at his office, and their daughter, Sandy, who was very helpful in introducing her to friends at school, taking her to classes and just being a little sister. "I know they are my good friends. I know I made good friends among the students at school. I know I can go back any time and they will be happy to see me. It's a good feeling," she added with confidence.

Jill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Raecke, spend her 10 months in Switzerland under the American-Scandinavian Exchange program.

Marriages

Mr. and Mrs. William Fels

Keie-Fels

The wooded park area above Lake Michigan Beach, in Charlevoix, was the setting for the August 3 wedding of Mary Beth Keie and William Fels. Parents of the couple are Fred and Bonnie Keie and Jack and Barb Fels, all of Charlevoix.

The ceremony was performed by Hal Hill, Mayor of Charlevoix, in the presence of approximately 200 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a tea length gown of white eyelet. She carried a bouquet of lavender roses and baby's breath.

Kathy Meggison, as maid of honor and Sally Keie, as bridesmaid, sisters of the bride, each carried a single rose.

Michael Fels, brother of the groom, served as his best man. Jerry Keie, brother of the bride served as groomsman. The bride's grandparents traveled from Florida for the wedding, and other friends and family of the bride and groom were present from Alaska, Iowa, and other parts of Michigan.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony at the American Legion Hall. Tanya Ford assisted with cutting the wedding cake.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held at their home, on August 2.

The couple will make their home in Charlevoix, and will take a wedding trip later in the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pischner

Lacey-Pischner

Pamela Lacey ~~and Francis~~ Pischner were married July 19 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Casimir Zawacki performed the double ring ceremony before 250 guests from many Michigan cities, Washington, Iowa and Mansfield, Ohio.

The bride, who has been making her home in Miami, Florida, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fatch of Naples, Florida. The bridegroom, who also resides in Miami, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pischner of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a gown of filmy coin dotted English net over taffeta, full sleeves, fitted bodice with a tiered skirt that extended into a chapel length train. She wore a hat embellished with coin-dotted English net, satin ribbon and dainty roses, ending in a cloud of fingertip veiling. She carried a bouquet of garden-cut flowers.

Barbara Fanello, cousin of the bride, assisted as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa and Amy Pischner and Heidi Bolduc. They wore lavender gowns fashioned with illusion V necklines of coin-dotted English net. Each carried a bouquet of garden-cut flowers.

Michael Pischner was his brother's best man, and groomsmen were Jackie Cross, Edward Lacey and George Lacey. Ushers were Phil Morrison and Jeff Renaud. Flower girl was Christine Oleksy and ringbearer was E.J. Ranville.

Barry Pischner and family sang four selected solos and organ music was provided by Mrs. John Lignell.

The parents of the bride and bridegroom hosted a reception at St. Mary's school following the marriage ceremony. The buffet style dinner as well as the wedding cake was prepared by the bride's mother with the help of friends.

Following rehearsal on July 18, a dinner was prepared and hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

After a summer stay in Charlevoix, the newlyweds will return to Miami, where the bride is a student working toward a master's in dietetics and the bridegroom is employed by Café Chavveron on Bay Harbor Islands.

Photos were taken by Ray Abraczinakas and video recorded by Irvin Barrett.

Barnard women hold bazaar

The Barnard United Methodist Women will sponsor their annual summer salad luncheon and bazaar at the church on Barnard Road on Thursday, Aug. 15.

The luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m., according to the general chairperson, Marcia Himebauch.

The luncheon will feature a wide variety of hot casseroles, summer salads, rolls, a dessert and choice of beverage.

Tickets will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for children 10 years and younger. The proceeds will go to the missions.

The bazaar will feature many craft items and home-baked goods. Ruth Shapton is in charge of the event.

Engagements

VanWieren-Tarro

Gordon VanWieren of Charlevoix, announces the engagement of his daughter, Vicki Jo VanWieren to Carl Joseph Tarro. He is the son of Betty Henderdon of St. Louis and the late Louis Tarro.

Miss VanWieren is also the daughter of the late Jean Haun. She is a graduate of Marshall High School and holds a bachelor of science degree from Michigan State University. She is a supervisor with Ozark Airlines in St. Louis, Mo.

Her fiance is a graduate of Chaminade Boys Preparatory and received a bachelor of science degree from University of Missouri and a master's degree from Florida State University. He is owner and president of a St. Louis based engineering firm.

The wedding will take place Sept. 28 on Mackinac Island.

Vicki Jo VanWieren

The Central Lake Belles and Beaus will be presenting an evening of dancing on Tuesday, August 13 at 7:30 p.m. under the Burnett Pavalion in Thurston Park, Central Lake.

Live music will be furnished by a local group of musicians the Down Home Ramblers, who will also furnish a caller for old time square dancing.

Admission will be by donation and soft drinks will be available.

The Central Lake Belles and Beaus are a civic group which appears in fashion shows and parades to entertain their visitors with exceptional talents and vintage attire fashionable at the turn of a century.

Barnard Grange hosts state leadership camp

The Barnard Grange, located south of Charlevoix, recently hosted a four-day Michigan State Grange Youth Leadership Camp on the grange grounds.

Twenty-four young people attended the camp full or part-time. Among them were Jim and Mike Smith, Den and Juli Stolt, Sherry Warner and Kendall Balch, members of the Barnard Grange.

At the organizational meeting, Mike Smith was elected lecturer and Dan Strolt was chosen treasurer of the Michigan State Grange Youth.

Larry LaCorte of Ravenswood, W.Va., national grange ambassador, reportedly did a fine job with his enthusiasm, ideas and musical talent. The state was represented by Dale Ruder, Michigan state grange prince.

Workshops were presented by Hazel Ely, regional membership director, relating to membership and women's activities; Master Roland Winter on the subject of what constitutes a good grange; Beulah Winter on lecturers' programs and how to make them more interesting, and LaCorte on leadership which dealt with individual personalities of people in the group. The workshops were well attended.

The campers made stuffed toys which will be distributed to children's hospitals and nursing homes.

For entertainment, the campers made a trip to the Lake Michigan beach where they enjoyed a beach party and danced to the music of grange musicians at the Grange Hall among other things.

One morning William Stevens and Jack Stebe prepared a pancake breakfast for the campers. Food for the remaining meals was furnished by the members of the Barnard Grange.

Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Arlow Crites

Crites celebrate 65th

Mr. and Mrs. Arlow Crites will observe their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary at an open house to be held at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club on Saturday, Aug. 17.

Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. (Madelyn) Heise, will host the event which will be held from 2-5 p.m. and to which relatives and friends are invited. Also present will be two of their three grandchildren and several of their seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. Crites and the former Irene Gregory were married in Detroit Aug. 16, 1920 and made their home there until retiring in 1967 when they returned to Charlevoix to live. Both had been employed at the Chrysler Corp. for many years.

They are members of the First Congregational Church. Mrs. Crites is active in the Women's Fellowship and circle of the church. Mr. Crites is a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. and the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Mrs. Crites was born at Burgess in Hayes Township June 13, 1897. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1916, attended Western Michigan Normal College (now Western Michigan University) where she earned a teaching degree. She taught in rural schools in the area and later was employed by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. in Detroit. Mr. Crites was born at Jonesville, July 25, 1900.

Wood Shop wins design award for area signs

The Wood Shop of Boyne City earned three awards in the 1985 Signs of the Times National Sign Design Contest.

Placing in the top 65 of over 1200 entries, Bruce Janssen's Wood Shop received recognition in two categories of the design contest.

In the signage systems category Janssen's shop received an award for the interior sign program of the Grand Traverse Resort Village in Acme. The program involved forty-five signs of carved oak and sand-blasted redwood.

Two of the three awards were given in the ground sign division. One was a hand carved and hand painted solid mahogany sign created for the Lake House Condominiums in Charlevoix.

The second ground division award was given for a hand carved and hand painted sign constructed for Howard Sloneker of Walloon Lake.

The Wood Shop has received thirteen national awards for their sign creations since 1980 and have been recognized in the books, Fine Woodworking Design Book Two (Tauton Press) and the Sourcebook of Architectural Ornament (Van Nostrand Co.).

The Wood Shop is located in Boyne City and supplies quality wooden signs to resort, commercial and residential markets.

This sign at the Lakahouse Condominiums in Charlevoix was one of three which won awards for signmaker Bruce Janssen.

New students can register

Parents of students who will be entering the Charlevoix Public Schools for the first time in September may register their children at the offices of the school they will be attending beginning Monday, Superintendent Gordon W. VanWieren has announced.

This applies to students who have moved to the community and will be attending local schools for the first time or to students who will be transferring to the public schools from St. Mary's School.

Principals will be in their respective office beginning Monday, August 19.

Grey Gables on top, tournament begins

The Charlevoix Men's Slowpitch League played out its schedule Wednesday night with Grey Gables, Wojan Aluminum and Paul Bunyan Lanes finishing in the top three places in Division 1 and Simpson Electric finishing first in Division II.

The top four teams were scheduled to square off in a best two-out-of-three tournament Monday to decide the city championship with the second series of games to be played on Wednesday. Paul Bunyan Lanes and Wojan's clash at 6:30 p.m. and Simpson Electric and Grey Gables meet at 7:45 p.m. The finals will be played at 9 p.m. and if necessary, another game is scheduled for 10:15 p.m.

In action in Division I during the week, Paul Bunyan Lanes edged Tidy Car-Family Video 7-6 with Mike Crain the winning pitcher. He allowed nine hits to Kirk Heckendorn's 10.

In the finals on Wednesday, Grey Gables defeated Swanson's 12-1 behind the pitching of Ray LaVoie and with a home run by Mike Loper. LaVoie gave up eight hits. Phil Skeel, who took the loss, allowed 16.

Wojan Aluminum stayed in second place by winning over Tidy Car-Family Video, 8-2. Pat Kerr, on the mound for Wojan's, allowed nine hits. Heckendorn gave up 13.

In Division II, Simpson Electric defeated H&L Softball Club 12-1. Mike Mapes, who took the loss, allowed 17 hits to Alex Niedzialowski's eight.

Townhouse made sure Charlevoix Garbage stayed in the league cellar with a 13-1 win over the G-Men. Bob Alexander was the winning pitcher, allowing five hits while Bob Jones gave up 16.

In the final game in the league Wednesday night, Glen's Market shut out H&L Softball Club 7-0 with Cris Havens hitting his first inside the park homer of the season for the winners. Steven Leazier gave up six hits. Mapes, who took the loss, allowed 14.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Lots of Numbers! Wednesday, Aug. 7 saw Overall taken by Kritter with Merry Hell II (2nd), Wing Nut (3rd), Charlie Brown (4th), Plastic Fantastic (5th) and Slapshot (6th) all at about 50 second intervals. Trailing, but all with times of 1:57:XX were Tireless (:12), Flying Machine (:25), Canusa (:45) and Night Moves (:48). Canusa acknowledged a protest, drops back 2 and Babe (1:58:02) moves up to 10th. Winning time for the 6.84 Nautical Miles was 1:52:27.

Fleet 1: Kritter ran away from Chuck Brown as that Plastic Fantastic Slapshot Flying Machine was educating fair Lady Pygmallon. Tigger then chugged Mint Julep and it was all over.

Fleet 2: Merry Hell tightened up the standings on Wing Nut who made Night Moves on Babe as Canusa can use a penalty to drop back to 5th. Bandit was robbed and Maranatha was followed by a good (Mr) Breeze.

Fleet 3: Tireless sent Blasen III down the tube as a Foxy Lady and a Spectre Flashed both Millers (Non Secundus(?) and San Sue She) who were DSQ (no certificate).

JAM Fleet: Ti-GI ducked in ahead of Cygnus who Coolwhipped Maureen, sending her to the Apothecary. Sandpiper flew away from Stalworth and Cheemaun jumps up to 8th as Ribit croaked out (DSQ - wrong class) and Phoenecla was banished (DSQ - cheated - either flew spinnaker or has the worlds largest jib).

Standings: 5 races no drops considered: Fleet 1: Kritter 5.00, Charlie Brown 14.25, Plastic Fantastic 15.75, Mint Julep 22.00, Pygmallon 26.75, Flying Machine 29.00, Tigger 37 and Slapshot 38.

Fleet 2: Babe 8.75, Night Moves 11.25, Merry Hell II 14.25, Wing Nut 19.25, Bandit 23, Canusa 26, Maranatha 30 and Ribit 41.

Fleet 3: Blasen III 6.25, Tireless 7.50, Spectre 19, Foxy Lady 21, Flash 21.75, Non Secundus (?) 31 and San-Sue-She 40.

JAM Fleet: Ti-Gi 9.50, Cygnus 17.25, Coolwhip 22.25, Apothecary 24.25, Maureen 24.50, Cheemaun 28.25, Phoeoecla 32.50, Sandpiper 33, Stalworth 34.

Skippers, please don't change fleets during a series. If you wish to change for the next series, let the Race Committee know at least a week before the first race of that series. Starting with the wrong fleet presents the one man Race Management with the impossible task of determining if all yachts have started properly.

Red Fox and Budweiser Olympic Triangle Registrations must be received by August 27th. Late entries will probably not be accepted (if the limit of 75 entrants is filled) but, if accepted, are $100.00! So mail your check (Bud Oly Tri-$5; Red Fox, over 30'-$40, 30' or under -$35) to Bill Kenifeck, Box 592, Charlevoix, 49720.

Power Yachts (and Cruising Sail Yachts), don't forget the Labor Day Weekend, Mackinac Island Cruise - Dick or Bette Donaldson, aboard the Red Keg, are the proper contacts.

...the End of the Mouses' Tale.

Flag football starts soon

It's time to sign up for flag football!

All boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the Charlevoix School District interested in playing flag football this fall may sign up at the Charlevoix Recreation Department through Friday, Aug. 30, Dwight Boss, City Recreation Director, has announced.

The annual draft will be held at the softball field on Carpenter Avenue at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept 7.

There will be a $5 fee to be paid at the time the player registers. The fee will cover the cost of the T-shirt you will wear while playing with your team. Mouthpieces and helments will also be available for purchase.

Volunteer coaches and referees are also needed for the program which is made possible only through interested persons who will donte their time. If you are interested, you are asked to contact the Recreation Department at 547-3253 or Boss at his home at 547-9098.

Cheerleaders win ribbons

The Charlevoix High School football cheerleading teams recently returned from cheerleading camp at Ferris State College in Big Rapids with 19 ribbons. The International Cheerleading Foundation, Inc. sponsored the summer camp which was held from Aug. 4-7. The varsity squad took eight ribbons; the junior varsity, five; and the freshmen, six.

BIG RAPIDS — Two Ferris State College administrators with over 50 years of combined experience on the Michigan high school and collegiate athletic scene were recently inducted into the prestigious "Michigan Sports Sages" at the group's annual meeting in Boyne Falls.

Bob Leach, assistant vice president for planning, development/alumni, and Dean Davenport, athletic director and a native of Charlevoix, were honored for their long-standing service to athletics. The Michigan Sports Sages, founded in 1955, is comprised of nearly 300 individuals who have contributed to the growth of athletics in the state of Michigan for at least 25 years.

Davenport came to Ferris in 1970, serving as assistant basketball coach, coordinator of athletics, and coordinator of the recreation and career activities department. After two years as acting division chairman for health, physical education, recreation and athletics, he was appointed athletic director in 1979.

During his Ferris tenure, Davenport has taken a leading role in the initiation of a grant-in-aid program for athletics, the rise of hockey to NCAA Division I status, the addition of varsity women's sports in track and cross country and leading Ferris to five straight President's Cup championships for athletic supremacy in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Davenport built a strong foundation of experience prior to his arrival at Ferris. He served as athletic director and head basketball coach at Iowa Wesleyan University and was an assistant basketball coach at Cal State-Northridge and Central Michigan University. In the high school ranks, he coached at Traverse City, Petoskey and Grant.

Davenport holds two degrees from Central Michigan, where he starred on the basketball courts for the Chippewas.

Parents of soccer players to meet

The Charlevoix County Youth Activities Program is sponsoring a mandatory soccer meeting for all parents of children, who are interested in participating in the Charlevoix Soccer League. This meeting will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 7 p.m. at the Charlevoix Township Field. All parents must attend, or their child will not be allowed to play.

For those who have not yet signed their child up, signups are still being accepted. For more information call 547-5930, or stop by our office at 203 Antrim Street-Annex Building, Charlevoix. All participants should be signed up before the mandatory meeting.

Volleyball tourney planned

The Charlevoix County Youth Activities Program is sponsoring a volleyball tournament for children and adults. The tournament will be held from 6:30-8 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 28 and 29, at Depot Beach in Charlevoix. Interested persons are responsible for getting their own teams together. Referees will be provided.

Instruction will be provided by Jo Shirtzinger the week prior to the tournament, 6:30-8 p.m., Monday-Friday, Aug. 19-23. For more information call the Youth Activities office at 547-5930, or stop by 203 Antrim Street, Charlevoix.

Boy Scouts at Camp Grielick

Nine members of Boy Scout Troop 11 spent a week at Camp Grielick, a camp near Traverse City operated by the Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council. The scouts learned additional camping skills and earned a total of 17 merit and 15 skill badges during their stay.

Making the trip were Tim Salmonson, senior patrol leader, Bill Burns, Gehry Wiesner, Mike Ochs, Steve Knlat, Gregg Seaman, Matt Seamon, Ron Rathjens and Dave Salmonson.

Three members of the troop, Burns, Dave Salmonson and Hal Chase, who had attended camp earlier as a staff member, were inducted into the Order of the Arrow.

Accompanying the scouts were their Scoutmaster Louis Edwards and former Assistant Scoutmaster, John Houting, who was on vacation from his teaching duties at an American School in Mainz, Germany.

Michael Wiesner assisted with the transportation.

Women vie for title

Townhouse met Sally Ann Company at 6:30 Tuesday in the second night of play in the Charlevoix Women's Softball double elimination tournament now underway.

Townhouse and Sally Ann Company are in the loser's bracket. In the second game of the night, Kwikie Printing took on Hoskins in the finals in the winner's bracket at 7:45 p.m.

The finals in the loser's bracket will be played at 6:30 p.m. and the finals of the tournament at 7:45 p.m. Thursday to determine the championship.

On Thursday, County State Bank defeated Townhouse 11-7 with Meda Kehrer allowing 11 hits. Sherry McFalls, who took the loss, gave up six.

Jody McDermott pitched Hoskins to a 6-5 win over Sally Ann Company, giving up five hits. Charla Martz allowed four.

In the third game, Kwikie Printing advanced to the finals in the winner's bracket along with Hoskins after defeating County State Bank 3-1 in a closely contested game. Kehrer allowed only four hits. Vickie Flowers, who took the loss, gave up five as her team went to the loser's bracket.

Days at Chicago Club remembered by caretaker

Ruth Ann Curtis wants city to appreciate the tourists

by ANNE KELLY

Charlevoix, like many other lakeside resort communities is dependent on the temporary overpopulation and mass confusion called the tourist industry.

And one of Charlevoix's senior observors of the scene thinks we should appreciate it for what it is and do more to protect the lakefront from condos.

"We can encourage factories and small plants to our area and we can build multiple housing units all we want, but what really brings economy to Charlevoix is its oldest business, the resort business," explains long-time resident Ruth Ann Curtis.

Ruth Ann, with her late husband Franklin, is not only a native of Charlevoix, but also has had the unique opportunity of experiencing the other side of Charlevoix's summer coin. From 1955 until 1979 when they retired, the Curtis' worked at Chicago Club. Ruth Ann managing the clubhouse, Franklin the grounds and cottages. Ruth Ann, as a result, is an historian of sorts of a wealth of Chicago Club trivia which she willingly shares upon request with various community groups. She has spoken on this her favorite topic to Kiwanis Club, the Kappa Sigma Sorority and the Charlevoix Historical Society.

"I like the people I met; I like them as people," continues this personable lady whom Chicago Club children lovingly called "Ma" during her tenure there. Ruth Ann's job included managing the kitchen, the dining room, the clubhouse and all the social functions.

"In the eary years, we had a dormitory which housed a staff of chefs, waitresses and busboys, and served three meals a day in the dining room," Ruth Ann explains.

It was a day when cleaning women earned a meager $.25 an hour, and in contrast, elegance and propriety of wealth members enjoyed their zenith. There was a bellhop to open the clubhouse door for guests, and most families brought their maids and butlers along to cater to their needs. Children were well-mannered and formality reigned supreme.

As the years passed, according to Mrs. Curtis, so did some of the pretense. And in the dining room, lunch in the clubhouse was eliminated first, then the breakfast crowd dwindled. As the cottages became more modernized, so did their kitchens. Soon a new generation of more casual entertainers emerged. In recent years, dinners have been catered by local restaurants and served only several times a week in the clubhouse.

"When I tell you about Chicago Club," Ruth Ann explains, "you can draw a parallel with the Belvedere Club." Both resort communities celebrated their respective centennials recently. Both Associations are steeped in traditions that go back four, five and six generations.

"I enjoyed my association with Chicago Club members very much. I learned a lot from them ... and I still visit families and friends that I made who made Chicago Club their summer home."

As we talked, Ruth Ann was working on a crocheted afghan, a wedding gift for the great granddaughter of former Chicago Club patriarch Earl T. Babst. Babst who died at the ripe old age of 96, is Mrs. Curtis's example of a resort visitor who loved Charlevoix.

"He would come to Charlevoix in late April, though his cottage did not have central heating ... and we would often have to sweep snow from his steps. He dearly loved Charlevoix and spent many hours writing the history of this region. His elaborate collection was donated to the Charlevoix Library before his death. "Every day, rain or shine, he walked downtown in his Tyrolean hat with a feather in it, suit smelling slightly of moth balls, vest spats and cane. He loved the fact that many merchants spoke to him on the street. Every winter he would write me several letters reminding me that we would attend graduation at the high school in June ... when the townspeople stopped and spoke to him, he beamed all over," Mrs. Curtis remembers.

"The fact is," she points out, "Charlevoix needs her resort business. I know from working at the Chicago Club how much money is spent locally, by those visitors on carpenters, electricians, grocery stores and gas stations. This is not to mention the philanthropic donations made to the hospital or other townsponsored projects."

Mrs. Curtis believes, that a tendency of many townspeople, is to complain about the inconveniences that the summer influx of visitors causes, instead of remembering the benefits implied by their presence.

"Sometimes we the townspeople are snobs, while most of our visitors go out of their way to be friendly and are generally eager to know more about Charlevoix."

She would advocate any measures taken to beautify and improve our town, but is adamantly opposed to the recent movement which would ring the lake with condos.

"We should keep Charlevoix beautiful, not only for ourselves but so that tourists continue to want to come here. We should cater to that which draws them here — our lakefront," she concludes. "The resort business is our bread and butter."

Obituaries

LOUIS J. KNUDTSON

Funeral services for Louis James Knudtson, 21, were held Tuesday at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Casimir Zawackie officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Knudtson was the victim of a drowning accident in lake Michigan Aug. 10.

Born in Chicago March 18, 1964, Mr. Knudtson moved to Charlevoix with his parents in 1968. He attended Charlevoix High School. He had been employed by the Kokosing Construction Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., prior to returning to Charlevoix earlier in the summer. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

He is survived by his parents, Jerome and Lillian Knudtson of Charlevoix; a sister, Linda J. of Charlevoix and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Christine Knudtson of Norridge, Ill. A brother, Lindsey, preceded him in death in 1971 as a result of a drowning accident on Lake Charlevoix at the age of 11 years.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday evening.

GARRET McMAHON

Graveside services for Garrett Winston Burke McMahon, 3½, who died Aug. 5 at Tampa, Fla., were held Monday at Brookside Cemetery. The Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki of St. Mary's Church officiated.

Garrett is the son of Thomaa E. and Sandra (Burke) McMahon of MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla., and Harold A. Broman, Jr. of Petoskey.

Born Feb. 25, 1982, at Petoskey, Garrett was a recipient and member of the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation and had attended the Char-Em Intermediate School District Developmental Needs School in East Jordan prior to going to Florida with his parents earlier this year.

Besides his parents, he is survived by paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Broman, Sr., of Petoskey; step-paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. McMahon of Roseville, Calif.; maternal grandparents, Mrs. Patricia Burke of Petoskey and Dale Burke of Traverse City; paternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hankins of Petoskey; maternal great-grandmothers, Mrs. Marguerite Clark and Mrs. Minnie Burke, both of Charlevoix; step-great-grandparents, Donald Roth of Reno, Nev., and Mrs. Ida McMahon of Sacramento, Calif.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Chamber Chatter

Charlevoix is such a busy place these days. Some seem to think there are more people around than ever.

- The 27th Annual Waterfront Art Fair was another big success. Special thanks to the 1985 Waterfront Art Fair Committee: Cissy Bickersteth, Barbara Bump, Mary Ann Chew, Alicia Christoph, Edith Gilbert, Eileen Heck, Marge Martin, Beth McGraw, Sally McNamara, Nancy Porter and Suzi Reis.

Charlevoixan wins quilt

Holly (Garten) Patenge of Charlevoix was the winner of the handcrafted quilt depicting historical scenes of Charlevoix raffled Saturday by the Charlevoix Area Hisotrical Society.

The quilt was handcrafted by the Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church for the Historical Society as a fundraising project.

Fire at Wynkoop Home

A fire at the Larry Wynkoop home on M-66 at 10:48 p.m. Saturday remains under investigation by the Charlevoix Fire Department, according to Fire Chief John Martin.

Martin said that the fire department was called to the Wynkoop home located a mile outside the city limits after an oil lamp in use in the house fell from a table, breaking and throwing kerosene about the living area of the three-bedroom frame structure covered with aluminum siding.

The entire living room-kitchen area was quickly engulfed in flames and the intense heat in the confined area severely damaged the bedroom area of the house.

Township open house

Charlevoix Township will hold an open house for its new hall, fire equipment and recreation field on Sunday Aug. 18 from 2-4 p.m. The facility is located at 106 Waller Road. Residents of the township are invited to the open house.

Sen. Irwin pledges help in lake plan

State Senator Mitch Irwin, D-Sault Ste. Marie, heard from a variety of community leaders on the issue of management of Lake Charlevoix at an informal meeting held at LaCroft condominium on Wednesday, August 14.

The meeting was organized by Howard Neilson, president of WATCH, Inc.(Water and Air Team Charlvoix) in hope of generating state support for the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee.

After hearing from each of the 13 city and county officials, environmentalists, and developers, Irwin gave them his support.

"We in the north country are on the cutting edge of lakes conservation planning," he said. The old ideas of management planning – sending plans from the state down to the people – didn't work, Irwin noted.

"Statewide water planning must be done in, with, and through the local units of government and interest groups," he said.

"Eyes are looking north on this issue," Irwin added.

He said the state would be very interested in inland watershed planning as the next step in Governor Blanchard's water strategy. The first phase, he pointed out, was the recently signed Great Lakes water protection package.

Irwin questioned why more local money had not been committed to the lake planning group. He suggested prospects for a matching grant with the state would be good if the local groups could raise the necessary funds. "Government folks love matching grants," he said.

The state senator also encouraged those present at the meeting to come up with a plan for funding. "You have my commitment to work with you," he concluded.

Neilson opened the meeting by saying that "We believe that we can have economic development that is not at the expense of the environment."

He added that the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee could be used as a model for the entire state. "The weakness of the lake management committee," he told Irwin, "is that they have no funding."

Among the other participants making statements at the meeting were:

Terry DeBruyn, former district conservationist and currently environmental consultant. "Our time is better spent in the planning stages rather than afterwards," he said. "I am in favor of a watershed, rather than a piecemeal, approach."

Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. "The Chamber endorses growth," she said, "but we are very concerned that it be controlled growth. Personally, as a resident on the lake, I feel that it is now or never for the lake."

Carol Magee, executive director of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council. "Of the nine lakes within our area, Lake Charlevoix is experiencing the most growth of any." She noted that "zoning is a good way to plan for growth" and that "enforcement of the state wetlands act is im-

Students prepare lake zoning study

by DOUG TRUAX

Calling the zoning surrounding Lake Charlevoix "a patchwork quilt of regulations, zoning districts, and requirements," a study done by students at the Au Sable Institute concludes that "any steps which would lead to greater uniformity in zoning in the Lake Charlevoix watershed would have to be considered desirable."

The study, presented to the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee on Wednesday, Aug. 14, was the summer project of the Natural Resources Practicum of the Institute, taught this year by Steven Monsma, former state legislator and currently a member of the Natural Resources Commission.

The students compared zoning in the 10 units of government (seven townships and three cities) surrounding Lake Charlevoix.

They found a total of 108 zoning districts in the 10 ordinances, no two of which were the same. "The result is a thicket of zoning regulations which sometimes overlap, sometimes work at cross purposes with each other, and sometimes leave gaps," the report concludes.

Among the prime deficiencies in the zoning requirements, the study says, is control of multi-family housing. "It is crucial that the regulations governing the development of multi-family residences be made tighter and more uniform," the study notes. "Nowhere is the lack of uniformity among the ten municipalities more self-defeating than it is in the multi-family zoning districts."

The report points out that the number of multi-family units which can be placed on an acre of ground varies from a low of 2.2 (Bay Township) to a high of 15 (Charlevoix Township and City of Charlevoix.).

"This means that in one township or city up to 600 units could be placed on a 40 acre tract, while in a nearby township or city only 88 units could be placed on the same size tract of land.

"What one municipality – by way of strict density rgulations – is seeking to protect can be destroyed by another municipality," the students' study adds. "Overdevelopment on one part of Lake Charlevoix results in degradation of the entire Lake and the entire area."

The study also cited a lack of provision for multi-family development along the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix. "The current practice seems to be to zone the Lake Charlevoix shoreline for single-family residential. Then when a developer wishes to develop multi-

Buses make trial run

A special bus run to introduce children who are attending kindergarten for the first time to their new mode of transportation, the school bus, has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 29, Vincent R. Olach, business manager, has announced.

Buses will leave the bus garage at 9:30 a.m. and stop at the home of every child presently registered for kindergarten. The driver will discuss the schedule with the parents and take the child on a tour of the bus. Parents are asked to be at home at the time of the visit.

The first day of school should be a happy occasion for a child, something he or she has been looking forward to for a long time. Introducing the child to the new mode of transportation is meant to make the occasion even more memorable for the child, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren said of the practice.

Kindergarten children will attend their first regular day of school on Thursday, Sept 5.

Attitudes studied soon

Some 3,000 Charlevoix County property owners will soon be getting a questionnaire in the mail asking for their opinions on a wide variety of issues concerning Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake.

The attitude survey is being conducted by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission as a part of its efforts to develop a lake management plan in conjunction with the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee.

The survey, which contains 21 questions including background information, will take approximately 15-20 minutes to complete, according to Rod Cortright, county extension director and a member of the lake advisory group.

The questionnaire will be sent to property owners in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan and in the seven townships bordering Lake Charlevoix. Residents of Wilson Township will also be polled.

Cortright says the large sample is necessary so that a representative sample is drawn from each unit of government. The townships and cities will then be able to use the results in their own planning, Cortright adds.

Questionnaires are expected to be in the mail by Friday, August 23. County officials are encouraging everyone receiving them to respond as promptly as possible. The higher the response rate, Cortright explains, the better the reliability of the results.

"This survey will determine the direction in which the planning committee will focus its efforts. Therefore, it is very important that everyone's voice be heard," Cortright concludes.

Woman dies during Garden Is. ritual

by PEG OHLE

A 39-year-old woman from Mexico was pronounced dead Sunday, August 11, after being evacuated from Garden Island by a Coast Guard helicopter.

Results of an autoposy of the woman, Marcella Louise Wanta Vogt of San Angelo, are not yet available pending further tests by the pathologist at Burns Medical Center in Petoskey.

Ms. Vogt was on Garden Island, one of the Beaver Islands, participating in the rituals of Minisskitigan Drum, Inc., which is described as an organization to "further recognition of the value and need to preserve and maintain the traditional culture and beliefs of Native Americans."

Part of the Minisskitigan rituals is the "Vision Quest", which requires a fast of three days followed by sitting in an enclosure heated by hot rocks.

Ms. Vogt lost consciousness and stopped breathing while in the hot enclosure, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, who went to the Island to investigate the death. She could not be revived by cardiopulmonary resuscitation and was then airlifted to the hospital.

The leader of Minisskitigan Drum on Garden Island is Keewaydinoquay, usually called "Kee", an Indian medicine woman, who, during a long career, has taught Ethno-Botany at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin. Except for the summer months, she makes her home in Milwaukee.

Hayes Township resident and free lance writer Tom Dammann interviewed Kee for a story in the September 2, 1981 issue of the Courier. He had met her on previous occasions since at that time she had been returning to Garden Island for 10 summers.

Dammann's story indicates that Kee had been brought up on the Leelanau Peninsula and at the age of nine was apprenticed to a herb mother in the Indian village of Onominee and there learned the healing physical and spiritual properties of vegetation. Kee later received a master's degree in botany from Central Michigan University and a master's degree in biology from Michigan State University, and had studied toward a doctorate at the University of Michigan. She also taught in the Leland school system.

Kee is the author of a book, "Puhdohee for People", which, according to Dammann, is a narrative account of the purposes for which she has seen fungi used among her people. The book was published by the Harvard University Press.

Keewaydinoquay

When Kee first returned to northern Michigan, it was to locate the cabin on Garden Island built by her Great Uncle Shawboose, whom she had visited once in her childhood. That cabin, built in 1847, is now her summer home.

Dammann and his wife, Sara Gay, had also met Ms. Vogt on an earlier occasion. He described her as a brilliant woman who translated scientific journals from English into Spanish and Spanish into English. Ms. Vogt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laughland, who live in Massachusetts, came to Charlevoix when they learned of their daughter's death and contacted the Dammanns, whose name they found in their daughter's address book.

Kee wrote a beautiful letter to Ms. Vogt's mother and father, Dammann said. He called the incident an "unfortunate accident" and said he and his wife were "devastated". About Kee he said, "She is a remarkable woman but controversial. Many of her patients are white men and women, many of them lost souls, and she tries to help them."

Fire station site ok'd

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council approved a site plan for a new fire station on the site of the current post office, but not before Dale Boss turned a few heads with a far-reaching proposal for relocating the fire and police departments.

Council voted five to one, with Raymond Wood the lone dissenting vote, to accept the plan put forward by City Manager Michael Wiesner for a new fire hall to the east of City Hall on Mason Street. Council modified the proposal only to require two large doors rather than four small ones, a change that would add about $5,000 to the project costs according to Wiesner's estimates.

Boss interjected an idea that he said "sounds far out but merits taking a look at." He proposed that the city buy the Fochtman property on U.S. 31 between Pine River Lane and Dixon and relocate the fire and police departments to the existing buildinga there.

Boss said the move would give both departments greater visibility, with the added benefit of moving the police out of what he termed "the potato pit" in the basement of city hall.

School staffing discussed

Staffing for the 1985-86 school year was the chief topic discussed at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education held Monday.

Each principal advised of any changes in his school - Vane H. Smith, K-5 principal, said his staff was all in place. With Sally McNamara taking a leave of absence, Kathy Gowell and Carol Elliott will each teach parttime with Elliott having the Program for the Academically Talented the other half-day; Pat Carland will teach third grade fulltime; Gayle Gennett, counselor at the high school, will become the elementary school first counselor and Coreen Henry will be library technician.

Dennis VanGuilder said the only changes at the middle school will find Vincent Chew as a sixth grade teacher and Laura Keller teaching Algebra I in addition to General Math. Tori Fisher will now be Physi-

Mr. Moss, a summer resident at teh Belvedere Club for more than 50 years, died Thursday, Aug. 15. at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Tennessee Jan. 16, 1900, Mr. Moss had lived in St. Louis, Mo., for many years and had been a summer resident at the Belvedere Club for more than half a century. He had served with the U.S. Marine Corps during World War 1.

Surviving are his wife, Helen; two daughters, Mrs. M. (Stella) Alexander Jr. and Mrs. Carlos (Susan) Reese, both of St. Louis, Mo.; 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials the the Charlevoix Area Hospital or St. Mary's School.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

BURL D. HUBER

Funeral services for Burl D. Huber, 77, of Charlevoix and Midland, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home Thursday with the Rev. Philip Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiating. Graveside services were held Thursday afternoon at Midland Memorial Gardens. Dr. Orvill McKay officiated.

Mr. Huber died Aug. 12 at the Petoskey Geriatric Center.

Born in Ithaca Feb. 27, 1908, Mr. Huber grew up in St. Louis. He was graduated from Michigan State University with a B.A. degree in 1933. In 1934 he joined the accounting department at Midland Dow Company; in 1943 became head of the accounting department at Dow Corning and later became treasurer of the company. On Sept. 8, 1934, he was married to the former Marie M. Dunkley at Shepherd.

Huber retired to Torch Lake in 1968 and to Charlevoix in 1979. He and his wife spent the winter months in Dunedin, Fla.

He was a member of the Midland United Methodist Church, past president of the Midland Kiwanis Club, past lieutenant governor of the Kiwanis Club of Michigan and a director of the Midland National Bank for 19 years.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. James (Judy) Crawford of Bonita Springs, Fla.; two sons, Robert K. of Higgins Lake and Dr. E. Alan of Tulsa, Okla.; six grandchildren and two brothers, Adelbert of St. Louis and Ferris (Bill) of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorials to the American Diabetes Association or the Parkinson's Disease Foundation. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

DAVID A. BOSS

Funeral services for David A. Boss, 27, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Larry Grooters of the Comunity Reformed Church officiated. Interment was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Boss died Thursday, Aug. 15, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Charlevoix Dec. 26, 1957, Mr. Boss had attended the Charlevoix schools. He was an avid outdoorsman and a member of Ducks Unlimited.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Beverly) Boss of Charlevoix: two brothers, Daniel L. of Traverse City and Douglas J. of Charlevoix; three sisters, Susan of Bryon Center, Lisa of Menominee, Wis., and Barbie, at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boss of Charlevoix and his maternal grandfather, Lee Danforth, Sr., of East Jordan.

WILLIAM B. HENDERSHOT

Graveside services for William B. Hendershot, 41, were held Monday at Brookside Cemetery. The Rev. Cecil Drost officiated.

Born in Detroit June 19, 1944, Mr. Hendershot had lived there until coming to Charlevoix in 1978 to live.

His only survivor is his mother, Rosina Hendershot of Charlevoix and Lady Lake, Fla.

Memorials to Bergmann Center have been suggested.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The private yacht "Hum" which traveled between Charlevoix and East Jordan.

The "Hum", pictured above in the harbor in East Jordan, was originally the "Pilgrim", a private yacht of the Newberry family, built in 1876. She was bought in 1904 by Capt. George Jepson, converted to a commercial vessel, and operated on a regular schedule between Charlevoix and East Jordan until about 1915. Capt. Jepson carried a small bore cannon on the ship which was used for saluting purposes.

"Hum" is a rather unusual name for a commercial vessel, although one should not be surprised at any name on anything that floats. Willard Smith, owner of the Charlevoix Sentinel, had a daughter named Florence. When she was a small child, she hummed as she played with her dolls. It wasn't long before she was "Hum" Smith to everyone.

The Smiths were very close friends of the Jepsons. When Capt. Jepson bought the "Pilgrim" and opened the run from Charlevoix to East Jordan, he renamed her "Hum" because the boat, when under way, made a humming sound that reminded him of "Hum" Smith.

Dawson Way, president of the Lake Charlevoix Association. "From a fishing aspect, a boating aspect, and a development aspect, poor Lake Charlevoix is really under the gun," he said. "So many of our decisions are purely judgemental. Our lake really needs more technical, scientific data."

Way said be was not anti-growth. "We need to have growth that fits. If we can come up with a master plan for the lake then we can say whether (a particular development) fits or not."

Rick Smith, developer. "We are talking about the quality of life within the watershed." He said growth was inevitable – the issue is the degree of growth and the quality of growth.

Larry Sullivan, county planner. He outlined the work of the Lake Charlevoix planning committee. Noting that the county is experiencing a "tremendous surge of pent-up demand" caused by falling interest rates, Sullivan said there was "a lot of change occuring – some good, some bad." He noted that efforts at county-wide zoning in 1972-73 had been defeated by referendum. "We may be seeing a revival of county-wide zoning."

ESTHER B. SHEARER

Graveside services were held Saturday, August 17, at Brookside Cemetery for Esther B. Shearer, 84, a former Charlevoix resident.

Church serfvices were held Friday, August 16, at St. Phillip's Catholic Church in Reed City.

The former Esther Hoffman was born in New London, Wisconsin in 1901 and spent 20 years in Charlevoix before moving to Reed City, where she passed away.

The deceased was married to George Shearer in 1939. He preceded her in death in 1975.

Survivors included a stepson, Eli Brault, of Bradington, Washington, and a grandson, Edward Rogalla, of Reed City.

Democrats hold meetings

Charlevoix County Democrats met August 6 and discussed the successful barbecued chicken dinner they held for the public at the Polish Festival. The tickets drawn in the fundraising raffle gave Amy Glaser of Petoskey the portable TV; Robert Hublick of Elmira the $50 and Darryl Tennis of Lansing the $25 prizes.

Nearly every county in the 11th Congressional District was represented at a dinner and round table held in the Gaylord Fire Hall August 2. Rick Wiener, Michigan Democratic party chair, was the featured speaker and opportunity was provided for informal discussions.

An exceedingly useful and fast-paced training session was held in the Holiday Inn August 3. Helen Root, Michigan vice chair, guided a roster of speakers through three hours of subjects from fundraising to delegate recruitment.

The next Charlevoix County Democratic meeting will be held September 17, 7:30 p.m. in Charlevoix Coucil Chambers.

Getting around Mt. McSauba

Brochure details nature trails, plants

by PEG OHLE

Two years of planning and volunteer labor by a group of Charlevoix area residents have resulted in the printing of an illustrated brochure and map showing the two-and-a-half miles of nature trails in the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area adjoining the city of Charlevoix.

According to Jan Glass, who spearheaded the project, the trail was first laid out by a group of Youth Corps workers for use as a cross country ski trail. It turned out to be a not-so-good ski trail but its possibilities as a nature trail were noted and work began converting it.

Charlevoix school children, under the direction of Jack Gebott and Pete Spieles, busied themselves helping to groom the trail and inventory the many kinds of plant life that are part of the area.

The trail is now marked by wood chips and is easy to follow, according to Mrs. Glass. Future plans call for some log steps to replace steep hilly spots, buildup of some eroded areas, and labeling of the trees along the trail.

The brochure contains an ecological survey of the Mt. McSauba area by Dr. Roger M. Knutson of Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, who has a summer home in Charlevoix. After mentioning some of the many varieties of trees, bushes, and flowers found on Mt. McSauba, he concludes, "A brief walk around and up the slopes of the Mt. McSauba area can show you a variety of plants that are found together in only a limited set of locations around the northern end of Lake Michigan and on parts of the south shore of Lake Superior."

The historical importance of preserving Mt. McSauba in its natural state is brought out in another article in the brochure, an interview with Jay Oliver, a Charlevoix resident of Ottawa heritage.

Oliver relates that Mt. McSauba was known to early Native American Indians as "Been-kom-a-Gog", which means, "a clean place".

"The upper vantage points of the hills were sacred to the Indians of the Ottawa tribe and were used for religious ceremonial purposes during the summer months," Oliver explains.

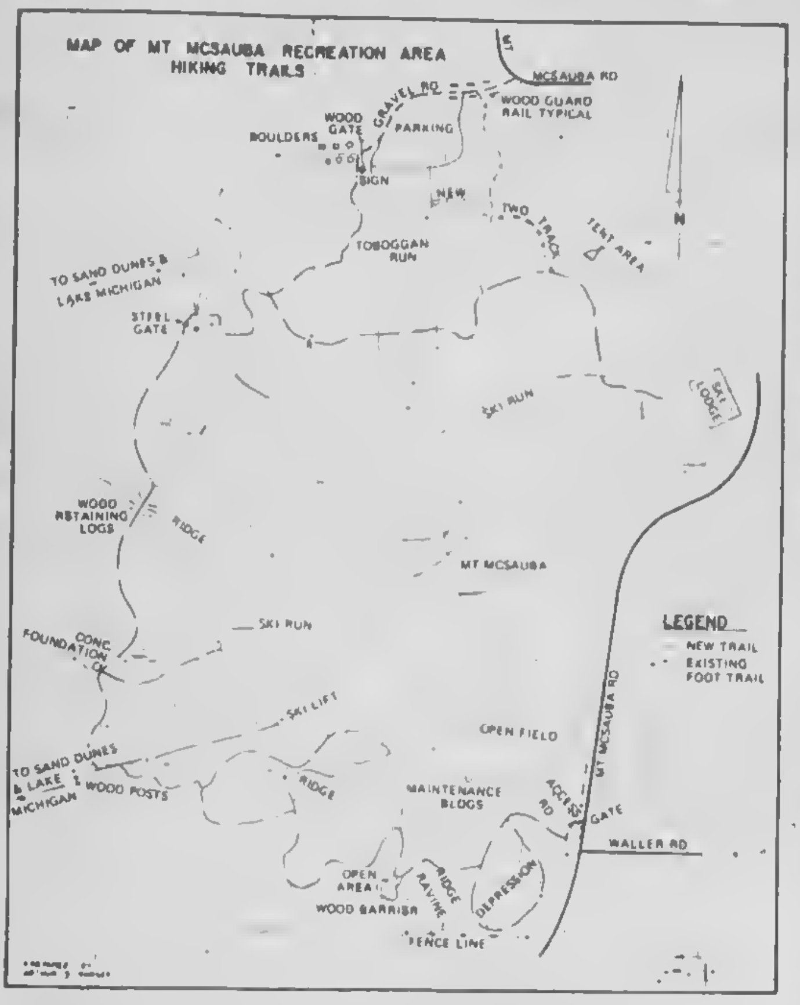
In later years, the area was given the name Mt. McSauba after Alexander A-mik-o-sabe, which means, "Submerging Beaver". The name was later shortened to McSauba or McSauby when he relocated from Beaver Island after the end of the Civil War, built a log cabin and settled on land next to the high hills.

The ecology and history of Mt. McSauba, therefore, provide ample reason for the trail and its continuous upkeep, Mrs. Glass believes. She envisions it as a learning area for adults as well as school children and a pleasure experience for everyone.

Mrs. Glass and Annabelle Webb of the Charlevoix Garden Club have developed two notebooks of description and illustration of Mt. McSauba plants. She hopes that some time there will be a nature lodge along the trail so everyone can tell what they are looking at.

The Mt. McSauba Nature Trail brochure is also illustrated with sketches by Mrs. Glass of some of the plants. The trail map was prepared by Arthur Ranger, and the cover page was illustrated by Beth Jones of Charlevoix while she was still in high school.

The Mt. McSauba Nature Trail brochure will soon be available in various place throughout the city, including the schools.



Accident sends 13 to hospital

Thirteen persons were sent to the Charlevoix Area Hospital following a two-car crash at U.S. 31 South and Barnard Road at 10:21 p.m. Saturday, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies.

All were transported by Charlevoix ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital where three of the 13 were hospitalized: Margaret Davis, 77, Charlevoix; Barbara Tignanelli, 53, Lake George, and Karen Wolletz, 39, East Detroit.

Mrs. Wolletz was released Sunday. On Monday Mrs. Davis was in fair condition and Mrs. Tignanelli was reported in serious condition.

The others were treated and released.

According to deputies, a 1985 Dodge van, driven by Walter W. Wolletz, 51, East Detroit, was approaching the intersection when the brakes on the vehicle failed and it crashed into the side of a southbound vehicle, a 1977 Dodge van, driven by Ray Bourcier, 29, Sterling Heights.

Passengers in the Wolletz vehicle besides Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Wolletz were Sieglina Wolletz, 31, of Germany and Steven Wolletz, 13, of East Detroit.

Passengers in the Bourcier vehicle, besides Barbara Tignanelli, were Melanie Bourcier, 26, Sterling Heights, Frank Tignanelli, 34, Paula Tignanelli, 27, David Goodrich, 35, and Cathy Goodrich, 30, all of Evart, and Joe Tignanelli, 54, Lake George.

Wolletz was cited for failure to observe a stop sign.

Tarasa Noirot, center, was honored last week for five years of service as counselor at Camp McSauba. Teresa recently graduated from Alma College with a degree in teaching and will be doing student teaching this fall. She is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Also shown, left to right, are counselors Steve Schmidt, Jeff Greene, Jim Buchanan, and camp director Jack Bebott.

Tomato days

By Doug Truax

Maples are already turning red in the swamps and the fields that only a few weeks ago were as lush as rain forests are now sere. Goldenrod and knapweed fill the countryside. We are once again suddenly transported into the most glorious season – autumn.

Those who cling to the hope of an extended summer will lament the fact, but the the signs are clear. Summer is over.

Soon even the streets will thin of their thick crop of tourists.

Before we begin to celebrate the fall season, let us not miss August's most notable event – the return of the real tomato.

For some 11 months most of us have had to suffer without this wonderful vegetable. In its place we have bought and been served a pale, pinkish imitation that has the consistency of polystyrene.

These imiatation tomatoes, humorist Garrison Keilor has noted, are strip mined in Texas. They are then shipped throughout the country where restaurants have them sawed into quarters and placed on salad bars. Grocery stores use them to brighten produce section – they add an interesting dash of pink among the otherwise monotonous sea of green vegetables.

Be forewarned, however. They are not to be eaten. Should you be able to actually pierce one with your fork and mistakenly ingest it, you will find it has about the same toxicity as the plastic bananas people put out in wooden bowls to fool children.

The FDA has, as yet, taken no action on the imitation tomatoes and I expect the strip mining interests will fight to keep them. They will win. For the imitation tomato does all that we ask of a good food. It is durable, which is to say it will withstand the being run over by a semi trailer without ill effect, and it will not decay. You can keep one of these beauties for 38 years without any visible sign of deterioration.

The true tomato, for those who have forgotten, is red not pink, often has little black spots and cracks on it surface, and has a heavy, juicy feel in the hand. You can cut it with a knife or bite into it. When you do you will notice a thick, rich aroma. Too little has been said or written about the aroma of tomatoes. Some industrious graduate student should do a treatise on the subject.

True tomatoes, of course, require pepper to bring them to the ultimate taste threshold. It is interesting to note that pepper has no effect whatever on a false tomato (Lycopersicon falsica).

A friend. who keeps careful records of such things notes that the earliest she ever had ripe tomatoes in the garden was in mid-July. The latest was on August 12. This year they are even later. The cool summer has apparently delayed maturation.

Downstate, I am told, they have been eating tomatoes for months. Allowing for the usual downstater's tendency to exaggerate, I am still envious.

Which brings us to the obvious point. Why can't real tomatoes be shipped to us throughout the summer? Or throughout the year for that matter. We have a year-round supply of bananas that taste like bananas. And if we put our heads together I am sure we can come up with other store-bought fruits and vegetables that taste reasonably like the real thing.

The situation defies all logic. And yet the imitation tomatoes get paler and harder and more ubiquitous. Is there a conspiracy here larger than just the strip mining industry? The question demands a presidential commission or a congressional inquiry.

Until then we must content ourselves with this brief moment of satisfaction...summer's greatest achievement and a harbinger of fall.

Letters to the Editor:

Township decision making faulted

Dear Editor:

It was great political theatre but poor decision making at last week's meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board.

It's been said that "land is the canvas upon which all our lives are painted" so it is vitally important that land use decisions be made with care.

Supervisor Oscar Stroud tossed an imaginary coin in the air as he said, "Oh, I guess I'll vote yes" to spot zone a piece of property at the north entrance to Charlevoix-the-Beautiful for a used car lot.

This, despite the objections of county planners and the fact that it was a reward of sorts for illegal operation of the lot the past several years.

His vote forced Trustee Nancy Rajewski to break a tie. While she deliberated members in the audience called out "Oh, go ahead and rezone", "c'mon, give the fellow what he wants" and so on.

As for rezoning the Water's Edge property with its far greater impact on the quality of life in the area, most of the trustees seemed more interested in accommodating the East Lansing developer than in addressing the concerns of local residents.

Many felt it was only wise to have density factors and site plan review matters in place prior to rezoning to ensure environmental protection and to minimize any adverse impact which might occur from the addition of several hundred dwelling units. Only Trustee Dale Glass supported this principle.

Ideally, development should occur only after a management plan for all of Lake Charlevoix has been completed. Since this isn't likely, citizens should attend meetings of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board to encourage it to amend its zoning ordinances to allow some controls over how property is developed. The next meeting of the board is Wednesday, Aug. 21, at Stroud Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Don't knock competition

By Bob Clock

High-paid advertising moguls apparently never learn.

The mailman recently delivered a press release from the Breyers Yogurt Co. announcing a new advertising campaign. Fine. Every company needs a new advertising campaign every once in a while or they are going to lull me to sleep.

But according to the press handout, this campaign is going to pit Breyers yogurt against Dannon yogurt — and Breyers makes no bones about it.

From here it sounds like a replay of Burger King's long-standing attack on MacDonald's — and I want no part of it. I like them both and life is absolutely too short to have to choose up sides over who supplies my fast-food — or my yogurt.

Incidentally, since I first commented on Burger King's unrelenting TV campaign against MacDonald's several months ago, the response has been overwhelmingly in favor of MacDonald's. About 100 percent, I'd say. Folks just don't want to become involved in someone else's squabbles. It makes them uncomfortable. When they're forced to the wall, chances are they'll go with the underdog. It's human nature.

But somehow the people who dream up advertising campaigns have missed all this. Somewhere they got the notion that they gain ground by taking cheap shots at the competition. Which just isn't so.

How should Breyers advertise its product? Simple:

Provide a better product at a more reasonable price — and tell the world about it in every way possible.

But don't knock the competition.

Comparative advertising is suspect from the word go, because we all know who is doing the comparing.

Furthermore, putting the name of your competitor before the public has never been a very smart advertising technique in my book.

One of the most effective TV advertising campaigns this year has been the rib-tickling series by Bob and Doug MacKenzie on behalf of Pizza Hut. Viewers are left with real positive feelings toward Bob, Doug and Pizza Hut — which is the name of the game.

I guess it boils down to accenting the possitive and eliminating the negative. Period.

I HOPE YOU picked up your share of bargains at Charlevoix's big sidewalk sale last week. Everyone else did.

The sale appears to be getting larger every year, with as many or visitors that the Hobbycraft Show, the Venetian Festival or the Waterfront Art Fair, all of which attracted near-record crowds this summer.

Negotiating Bridge Street during the sale was well-nigh impossible unless you walked in the street and dodged traffic. The sale has become a veritable oriental bazaar, with Bridge Street the Ginza of the western world.

Zoning study

family dwellings on the Lake, he or she comes to the proper zoning body for the necessary rezoning."

This leaves the initiative in the hands of the developer, the students say. They argue that a better method would be to zone those areas where sound land use planning suggests multi-family units should be.

Greenbelts and setbacks of at least 50 feet should be required for all structures built on Lake Charlevoix or a adjacent to wetlands or streams, the study says. Five of the ten zoning ordinances have no such provision.

"In light of the demonstrated ability of greenbelts to absorb fertilizers and other nutrients, to prevent soil erosion, and in other ways to proect water quality in the face of development, we believe this to be a crucial step to take in order to protect the Lake when development does occur," the study concludes.

The report also calls for the designation of more natural areas on the lake, noting that Young State Park is the only one of any size currently in existence.

Tightly controlled agricultural zones should also be defined, the study says. "Doing so would have the beneficial effects both of maintaining agriculture as a viable part of the community and of slowing down and channeling development."

Environmental impact statements and greater citizen involvement in review of zoning decisions should also be required where there is to be significant development, according to the report. "These two steps taken together would mean the public would be able both to know and to speak on the consequences of contemplated zoning decisions.

"Ultimately, the Lake Charlevoix area will be no better than what its citizens demand."

The Au Sable Institute is located near Mancelona and provides classes for students from some 18 small, liberal arts colleges throughout the country. It focuses on environmental studies and students can get credits toward their home college. It is also licensed by the Michigan Department of Education to give vocational certificates. In addition to classes, the school attempts to be involved in the surrounding community, Monsma explained, and to provide programs for area school children.

Members of the planning advisory committee expressed their appreciation to the students for the study. Copies of the final report are available from County Planner Larry Sullivan in the County Building.

Council meeting

bulance could be left at the current fire station, Boss said, to protect the south side of the city when the bridge is up.

He also recommended reselling some of the property to the north to the government for the relocation of the post office. "Let's not put a post office on a postage stamp," Boss said. "Put it on the U.S. highway."

The proposal would alleviate future parking problems in the downtown area, Boss added, and could be financed from existing revenues.

Buying the Fochtman property would also prevent its use by other, less desirable, enterprises, Boss also noted.

Of the current plan before council Boss said: "I think you are building a Model T here with what you are trying to do."

The proposal took the councilmen by surprise, and although several expressed interest in the idea, the majority felt the current plan was too far along and that it was desirable to keep all city functions close to city hall.

In other action, council acted on the following matters:

–Approved a site plan for Wilmot Electric at the corner of Mercer Blvd. and Taylor Rd. Council will allow Wilmot to put in a gravel drive until such time as Taylor Rd. is paved; he will then be required to pave the drive as well.

Wilmot will not be allowed to enter the property from Mercer. His site plan shows the building set back some 200 feet from Mercer and hidden from view by existing trees and vegetation.

–Voted 3-2 to recommend that the state Liquor Control Commission deny applications for hard liquor licenses from Glen's Market and 7-Eleven. Councilmen Raymond Wood, Earl Muma, and Shirley Roloff voted against the license applications. William Bellows and Robert Timms voted for it. Michael Greeley abstained.

–Renewed the Coast Guard's mooring lease at the city dock through September 1986 at an annual rate of $1.

–Appointed Edward Whitley as alternate commissioner for the Michigan Public Power Agency.

–Elected Judy Przybylski as delegate and Jim Brinker as alternate to the annual meeting of the Municipal Employees Retirement System. City employees had previously elected Scott Blanchard as the other delegate.

cal Education teacher to replace Toni Felter who has been assigned to the high school.

At the high school, Felter will assume the duties of counselor; Hal Evans will become a fulltime teacher at the high school teaching World History in addition to Developmental Language Arts. David J. Smith, high school principal, said he is presently interviewing candidates for a history/english combination. There will be no study halls at the high school this year, Smith said.

Richard Swenor has assumed his duties as assistant principal.

In the only other action, the board authorized Vincent Olach, the business manager, to purchase a van.

School is scheduled to open Wednesday, Sept. 4. Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren advised that the installation of a new roof, insulation, heating plant and related repairs would be completed at the elementary school for the opening of school.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Sept. 16.

The intended bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sleutel of Sparta. He is stationed aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite in Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in business law. She is a member of Alpha Phi sorority.

Kelly McAlister

McAlister-Miller

Mr. and Mrs. James R. McAlister, Jonesboro, Ark. announce the engagement of their daughter, Kelly Ann, to Andrew Scott (Andy) Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, of Omaha, Nebraska. The McAlister are former residents of Charlevoix and lived at 301 Central.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Bradley, of Jonesboro.

Mr. Miller is the grandson of Mrs. Katherine Miller, of Newman Grove, Nebraska.

Miss McAlister received a BA Degree in Psychology from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln in 1984. She is employed at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro.

Mr. Miller received a BS Degree in Finance from the University of Nebraska in 1983. He is employed by a savings and loan company.

The couple will exchange vows August 31.

Weddings

Bolduc-Bearss

St. Francis Solanus Church at Bay Shore was the scene recently of the wedding of Lynda Marie Bolduc and Willard John Bearss.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Edward Soyring of Gwinn and the late Mr. Soyring and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bearss of Traverse City.

The Rev. Fr. George Healy of San Antonio, TX., and the Rev. James Healy of Washington, D.C., uncles of the bridegroom, officiated at the nuptial Mass in the presence of more than 100 guests. Arrangements of garden flowers graced the altar. Music was by Richard Drury of Traverse City, guitarist, who also accompanied the soloist, Kathy Graham.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Burt A. Colombo of Marquette, the bride chose a gown of white fully-lined taffeta for her wedding. Styled with a stand-up collar, V-shaped yokes in front and back and raised waistline, the gown featured a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Sally Sanford as matron of honor and Lila Selfridge as bridesmaid wore apricot gowns fashioned with Edwardian necklines, illusion yokes of nylon point d'esprit lace accented with embroidery trim and full skirts. Their bouquets were of garden flowers.

Dorr Carpenter of Petoskey assisted the bridegroom as best man. John Bearss of Traverse City was groomsman. David McKenzie and Kenneth Franks of Petoskey seated the guests.

A reception followed at the VFW post home in Charlevoix where Linda Herbolsheimer was the hostess. Heidi Bolduc was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula and Canada, the couple will make their home at 1001 Spring St., Bay Shore.

The bridegroom, president of Chapter 68, Vietnam Veterans of American, is service technician for Hovinga Business Systems of Traverse City.

A rehearsal dinner at St. Francis Solanus Hall Friday evening was hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Wednesday, August 21, will bring the last race of the Summer Series, folks, so loosen those sheets, tighten the halyards and hold the celebrating until the finish lines. The main race is in Fleet 3 where Karl Jurries' Blasen and Mike Carland's Tireless are locked at 7.75 points apiece. Spectre and Flash will battle for third place.

In Fleet 1, Charlie Brown has the potential of displacing Kritter from their leading role with Plastic Fantastic a safe third.

Fleet 2 could yet be a surprise as Babe, Wing Nut and Night Moves will be battling for a trophy that only one sloop will claim at the finish. The JAM Fleet looks safe for Ti-Gi, with Cygnus a respectable second, and Coolwhip and Apothecary working for the yellow flag.

Wednesday, Aug. 14 saw moderate winds dropping to a drifter at the finish. Spinnakers, light air sheets and avoiding the western shore proved favorable as Fleet 1 brought Charlie Brown, Kritter, Slapshot, Miss Piggy, Plastic Fantastic, Flying Machine, and Mint Julip in rapid order. In Fleet 2, Wing Nut won their second winning flag followed by Night Moves, the black Bandit, Maranatha, Babe, Merry Hell, Canusa, and Ribit. In Fleet 3, Wilson's Tender Tireless Tiller Touch captured first and knotted the issue with Blasen followed by Flash, Spectre, and Mike Miller in Non Secundus. The JAM Fleet brought home Cygnus, with Ti-Gi a distant second, followed by Apothecary, Coolwhip, Maureen and Sandpiper.

Results of Sunday's Singlehanded Race will follow in next week's column. A sail cruise to Northport is planned to leave Charlevoix in convoy by 4 o'clock Friday Sept. 13. All interested mariners should contact Jim Stewart, 547-5353, if interested.

'Til next week, watching the western skies.

Jaycees plan pizza night fundraiser

The Charlevoix Area Jaycees have planned a "pizza night" fundraiser for Muscular Dystrophy. The Jaycees will wait on tables for tips and support from the Charlevoix Pizza Hut on Monday, Aug. 26, from 4-10 p.m.

The project is part of a district-wide fundraising effort by the Jaycees and Pizza Hut.

During the past eight years, Jaycees across America have contributed their time and energies to the fight against Muscular Dystrophy. The support of the Charlvoix chapter enables the Muscular Dystrophy Association to continue providing free clinic services to local muscular dystrophy families.

"One of our major goals will be to mobilize community support for MDA," according to Bob Phillips, Jaycee chapter project coordinator.

"We encourage everyone in the community to assist us. This project is but one of the many community service projects our chapter conducts each year."

MDA services include special summer camping programs available throughout Michigan.

Davis visits Charlevoix Area Hospital

Congressman Bob Davis (R-Gaylord) paid a special visit to Charlevoix Area Hospital August 13 to meet with members of the hospital's medical staff

The doctors invited Davis to report on the status of many health care issues being debated in Washington and to hear first-hand some of the concerns they have with recent trends in the industry.

One of the major areas of concern expressed to Davis was the skyrocketing cost of malpractice insurance.

More than one physician projected that services such as obstetrical care will be gradually eliminated or consolidated into the large clinics unless the growing burden of insurance cost is eased.

"We will definitely have to have a law putting a ceiling on malpractice costs," said Davis, "But I know of no specific bill being seriously acted upon at this time. Right now, there's just a lot of talk."

Davis reported that in budget resolution passed recently by Congress, a total of $55 billion was cut including some funds for Medicare.

He added that the resolution features a one percent increase in the program of Medicare reinbursement for hospitals saying, "That's not a lot but it's better than nothing."

On another positive note, Davis said that two additional members have been added to the Prospective Payment Commission, the body which advises Health and Human Services Secretary Margret Heckler on how hospitals are compensated for Medicare patients. They include a representative of rural hospitals and a representative for nurses, both of whom whould be favorable to the interests of hospitals like Charlevoix's.

Davis also reproted changes in the regulations governing emergency treatment including severe penalties for the unwarranted transfer of patients from one hospital to another, a practice more prevalent in large cities that is known as "dumping".

After listening to several comments by the doctors regarding interference they see the federal government as inflicting upon their private practices, Davis admitted that some changes may be necessary and pointed out that he has a solid record backing the AMA.

Teens dance for MD, raise $1,330 on cruise

The 7-Eleven Store of Charlevoix and the Star of Charlevoix teamed up for a successful supper dance and cruise on Wednesday, August 14, raising $1,330 for muscular dystrophy.

Some 175 teenagers took part in the "Let's Make a Miracle Happen" cruise. This is the third year the cruise has been held, explained 7-eleven owner Ken Gray. "It grows each year," Gray said, noting that last year's event raised just over $850 for the charity.

The teens danced to music provided by WKHQ and presented by Tom Pluister. The two grand prize stereos donated by Northwest Marine were won by Larry Geltz and Lori Leask.

Other prizes and winners included sweat shirts donated by Irish Boat Shop and won by Stephanie Eyde and Laura Wolf; walking shorts and T-shirt from The Clothing Company won by Jason Wojiak; teddy bear from Dr. David Strawbridge won by Marvin Witthoft; 7-up raft from Soltis Beverage won by Julie Funk; and two $10 video game awards from 7-Eleven and North American Vending won by Lisa Smith and Jason Wiser.

Snacks for the cruise were furnished by MadeRite Potato Chip Co.

Chaperoning the cruise were Dan Abraham, president of Garb-ko 7-Eleven Stores, Nancy Holes, 7-Eleven Muscular Dystrophy Association chairman, Jon and Barb Peterson of 7-Eleven, Sue Ann Wiesner, Patty Muma, Stan and Gladys Solokis, Mary Ann Solokis, and Ken and Carol Gray.

Hosting the event for the Star of Charlevoix were Captain Tod Eddger, First Mate Ron McDonough, Deck Hand Jim Nietzke, General Manager Kit Henshaw, and Stewards Michael Neff, Sean Murphy, Brooke Monroe, and Andy Monteith.

Quilt depicts Charlevoix channel

"The Charlevoix Channel" (the quilt and a photo of the real thing) is featured in the book America's Pictorial Quilts by Caron L. Mosey of Flushing, Michigan. The design for the quilt was taken from the view of the channel at the residence of former Charlevoix residents Robert and Betty Covert (Captain's Watch Condominiums, Park Ave.).

"When my parents decided to sell their condo, I wanted to make a quilt to commemorate their life on the channel. They so enjoyed watching the boats go back and forth, so I have included the Beaver Island boat and a sailboat."

As a quiltmaker, Ms. Mosey has won numerous awards for her original designs and workmanship, and has been published in many national quilting publications. During the month of August, she is presenting a collection of quilts from the soon-to-be released book, including her Charlevoix quilt, in the C.S. Mott Gallery at the DeWaters Art Center in Flint. Many of the quilts are available for purchase by contacting Caron L. Mosey at 1981 Park Avenue, Flushing, MI 48433.

Also included in the book are Michigan quilters Ami Simms of Flint, Donna Rae Maki of Holt, and Gwen Marston and Joe Cunningham of Beaver Island.

Quilting workshop on Beaver Island

Gwen Marston and Joe Cunningham, artists and quiltmakers, will lead the second annual Beaver Island Quilt Retreat on three consecutive weekends - September 18-21, September 25-28 and October 2-5. Held on the beautiful campus of the Central Michigan Biological Center located on the shores of Lake Michigan, these four-day retreats include daily workshops led by Beaver Islanders Marston and Cunningham. Both have toured the country from Main to California, teaching, lecturing and exhibiting their own extraordinary quilts, which now total 150, all designed and quilted by these remarkable artists.

"Reaction to last year's retreat was overwhelming" said Merry Silber coordinator of the Beaver Island event.

A fee of $300 covers the four-day retreat and includes daily workshops, lodging, meals, camaraderie and nature's unspoiled beauty at the peak of Michigan's glorious color. Each weekend is limited to 20 participants to insure one-on-one attention and intimacy with other wildly enthusiastic quiltmakers and quilt lovers.

Space is still available in all three 1985 weekends. For further information send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: M. Silber Associates-Beaver, 774 Lakeside, Birmingham, MI. (313) 642-4371.

County 4-H'ers exhibit livestock

Fifty-eight 4-H members from Charlevoix County are exhibiting and selling their market livestock at the Emmet County Fair, August 19-24.

These members purchased feeder livestock - in the fall for beef, and in the spring for sheep, swine, and veal - and raised them in preparation for the fair. "Members gain a wide variety of skills in the 4-H livestock project, such as breeding, maintenance and management of their animals," a 4-H spokesman said. "They also learn responsibility and good work habits through this project.

The 4-H members brought their animals to Petoskey on Monday, August 19, to have them weighed. Judging will take place on Tuesday, August 20, at 8 a.m. The livestock will sold at Public Auction on Thursday, August 22, at 1 p.m. at the steel barn. All are invited to attend any or all of the livestock activities.

Members from East Jordan include: Pat Russell, Cliff Russell, Cheryl Boyer, Dawn Brock, Michael Boyer, Aaron Brock, Rick Brooks, Guy Thayer, Tom Reid, Jr., and Alicia DeCeuster.

Charlevoix Township holds Open House

Charlevoix Township officials threw a party Sunday to initiate their new facilities.

The Open House was the official recognition of the completion of Stroud Hall, the new water storage tanks, and the township's other facilities and equipment.

Nancy Rajewski baked a cake for the occasion and Oscar Stroud, township supervisor, pulled out the fire department's pumpers and trucks and put them on display.

The 20-acre Stanahan Field now includes two soccer fields, four tennis courts, a 120,000 gallon water storage tank, a BMX track, a recreation building, and the township and fire halls.

Construction on Stroud Hall began in the fall of 1982 and was completed in 1984. Stroud says the project is finished with the exception of adddi-tional furniture which is on order.

The water storage system was also completed in 1984 and is serviced by one 20-inch well and two eight-inch wells. The township also maintains a 52,000 gallon water storage system, two wells and fire equipment on the south side of town.

Hosting the Open House festivities are, left to right, Township board members, Rose Bergmann, Nancy Rejewski, Oscar Stroud, and Linda Poreth.

'My job to identify murders'

Medical examiner explains his caseload

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County Medical Examiner Dr. Reed Freidinger reported to the County Board of Commissioners last week that so far this year his department has been called upon to assist in determining the causes of 31 deaths in the county.

During the same period last year, the Medical Examiner handled 30 cases.

Included in this year's deaths were seven persons killed in a plane accident on Beaver Island and three deaths which occured over the weekend preceding Dr. Freidinger's report – one by drowning, one by an automobile accident, and one by accident during a Native American "Visual Quest" ritual.

In citing this diversity of cases to the County Commissioners, Dr. Freidinger explained that he has departed from the long-standing procedure of appearing at the scene of an accident when the victim is known to be dead.

"My job is to try to identify murders," he said. "I have to make blood and urine tests and sometimes other chemical tests. If I go to the scene of a death, there are usually many people milling around and I don't want to undress the victim in front of all of them. I prefer to do my work at the hospital."

There are occasions when Dr. Freidinger goes to the scene of a death, however. "If my Deputy Medical Examiner says he wants me at the scene, I go," he told the Board members.

Also, when a person dies at home, Dr. Friedinger prefers to go to the home to make his tests. "The family is usually around and they seem to feel better when we handle it this way," he added.

The importance of a Medical Examiner in determining the cause of a death lies in the fact that if he looks at a body carefully and studies its condition, usually an autopsy is not necessary, according to Dr. Friedinger.

When an autopsy is called for in a Charlevoix County death, the body is taken to a local funeral home and a pathologist is contacted to perform the autopsy. Eleven autopsies have been performed so far this year.

The 1985 budget for the County Medical Examiner's department is $11,345. As Medical Examiner, Dr. Freidinger receives an annual "salary" of $545 and is paid on the basis of $52.50 for calls within his area and $78.50 for calls out of the area. Other physicians in East Jordan, Boyne City, and Charlevoix have been deputized to serve when Dr. Friedinger is not available and are paid on a per-call basis.

Marketplace recreates village of 29 A.D.

by ANNE KELLY

Cars traveling down M-66 last week were probably surprised to come upon a Bibletimes village complete with tents flapping in the breeze.

The second annual ecumenical day camp known as Marketplace 29 AD, was held on the grounds of the First Baptist Church, Aug. 12-15, with over 250 area children and adults from nine Charlevoix churches participating.

The number was expected to exceed 500 Thursday evening when families joined their children for a picnic supper and closing ceremonies.

Authentic to the tribal tents, each bearing the emblem of their Hebrew family, the Marketplace experience attempted to show children what it would have been like to live in a village like Nazareth during the time of Christ. With all churches participating, children and adults were able to set aside their doctrinal differences and focus on their mutual Christian heritage.

The village, with its central well, was visited each day by familiar Biblical characters: Levi, the tax collector, beggar children, lepers, storytellers, and even Jesus.

The Marketplace itself, was the central attraction twice a day, and featured an assortment of 15 merchants and craftsmen. Here children bought items with their tender of gold nuggets carefully toted around in burlap pouches dangling from the belts of their costumes. Here, also, they had the opportunity to become apprentices to craftsmen: the kit maker, the carpenter, the potter, the music maker and others. Children wove baskets, built simple functional projects, squished mud between their toes in creating bricks, and made musical instruments. They learned the art of printing from the scribe, made stained glass medallions, worked with clay, created sting art designs, and delighted in the booths of the baker and the candy maker.

In a preschool area, seventy four and five-year-olds, enjoyed life in a village within a village. They played in cardboard cartons constructed to resemble biblical homes and nestled under palm trees swaying in the breeze. They also took trips to the larger marketplace each day with their "families."

The Marketplace project is a copyrighted program available to interested groups around the country. Charlevoix's participation was the culmination of many months of organization and planning by volunteers from every church.

Music and dance were provided by Marina LaBlance, keyboard, Mike Patrick, guitar, and Linda Tank, flute.

Matt Stargardt plays role of beggar collecting alms.

Irwin blasts lake plan

Calling it a "dangerous and outrageous precedent," Senator Mitch Irwin recently blasted a proposal to increase the Chicago Great Lakes water diversion.

Irwin, a panelist in a water resources forum at the Michigan Association of Counties annual conference held August 13, challenged U.S. Representative Guy VanderJagt, sponsor of the proposal, to prod the federal government into offering real relief instead of proposing "one-inch solutions."

VanderJagt proposed a tripling of the current amount of water diverted from Lake Michigan at Chicago in order to provide relief from record high water levels. However, the Michigan Office of the Great Lakes has estimated that the relief resulting from VanderJagt's proposal would amount to only approximately one-tenth inch per month drop in the water level in Lake Michigan, Irwin's office reported.

"The Great Lakes are our economic lifeblood," added the northern Michigan Senator, sponsor of the Great Lakes Conservation Act. "We must do all we can to protect and conserve our water resources while still offering real relief and real aid such as the state loan program to stricken coastline homeowners."

Irwin, speaking to a room full of county commissioners from across the state attending the panel discussion, reminded them that 1985 is the Year of the Great Lakes. In a year that has seen the passage of the Great Lakes Water Protection package, "we should not jump at a short-term gain only to suffer long-term pain."

Zoning Board debates condos

by DOUG TRUAX

The Water's Edge condominium project was a topic of sometimes heated discussion Wednesday, Aug. 21, as the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board considered adding site plan review provisions to its planned residential zoning.

Members of the audience and the board debated controversial provisions of the zoning ordinance dealing with the number of condominiums allowed under the multi-family zoning.

Before the evening was over Oscar Stroud, township supervisor, and Clarence Goldstick, zoning board member, stated that 90 units would be the maximum allowed for 40 acres under the planned unit density requirements.

"Ninety units, that's the way I understand it," Goldstick said of the density requirements. "That's going to be my stand."

The zoning board examined a site plan review amendment to the current zoning ordinance provided by attorney Donald Berlage. Berlage's suggested amendment was modeled on several existing ordinances.

Some 40 acres of property owned by Water's Edge, Inc. on Lake Charlevoix were rezoned from R-2 (Residential) to R-4 (Planned Residential) at a meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board on August 12. The rezoning is to take effect on December 10, 1985, allowing the zoning board time to submit an amendment providing new "site plan review requirements."

Opponents of the Water's Edge condo project have said that the township ordinance controlling density was ambiguous and could allow up to 600 condominiums on the property. They also object to the lack of controls on boat and marina development along the Lake Charlevoix shoreline and the absence of standards for reviewing site plans.

Those issues surfaced again at Wednesday's meeting.

Under questioning from zoning board member Jerry Puhl, Larry Campbell, chairman of the zoning board, noted that the site plan review "was not going to have anything to do with density problems."

"You can't zone the number of boats," Clarence Goldstick added. Campbell agreed: "I am quite certain that we cannot regulate beyond the shoreline."

Marcia Trimper, who plans to build near Water's Edge, objected. "You can stipulate the number of boats allowed per acre," she said. "They (the developers) keep saying that there are no plans for the existing dock at Water's Edge, but if each unit brings in a boat they are going to have a marina."

Savich says travel business booming

by DOUG TRUAX

Michigan has joined the big stakes game of luring tourists to it's shores, John Savich, director of the Michigan Travel Bureau, told members of the Northwest Michigan Press Club recently.

Savich's office will spend some $9 million this year convincing people to travel to Michigan.

Admitting that the competition is getting stiff, Savich said that the results of the advertising and promotion are paying off. "This year will be the best year ever," he said. Previously the best tourist year was 1978.

Savich reeled off statistics to prove his point to his audience – made up of staff of the print and broadcast media and members of local chamber of commerce offices.

Tourism contributed $12 billion to the Michigan economy last year, he said, and accounted for some 260,000 jobs.

Travel grew by 4 percent last year, Savich said, and indicators are improving this year. Among the positive signs: inquiries to the travel bureau are up 6 percent, attendance at tourist attractions is climbing by 9 percent, traffic volume is up by 10 percent, and crossings of the Mackinac Bridge are up 5 percent.

"We will exceed that $12 billion figure by quite a bit this year," Savich predicted.

Today's traveler, he noted, is after quality. "People are in search of the best. The best is the key to today's consumer more than a bargain."

Another trend, he added, was that "people travel less for a single purpose and more for a total experience."

Savich said the role of his office is to get people into the state, not to market a particular destination within the state.

Mort Neff of Harbor Springs, veteran Michigan outdoor broadcaster, asked Savich where he thought the limit was to the growth of tourism. "We can only accomodate so many people," Neff said.

"I think there is a limit," Savich replied. "But I don't think we are anywhere near saturation in a statewide sense." In some communities, he noted, saturation may already have been reached. It is important, Savich said, to maintain high standards for development. "One of our jobs is to make sure that we are not diminishing that which we are promoting."

Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, responded to the growth issue during a question and answer period. "I think we are very close to the saturation point in Charlevoix during July and August," she said. "Yes, we want to promote the area," she added. "Yes, we want to have controlled growth."

The challenge, she said, was in trying to come up with a balance in the types of tourists and to spread them out over a longer season.

Gary Gleason, president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, agreed. "One of the problems is that up here in the last 15 years we have attracted a lot more people, and our transportation system hasn't changed much. I don't think anyone would say we have reached the saturation point from October to April."

Savich is a native of Detroit and spent five years with the U.S. Economic Development Administration in Washington, D.C. He returned to Michigan in 1981 to become deputy director of the state's Office of Community Development. He was named director of the Michigan Department of Commerce Office of Strategy and Forecasting in 1983. He has been director of the Travel Bureau for the last 18 months.

He is a graduate of Michigan Technological University.

Citizens' group formed on Water's Edge issue

A group of citizens concerned over the rezoning of the Water's Edge property has formed an organization called Concerned Citizens for the Lake Charlevoix Area.

"We are hopeful that the wisdom of the Charlevoix Township governing boards can handle this situation," said Deano Davenport, a charter member of the new organization. "But if they do not deal with the issue, we are prepared to spread the word of what could happen to the lake and the township."

Organizers of the group explained that, although its formation was triggered by the Water's Edge development, it will be concerned with development on the entire lake as well as other issues of crowding, traffic congestion, and the like.

Don Trimper, another member of the new group, described it as a coalition of concerned citizens, property owners, and environmental groups. "Our purpose is to make the township board accountable to lakefront development," he said. "We feel that part of the responsibility they are charged with is controlling lakefront development.

"Other townships throughout the state have controlled lakefront development. We hope Charlevoix Township can do the same," he concluded.

Among the charter members of Concerned Citizens for the Lake Charlevoix Area are: Dawson and Joann Way, Don and Marcia Trimper, Deano and Joyce Davenport, Jerry and Sandra Puhl, George and Lee Weber, and Richard Schaefer.

Nursing home gets OK

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board approved the rezoning of a seven-acre parcel south of the Charlevoix Hospital from A (Agricultural) to PO (Professional Office) at its meeting Aug. 21.

The rezoning was sought by Ralph McRae who plans to construct a nursing home on the site.

The rezoning was approved unanimously and the plan will now be presented to the County Planning Commission and the Charlevoix Township Board for final approval.

Scott Beatty, a Charlevoix attorney representing McRae, explained that his client planned to build a 106-bed nursing home on the site. Fifty-seven of the beds would be insurance qualified, Beatty noted, and 49 would be for long-term residential care.

The property in question lies south of the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the professional office building on Park Avenue. It is bounded by W. Garfield and W. Upright.

The building will be privately owned, Beatty said, and will be developed by C.M. Health Care Co. of Westerville, Ohio. The land is currently owned by Edwin and Leona Zeltier.

Beatty anticipated improvements would have to be made to W. Garfield and W. Upright to accomodate traffic to the nursing home.

"It seems to me that even without this application, if we were to ask where to put a nursing home, this is where we would put it," Beatty said, referring to the close proximity to the hospital and other PO zoned buildings.

Dale Boss, responding from the audience, called the proposal "the nicest thing that ever hit the Charlevoix area in the past 35 years. It is really what our community needs."

Summer business in Charlevoix is rated good

by PEG OHLE

With Labor Day just around the corner, the annual question is being asked:

"How was business this summer?"

The figures aren't in and won't be for a few weeks, when local merchants have had a chance to sort out their inventories and balance expenses against sales.

Looking back, merchants can remember a "pretty good" Memorial Day weekend followed by a coolish period that made some wonder if this was to be a summer without much summer weather, as happens every few years in northern Michigan.

On June 2, the temperature in Charlevoix dropped to 34 degrees and on June 12 to 35 degrees. Warm weather arrived at the beginning of July and has continued through August, making for what area residents call "typical northern Michigan resort weather".

Bits of observation from various sources indicate that this weather has enticed tourists to the area in record numbers. Chamber of Commerce manager Claudia Kenifeck says they have handed out more rental lists this year than she "ever thought possible". Kit Henshaw, local manager of the "Star of Charlevoix" cruise boat, reports that their business is up 33 percent over last year, due both to the addition of a late lunch tour and trips by guided tour groups.

Charles Bergmann, downtown bridge tender who sees US-31 traffic from his perch next to the bridge, believes that this year's traffic is heavier than ever before.

Information from the Chamber of Commerce is that all local motels are booked for Labor Day, as they were for the Venetian weekend.

In a broader tourist outlook, the West Michigan Tourist Association says "strong fishing and golfing activities, coupled with cottage bookings and good camping, have helped propel the area to its best season since 1978". One of the area's key tourism barometers, Mackinac Bridge crossings, rose 4.4 percent from January through July, compared with the same time last year.

The tourist season is far from over in the Charlevoix area. Brilliant colored leaves have become an increasing attraction for downstaters and others who prefer to travel when the peak of the tourist season is over. The local Chamber of Commerce will promote this attraction with color tours on Lake Charlevoix October 5, 6, 12, and 13.

The Apple Festival, also scheduled this year for October 12 and 13, is the last organized event of the tourist season.

Council plans bond issue

A bond issue to raise funds for the new fire hall will likely appear on the Nov. 5 ballot, and City Council reached a preliminary consensus at it working session Monday night that they should not ask the voters for more than $400,000.

City Manager Michael Wiesner presented council with estimates on the fire hall that totaled $445,000 with a sandstone exterior to match City Hall, or $403,000 with a brick exterior.

Wiesner noted that the fire fund had a balance of some $10-15,000 which could be used to lower the funds required.

Wiesner told council that the alternative presented by Dale Boss at the last council meeting, to purchase the Fochtman property on U.S. 31 north of the bridge and locate the police and fire departments there, would cost in "raw figures" some $675,000. "And I still see some shortcomings

Charlevoix Yesterday

The above picture of the old Charlevoix Public Library appeared on a postcard which was mailed from Charlevoix to Chatham, Michigan on September 24, 1911. The message on the reverse side, apparently written by a resident of Phelps (a small lumbering hamlet at Marion Center and Phelps Roads south of Charlevoix), tells about a new school house being built there across the road from the church, with a Miss Phillips hired as teacher.

The old Charlevoix Public Library was built about 1910 at the corner of State and Clinton Streets, on the site of the present First State Bank of Charlevoix building. The cornerstone of the library building remains today at the bank corner. It bears the simple legend, "CARNEGIE", referring to the late Andrew Carnegie, whose Carnegie Foundation supplied funds with which to build this library and others throughout the country. In 1967, the new library building on Clinton Street replaced the old building. (Postcard picture courtesy of Mrs. Arthur Fdwards)

Winter winds and rain feared

High water levels could cause erosion

Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner Clayton Healey is not looking forward to the winds and rains of the coming fall season.

Noting that Lake Michigan and its tributary Lake Charlevoix water levels are at an all-time high, Healey said there could be much shoreline erosion when the winds start to blow.

When queried about the much-discussed action of opening control gates in Chicago and seoding the excess water down the Chicago River and eventually into the Mississippi, Healey said, "I don't think it's a good idea. We don't want to send our water down to other states."

However, he did approve of the action being taken by the International Joint Commission (Canada and the United States) in reducing the Lake Superior outflow by about 30 percent, which should lower the level of Lake Michigan by 3.5 inches by November.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers, in its monthly water levels update, reports that at the end of July, Lake Michigan was about six inches above what it was one year ago and about one inch below one month ago.

The July monthly mean level was about 24 inches above the long-term average and about four inches below the all-time monthly mean high for July, which was set in 1974.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lake Michigan shows that the lake is expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of August, it will be about two inches below what they were at the end of July.

The lake is expected to continue its seasonal decline into January. At the end of January, the lake is expected to be two inches below what it was at the same time in 1985. The January mean would be above the long-term average for that month, but six inches below the all-time high mean for January, which was set in 1973.

Way urges wetlands funding

If Dawson Way's suggestion is followed, some of the money the county collects from the Federal Revenue Sharing fund next year will be used to produce a map of the wetlands areas in the county, and to further the study of Lake Charlevoix by the Lake Charlevoix Management Study Committee.

Way, who is president of the Lake Charlevoix Association, told the County Board of Commissioners at its last meeting that much of the lake and river shorelines in the county is considered wetlands and a map indicating where they are would prevent a lot of trouble for landowners, prospective buyers, and real estate people.

Also, pointing out the many differences in zoning ordinances of the seven townships and three cities bordering Lake Charlevoix, Way asked that a "generous amount" of Federal Revenue Sharing money be used in a "planning process" of Lake Charlevoix – a study that would determine "what should be allowed where on the lake."

An especially good reason for earmarking some funds for this type of work, Way observed, was that the State would probably fund a matching amount.

It will be several months before the County Board of Commissioners holds a hearing on the use of 1986 Federal Revenue Sharing funds, the fiscal year for which begins October 1. Congress has eliminated Federal Revenue Sharing funds after October 1, 1986.

'Clean Michigan' attempts to promote resource recovery

by PEG OHLE

Several area governmental agencies are expected to apply for grants from the "Clean Michigan Fund", which was recently set up by the State to establish resource recovery technologies as solid waste disposal alternatives.

The $10 million fund has been broken down into 12 types of allowable expenditures, including $2.4 million for closing municipal landfills or dumps, and $1.6 million for transfer station construction, both of which have been considered in Charlevoix County.

The Boyne City landfill, located in Evangeline Township, has been under fire by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for some time, claiming it is not properly operated. Also, the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Management Plan, prepared by an appointed ad hoc committee of citizens and published in 1984, recommends the use of transfer stations in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan, to facilitate the trucking and burial of solid waste in the Charlekvoix landfill or other landfills outside the county.

In announcing the $10 million appropriation, the DNR states, "Implementation of waste reduction, composting, recycling, and energy recovery techniqoes will serve to lessen our dependency on landfills, thereby extending their useful lives and allowing for increased effectiveness in resource utilization."

It is estimated that as much as 70 percent of the State's solid waste can be diverted from landfills by using one or more of these techniques.

The Charlevoix landfill, which is privately owned, is licensed by the DNR, but many rsidents of Eveline Township (where it is located) have expressed concern that water runoff from the landfill will enter a nearby stream and eventually pollute Lake Charlevoix.

A group of township residents recently unsuccessfully petitioned both the township and the county to seek an injunction to prevent operation of the Charlevoix landfill. They were told by the County Board of Commissioners that the only local unit having jurisdiction over the landfill is the District Health Department.

Besides closing landfills and constructing transfer stations, the "Clean Michigan Fund" can be used for making recycling-composting feasibility studies, for waste-to-energy feasibility studies, for recycling-composting capital grants, for recycling-composting operating subsidies, for market development research, for resource recovery development, for education, for hydrogeological investigations, and for household hazardous waste studies.

The DNR will accept applications for funding from October 1 to November 15. Applications will be ranked by an advisory committee appointed by the Governor, with final grants awarded by the DNR. It is anticipatd that awards might be made as early as next January.

Rotary files chapter application

Formal application was made last week to Rotary International, headquartered in Chicago, Illinois, to issue a charter for the Rotary Club of Charlevoix.

Over the past three months, a total of 25 local businessmen have indicated their desire to become charter members in the new club. A "provisional" club until its charter is approved, the Rotay Club os Charlevoix has been meeting regularly since May at noon on Thursdays. The lunch meetings are held at 218 Bridge Street.

Efforts to establish a Rotary Club in Charlevoix were boosted by the Rotary Club of Petoskey. Rotarians from East Jordan and other area clubs have also been involved in getting the lcoal club formed.

Although the minimum number of members required to file for a charter is 20, the Charlevoix club submitted its applciation with 25 names and expects to be officially chartered sometime in October.

Officers in the club include President Charles Themm, President-Elect Robert Kern, Vice President James Marsball, Secretary-Treasurer Robert Hoffman and Directors Ray Wood and Dave Knight.

Rotary is an international service organization with heavy emphasis on service to community and youth programs.

New court-appointed attorney plan presented by county prosecutor

by PEG OHLE

Last year, Charlevoix County paid $101,000 to court-appointed attorneys who represented indigent persons in court.

Through July of this year, the county has paid $78,756 for this type of service: $20,917 for Circuit Court, $20,843 for District Court, and [illegible] for Probate Court cases.

To help alleviate this burden on taxpayers, Prosecuting Attorney Kraag Lieberman recently presented an alternative plan to the County Board of Commissioners. His plan calls for a contract offer of $48,000 annually to a unit of attorneys who would take over the responsibility of representing indigent defendants in Circuit and District Courts.

Representation in Probate Court cases would continue in its present form because, as Lieberman explains, it, "Those cases do not have a finality. They can linger on for years. There is no decision as there is in a criminal case."

Lieberman was told by the County Commissioners to implement his plan and return at the next County Board meeting with the names of local attorneys who are interested in participating in the plan.

According to Lieberman, any licensed attorney can serve in a public defender's capacity, but he prefers that they have Charlevoix County practices. Court-appointed attorneys are paid at the rate of $35 an hour. Records in the County Clerk's office indicate that in recent months, 10 local attorneys have been paid for their services.

Water project redux

Construction has begun on the Charlevoix water intake structure. Again. And within a few days work will also begin on the water treatment plant.

Charlevoixans can once again hope that this star-crossed project will reach completion in the foreseeable future. The effort to replace Charlevoix's contaminated well has been long and trying. It would also have been laughable at times had not the stakes been so high.

But the issue is the city's health, and most important, the long-term health of its children. The city's reputation as a clean and healthy vacationland is also on the line.

So it is good to see the work resuming on the shoreline.

The Army Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency are to be congratulated on getting a new contractor on the job without further delay. Once they determined that Union Indemnity Insurance Co. was insolvent and unable to complete the work, the agencies took decisive action to get a new contractor on the job.

The situation, in fact, reverses some of our popular stereotypes of government and business. We are used to thinking of government agencies as slow, lumbering bureaucracies that get in the way of business.

Score one here for the beleaguered bureaucracy. While the private companies charged with building the water intake system carried on like Alphonse and Gaston, the government stepped in when it had to and got things back on track.

Now we can only sit back and watch the barges work. And hope that the Charlevoix water project has exhaused its run of bad luck.

Chamber Chatter

by CLAUDIA KENIFECK
Executive Director

With Sidewalk Sales behind us and the last major sailing regatta coming up Labor Day weekend, Charlevoix begins its transformation into another season.

During July and August, Chamber member hotels were booked to capacity on weekends and, on the average, 70 percent mid-week. Stores have reported good, steady business, and we're still waiting for the traffic count figures from the Highway department.

Coming up:

August 30 - Budweiser Olympic Triangle, Lake Charlevoix. Always a fun race.

August 31-September 1 - Red Fox Sailboat Regatta, Charlevoix to Boyne City and back. Limited to 75 boats, this two day race is the way many sailors finish off the season. Saturday night cookout for all sailors in the park at Boyne City.

October 5 and 12 - Color Cruises Aboard the Beaver Islander. In an effort to appeal to more families, the Chamber color cruises will have rates for children, teens, adults, and senior citizens. Complimentary cider and donuts offered.

The Chamber is trying something new. Rather than billing for next year's membership dues in December when lots of people are gone, we will be billing within the next few weeks. Help us determine how to plan for 1986 by getting your dues in early.

Also new is a special invitation to summer residents and individuals to become "Friends of Charlevoix." By supporting the Chamber, you can actively contribute to the success of the festival sand programs the Chamber sponsors. Anyone interested can contact the Chamber office for more details.

Underway are plans for the Chamber of Commerce membership drive and a fall party for members.

Special thanks to Christy Coolman and Matt Miller our now "retired" Host and Hostess and Sue Annis and Beth Revoir, our "soon-to-retire" summer staffers. Their contribution to the community and the Chamber was appreciated.

Please note, from now until mid-October, the Chamber hours will be cut back to only six days a week.

City council

with it," Wiesner said. He pointed to potential problems in getting on to U.S. 31 when traffic was backed up waiting for the bridge.

The final amount of the bond issue will be decided at the next meeting of council on Tues. Sept. 3.

Council met jointly with members of the Downtown Development Authority to discuss the alignment of Ferry Avenue near the public beach. All present agreed that Ferry Avenue should be relocated to the west of Nanny's Old Place to run along the abandoned railroad right-of-way.

Wiesner presented drawings showing various alternatives for parking. The advantages of moving the road, he said, include park users not having to cross the road, a more esthetically pleasing area, and the alignment of north and south Ferry Avenue.

Wiesner said there were some 120-130 cars used Ferry Ave. and the paved parking lot when using the beach. Under the proposed plans the parking could be expanded to some 285-330 cars if needed.

Council also discussed the sale of a parcel of land on Stover Road directly north of Brookside Cemetery. A.G.A. Real Estate of Grawn had made an offer of $4,000 for the property. Wiesner told council that the city assessor had placed a value of $8,500-9,000 on it. Bill Carey, representing the real estate company, told council he disagreed with the assessor's price – that the property should be considered as the back portion of a commercial lot.

The offer was contingent, he said, on the buyer's ability to purchase adjacent property.

In other action, council agreed to write a letter objecting to an application from Oleson's Foods for a hard liquor license.

Letters to the Editor:

New police and fire location is urged

Dear Citizens of Charlevoix,

It is with hesitancy that we write this open letter to you, but we feel that a matter of importance to our community is not being given enough thought. When an individual wants to do something in the city, you have a dozen hurdles to crawl over before it can be done. In this particular case, because the city is doing it, they have ignored everything that they require of others. We would like to show you how, efficiency and cost wise, something can be done here, which will not be regretted 10 years down the road.

The council voted 5 to 1 on August 19 to proceed with the new fire hall and a post office next door to city hall. The fire hall will dwarf city hall in size, costing $400,000, and the post office will be located to the north, where the old cement block house is, eliminating the alley and practically all parking in the area. It is even questionable whether a ladder truck can manuever in the tight situation in this location.

They are telling that when the old Erber building is taken down, we will have a net gain of 23 parking spaces, but I question that, due to the fact that doors are planned on the north end of the fire hall, so it will be more like 18.

I proposed to council that they consider the following:

1. Purchase the old post office, and demolish it.

2. Demolish the old cement block house next to city hall.

3. Demolish the old Erber building.

(Now there is parking for approximately 100 cars.)

4. Purchase the old Charlevoix Oil (Fochtman Chevrolet) building and move the fire and police department to this location.

5. Sell the second terrace middle section to the postal department for a new post office located on US. 31, which will have a loading ramp, on the flat land of the south side. The money realized from the sale of this parcel will pay for the old post office, which will now be parking.

6. Do not borrow from the light fund, as reported in the Petoskey News Review, but have the people vote on a $300,000 transfer from the light fund (which is petty cash, by the way), due to the fact that the city owns a business that they can't use the profits from. The city of Peoskey uses funds from their money-maker to make improvements. We just bank roll it.

7. Make a parking lot between the new post office and the new police and fire building. Make a parking lot to the rear of the building where the old tin shed sits. This will make very adequate parking for everyone coming to these buildings.

8. Rent for $425 per month, or $5,000 per year the present firemen's living quarters, which has been done before for several years. Jerry and Kate Left's grandparents lived there.

9. Leave the old engine and one ambulance in the existing firehall to take care of emergencies if the bridge is up on this side.

10. Put the other ambulance and fire equipment in the re-built building which exists on the widest street in Charlevoix (six lanes wide). We estimate with the purchase price of the Fochtman building, plus a complete rejuvenation, which can be very attractive, will still save $100,000 cash. It will save the views of the neighbors, and get our police department out of the basement of city hall and into quarters where the public will have better access.

It is up to you people to decide what you want, and we think you should be given a chance to consult your council members to take a little more time on investigating something this important. Come on Chamber of Commerce, D.D.A. and Downtown Merchant's Association, lets get together and see that the parking we need for downtown Charlevoix is allocated, and congestion eliminated, by placing these two agencies where they should be.

Oscar Stroud was smart enough to put a fire station on each end of town in Charlevoix Township. Maybe he will have to get his ambulance going, if the city doesn't realize how many times we have had to wait for the bridge this sumer. There is so much bridge traffic and boat traffic that we all have felt the congestion this summer.

Right now, Hayes Township is considering getting fire protection from Charlevoix Township, and we would, too, if we knew the engine might be stuck at the bridge. We personally are more concerned about life than property, and we worry about the ambulance being stuck at the bridge like it was Wednesday morning. If you think any of this merits more thought, for goodness sake, consult your councilmen and let them know how you feel. They can't vote for your views if they don't know them.

Sincerely,
Dale and Marilyn Boss
Charlevoix

Add another bridge

Dear Editor:

I have read with interest the letters in your column from Bob Miles and Ralph Hamilton regarding their suggestions for relieving Charlevoix's traffic problems. In addition to the suggestions of these two gentlemen, I have yet another idea.

A similar type jackknife bridge to the one now crossing the channel could be built where the former railroad bridge was located. This would be an alternate to Rt. 131. The bridge opening schedule would need to be on an alternate schedule of the existing bridge, i.e., quarter to and quarter after the hour, allowing fifteen minutes for boats passing through to Lake Charlevoix.

Having been a visitor to Charlevoix most every summer since the late 1940s, as my wife is a native of your fair city, I've often thought a solution to the congestion on Bridge Street should be forthcoming. As an engineer, the problem has intrigued me for some time.

My family has enjoyed Charlevoix's beaches and waterways for years and it is without a doubt a place of unequaled beauty.

Clockwise

A touch of the recipe

By Bob Clock

The odd thing about summer in the North is how fast it passes. In another week, Labor Day will be history, kids will be back in school and chill evenings will be perfumed by the aroma of woodsmoke from hundreds of chimneys.

The days already are noticeably shorter than they were just a few weeks ago and occasional touches of color are beginning to appear along the fringes of hardwood forests.

It's only a matter of weeks until the first frost, the first snow and the first blizzard.

Of course by then the snowbirds will have headed south, leaving only a cadre of die-hards behind to shovel snow and argue with balky automobile engines on sub-zero mornings.

It certainly sends spiders up the spine to learn on the car radio that the road you are traveling has just been closed because of drifting snow.

I am beginning to believe there must be something of the masochist in those of us who stay behind.

But machochists relish hardships; otherwise they'd be lolling under palm trees in the Bahamas.

So long, summer!

IF YOU HAVE any raspberries left, I'd like to pass along a recipe the Clocks received from Lillian Bergmann several years ago for a raspberry liqueur. If nothing else, it helps keep one of the aromas of summer alive in the dreary months ahead.

RASPBERRY LIQUEUR

- 1 quart raspberries
- 4 cups white sugar
- Fifth of gin

METHOD: Combine in a large, lidded jar. Cap and leave on the kitchen counter, shaking jar every few days until the sugar is completely dissolved. Place in a dark room, dark cupboard or dark pantry until a few days before Thanksgiving. Strain liquid from pulp and pour into decanter with stopper.

The clear ruby-colored liqueur makes an excellent after-dinner drink, with all the bouquet of midsummer berries. The pulp, which should be kept chilled, is delicious served on vanilla ice cream.

El cheapo gin works just as well as Beefeaters, since absolutely no juniper flavor remains in the finished product. Furthermore, the same recipe works just as well with any fruit, including cranberries.

DID YOU NOTICE all of the rainwalkers downtown Sunday? Although the rain was warm and gentle, it was still wet. But no one seemed to mind, as hundreds of pedestrians strolled up and down Bridge Street with Big Olaf ice cream cones.

What a pleasant way to spend a Sunday too rainy for swimming!

Zoning Board debates

Another viewpoint came from Ed Crook. "You're missing the point," he told the board. "People at the last meeting (of the township board) were concerned with the number of units you can put on the property. Are yoo people going to come up with some recommendations on the number of units you are going to allow?" he asked.

Puhl termed the site plan review provisions under consideration "a bunch of vague suggestions. What is this going to do to restrict numbers?"

He suggested that the planned unit zoning be amended to restrict the number of units per foot of shoreline.

When the debate on the density and boating issues had died down, Goldstick proceeded to read through the proposed site plan amendment and compare it to the existing ordinance.

"I think we should have a study meeting and use (part of the amendment) what we think would strengthen our zoning and put it before the public," he concluded.

A public hearing on the site plan provisions was set for Wednesday, September 11 at 7:30 p.m. in Stroud Hall on Waller Road.

The section of the township zoning ordinance causing the controversy is Section 7.4 – Area Regulations. The first paragraph (a) states that "Not more than 15 dwelling units per acre shall be permitted in this district, and the units in any development shall average at least 780 square feet of living area."

The next paragraph (b) states: "Building area: Not more than 15 percent of the area of each R-4 zone may be occupied by residential buildings."

Interpretation by critics of the zoning ordinance contend this would allow Water's Edge to build up to 600 units on the 40 acres.

Attorney William McTaggart, who was hired by the Water's Edge developers to give an opinion on the matter, agrees. "In theory you could build 600 units," he told the Courier. McTaggart pointed out that the developers would likely want larger units and that typical 1,500 square-foot condos could be built to a maximum density of 348 units on the property if they were two or 2½ stories.

McTaggart said that the law requires you to "give independent meaning to each section of the law." That is not being done, he said, by those who conclude that 90 units are all that would be allowed on the Water'a Edge acreage.

Asked if he thought the township could regulate boat number, McTaggart said, "I think they can. The residential lot extends out into the lake. The zoning enabling statute talks about protecting the recreational values of the community.

"Part of a zoning ordinance can be aimed at protecting the quality of the shoreline and the lake," he added.

McTaggart has also been hired by Hayes Township to defend it in a suit filed by Fox and Associates. He is author of the Michigan Township Zoning Guide.

EARLY DEADLINES: Deadlines have been advanced for the next issue of the Courier because of Labor Day. All advertising and editorial material must be in the Courier by 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 29. Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Loper

Cook-Loper

Patricia Cook and Michael Loper were married on Saturday afternoon, August 17, at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Cook of Charlevoix, Mrs. Arnold Loper, also of Charlevoix, and the late Mr. Loper.

Father Casimir J. Zawacki presided at the double-ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The altar of the church was decorated with a bouquet of white gladiolus, chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and peach-colored carnations. The 300 guests sat in pews marked with satin bows.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white taffeta styled with a fitted bodice, scooped neck, elbow-length puffed sleeves, and gathered skirt worn over a hoop. Lace trimmed the neck and sleeve ruffles and skirt hemline, and a satin ribbon bow accented the back. The bride's headpiece was a derby hat trimmed in net and lace and accented with pearls. She carried a cascading colonial bouquet of white carnations and roses.

Kathryn Heckendorn, sister of the bride, assisted as maid of honor, and Sheryl Greene and Joan Cook, also sisters, and Carolyn Loper, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore sleeveless dresses in a shade of peach fashioned with scooped necklines, gathered skirts, neck and armhole ruffles, and satin ribbon belts. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations, peach colored roses, and baby's breath.

Greg Loper, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Jim Buchanan, Kurt Pulfpaff, and Gary Drury serving as groomsmen. Scott Kelly and Jeff Greene were ushers.

Marina LaBlance provided organ music for the ceremony and sang "Annie's Song" and "Hail Mary". Vocalist Les Treckell offered "The Wedding Song".

A reception at the American Legion Hall, hosted by the newlyweds' parents, followed the marriage ceremony. The guest book was attended by Marcia Carlson, and the cake was cut by Luba and Marcia Schram, aunts of the bride.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Ricciardi's of Charlevoix, hosted by the bridegroom's mother.

Following a wedding trip to Boyne Highlands, the new Mr. and Mrs. Loper are at home in Mt. Pleasant, where both are students at Central Michigan University.

Photographer wins awards

Terry Salmonson, Charlevoix photographer and owner of the Aart-vark Studio, recently had one of his photographs selected by the Professional Photographers of America to be a part of its loan collection. The photograph, "Lost in Each Other," shows a couple in the wooded area on the bluff along Park Avenue and will be a part of the exhibit which travels throughout the United States.

The award was given to Salmonson at the PPA national convention in Chicago on June 24.

Salmonson also received a prestigious blue ribbon for a photograph of the Charlevoix lighthouse during a storm.

The two awards will help Salmonson toward the PPA's master photographer status. Twenty-five merit points are required for that distinction; Salmonson has received 12 points in the last two years.

Engagements

Ann Marie Puffpaff and Donald Allen Neill

Puffpaff-Neill

Mr. and Mr. Fitz Puffpaff of Charlevoix announced the engagement of their daughter, Ann Marie, to Donald Allen Neil of LaPorte, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Neill, Jr. of Petoskey.

The intended bride, who has been making her home in LaPorte, is a 1979 graduate of Charlevoix High School, where she was a cheerleader for four years. She later was assistant manager of the Payless Shoe Store in Petoskey and the cheerleading coach for Petoskey High School.

Her fiance is a 1974 graduate of Petoskey High School and is presently employed as an electrical supervisor for a Houston contractor.

The wedding will take place September 21 at the First Christian Church in Petoskey.

Grid team prepares for Petoskey opener

Forty-two aspiring gridmen have been reporting twice daily for practice at Kipke Field in preparation for the season opener at Petoskey next week, according to Coach Roger Gowell.

Heading the list are six regulars from last season, all seniors, who will form the nucleus for a young and inexperienced squad. They are Marc Himebaucb, querterback; Matt Lignell, tailback and safety; Scott Crandell, flanker and outside linebacker; Petrick LaBlance, flanker; Tim Salmonson, end; end Brian Wilmot guard.

Senior lettermen who saw limited action are Carl Rothenberger, end; Jim Morgridge, fullback; Matt Hull, center; Don Streeter, center; Tim Melke, tackle, and Tom Ochs, guard.

Other seniors who were not with the team last year are: Chris Roberts, Ken Carson, Sean Ferguson, Steve Gauthier and Theron Reibel. Ferguson will be an end; Gauthier a lineman; the others are candidates for backfield positions.

Half of the candidates, 21 in all, played ball with the junior varsity squad last season. This group includes Jim Gibbs, quarterback and safety; Paul Zoet, center; Darrin Batdorff, flanker-split end; Quinton Qalker, Christian LaCroix, Mike Gautheir and Mike Thompson, backs; Kent Seymour, linebacker, Kevin Shepard, Don Zipp and Brian Slattery, guards; Karl Johnson, Coy Groves, Bill Marquardt, Tom Wojan, Phil Peterson, David Kruskle, John Jaskierski tackles and Chuck Meyers, Jason Fettig, defensive end, and Terry Bonar, end. All are juniors.

Other juniors are Rusty Coolman, Jamie Bartlett (a transfer from East Jordan) backs; John Crandell and John Gray, linemen.

Coach Gowell, who is beginning his first year as bead coach, is making no commitment regarding positions at this time.

Grey Gables wins slowpitch tourney

Grey Gables emerged the victor in the best two-out-of-three series with Wojan Aluminum to win in the Charlevoix slowpitch league.

It took three games for Grey Gables to clinch the championship with all three being decided by dramatic one-point margins.

In the first game Grey Gables won 13-12. Wojan Aluminum edged the contender 3-2 in the second game and in the rubber game Grey Gables won 7-6 alter scoring six runs in the sixth inning.

It was Joe Jones who saved the game for Grey Gablea in their first meeting when he hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning after trailing 12-10.

Jim Marsh claimed the victory. Jim Ciuk took the loss as each allowed 21 hits.

In the second game Ciuk gave up nine hits in pitching Wojan to victory. Marsh allowed seven hits.

In the deciding game Grey Gables trailed 5-0 going into the sixth inning when the team came to life to score six runs to take the lead. Wojan's tried to come back in the seventh inning but managed only one run. With victory in sight, Grey Gables matched the feat to take the game by a score of 7-6 and the tournament title.

The tournament concluded the action in the city league for the season.

By A. NONY MOUSE

The summer Series closed Wednesday, Aug. 21, with mild 5-10 knot winds finally settling the order of finish with some of the best tactical sailing seen in recent yeers at the Yacht Club.

In Fleet 1, Gary Gleason's crew brought Charlie Brown across the line followed by Kritter, Slapshot, Pygmalion, the Flying Machine, Mint Julip and Plastic Fantastic. For the series, the trophy goes to Craig Tellberg's J-29, Kritter, followed by Charlie Brown (7.75), Slapshot (20.25), Plastic Fantastic (20.75), Mint Julip (27), Pygmalion (27.75), Flying Machine (33), and Tigger.

In Fleet 2, Wing Nut captured the night and the summer in a closely fought duel with Babe and Night Moves. The order for the final rece showed Mike Keem in Canusa following Wing Nut across the line trailed by Babe, Night Moves, Bandit, Mud Duck, Ribit and Maranatha. For the series, the scorecard reads Wing Nut (10.75), Babe (11.5), Night Moves (12.75), Merry Hell II (20.25), Bandit (24.75), Canusa (29.5), Maranatha (34) and Ribit (47).

The closest race of the summer was between Mike Carland and Karl Jurries in two very well sailed P-26's. For 1985, tireless takes the trophy followed by Blasen fII, the Coronado 25, Spectre, and Flash. For the series, Tireless (5.25) takes the blue flag while Blasen III (7.75), Spectre (19), Flash (23.5), Foxy Lady (29), Coronado (30.75), and San-Sue-She followed.

In the Jib end Main Fleet, the Heiniger-Ranger team sailed Cheemaun north while the rest of the fleet sailed south, wishing in sad retrospect that they had followed the Old Fox. For the night, Cheemaun took honors, followed by Maureen, Cygnus, Ti-Gi, Apothecery, Phoenicia, Stallworth, Coolwhip and Sandpiper. For the summer, the flag goes to Terry Madaras in Ti-Gi (9), followed by Cygnus (15.25), Maureen (20), Apothecery (24), Cheemaun (28.5), Stallworth (38), Phoenicia (38.5) and Sandpiper (39).

Show up Wednesday night for a short cruise down the South Arm followed by a dinner get-together at Nanny's but keep cleer of the Ingots, for the Mouse has heard that their pitching arms are warm and their water balloons are cold.

Til then, watching the Western skies.

End of the Mouse's Tale

Greene given McBride Award

The recipient of the 1985 Larry McBride award, given annually to the softball player selected as representative of good sportsmanship, has been announced by Dave Novotny, chairman of the McBride committee.

He is Kip Greene, the outfielder for Tidy Car-Family Video.

In presenting the award, Novotny said Greene represents ell, the attributes that McBride possessed during his brief career: sportsmanship and team spirit in addition to being an excellent all-around athlete. Greene was selected by umpires, the last four recipients of the award and the scorers. He boasted a .473 batting average. "Greene is the kind of player who gives 100 percent during the game, doesn't quibble about decisions and, when the game is over, leaves it at the ball park. He doesn't hold a grudge and plays the game for fun," Novotny said of him.

The award bears the name of McBride who made a name for himself as an athlete at the Charlevoix High School from which he graduated in 1964. He went on to play in the summer softball league sponsored by the city, bringing with him, the mark of fine sportsmanship prior to his untimely death in a traffic eccident in 1967.

Recipients of the award during the past 20 years have been Nate Boss, Bob Klooster, Des Milligan, Powers Payton, Mike Crain, Glen Taylor, Glenn Cunningham, Larry Skippergosh, Del Kelly, Pete Spieles.

Also Bernie DeVries, Dave Novotny, Jon Greene, brother of Kip, Terry Blissett, Ed Holm, Ray LaVole, Dan Gillespie, Steve Dunkelberg.

The names of the recipients are engraved on the cup which is displayed througbout the year at a prominent place in the business district.

LaBlance takes 'C' fastpitch

MIDLAND — LaBlance Insurance from Charlevoix took Women's Class C honors on August 18, coming out of the losers bracket to win five of six games including two straight in the finals.

In title action Sunday, LaBlance first defeated previously unbeaten Thelen of Bay City 3-0 as Rhonda Buchanan threw a three-hitter and then came back in the deciding game to beat Thelen again 4-1, with added player Lori Neelis tossing a four-hitter. Earlier on Sunday, Thelen had dropped LaBlance into the losers bracket 4-0.

"We had timely hitting and some strong defense," said manager Leroy Buchanan of the tournament run. Defense and the pitching of Neelis and Buchanan helped hold four of the six foes to two runs or less.

In the first game Saturday morning LaBlance overcame a 2-1 deficit in the top of the seventh inning to beat Tri-County Merchants of Frankenmuth 5-2. In that final frame Joanna Rautio opened with a triple, Chris Lehman singled, Meg Fowler tripled to get in the lead run, Buchanan walked and then Teresa Noirot followed with a triple for the fourth run of the inning.

Buchanan got the pitching win on a seven-hitter while Noirot and Colleen LaBlance bad two hits.

Next, LaBlance downed Eagle Lite of Escanaba 8-5, scoring five times in the first inning. Neelis was the winning pitcher and had two hits, one a triple. Bev Sobleski also had two hits.

Thelen dropped LaBlance into the losers bracket Sunday morning 4-0. Buchanan took the pitching defeat while Rautio had two of the four LaBlance hits.

In game four, LaBlance bounced back to beat Fisher of Midland 3-1 as Neelis recorded a six-hitter. Rautio had two hits while Noirot had a key single to drive in two runs.

Game five was the first contest of the finals and LaBlance handed Thelen their initial loss, 3-0 on Buchanan's three-hitter. LaBlance took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a key single by Rautio and then added two more runs in the third when Angie McClanaghan tripled.

In the title game last night LaBlance and Thelen were in a scoreless battle until the sixth when LaBlance broke through with four runs.

Again it was Rautio that started the fireworks with a single, Noirot doubled to score her and then McClanaghan and Sobleski also followed with doubles for a 3-0 lead. Sobleski came home on a sacrifice fly by Becky Gengle.

Neelis got the pitching win on a four-hitter while LaBlance had nine hits, a double and single from Noirot, the McClanaghan and Sobleski doubles while Fowler, Neelis, LaBlance and Raotio singled.

Along with the pitching of Neelis and Buchanan, Leroy Buchanan credited the following players with strong defensive play in the tournament: Brenda Buchanan third base; Gengle, centefield; Noirot, shortstop, LaBlange, second base; Fowler, catching; and Lehman in right-field. Neelis and Rautio were both added players for the tournament off The Outfitter.

This is the second strong tournament run by LaBlance in three years. In 1983 the team finish third in Class CC. LaBlance finished second to Petoskey Manufacturing in the Petoskey League this season.

VFW Auxiliary meeting planned

The Women's Auxiliary of Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet at the post home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5, Arlene Staley, president of the organization has announced.

It was announced that the annual Fall Pow-wow Conference will be held at Boyne Mountain Sept. 20-22. Members are urged to attend.

Also the monthly potluck dinners for post and auxiliary members will be resumed in September and continued throughout the fall and winter. The first one will be held at the post home at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 29. As usual, members are to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. Social meetings at 7:30 p.m. on the third Thursday of the month will also begin in September.

The auxiliary has been presented with a handcrafted quilt which will be raffled during the October 12 Apple Festival. Members will receive a book of tickets they will be expected to sell.

Dues for the year are now due. They may be paid to Betty White, treasurer or any auxiliary member. Efforts are being made to make Auxiliary No. 1153 the first 100 percent auxiliary in the state. Life memberships are now available, members were advised.

A "thank you" letter from Jack Gebott, director of Camp McSauba, the day camp operated by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, thanking the auxiliary for sponsoring four youngsters at camp was read.

Arlene Staley, cancer chairman, said the auxiliary was selling robin pins with the proceeds going to the auxiliary-sponsored fund.

Auxilairy members have contributed 50 hours as volunteers in the distribution of food and at Bergmann Center, Mrs. Staley advised.

Anniversary held on golf course

Amy and Jerry Russell of Charlevoix celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary on the Charlevoix Municipal Golf course. Dressed in their wedding finery, they were greeted at the first tee by a group of friends, all dressed up for the special occasion.

A table near the tee was appropriately covered with a cloth and decorated with flowers and candles, and a bottle of champagne added to the festivities.

The "bride" and her husband and many of their friends played seven holes of golf (she in her wedding dress) before stopping at Duffy's, where their wedding reception had been held five years earlier.

Youth choir performs at Nazarene Church

The Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene will host the Perry, Michigan Youth Choir on Sunday morning, September 1.

The choir will present the musical "Dreamin'" by David Clydesdale, directed by Mrs. John Harris, the former Darlene Smalley of Charlevoix.

Todd Compton, minister of music at the Perry church, will give the message of the day.

The Youth Choir will also perform at the Boyne City Church of the Nazarene on Saturday evening, and at the Petoskey Church of the Nazarene on Saunday evening. On Monday, they will join several other youth groups in the annual Labor Day Mackinac Bridge walk.

The Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene is located on US-31 North and Waller Road. The service will begin at 11 a.m. There is no admission charge.

Coast Guard applicants sought

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1990. Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas. Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to December 15, 1985.

Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 14, 1985 administration for the ACT, and the December 7, 1985 administration for the SAT.

For further information write: Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, CT 06320 or call (203) 444-8501.

Charlevoix school, bus schedules set

Wednesday, Sept. 4, will mark the opening of the Charlevoix Public Schools for the 1985-86 school year, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren, has announced.

There will be a full schedule of classes for all but children attending the kindergarten.

Buses will travel their designated routes as they transport approximately 79 percent of the student body enrolled in the Charlevoix schools.

Classes at the high school will begin at 7:50 a.m., middle school at 8:05 and elementary school at 9:00 a.m. Classes will be dismissed at the high school at 2:20 p.m., middle school at 2:33 p.m. and the elementary school at 3:30 p.m.

Cafeterias at all three school will be open. Meal tickets will be 90 cents at the elementary school and $1 at the middle and high school. The middle school will offer a la carte items at the country store. The high school cafeteria will also offer a la carte foods.

For children attending kindergarten, there will be a special schedule on Wednesday. Parents of children who will be attending the morning classes of kindergarten are asked to bring their child to school at 9:30 a.m. and pick them up at 10:30 a.m. Children attending the afternoon classes will be at school from 1 until 2 p.m. and then return home with their parents.

The first full day of school for these children will be Thursday, Sept. 5, when they will ride the bus to and from school for the first time.

Parents of children entering kindergarten who are not registered at this time may register them at the elementary school between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. during the week or between 1 and 3 p.m. on Sept 3. Parents are reminded to bring a health record.

Anyone with questions relating to the opening of school may call the business office at 547-3200 or the school their child or children will be attending.

Newcomers to the community who have not registered their children may do so at the school the child or children will be attending.

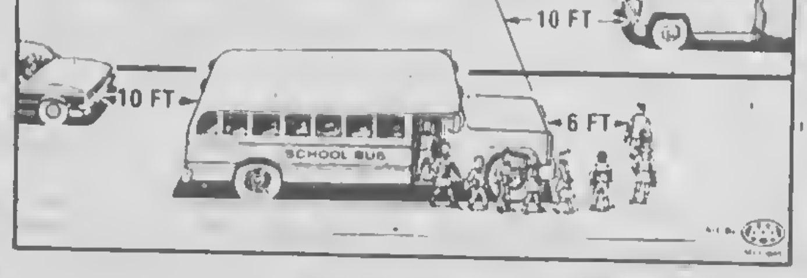
The elementary school (K-5) is located on Division Avenue, the middle school on Grant Street between Clinton and Mason Streets and the high school on E. Garfield.

Mary Lenhart, seated above, is the winner of the 1985 Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild scholarship. The $300 scholarship is presented annually to an area student in the medical or health care field. Mary, who will be a second year nursing student at the University of Michigan this fall, is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Making the presentation were, standing from left, Aria Staublin, Guild treasurer, Merilyn Izor, Guild president, and Jeanne Miles, chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

School bus safety stressed

To cut down on traffic mishaps involving school buses, AAA Michigan advises motorists and student pedestrians to follow certain safeguards. Michigan law requires motorists in both directions to halt 10 feet on either side of a stopped school bus displaying flashing red lights.

Students should always cross at least six feet in front of the bus in clear view of the bus driver and be alert for all traffic. Seven persons died in accidents involving school buses during the 1984-85 school year. AAA and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation are cosponsoring a series of statewide traffic safety education programs on school bus safety.



Ellsworth school opens Sept.3

The Ellsworth Community school will open Tuesday, September 3, 1985 with only teachers present in the morning.

Buses will follow regular routes bringing students grade 1 through 12 to the school by 1 p.m. Grades 7-12 are to report to the gymnasium for further instructions and will then proceed with a class walk-through until 3:30 p.m. At that time they will be bused home.

Kindergarten children are not to report until Wednesday morning, September 4. Kindergarten students will depart from school at approximately 11:30 to be bused home.

Wednesday, September 4, will be a full day of school with buses running at the regular time. This will be the first day for school lunches. Lunches are at last year's level: 1-6 grades - 70 cents per day; 7-12 grades - 80 cents per day.

Free and reduced applications will be available and parents are requested to read directions carefully. Incorrenct applications can result in a delay.

Students not previously enrolled should do so prior to the opening of school.

Please! Keep Charlevoix Clean!

OTHERS MAY WISH TO USE IT!

Phelps school holds reunion

On Saturday August 31 the first Phelps School Reunion will be held at the Barnard Grange Hall located on Barnard Road six miles south of Charlevoix.

Phelps school was located on the corner of Phelps Road and the Charlevoix Ellsworth Road. The school closed in the spring of 1942 and the students were transported to the Charlevoix school.

Anyone who was ever enrolled as a student at Phelps school and their spouse are invited to attend.

The reunion will begin at 1 p.m. with a potluck dinner. Each one attending is asked to bring a dish to pass, their own table service, old pictures or anything you would like to share.

St. Mary's opens Wed.

St. Mary's School will open at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 4, for the 1985-86 school year, Sister Jean Karen Woloszyk has announced.

The school presently has 78 students registered in the six grades, she said.

The faculty will include Jeanne Dubey who will teach the first grade; Jack Gebott, the second and third grades; John Gagnon, fourth grade; and Sister Jean Karen, fifth and sixth grades.

Jeanne Lignell will be in charge of the music program; Eileen Heck, art; Linda Moore, remedial reading; and Lori Manker, speech therapy.

Students at St. Mary's school, like public school students, ride the school bus which will arrive at their respective homes at the usual times as in the past. Classes are dismissed at 3:30 p.m.

Chamberlain, Ferguson form surveying firm

Sharman Chamberlain

Sherman Chamberlain, Jr. has recently joined surveyor John Ferguson in a new business partnership. The two have formed Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates, Inc., a land surveying business.

Chamberlain was previously employed at Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. He started full time with that company in 1972 after graduating from Michigan Technological University in Houghton, Mi. Chamberlain had also worked three summers with Charlevoix Abstract while attending school.

In his new position, Chamberlain will be responsible for condominium work while Ferguson will concentrate on boundary surveys, mortgage inspections, and plats.

Ferguson was also with Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering, from 1967-77, before forming John E. Ferguson Associates, Inc.

Chamberlain, 35, was born in Rochester, New Hampshire and graduated from Grosse Pointe High School in 1968. He and his wife, Connie, have three children – Josh, age 2, Nathan, 5, and Rebecca, 8.

Adoption meeting held in Gaylord

Community, Family and Children Services' Central District Office located in Gaylord announces an adoption orientation meeting to be held Thursday, September 12, 1985 from 8 to 8 p.m. at the Diocesan Pastoral Center in Gaylord. The office is located one mile west of the I-75 exit on M-32.

The orientation meeting will be for families interested in adopting infants and marks the beginning of the adoption process. There will also be information accessible for families interested in adopting older children who are available for placement through the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Community, Family and Children Services provides adoption services to residents of Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Emmet, Otsego, Crawford and Roscommon counties.

For more information, call Ellen Campbell, Adoption Coordinator at the CFCS office, 517-732-5313.

TC Symphony auditions

The Traverse Symphony Orchestra announces open auditions for its 1985-86 season. Music Director and Conductor Donald Lewsader invites all interested musicians to audition even if vacancies do not currently exist, since other positions may open later and substitutes are often needed for individual concerts.

Specific openings include: violin, viola, 'cello, bass, principal flute, principal clarinet, second oboe, section horns, principal and section trumpets, principal and second trombones and section percussion.

Auditions are scheduled for Sept. 9. For an audition appointment and further information, contact Judy Gienow, personnel manager at 616-223-4483 or call the symphony office at 816-947-7120.

Official Notice

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of .0755 mills in the transit operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1985.

The hearing will be held on Wednesday, September 11 at 10:30 o'clock in the a.m. at Commissioners Room, County Building Annex, Charlevoix.

If adopted, the proposed additonal millage will increase transit operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 30.2% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

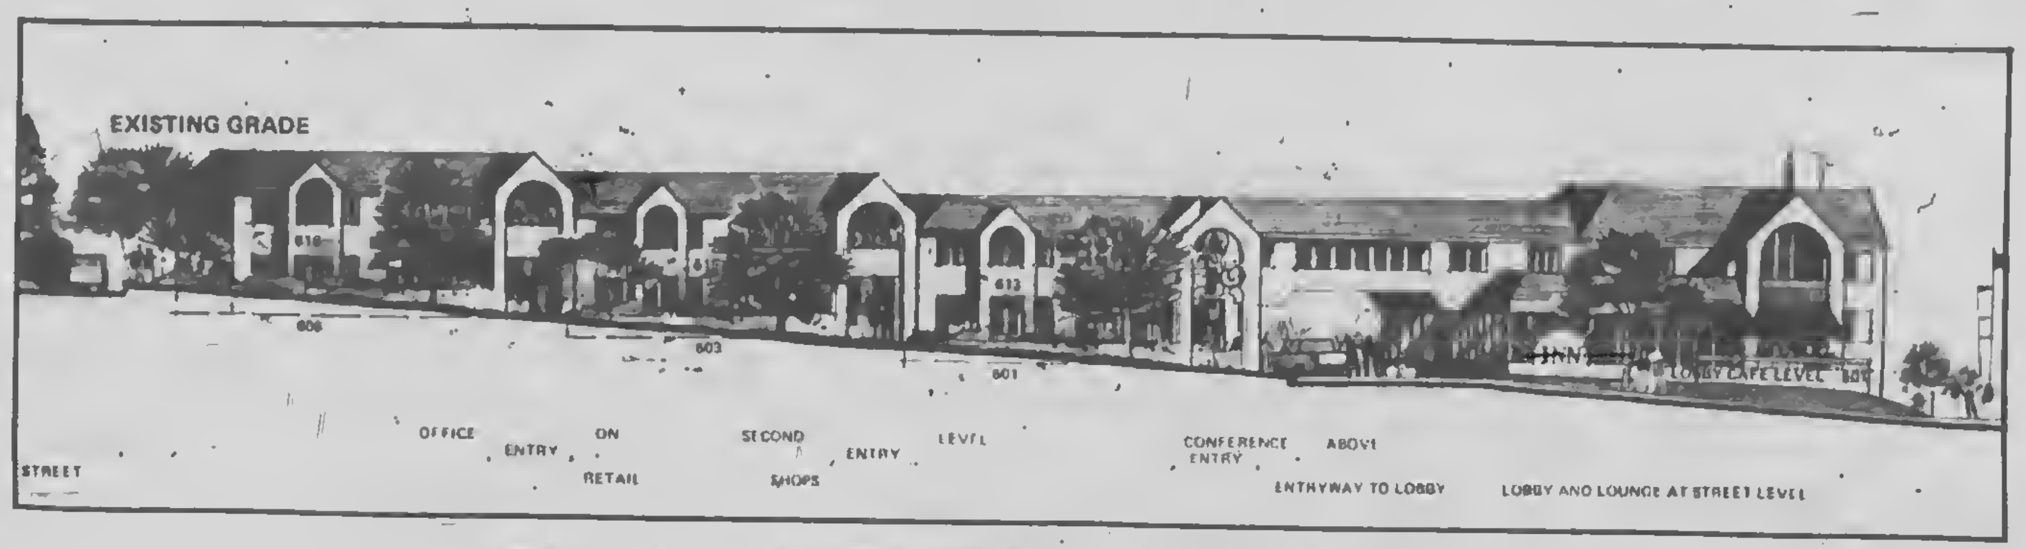
Downtown hotel complex sees new life

by DOUG TRUAX



U.S. 31 elevation of shop fronts, conference center, and hotel lobby for the proposed new hotel.

Plans have been revived for a major condominium hotel on the site of the former Finn Lumber Co. in downtown Charlevoix.

Jon Hisey is seeking to build a 60-unit hotel to the northeast of the U.S. 31 bridge. The $5 million complex will include a conference meeting room with a capacity for 133 persons and a row of commercial shops along U.S. 31.

Also planned are a number of boat slips on Round Lake which will be offered for sale to owners of the hotel condominium rooms.

Hisey, owner of J.A.H. Development Inc., is the developer of the Harbour Club condominiums on Round Lake and the Lakehouse condominiums on Lake Michigan. He purchased the property for the new hotel complex from John McGoff, owner of Water's Edge and the Beaver Island Navigation Co. among other interests.

McGoff and developer Joel Altman sought unsuccessfully to develop a similar hotel on the Finn Lumber Co. property. Announced originally in February, 1983, the Altman project, as it was called, involved the development of a hotel on the east side of U.S. 31 and on the west side of the highway renovation of the former Weathervane Restaurant (now Ricciardi's Inn of Charlevoix), a meeting facility on the site of the former Charlevoix Oil Co., and a two-story, 108-car parking structure to the north of the meeting center.

The Altman project failed when the developers were unable to secure a $1.1 million urban development action grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. They were also unable to obtain all of the necessary property on the west side of U.S. 31.

Hisey's project, like its predecessor to be called The Inn at Charlevoix, will be built entirely with private funds. It will be limited to the east side of U.S. 31 and will be built closer to the waterfront than the Altman project.

A site plan for the project was approved by the City Planning Commission on August 28 with several conditions. The Planning Commission also recommended approval to rezone the property from Marine-Commercial-Scenic to C1 (Commercial). The property had been rezoned from MCS to Motel-Hotel for the Altman project but that rezoning lapsed when the project was not acted upon.

Hisey asked for C1 zoning in order to accomodate the retail shops planned for the complex.

The Planning Commission gave its approval contingent on permits being acquired from the DNR and the Army Corps of Engineers for the docking plan, the developer investigating alternatives to egress from the property onto U.S. 31, the provision for 20 off-site parking spaces provided for the meeting room, access be provided to the pump station on the east side of the property, the lot grade to be as close to 5 percent as possible, approval of the plan by the Fire Chief, and a statement that the planning commission conditions will be in the master deed.

The commission also approved several variances for setbacks, height and parking. They approved 96 on-site parking spaces and 20 off-site, a reduction of 20 percent from the required number because of the mixed-use development with hotel, commercial shops, and conference center in the same complex.

Parking for the Star of Charlevoix is currently at the site of the hotel. The commission required a binding agreement showing the Star of Charlevoix parking will be off site and that there will be provisions for loading and unloading customers.

Bruce MacArthur addressed the Planning Commission asking them to consider the scale of the project in relation to surrounding uses. He said be would prefer a scaled plan showing those other uses to see how the project fits.

Jack Uhrick, owner of the Lodge, told the commission he objects to the use of the green space below his retaining wall.

Hisey will now seek approval of the variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The project must then be approved by City Council.

"It is important to us to get the support of the community," Hisey said. He predicted the hotel complex would be the best in northwest Michigan.

The 60 hotel suites would each be approximately 600 square feet, Hisey said, with a few larger deluxe suites. The hotel would include an indoor-outdoor pool. A 2,250 square foot conference room would be built above the entrance to the parking area and would connect the hotel with the commercial shops. It would be available for rent by community groups, Hisey said.

The shops along U.S. 31 would contain 4,000 square feet of retail space in three distinct buildings capable of housing six businesses. There would be 3,000 square feet of office space above the shops.

Hisey said the project has a 10-foot lower profile than the Altman project. This was achieved, he noted, by bringing the hotel closer to the edge of the water and at a lower grade.

The hotel would also include a cafe for guests.

Hisey is hoping to build 10-12 boat slips in front of the hotel. To achieve this, Hisey said, the dock for the Star of Charlevoix would have to be angled into Round Lake.

The Altman project had been approved for eight boat slips.

Planner for the project is William Johnson and the architect is H. Jack Begrow.

Juvenile Court attempts to keep services high, costs low

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County Juvenile Court is a busy court and it takes a lot of money to operate it.

Brad Campbell, the court's Juvenile Officer, appeared before the County Board of Commissioners recently to report on some of the measures he and other Juvenile Court employees have undertaken to provide the best possible service at the least possible cost to the public.

Some of the programs he reported on were:

The re-imbursement program, by which the court collects monies due it by persons whose children are being served by the court – receiving housing, clothing, food, medical attention, counseling, or similar services.

"Our program is the best one in the state," he told the Commissioners. "It has been rated 15th out of 83 counties, and our collections run higher than some of the larger counties," he added.

Through June of this year, Juvenile Court had collected about $29,000 owed to it. The court takes 25 percent "off the top" of all monies collected, and the remainder is split half and half by the county and state, which means that between $15,000 and $20,000 has been saved by the county.

The in-home case worker program, which keeps children at home who would otherwise have gone into foster care homes. The case worker makes regular visits to the children's homes and counsels both the parents and children on how to achieve and maintain a workable relationship.

Last year, this program kept 24 children out of foster care homes for a total of 8,760 days. The cost of operating the program is less than $25,000 a year, but it could save over $100,000 a year, according to Campbell.

Counseling programs. By setting up proper contracting procedures and working out suitable per-hour rates for children and their families, much money can be saved, Campbell said. "We can see that the children get good service and the county saves money," he explained.

Diversionary program. This program, whereby children are provided with worthwhile things to do to keep them busy and out of the court system could also be a money-saver for the court and a real help to the children, Campbell believes. "First time offenders should not go through the courts unless it is a serious crime," he told the Commissioners. The diversionary program in Charlevoix County was discontinued about two years ago, but Campbell is asking for its return.

Victim-offender reconciliation program (VORP), is a new program carried out by members of Volunteers in Probation. These trained volunteers set up one-to-one mediation meetings between juvenile offenders and their victims. The meetings give victims a chance to see that the person who committed the crime is a child and not an adult criminal, and they usually help alleviate the victim's anger.

However, the prime purpose of such a meeting is to set up a way to recover restitution from the offender, either by setting up a schedule of payments or a schedule of work to be done by the offender for the victim.

"We started this program last spring," Campbell explained, "and we are having excellent results. So good that we are looking for more volunteers to work in the program.

"Prior to VORP, we had trouble recovering damages and could only suggest suing parents of offenders in District Court. Most kids don't have jobs."

Juvenile Court shares public responsibility for the care of children with the Department of Social Services. From time to time, there has been friction between the two bodies about division of services. However, Campbell told the Commissioners that, with the approval of Juvenile Court Judge John Murphy, a lasting working relationship could be worked out between Social Services and Juvenile Court. "We can clear up any questions about service responsibility," he said.

Campbell's suggestion was that the diversionary program, home care, and probation be kept in the Juvenile Court office, with Social Services assuming the remaining responsibilities. In the past, Social Services has managed the diversionary program, but Campbell believes it should be headquartered in Juvenile Court because the court has the initial contact with children in trouble and they should do the initial work to keep them out of trouble. On the other hand, Social Services is geared for after-court cases, Campbell said.

For the past few years, the annual caseload in Juvenile Court has averaged between 250 and 300 children.

Survey goes to Lake Charlevoix landowners

Some 2,500 property owners in the three cities and seven townships bordering on Lake Charlevoix are receiving a questionnaire prepared by the County Planning Commission and the Lake Charlevoix Advisory Committee.

Called the "Lake Charlevoix Attitude Survey", the questionnaire consists of 21 comprehensive questions, including: How the landowner uses Lake Charlevoix; on what part of the lake he would most like to see developments of various stated kinds, and where he would least like to see these developments; how the landowner views the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, how the quality has changed in recent years, how he judges those changes, and what impact he feels various developments and activities have had on the lake through the years.

There are questions about the adequacy of lake facilities, including launching ramps, boat slips, swimming beaches, pumpout facilities, fish cleaning stations, parks and campgrounds, and public access sites.

There are also questions about city and township zoning ordinances as well as county and state codes and regulations, with additional questions about their enforcement.

In a preface to the questionnaire, Dr. John Hall, chairman of the Lake Charlevoix Advisory Committee, and Tom Wieland, chairman of the Planning Commission, state that answers received to these questions will put locally elected and appointed officials "in a better position to reflect the desires of the community in making decisions affecting the quality of life in Charlevoix County".

The questionnaire is going to randomly-selected landowners in Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Charlevoix Township, Hayes Township, Bay Township, Evangeline Township, Eveline Township, Marion Township, and South Arm Township. It should be completed and returned by September 13..

Makeup artist to stars visits Charlevoix soon

An internationally-known makeup artist who works with movie and television stars will be in Charlevoix later this month to "make over" women who want to look their best and learn bow to achieve that goal.

Robert Tamiggi, whose clients include the cast of "Dynasty", super models Christie Brinkley and Cheryl Tiegs, and daytime television stars, will be at New Creation Hair Designs on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, September 23, 24, and 25 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

As a representative of Redken skin care products and cosmetics, Tamiggi will not only use his skills in applying the right makeup the right way to women who seek his services, but he will instill in them some basic rules that they can carry through their lifetime:

Blush applied to the check bone itself tends to flatten a face. To highlight cheek bones, the color should be applied just under the cheek bones and upward beyond the corner of the eyes to the hairline.

Makeup is used to downplay and hide flaws while at the same time you are drawing attention to your good features.

For darkness under the eyes, eat more carrots and deep green vegetables. Coffee, cigarettes, and cocktails burn up vitamins B and C immediately.

Apply mascara with a brush rubbed over the mascara applicator or wand. The effct is thicker but more natural lashes.

Those wishing to avail themselves of Tamiggi's services should call New Creation Hair Designs at 547-5935 for an appointment.

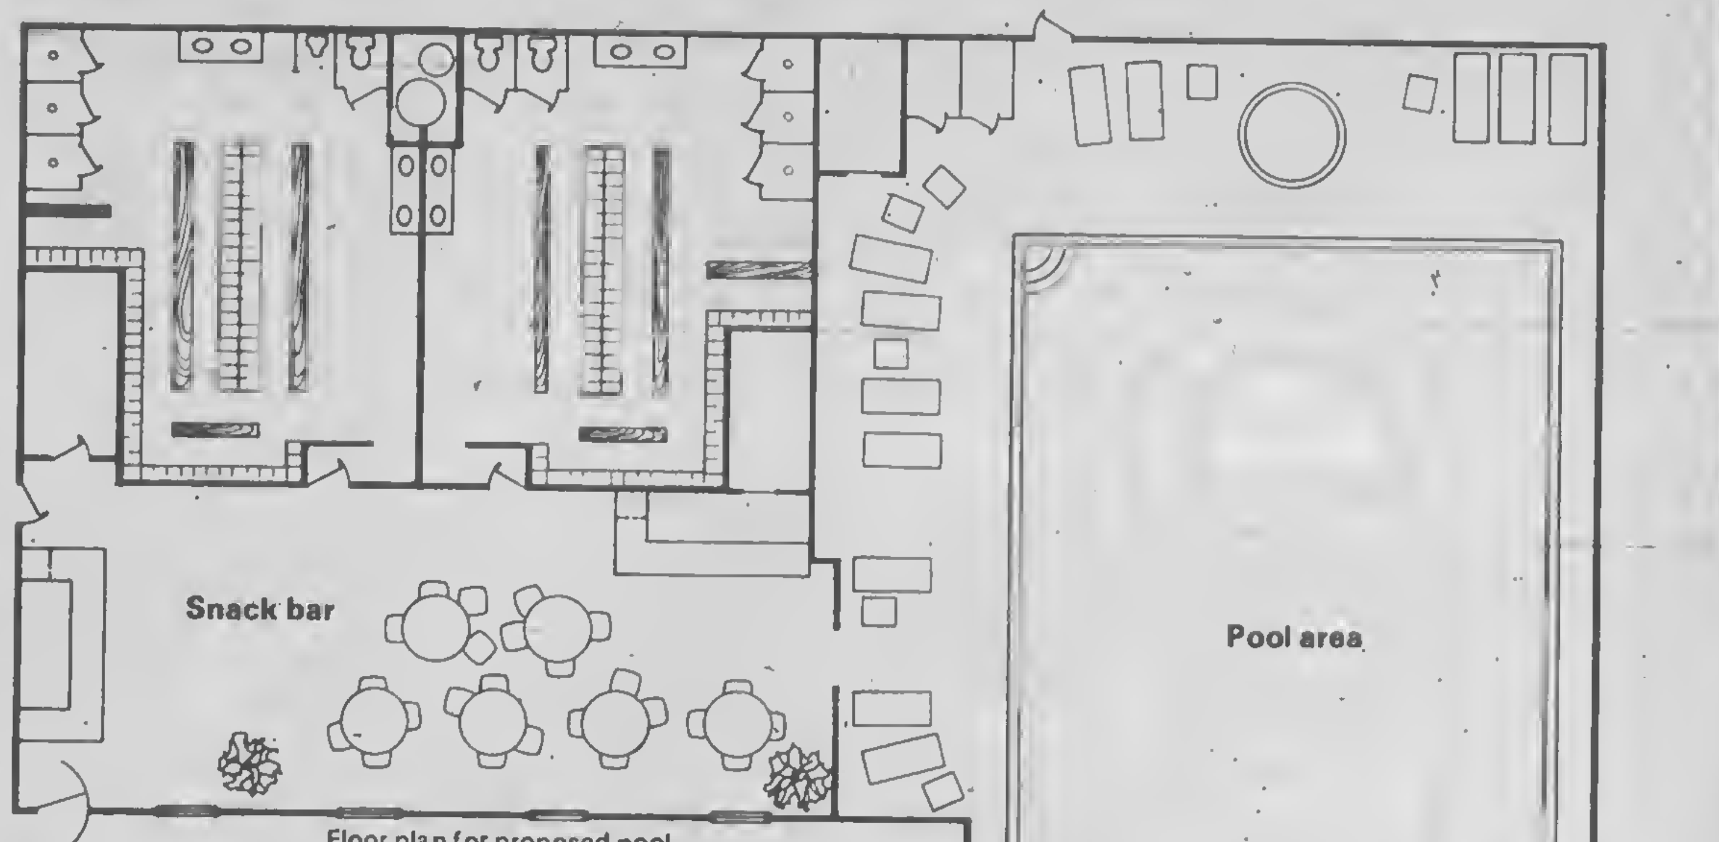
Health and Fitness Center plans for pool in Charlevoix



Floor plan for proposed pool

An indoor pool in Charlevoix is being actively pursued by Steve Kehrer, owner of Charlvoix Health and Fitness Center.

Kehrer would like to construct the pool behind his fitness center on U.S. 31 South and lease or rent a block of time to the physical education classes at the Charlevoix schools.

He is still exploring financing options, but feels the participation of the schools is critical to the operation of a pool. He would like a minimum three-year commitment from the schools.

Kehrer's plan calls for constructing a new building behind the current fitness center. The new structure would be 120 by 85 feet and include a pool 40 feet wide with four lanes 60 feet long and two competition length lanes 72 feet long. Also included would be a hot tub, sauna, locker room facilities, health food snack bar, and general lounging area.

The building, Kehrer says, would be energy efficient with earthen berms on all sides and solar panels to heat the building. There would also be a patio sun deck.

"If everything comes together, I'd like to start construction in the spring," Kehrer says.

Financing for the pool, he says, would come in part from a long-term contract with the school system and from the sale of individual memberships and swim passes. Kehrer also hopes to talk with the Charlevoix Area Hospital about using the pool for water theraph.

He is considering a membership limited to 30 families who would pay $1,000 each for five years use of the pool. He would also sell swim cards to the public for $100 for 100 swims.

Among the goals of the program, Kehrer says, would be to provide "drown proofing" for children from preschool to grade 5. He would also like to install a turbulence fan to simulate waves, allowing children to learn to cope with the lakes during rough weather.

Kehrer says the construction of the pool would cost between $150,000 and $200,000. It would cost some $25,000 to $30,000 annually to maintain the pool.

Vince Olach, business manager for the Charlevoix schools, says the proposal is under consideration by the Board of Education. "The board is not opposed to it," Olach says. "It is an option that the board is considering." He notes that among the things the school must consider are the cost and logistics of transporting students to the pool, the number of students enrolled in physical education classes, and the cost of the program.

Community support for the idea has been great, Kehrer says. "The community wants me to put it in tomorrow."

In 1984 a group called SPLASH – Swimming Pool Lovers Advocating Safety and Health – proposed building a community pool in Charlevoix. The group disbanded after a straw vote in June 1984 showed school district residents strongly opposed the district's involvement with a commmunity indoor pool.

Letters to the Editor:

Marketplace 29 A.D. lauded

Dear Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you, one and all, for the great "happening" called Marketplace 29 A.D. It was super-colossal. You all were wonderful. We'll never be able to measure it's "success." It truly was one of the highlights of my ministry. Thanks again and God bless you real good.

Support new fire station now

Dear Editor:

Where as I am not in total agreement or total disagreement with the proposal for relocation of the fire and police departments which Dale Boss has expounded, I am in disagreement with the contention that more time should be expended in investigating.

A year and a half has already been spent considering what to do with the new fire engine. We could spend another year or so by procrastinating as was done on the solution to our contaminated water supply. However sadly, Dale has waited until the last possible moment to bring forth his idea. It is probable that by waiting and waiting many other ideas would be forthcoming. But, we must move ahead and we must submit the council's proposal to the voters on the Nov. 5 ballot.

So now, not later, is the time for all of the city's people to support in earnest the new fire station.

Protest chemical warfare

Dear Editor:

After strenuous lobbying by the Pentagon and the President, Congress reversed itself and voted for including funds in FY-86 for Binary Nerve Gas Production. (It has been rejected since 1982.)

Legislators had been educated by the President's chemical warfare panel, which he appointed in March 1985, including Alexander Haig, ex-diplomat Walter Stressel, and others — all known supporters of chemical and biological warfare. The Defense Department provided the staff. The secretary was Casper Weinberger's deputy assistant for chemical matters. No opponent was given a place.

On June 17, many Congressmen were invited to the White House for more pressure. Now we are told that the conference has just given away the two protections that the House vote included, which were: 1. Binary weapons can only be built after 1987 and 2. NATO must formally request that they be stored in Europe.

Now, before Congress reconvenes, strong citizen lobbying is needed to overturn this entire administration push for chemical weapons. Congress returns Sept. 3.

Write immediately to your legislators protesting the entire mova to approve chemical and biological warfare.

Evils of world communism

Dear Editor:

In reply to the challenge regarding conservative views on the merits of communism vs. christianity, perhaps it might be helpful to review the history of this alien philosophy: Karl Marx of Germany lived and died "a man without a country" over a hundred years ago. Even as a youth his ideas were too radical for the Germans and he was expelled from his native land. He took refuge in France but the French tired of him too. Fortunatley Great Britian granted him asylum where he resided until he death at age 62 in 1883.

The Bolsheviks adopted the Marx credo following the 1917 Revolution when they overthrew the Russian Government which had become more and more corrupt under the influence of the mad monk, Rasputin, on the royal family. So Communism was born to plague the world ever since. Whether the Marx credo is a boon to the Russian masses is controversial. Apparently the former royal despotism has only been changed to communist despotism, which may or may not be evil in itself but following the Karl Marx line that "religion is the opium of the people" certainly voices a basic antipathy to christian democracy.

Evidence of the evils of world communism: Kabul, Afghanistan released a report which was not mentioned on American broadcasts or newspapers. The report stated that Russia had kidnapped 870 children between the ages of seven and nine and airlifted them to Moscow for re-education, in spite of the tears and anquish of the parents who realized they will never see those children again. No more God and no more Mahomet his prophet for 870 Afganistanians - only Communism.

In our day it seems incredible that there are mature American citizens who fail to recognize any reference to the notorious Hollywood actress nicknamed Hanoi Jane by our United State's armed forces; Hanoi Jane visited Hanoi at the height of the Vietnam Warlike Police Action to cheer the communists while our POWs were facing torture and starvation daily in communist prisons. Even our newspapers reported her meeting, long with 2 other actress experts, with farm conclaves to offer support and advice to experience growers although the actresses were not involved in agriculture - only the Hollywood movies.

But atheism as well as communist apologists appear to weaken christian democracy as they continue to voice such sentiments as was recently accorded to Gloria Steinham when she was quoted as remarking "by the year 2000, mothers will rear their children with faith only in themselves - not God." With Madalyn Murray O'Hare and Hanoi Jane plus Ms. Steinham we have a formidable following of brainwashed citizens who appear to have developed a force determental to christian democracy which many honor as God's gift to America.

Appreciation expressed

Dear Editor:

Sincere thanks and gratitude to the Charlevoix City Police, Michigan State Police, U.S. Coast Guard personnel, and the crew of the Department of Indian Affairs boat that were involved in the recovery of the body of our son, Louis, from Lake Michigan on August 10, 1985.

Kudos for Historical Society

Dear Editor:

Next to excellence, is the appreciation of it. Do the Charlevoix residents really appreciate the loving labors of the members of the Charlevoix Historicl Society in the renovation of their museum? As you know, the society inherited the house from Ann Harsha in 1979 and has since worked on many projects to enhance their properties and offer the people of Charlevoix proper housing for their city's memorabilia. The Harsha House (named for the benefactor) was most recently transformed into its original exterior state (according to an early photo) complete with wooden rails around the proch and old front door with hand carvings. An antique wooden swing will soon grace the front porch (also per photo).

Member of the society have effected many benefits these past ten years for monies to restore and enlarge the museum. The sale of "Bob Miles' Charlevoix" book rendered the most in profits and the latest money-maker was the raffle of the "Historical Charlevoix" quilt which was hand-sewn by Charlevoix women, designed by Charlevoix natives and commissioned by the society.

The membership fee to the Charlevoix Historical Society is $5 per person per year. Wouldn't every Charlevoixian be proud to become a member? Our monthly meetings offer interesting presentations concerning the Charlevoix area, past, present and future. We invite you to make an effort soon to visit our beautiful museum, which is open Thursday through Sunday, 1-4 p.m. until Labor Day. Who knows? You may find photos or artifacts of your own family, friends or neighbors!

Action needed on litter

Dear Editor:

In our fifteen years of living on the shores of Lake Michigan we have seen many beautiful sailboats and yachts go by but also the litter that floats in - plastic cups, plates, bags, toilet paper, etc. The return bottle act has stopped cans and bottles floating in.

I have been trying to think of an ordinance or law for this but the magnitude of this polluting is overwhelming. We read of protests on nuclear plants and companies who pollute but no action on the things people themselves can correct.

The people who spend millions on boats and drive miles to use them and enjoy our beauty should police themselves so we all can continue to enjoy this same beauty.

Is it too much to ask that they carry back what they carry out. Our harbors provide litter barrels for all. I was taught at home to respect natures beauty and my fellow man's propety so no law or police force will be sufficient until Americans learn to respect and love our beautiful waters, dunes and beaches.

Please my fellow man, teach respect and love of our land and waters to your offspring so they will strive to keep our beauty intact.

Concern for Water's Edge

I am personally and professionally concerned about the possibility of the Water's Edge condominium and boat marina development.

I spent seven summers teaching swimming lessons and life guarding at Ferry Avenue beach for the Charlevoix Recreation Department. I also gave private swimming lessons several years after that.

On several occasions the heavy boat traffic created so many waves that it was impossible and sometimes dangerous to hold swimming lessons for the local Charlevoix youth. The construction of the Northwest Marina combined with dredging and expansion of Irish Marina stirred up the water so that lessons were sometimes postponed. The Recreation Department had two seasons of miserable swimming lessons because of this.

Prior to my teaching I know that the beaches were ordered closed due to unhealthy water conditions. In recent years the beaches were alerted due to a substance in the water contributing to swimmers itch.

A large condominium and marina development such as Water's Edge is proposing will naturally mean many more boats and much more density in the small area surrounding Ferry Avenue beach. If the Water's Edge condominium and marina development is allowed, I can see history repeating itself.

For many Charlevoix natives the natural beaches provide inexpensive family fun and recreation. We cannot afford to allow outside developers to jeopardize Charlevoix's natural resources for their individual financial gains. I urge all local residents to become involved in what outside developers are doing to "Charlevoix the Beautiful" before its too late.

City Charter

By Bob Clock

More than seven years have passed since the voters of Charlevoix approved a new city charter, but provisions of the charter are still hazy among some area residents.

Aside from giving Charlevoix its first home-rule government, the charter contains some very specific provisions to protect the citizenry from political manipulation and wanton spending.

Among them is a provision that no city-owned water frontage may be disposed of without a vote of the people. That resulted directly from a proposal seriously discussed by city council several years ago to swap — even-Steven — the city-owned Beaver Island Boat Co. dock for the former Erber garage on Clinton Street.

There is absolutely no comparison between the values of the two pieces of property and, fortunately, the trade was never consummated.

A SECOND important provision was designed to put all city-owned utilities on a business-like footing under the assumption that the utilities should support themselvesand not underwrite the cost of city government generally.

Twenty years ago, for example, just under 50 percent of the cost of running the city was milked from the electric fund. The other 50 percent was raised through property taxes.

In some communities with relatively stable year-round populations, such an arrangement may not be all bad. But in Charlevoix, which is home to two major resort clubs and literally hundreds of other seasonal residents, such a system is patently unfair to year-round residents.

Keep in mind that seasonal residents only burn their lights and run their vacuum sweepers and refrigerators only a few weeks or a few months every year. Their contribution to the electric fund is negligible. Year-round residents, on the other hand, contribute heavily to the electric fund month after month and were therefore paying a disproportionate amount of money to run the city.

It must be remembered that although the resorters are here for only a short time, their property still has year-round police and fire protection, not to mention snow plowing and other city services.

THE CHARTER Commission felt a far more equitable system would be to make city utilities support themselves — and no more. This is the way the provision appears in the charter, Section 12.3 Rates (b):

"The rates and charges of any municipal utility for the furnishing of services shall be no higher then necessary to cover the costs of such utility, including depreciation, capital improvements and the creating and maintaining of an emergency fund."

That's the law.

Yet the city council was asked recently to have the voters yank $300,000 from the electric fund to buy a new site for the fire hall. The council has wisely rejected the scheme and the electric fund is secure for the time being.

How much money is in the electric fund? City Manager Michael Wiesner says he doesn't know for sure but that Mayor Hal Hill and former Councilman Roger Westenbroek have undertaken a study of the system and firm figures should be available some time in the next year.

If there is anything approaching $300,000 in the fund, it had better be plowed into capital improvements post haste. The only alternative is a hefty cut in electric rates post haste.

That's the law.

SPEAKING OF THE charter, that document has never been printed in pamphlet form and made readily available to residents, as is the practice in most cities. Even Wiesner is working from a badly dog-eared loose-leaf copy that is extremely difficult to read.

Maybe it's time to put the charter down in black and white so we all know where we stand.

Further information on "Hum"

Bob Boyce of East Jordan has furnished us with some additional information about the steamer "Hum", which we featured in our "Charlevoix Yesterday" section last week.

The "Hum" carried passengers between Charlevoix and East Jordan for many years. Boyce notes that it was built in Brooklyn, New York in 1876 as the yacht "Truant". It served as the family yacht of the Newberry family of Detroit until 1892. It was renamed the "Pilgrim" at Marquette in 1896 and rebuilt as a steamer in Grand Haven in 1900. That same year it was registered in Charlevoix as the "Pilgrim"

On September 12, 1903, the boat ran over the gasoline launch "Lady Margaret" near Ironton, killing five members of the East Jordan baseball team. Two years later, it was purchased by George Jepson and renamed the "Hum".

Ending its career in Charlevoix County, the boat was rebuilt as an excursion boat in Chicago in 1917 or 1918 and renamed the "Howard F." Other registrations were the "T. D. Banner" in 1925 and the "Fred Hentz" in 1931. It was abandoned in the North Branch of the Chicago River in 1935 and later towed out into Lake Michigan and sunk.

Boyce received most of his information from Steven Harold of the Pioneer Study Center in Traverse City.

Correction

In last week's Courier, we stated that some residents of Eveline Township had petitioned to close the Charlevoix landfill, which is located in that township. The statement should have read that the residents sought to close the landfill to waste materials from counties other than Charlevoix. The Courier regrets the error.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Bruce

Spencer - Bruce

Chris Spencer and Timothy Bruce were united in marriage July 20 in a candlelight service at the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

The bride, who has been living in Milford, is the daughter of James Spencer of Trenton and Shirley Kowalski of Walled Lake. Her bridegroom is the son of Dewey Bruce, Sr. of Charlevoix and the late Mrs. Bruce. He has also been making his home in Milford.

Approximately 100 guests witnessed the double-ring rites conducted by the Reverend David Yingling before an altar decorated with arrangements of purple and pink carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional white wedding gown fashioned with a Victorian-style lace bodice, full-length veil, and train.

Marina LaBlance provided organ music for the ceremony. Vocalist Trina Wiser offered "The Wedding Song", and was joined by Mike Patrick in a duet rendition of "Endless Love".

Sue Spencer served her sister as maid of honor, and Lynn Shores assisted as bridesmaid. The maid of honor wore a floor-length gown of lavender, featuring ruffled cap sleeves and a lace bodice. She carried a fan covered with lavender daisies, white carnations, ferns, and baby's breath. The bridesmaid wore a floor-length gown of pink, featuring a ruffled skirt and large ruffled bow at the shoulder. She carried a fan covered with pink daisies, white carnations, ferns, and baby's breath.

Jessica Seibert was flower girl. She wore a long dress of lavender dotted Swiss with ruffles at the neck and on the sleeves. She also carried a fan covered with lavender daisies, white carnations, ferns, and baby's breath. Nicholas Kowalski, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Bill Brodin served the bridegroom as best man, and Ben Shores was groomsman. Ted Armstrong and Wayne Sharrow assisted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club. Chrissy Rydell, niece of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book; Lois Rydell, sister of the bridegroom, cut the wedding cake; and two other sisters, Jan Spuregon and Hilda Armstrong, prepared and served the food.

The bridegroom's family served refreshments in the church Fellowship Hall following the wedding rebearsal.

After a wedding trip through the Upper Peninsula, the newlyweds are at home in Union Lake. The bridegroom is employed by the Prudential Insurance Company in Pontiac, and the bride is employed by Pic Way Shoes in Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green

Taylor - Green

Karen Taylor and Robert Green exchanged marriage vows Saturday evening, August 24, at the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Taylor of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green of Newberry.

The Reverend David Yingling officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

The bride'e wedding gown was fashioned of white acetate taffeta and point d'esprit lace in the Victorian tradition, lavished with ruffled tiers of Chantilly lace and accented with satin ribbons and lace edging. Full bishop sleeves, a front inset yoke of illusion net, and a cathedral-length train completed the styling. An illusion veil with a blusher was attached by a lace cap with pearls and sequins.

The bride'e bouquet was a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, daisies, and baby's breath.

Von Kammeraad assisted the bride as matron of honor, and Charlotte Green and Barbara Tozer, sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Mandy Crumbaugh was the bride's person attendant. They wore identical gowns of baby blue satin with ruffled neckline, fitted bodice, and flounced hemline with sash. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies and baby's breath.

Jessica Hernandez, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. She wore a dress of white taffeta with lace ruffles on the bodice and hemline and accented with a blue satin ribbon and a tie of satin ribbons at the waist.

All of the gowns – the bride's, the attendants', and the flower girl's – were made by Barbara Tozer.

Steven Haupt served his brother-in-law as best man: Keith Hernandez, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Jim Taylor, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Another brother-in-law, T. J. Tozer, and Tim Crumbaugh were ushers.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony. Jill and Kathy Washburn served cake, Laura Chew and Dorothy Groves served punch and coffee, and Marge Warner served ice cream. Kallie Washburn assisted at the gift table, and the guest registery was attended by Judy Haupt and Dawn Hernandez, sisters of the bridegroom. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to the Porcupine Mountains in the Upper Peninsula, the new Mr. and Mrs. Green are at home in Charlevoix, where he is employed by the Big Rock plant and she by the Ben Franklin store.

Mr. and Mrs. Darby Rockney

Goss - Rockney

Jerallyn Goss and Darby Rockney, who were married last December 4 in Fairbanks, Alaska, returned to the bride's family home in Charlevoix last month and were feted at an open house attended by approximately 100 relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Goss of Meech Street hosted the party for their daughter and her hushand.

Jerallyn Goss Rockney graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1978 and from North Central Michigan College in 1980. She is presently a senior at the University of Alaska working toward a degree in geological engineering.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rockney of North Pole, Alaska, is a graduate of North Pole High School, attended the University of Alaska, and is employed as sales manager for an automobile company.

The newlyweds live at 300 Kellum Street, Fairbanks, Alaska.

Watercolorist to teach class in Charlevoix

Charlevoix watercolorist Jan Glass will teach a class in "Flower Painting in Watercolor" at the Charlevoix Public Library, beginning September 12.

The class, which will be limited to 12 adults, will explore the botanical variations of domestic and wild flowers for form and color to answer the questions, "What color is it?" and "How does it grow?", so that the paintings will be truthful when finished.

Mrs. Glass explained that her first class period will be devoted to exploration with watercolors and the next three sessions will introduce different methods of working with watercolors: realism, impressionism, and ink drawings with watercolor wash. Students will work with real flowers each session.

Classes will meet Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 through Ocober 3. Tuition is $24, and registration may be made with the McCune Arts Center, phone 347-4337 or 347-7870. If more than 12 persons sign up for the class, Mrs. Glass will consider teaching two classes.

Mrs. Glass, who has a degree in art education from Central Michigan University, does most of her watercolor work in flowers. She is now working on a wildflower identification book, with the illustrations done in watercolors. Her works have been accepted for sale by the Art Tree at the McCune Arts Center and chosen for juried fine art shows, resulting in sales to people from several states. Just recently some of her work was bought by a dealer from Tennessee.

Evangelists at Church of God

The Charlevoix Church of God will hold special services, Sunday, September 8, at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., with Bob and Jean Shaw serving as Evangelists.

The Shaws are natives of East Jordan and now live in the Holland, Michigan area. Their ministry features annointed music and teaching, accompanied by ministering in "the Gifts of the Holy Spirit", according to Pastor Mark Hill.

The church is located at 203 East Upright Street, and everyone is invited to attend the services. Further information may be obtained by calling 547-4594.

Young Rayder team ready for opener

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayders will open the 1985 football season at Petoskey at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Making their first appearance under Coach Roger Gowell, the Rayders will be fielding a young and inexperienced team.

"We're young, we're inexperienced, we've got a long way to go," Coach Gowell said of his team. "We have a senior backfield. Because of the youthfulness of the others it will be up to them to hold the fort. We're really young on the line and untried."

"We're all going to have to work hard", he added.

In his backfield Gowell will have Mark Lignell, 170-pound tailback who, as a junior, rushed over 1000 yard and received all-conference honors and honorable mention at the state level; Marc Himebauch, a 6'3" 170-pound senior at quarterback; 162-pound fullback, Jim Morgridge, and Patrick LaBlance, 160-pound flanker. Lignell Himebauch and LaBlance were regulars last season.

Himebauch, Lignell and guard Brian Wilmot will be tri-captains of this year's Rayder team.

Three players are vying for the end positions. They include Tim Salmonson, 6'3", 175 pounds and a regular last season, Sean Ferguson, 6'4" 180 pounds, both seniors, and Darrin Batdorff, 6'1" junior.

Two juniors, up from the JV's are prime candidates for the tackle positions, John Jaskierski at 232 pounds and Bill Marquardt at 223 pounds.

Guard positions will likely be taken over by veteran Wilmot at 208 pounds and a regular last season, and Kevin Shepard, 188-pound junior.

Matt Hull, a 170-pound senior, will hold down the center position.

Coach Gowell did not name his defensive starters.

Trying out for line positions are Terry Bonar, 6'3", and Jason Fettig, 6'1", both junior ends; tackles, Steve Gauthier, 294 pounds; John Gray, 200; Coy Groves, 260; Karl Johnson, 199; Dave Kruskie, 174; Tim Melke, 210; Chuck Myer, 198; Phil Peterson, 195; and Tom Wojan, 185. Gauthier, Kruskie and Melke are seniors. The others are juniors.

Prospective guards are Kent Seymour, 170 pounds; Don Streeter, 152; and Don Zipp, 209. Streeter is a senior. The others are juniors.

Paul Zoet will back up Hull in the center position. He is a 156-pound junior.

Two other candidates are Ken Carson, senior end, and Tom Ochs, senior guard, who are expected to be out for the team.

Rayders tune up for Northmen

Running back, Mike Thompson attempts to elude Darrin Batdorff during a recent Rayder workout.

Harriers prepare

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers, both boys' and girls' teams, will open the 1985 season Saturday by participating in the annual White Cloud Invitational, according the Coach Pete Spieles.

Among the letter winners who will be participating will be Doug Bergmann, a junior and captain of this year's team, Mike Dohm, Sean Henne, Harold Herriman, Ed Knight, Keven McLenon, Tom Merta, Pat Rajewski and Joe Simpson. All but Merta spent last week at the annual training camp at Beaver Island.

All are juniors but Henne, Merta and Rajewski who are sophomores.

Other runners who are candidates and attended the camp are Jeff Skeel and Dave Warth, sophomores and Dave Eakes, a junior. Also trying out for the team are: Hal Chase, Jim Ciuk, Nick Swanson, Rich Thayer, and Jason Wiser. Wiser is a freshman, Chase, Skeel and Warth, sophomores, Ciuk, a junior and Swanson and Thayer, seniors.

Letter winners among the candidates for the girls team are Betsy Haggard, a sophomore and the only girl to qualify for state competition from last year's team, and Heidi Olinger, also a sophomore. Other candidates who attended the camp were Michelle North, a junior and captain of the team, and Nonie Pace, a senior.

Other candidates are Marlo Hough, a senior letter winner last season, and three freshmen, Jeanne Habel, Lea Hough and Tina McLenon.

The Rayders' girls team is defending champion in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and placed third in the state in 1984.

The boys team had a 6-0 record in dual meets and finished second in regionals to qualify for state competition. The girls team had a 4-1 dual record and finished fourth in regional competition. Haggard was the only runner to qualify as an individual for state competition.

The teams will participate in four dual meets and seven invitational meets plus conference, and regional meets. The McKenney Regional (Midwest) at Racine, Wis., Nov. 23 will climax the season.

Flag football draft Sat.

Flag football players in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades may sign up for the sport at the draft scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at the softball field, Dwight Boss, city recreation directors, has announced.

Players must have the $5 fee at the time they register. Those who sign up will receive a T-shirt which they may keep. Helmets and mouth pieces will be available for sale at the time of the draft.

Sports boosters tailgate picnic

The Petoskey Football Booster Club has invited the Charlevoix High School Boosters Club and all Rayder fans to the second annual bratwurst tailgate picnic, Friday, September 6, prior to the Charlevoix-Petoskey football game.

The picnic includes bratwurst, potato salad, slaw and beverage at a very low price.

This is one of the Football Boosters Club's primary fund raisers.

The tailgate picnic will be held from 5 p.m. until approximately 8 p.m. Friday, September 6. Football play starts at 7:30.

Golf team returns veterans

The Charlevoix Rayder golf team will open its 1985 schedule at the municipal course Monday, Sept. 9, when the defending Michigan-Huron Shores champions, Petoskey, come to town, according to Coach Glen Taylor.

Taylor, who has eight letter winners returning from last season, said the Rayders will have to improve a lot if they are to be competitive.

"Cheboygan, who finished right behind Petoskey last year, has its entire team back and will probably be the strongest contender for the title; Boyne City should be strong. Petoskey is always a contender. It should be a good season," Taylor said of his team's prospects.

Among the returning lettermen are Denny Curtis, a senior, and Scott Wise, a junior, both regulars all season; Denny Clark, a senior, David Clark, a junior, and Marty Joy, a sophomore, who saw action all season with the varsity team; Pat Zundel, a senior, who also saw plenty of action; and Pat Gibbons who played in the conference and regional meets.

Andy Stewart, a senior, also played in at least one conference meet. Tim Berry was a candidate last season but did not letter Taylor said.

Two freshmen, Scott Crain and Wes Cumberland, have also indicated they will be candidates for the squad, Taylor said.

The team will play a nine-game schedule with games scheduled with league and area teams. The Conference meet on Oct. 7 will conclude the regular schedule. The regional and state meets will follow on Oct. 11-12 and Oct. 19.

Girls prepare for basketball season

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball teams will launch their season next week with non-league games at East Jordan and Elk Rapids before going against Michigan-Huron Shores conference competition the following week, Henry Wagner, Rayder coach, has announced.

The teams presently have 18 candidates reporting regularly for early morning practice sessions, Wagner said. Van Green is the junior varsity coach.

Contenders for starting assignments on the varsity squad are five seniors, all of whom lettered last season, plus four juniors including one who recieved honorable mention in Michigan-Huron Shores circle.

Two of the candidates received all-conference mention. They are Michelle Gagnon, a senior, and Amy Pischner, a junior who at 5'11" will give the team its height.

Other seniors who saw action with the varsity last season are Kris Austin, Lara Stargardt and Sue Miller.

Jill Raecke is returning to the squad after a year's absence from play while attending school in Switzerland.

Cindy Boss, Barbie Boss and Stephanie Martin are candidates who make a good showing in the JV ranks last season.

"We haven't a lot of height but we will be able to run. We're going to have to depend on our speed," Wagner said of his team.

Coach Wagner has also brought up a sophomore, Ellen Pearl, to give the varsity some depth.

Coach Van Green presently has eight candidates for the JV team, pointing up a lack of interest in the sport. Among the candidates include only two freshmen.

The JV's play a full schedule and travel with the varsity.

Ellsworth holds '70 reunion

The Ellsworth High School class of 1970 held its 15-year reunion Saturday, August 10, at the Bavarian Inn in Atwood. From an original class of 30 members, 14 classmates and 10 guests attended the reunion.

Those attending from the 1970 class were: Jerry Tornga of Ellsworth, Dave Heeres of Ellsworth, Donna (Sallee) Easterward of Charlevoix, Ken Harthorn of Martin, Barry Loper of Charlevoix, Ed DeGroot of Ludington, Themla (Vandenberg) Chellis of Ellsworth, Roger Bolhuis of Ellsworth, Sharmon (Boss) Dulany of Charlevoix, Joel Donaldson of Kingsley, Steven Chellis of Ellsworth, Marguerite (LaWay) Ford of East Jordan, Fran (Drenth) Bronec of Manhatten, Mont., and Jim Jansen of Delton.

Each classmate received a pamplet containing the updated names and addresses of class members, a synopsis of events of the past five years of each classmate, and a copy of a poem written by Donna Easterward entitled "Class Reunion."

The group enjoyed reading about those unable to attend. A bulletin board with memorabilia was a big hit as was a board full of pictures of classmates and their families.

Special entertaiment was provided by Barry Loper who played his guitar and sang songs from high school days as well as current songs he has recorded in Nashville.

On Sunday a picnic was held at Antrim County Park for the classmates and their families.

Barnard Grange hosts pig roast

Members and friends of Barnard Grange enjoyed a pig roast on August 24 at their hall on Barnard Road thanks to Roland and Shirley Dougherty who furnished the pig and John and Sonia Martin who did the roasting.

A bountiful potluck was provided with fresh sweet corn supplied by Clayton Smith and Tom Wieland. The drawing was held on the afghan donated by Rose Waffle and the man's sweater by Elizabeth Meadows. The lucky afghan winner was Josephine Stutzman and Robert Stebe won the sweater. The balance of the evening was spent playing progressive Pedro.

Charlevoix class of '35 meets

The class of 1935 of the Charlevoix High School met recently at Riccardi's for its 50th reunion.

Twenty-three of the class of 50 members were present for the dinner meeting and correspondence from others was read.

Edward Heise was master of ceremonies at the informal program at which each member gave a brief resume of his-her life since graduation and letters from other classmates were read. A moment of silence was held in memory of the 11 deceased members.

Boss publishes gospel tune

The Gospel Publishing House of Springfield Missouri has recently published a song composed (both lyrics and music) by Marilyn Boss. The song is intended to be used in worship and is titled "Sweet, Sweet Spirit." The song book is entitled Down Home Gospel and contains 30 songs some new and others familiar.

The arrangements in the book work equally well whether used for choir or unison choir, ensemble, or as a mid-range solo. Gospel Publishing House also has companion products, including a complete vocal cassette, a learning cassette, a background cassette, and combinations of these to facilitage learning parts. The cassettes are arranged so that the various voice parts are predominant when the control knob is used, making learning harmony parts no longer a difficult task.

Marilyn has written a number of songs and choruses through the years, which the publishing house keeps on file for later use in an appropriate song book.

Down Home Gospel is available from: Gospel Publishing House, 1445 Booneville Ave., Springfield, MO 65802.

Adjournment at 12:15 a.m.

Bloodmobile arrives

The fall visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile has been scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 5 at the American Legion hall on E. Garfield. The hours will be from 1-7 p.m.

The quota for this visit will be 125 pints of blood, Mrs. Nancy Fowler, coordinator for the visit, has announced.

A plaque awarded to Charlevoix County by the Red Cross Blood Services Program, Wolverine Region, will be on display. The plaque reads: "In appreciation for outstanding contribution to blood services Charlevoix County is recognized for achieving 99 percent of goal... 18.7 percent first time donors 1983-1984."

A telephone committee will be contacting previous donors urging them to make appointments. Although appointments are not necessary, they do help provide a smooth flow of donors throughout the day. Appointments can also be made by calling Mrs. Fowler at 547-9314.

Community volunteers for the day are being contacted by Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., Mrs. Herman Izor is in charge of publicity.

Registered nurses are being recruited by Mrs. Thomas Carey.

The Beta - Sigma Phi sorority chapters will again staff the canteen and the Lions Club will provide men to unload and reload the Bloodmobile.

Oleson's Food Stores provide the juice for donors and the First State Bank, the coffee.

Homemade cookies for the donors are being solicited from members of the community. Anyone willing to bake cookies are asked to call Mrs. Fowler. A minimum of 30 dozen cookies is being sought.

"The need for blood does exist, and the need grows greater as medical science finds more and more ways to use blood products to save lives and improve the health of patients. Be a good neighbor and share a pint of blood. Blood drives are community events. Few families in any community have not had to receive blood at one time or another," Mrs. Fowler and her committee note.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile to Charlevoix will be January 9, 1986.

Want to fight indoor air pollution in your home? Try household plants. According to National Wildlife magazine, thousands of people may be poisoned in their homes each year by toxic substances such as carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide. Luckily, houseplants, particularly spider plants, are excellent air cleaners. So put some greenery in your home and breathe easier.

Minnesota has been cleaning up toxic dump sites four times faster than the Environmental Protection Agency, reports National Wildlife magazine. The reason: a state law passed by Minnesota that allows private companies to be held liable for personal injuries caused by exposure to leaking toxic chemicals. The law, passed in 1983, was the first of its kind in the United States, and may be the model for tougher federal Superfund legislation.

New studies show that a creature's sleep time may depend not only on its metabolism rate, but also the animal's "danger factor". Animals that have few natural enemies, like the opossum and bat, sleep as much as 20 out of 24 hours. But the small roe deer, which has many predators, dozes only two-and-a-half hours a night.

Puffins do it differently. Unlike other diving birds which propel themselves through the water by kicking their webbed feet, puffins use their wings to actually fly underwater. After converting from a "plane" to a "submarine", puffins can move rapidly enough to catch fast-moving fish, such as herring.

There may be as many as 30 to 50 million species on insects on Earth - at least five times more than previously estimated. The census update is based on the results of the first survey of insects living high up in the trees of a tropical rain forest.

Japanese exchange student returns to visit local family

by FRAN MARTIN

Minako Kimura of Japan returned to her Charlevoix "parents" earlier this month serving as guide and translator for two Japanese classmates.

Minako visited the home of Ronald and Wilma Sitzema and their daughter Dawn. The Sitzemas hosted Minako during the 1983-84 school year under the Youth for Understanding program.

Accompanying Minako on the return trip were Hiroko Inaba of Shizuoka and Masako Takaishi of Toyama, classmates at the Tokyo Foreign Language College.

For Minako, it was a return to her American home, to old friends and familiary places. To her friends, it was a visit to a strange new world that Minako delighted in showing them.

The year that she has been in language school in Japan has made Minako proficient in English, and it was she who served as not only interpreter buy an "explainer" of the English language as spoken in this country.

In the Foreign Language College where all three are learning the English language, their instructors are either British or Australian and, Minako says, "they don't speak English like you do." After a year's experience in this country, she speaks the language well and only now and then gropes for a world. Her friends understand English and can read and write it but have not mastered the speaking phase of the language. Minako belped explain "Americanese" to her friends.

What did they like? Just about everything... the food, the beaches, the fresh water for swimming, the friendliness of the American people.

They all liked the American food - junk food and all. Hiroko was especially impressed with the different kinds of meat Americans have. Japan is a fish-eating rather than a meat-eating country. She found unusual the large pieces of meat Americans purchase... a whole ham, a roast, steaks.

Masako was impressed with the size of everything. "Everything is so big... the houses, the stores, apartments, cars."

They all like American fashion. They wear western style cloths and laughed when asked if they wore the traditional Japanese kimono. Some of their clothes are made in bright colors, more of them are in more somber shades.

Another thing they found interesting and surprising was the ancestry of Americans and the "different" kinds of people they saw in this country... American Indians, blacks, Hispanics, Orientals. "You are a melting pot," Hiroko remarked.

Trips to Traverse City, Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island, Canada and other points of interest introduced them to the area. Swimming parties, beach parties and family picnics introduced them to American activities. At the family picnic when everyone brought a dish to pass, which is the traditional thing to do, they found the variety of foods surprising.

"I think they had a good time. We tried to show them a bit of family life in this country. It was fun. With Minako it was like having one of my children home again. It was great fun introducing her friends to the things that we introduced Minako to when she came. I'm sure we haven't heard the last of them," Mrs. Sitzema said of her guests.

After leaving Charlevoix, the trio spent three days in San Francisco. Minako then left her friends to spend some time in Texas with the family of an American girl who had spend the school year with her family in Japan while her friends departed for Japan.

COUNTRY HOUSE

Louis Orlowski, left, president of the Charlevoix Historical Society, presents a plaque to Bill and Jeanna Martin in honor of their restoration of the house on Mason Street that now serves as Elizabeth's Country Store. The Martin's restored the dilapidated house and opened it for business this summer.

Slimnastics classes offered

A nationally recognized aerobic fitness club ~~is~~ offering area residents the opportunity to shape up in a seven-week series of aerobic dance and toning classes scheduled to begin here the week of September 9.

The new fall session, titled Dance Attack, offers students an exercise program that is fun, safe and affordable. (A $3 coupon ad can be found in this issue of the Courier. Clip it and bring it to the first session of class.)

Dance Slimnastics students, including both men and women, will have the opportunity to work out aerobically during the one-hour classes which meet twice a week. Each class begins with a series of calesthenic floorwork routines set to upbeat music and designed to give concentrated toning to waist, hips and thighs.

This floorwork is followed by a series of exercise routines which elevate the heart rate to improve overall fitness.

Dance Slimnastics is a non-profit fitness corporation headquarted in Wisconsin with classes and instructor training sessions offered in 25 states.

Two grants awarded

Two grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts have been awarded to Charlevoix County educational groups, according to the office of State Senator Mitch Irwin.

The Anishnabe Native American program headquartered in East Jordan and the Beaver Island Community Schools each will receive $10,000 to carry on specific programs.

No further information was available at press time.

Wandering Wheels roll through Charlevoix

Group combines religion and bicycling in tour around country

by ANNE KELLY

Bob Davenport gives his riders a pep talk.

The coach was meeting with his "team." It was 8:30 a.m. and the group was usually on the road by now. But today was a light day; only 50 miles to Traverse City in good weather.

Coach Bob Davenport, founder of the Wandering Wheels, a Christian-oriented bike excursion company out of Taylor University, doubles as leader of the pack and spiritual advisor for the 60 and more members of this year's ambitious journey.

The bikers have only to head down to Indiana, then across the northeastern states to Maine and down the East Coast to Brunswick, Georgia, where the tour originated last February. They will then have completed a 10,000 mile, 10 month perimeter tour of 34 states plus Washington, D.C.

Bible in hand, the tall, muscular Davenport, a former All-American football player from UCLA, looked every bit the part of the coach rallying a football team in pre-game ritual. Attention of bikers was riveted on this handsome man bringing the message.

"There are some of us here who are really working and pulling together to make this tour work. There are others who go off on their own, more for themselves than for each other. This is natural, and in a way it's good," Davenport continued. "It gives a group like this the stretch and pull it needs in order to be dynamic."

Then Davenport read the scriptural passage about the owner of the vineyard who hired workers to his fields, some early, some late in the day, then paid them all at a seemingly unfair common wage.

"Remember that Jesus operated that way too. And He warned us about the ugliness of back-biting and ingratitude."

Scripture aside, Davenport began the business of the day - directions to the next location, a reflection of appreciation for the hospitality extended to the group at Greensky Mission the preceding evening, and an invitation to enjoy the morning in Charlevoix where they had bunked down for the night hosted by the Methodist Church.

Tours like this one, "Perimeter '85", are second nature to Bob Davenport and his wife, Barb, who have been organizing and executing them since 1964.

A faculty member (and former football coach) for Taylor University of Upland, Indiana, for eleven years, Taylor found that his love of physical education and his commitment to religion could be paired in an adventuresome way.

Wandering Wheels was founded in order to provide spiritual growth, faith sharing, witness through work experience and physical challenge, he said.

Scholarships are awarded to each participant to help defray the $4,000 plus cost for the year and college credits are available.

Since its formation twenty years ago, Davenport has conducted twenty-eight, two to three week coast-to-coast excursions for Wandering Wheels. This is the first time the group has circled the States, though Davenport has toured Israel, England and Central Europe. A trip in China is planned for next August.

If a 10,000 mile, 10-month bike trip sounds a little strenuous, it is, according to team members, but well worth the effort.

"The average age of participants is 22-23 years old, though we have one 17-year-old with us. I'm the oldest at 52," Davenport grinned.

There is a diverse range of occupations, interests and beliefs among members, "everything from professionals to mechanics," Davenport pointed out. Guests and families are known to tag along for indefinite periods of time. It makes things just that much more interesting, he said.

In all excursions to date, the Wandering Wheels have not yet had a serious accident. Not a bad record for twenty years on the road and due in part to Davenport's insistence on safety precautions - he required safety flags and helmets for his riders long before they were mandated.

Davenport's wife Barb, admits to having the desire once in a while to settle down and enjoy their four children and three grandchildren. She hopes that they will one day be able to have their grandchildren accompany them on a trip.

"You know, Bob is very modest," she said as Davenport was getting ready to disembark. "So I'll tell you this. Bob has a great faith in God. He calls the good things that happen to us on our trips 'serendipity', but he knows that it's God who makes the right things happen at the right time. He really has a great trust that God will take care of us."

A man who preferred to be know simply as "Kurt," added to the explanation.

"Here's an expample of how things work for us," Kurt explained. "We had all decided that we would celebrate Christmas in July, since we wouldn't be together in December. On the day we had chosen to celebrate with gifts and all, we were in Belle Fourche, S. Dakota. It so happened that that day was designated as our work day, which we do one a week for some community where we are staying.

"That day we put in one of the hardest work days of volunteer labor to date. We scraped and painted the equivalent of six houses that day. In retrospect, it turned out to be the biggest lesson in giving that most of us had ever experience," he reflected.

Kurt referred to Davenport as a "benign dictator". "He's a motivator, a coach... he's a man cut out of a different piece of cloth."

The Wandering Wheels now were making preparation to break camp. They had eaten a breakfast of biscuits and gravy, fruit, and coffee and had each packed a lunch from a selection of sandwich makings, fruit and dessert set up near the food bus. Before long, bikers, their chuck wagon bus, their bunk house on wheels bearing 50 bunks in a converted semi-trailer and a van to follow with bike repair equipment, would all hit the road. They would let careful planning, serendipity, and providence guide them. There was still a long way to go to Georgia.

New area 4-H club formed

A new 4-H club is now being formed in the Boyne City, East Jordan area. The clubs emphasis will be on rabbits, small game animals and poultry, including chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys.

Any youth through the age of 19 is eligible to become a 4-H member; however only those youth between 9-19 are eligible for county, state and national awards. Julie Kenney of Boyne City will be project leader for the club.

4-H youth programs provide hands-on learning and social experiences to help young people become self-directing, productive and contributing members of society. Members wil also learn specific skills and participate in activities in the small animals area.

For more information on joining this new 4-H club call Julie Kenney at 582-9591, or the Cooperative Extension Service in Boyne City at 582-6232.

Referendum petitions filed on Water's Edge

Petitions were filed with the Charlevoix Township Clerk on Tues., Sept. 11, seeking to bring the rezoning of Water's Edge from residential to multifamily to a vote of the township.

Members of ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team) had gathered 155 signatures as of last weekend on their petitions asking for the referendum. ALERT members say that 35 valid signatures are required to bring the issue to a vote.

Charlevoix Township cast 434 votes in the last gubernatorial election in 1982. There are currently approximately 800 registered voters in the township.

On Aug. 12 the Charlevoix Township Board rezoned the 40 acres Water's Edge property from R-2 Residential to R-4 Planned Unit Zone, delaying the effective date to December 10, 1985 so that the township could amend the site plan conditions in the R-4 zoning provisions.

Opponents of the rezoning questioned the density requirements of the zoning, which they said could allow up to 600 condos at Water's Edge. They also objected to the lack of specific controls on lakefront development and the absence of restrictions on marinas and boat docks.

ALERT called for the referendum to be held prior to December 10, the date the rezoning would take effect.

"We are particularly pleased with the fact that out of a total of 163 registered voters who were approached to sign the petition, 155 did sign," a press release from ALERT states. "In talking with the many petitioners it was most obvious and clear that they do not like what they perceive to be a headlong rush by insensitive developers to do the same thing to Lake Charlevoix as they have already done to Round Lake," the release continued.

"We are a small provincial community in one of the most beautiful areas of Michigan, but don't sell area citizens short. They are a lot smarter than many give them credit for. What they are saying is, 'Whoa, let's slow this down a bit, let's plan and control this growth before it's too late and the damage to Lake Charlevoix and the area becomes irreversible.'

"The enthusiasm of those who signed the petitions and their willingness to help get out the vote on the referendum, taken together make us extremely confident that the community will support us!" the press statement continued.

"When this happens, it will mean that the R-4 section which applies to multiple housing will have to be amended by the Trustees to accommodate the 'density' provision that is clear and unambiguous; is fair to all property owners and addresses the riparian owners responsibility to Lake Charlevoix." The release was signed by ALERT members Lillian and George Weber, Marcia and Don Trimper, Joyce and Deano Davenport, and Sandy and Jerry Puhl.

"People have really seen the light on condo development," Jerry Puhl told the Courier. "They were very receptive to the petition drive. A lot of people would just as soon not see another condo go in Charlevoix or Charlevoix Township again. I am not to the point of saying that, but development should be controlled with what is reasonable for the lake," he added.

Puhl said that the majority of the people he talked with said that 90 condos for the proposed 40-acre Water's Edge development was too many (90 units is the density that several township board members feel is the maximum the developer could build). "As a compromise, our group is thinking about one condo per 25 feet of frontage, regardless of the depth of the property," he added. That density would allow some 56 units at Water's Edge.

Salmon weir goes in on Jordan River

by DOUG TRUAX

An 11th-hour land deal has allowed the Department of Natural Resources to install a salmon-blocking weir in the Jordan River this fall.

The weir was built last week by Tempo Tech, a private company which holds a contract with the DNR to harvest salmon from many of the state's river mouths during the fall salmon runs.

No sooner had Tempo Tech completed the weir thao Saturday's violent storms tore it out. Tornadoes and heavy rains caused trees to be uprooted and washed into the stream. The wooden grates on the upper weir were torn out by the fallen trees and high water.

Early this week Tempo Tech was repairing the damage.

Approval for the weir was held up for months as the DNR and owners of land at the weir site negotiated over the price of the property.

The DNR threatened to not build a weir this year – allowing up to 50,000 salmon to enter the river – if it could not purchase or lease the land by early September.

Last week a deal was completed with the DNR getting an option to buy over 70 acres for some $36,000.

The weir is located at a public access site approximately three-quarters of a mile upstream of Rogers Bridge. The state already owned property on the east side of the river, but needed the land on the west side to anchor the weir.

The DNR previously received approval for the weir from the Jordan River Zoning Board by a 3-1 vote. The Jordan River is a designated wild and scenic river under the state's Natural Rivers Act and any man-made alterations require approval of the state and the zoning board.

Last year the zoning board turned down a request by the state to install a permament weir at the same site.

The salmon weir will be in place until the salmon runs abate in November. Fishing is closed from the weir site to the mouth of the Jordan River at the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. Some fishermen have opposed the closing of the lower river to fishing during the salmon runs, but the state maintains that closure is necessary because of the large numbers of fish in the river.

"You can't have a sport fishery with those concentrations of fish," said Steve Swan, DNR district fish biologist. Unless fishing is banned below the weir, he added, "you'll get the outlaws to come in and do the harvest for you."

Some steelhead fishermen who fish the lower river at this time of year will suffer, Swan said, "but that is one of the prices of having a salmon fishery."

Fishing in the river above the weir will be unaffected and will continue according to state regulations.

Efforts to block salmon from entering the Jordan have been unsuccessful in the past.

The most recent attempt was last year when Tempo Tech installed a weir immediately below Rogers Bridge. The river carved holes beneath and at the sides of the wooden grates of the weir. As a result, fish swam into the river largely unimpeded.

Tempo Tech managed to capture less than 800 fish; some 9,000

Baby Doe is still unclaimed

The baby is identified in two ways: "Baby Doe" and "No. 85-3654-N".

It has not been revealed whether the baby is a boy or a girl, and no one knows who the mother is.

What is known is that Baby Doe was found abandoned in an automobile in Boyne City at 4:30 on the afternoon of August 22. The automobile had been parked for only 20 minutes when its owner returned to find the day-old baby.

Whoever abandoned the baby wanted to be sure it would be found and taken care of. It was not the ordinary trash-can type of abandonment.

The local police turned over the baby to the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services, who placed it in a foster home.

Unless information about the birth parents is received by Wednesday, September 18, a Probate Court hearing in the matter will proceed. At that time, the mother could come forward to claim the child.

The legal notice announcing the hearing states that "Whom it may concern" is ordered to personally appear before the court at 1 p.m. on September 18" and that "This hearing may result in permanent loss of your rights to said child."

KCB ponders how to spend extra cash

Members of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. met Sat., Sept. 7, to deal with the pleasant task of deciding how to spend an extra $2,000.

This summer's petunia auction raised some $9,000, a surplus of two grand over the amount needed to buy next year's petunias.

KCB had solicited ideas on how best to spend the extra money...and it got them. Saturday the group wrestled with choosing among the many suggestions offered.

KCB President Bruce MacArthur said the 30 people in attendance voted on 33 suggested projects. They were asked to choose one of four responses: highly recommended, maybe, good idea but not a KCB responsibility, and not a good idea.

The idea receiving overwhelming support, MacArthur said, was to continoe planting 50,000 petunias each year and to deposit the extra funds in a CD account set up as a reserve for the repair and eventual replacement of the petunia watering truck.

It is interesting to note, MacArthur added, that the greatest negative response was to the qoestion "Should we plant more petunias?" Apparently people feel 50,000 is enough, he observed.

Another idea getting support was putting the funds toward future fund

Construction workers put in the pipe section of the salmon-blocking weir on the Jordan River last week. Storms and high water knocked out the upper portion of the weir on the weekend, but it was expected to be repaired this week.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board has been rescheduled from Wed., Sept. 11 to Wed., Sept. 18. The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Stroud Hall at the Charlevoix Township grounds on Waller Road.

The meeting will deal with an amendment to the township zoning ordinance concerning multi-family housing. The Water's Edge condo project is expected to be among the prime topics.

The revised date was necessary, Township Clerk Linda Porath explained, because the earlier date did not allow enough time for the necessary 20-30 day public notice for first publication of a public hearing.

A public notice has been published in the Petoskey News-Review with the new date.

Fire hall bond asks $390,000

Charlevoix voters will determine the fate of a new fire hall when they vote on Tues., Nov. 5.

At its meeting Sept. 3, City Council approved placing a $390,000 bond issue on the November ballot. The bond would cover construction of the new fire hall which will be used to house the new fire truck and to consolidate fire fighting equipment.

The truck, scheduled to arrive in mid-September, will be housed temporarily in the former Charlevoix Oil Co. garage on U.S. 31.

Plans call for the construction of a 71 x 90-foot building on the site of the current post office. The post office is expected to move to property on State Street, north of city hall.

City Manager Michael Wiesner has received preliminary estimates for the fire hall construction of $403,000 for a building with brick exterior and $445,000 for building with sandstone facing to match city hall.

Some money for the project is expected to be allocated from the fire fund. Costs after final specifications are drawn and bids received could also be less, Wiesner indicated.

William Kusina of Kusina Motors, Inc. told the councilmen that the price of the project was too high. He said the fire hall addition would amount to $500,000 when all costs

Squirrels swim Lake Charlevoix

We've all heard of lemmings and their occasional migrations to the sea. But squirrels in Lake Charlevoix?

Eveyn and Jack Lambdin say they have observed numerous incidences this year of squirrels swimming across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix in the Ironton area. So has Ashford Orvis who has a dock south of Ironton where the Lambdins keep their boat.

Jack Lambdin has seen eight squirrels make the swim and Orvis has seen a dozen. The two men have spent many decades fishing in and observing the lake. Neither has seen anything like this before.

All of the squirrels have been swimming from the east side of the lake to the west side.

Orvis fished one exhausted squirrel out with his net and gave it artificial respiration. Evelyn says she watched one make it across the lake. "It was so tired it caught an anchor rope of a boat, pulled itself up on the deck, and just splattered itself on the bow."

No explanation has yet been found for the unusual behavior of the squirrels.

Industrial Fair to become 2-day event

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Industrial Fair, originally scheduled for Saturday, October 12, will be a two-day event.

Richard Beagle, coordinator of the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance, has announced that the Fair will open on Friday, October 11, to give local high school students an opportunity to talk with owners and managers of area businesses and learn of career opportunities here at home.

Susan Van Wieren, assistant superintendent of vocational and general education for the Char-Em Intermediate School District, is in charge of Friday's activities. Mrs. Van Wieren, who is also secretary of the Growth Alliance, told the Courier that although plans have not been finalized, students from the four high schools in the county will be bused to the Fair, some in the morning and some in the afternoon.

Mrs. Van Wieren has asked each high school to send a representative to a meeting next week to work out a format for the day's activities. "I think we will want the business people to talk to the students as a group, then the students can ask specific questions as they go through the Fair," she said.

It is anticipated that students will learn what they might expect at different career levels in specific occupations. The program will be geared to general education students as well as vocational education students.

Mrs. Van Wieren sees the Industrial Fair program for students as a fine supplement to the Career Fair which is held at North Central Michigan College each pring, sponsored by school counselors. Both events will give students a chance to zero in on occupations.

Beagle reports that to date 35 local businesses and industries have signed up for the Fair, which will be held at the Charlevoix High School this year to provide more room for exhibitors. This is the second year for the Fair, which last year was held at the Charlevoix Elementary School with 24 participants.

This year, exhibitors have been asked to invite their suppliers to the Fair, and local legislators have also been sent invitations.

Hearing is damaged by GoGo concert, man claims

by PEG OHLE

Castle Farms and two of its performing rock bands are being sued by a patron who claims their music was played "at a volume exceeding reasonable health standards".

As a "direct and proximate result", the suit claims the patron "suffered permanent injury and impairment of hearing, suffered extreme pain, has incurred hospital, doctor, and medical liabilities in connection therein, and has lost the ordinary pleasures of life".

Stating that the defendants had the duty "to provide a safe listening environment for paying customers and not to play music at a volume which could damage or impair the hearing of the audience," the complaining patron is asking for a judgement against the defendants in an amount the court deems "just and equitable". In another statement, it is noted that the "amount in controversy exceeds $10,000."

Lee Schultz of Adrian filed the lawsuit, and, besides Castle Farms, names "Flock of Sea Gulls" and "The Go Go's", rock bands, as defendants.

Schultz claims his hearing was damaged at a concert at Castle Farms on September 4, 1983, when the two above-mentioned bands were playing.

The brief in the lawsuit reached Charlevoix Circuit Court last week, so no action has yet been taken in the case.

United Way names division leaders

United Way Fund Campaign General Chairman Darrel Linder Tuesday reported progress on organization for the Fall 1985-86 Fund Drive to the United Way Board.

Named to division leadership positions are: Industrial, Max Hosmer; Residential, Nancy Porter; Commercial-Retail, John Kurtz; Financial Institutions, Harold Smith; Legal Professions, Jeff VanTreese; Real Estate Firms, Steve Andreae; Educational Profession and Services, Pauline Austin; Special Gifts, Bruce MacArthur; Summer Residents, Jim Marshall; and Marine Services, Bob Schofield.

The divisional leaders will solicit the gifts from the firms involved and secure from them the name of the leader of their employee participation.

Mr. Linder says nearly 170 volunteers are needed and more than 50 percent of that number are already involved. Kay Ball, secretary, is keeping the name bank as volunteers are secured. Names may also be given to Nancy Porter or Coordinator of Communications Dorothy Gilding.

Growth Alliance elects officers

The newly-formed Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance recently elected officers for the coming year;

W. Randolph Frykberg, Boyne City manager, president; Sandra Reimer, owner of Larkin Insurance in Elk Rapids, vice-president; Susan Van Wieren, assistant superintendent of vocational and general education for the Char-Em Intermediate School District, secretary; and Lawrence Eckhardt, director of advertising and community relations for Torch Publishing in Central Lake, treasurer.

The Growth Alliance was organized to help bring new business and industry to the two-county area, and to assist established businesses in dealing with state and local regulation and other problems.

An outgrowth of the Business and Industry Talk Force, the Growth Alliance is funded by state monies as well as contributions from Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, the cities and towns within the two counties, and business-oriented groups such as the Economic Development Corporation.

Richard Beagle, who was hired over a year ago as coordinator of the Business and Industry Task Force, is now coordinator of the Growth Alliance. His offices are in Boyne City.

Looking over his first year in Charlevoix County, Beagle refuted the idea of some that there is a "no growth" attitude in the area. "I haven't found it," he said, "and we have been able to proceed with the Magna project in Boyne City and the Industrial Parks in Boyne City and Charlevoix without a lot of trouble.

Beagle feels that industry and tourism can co-exist comfortably in Charlevoix County. "Tourism brings in money to the condominiums, motels, hotels, and big restaurants," he explained. "It attracts money from out of the area.

"But now we need to create jobs here to provide a year-round economic base to support the smaller retail businesses. With new industry, I see a lot of potential to employ people in full-time, meaningful jobs."

Phelps reunion

By Doug Truax

PHELPS – A week from last Saturday they held a reunion at the Barnard Grange. It was an unusual affair since the school for which the reunion was held – Phelps School – no longer exists. It hasn't since about 1942.

Nor does the town from which the school got its name. That disappeared sometime in the twenties, some fix the official date as after the fire that burned the general store in 1926.

I live in the last remaining house in Phelps proper, so I have a special interest in these tters. Most people refer to it as the Stevens House, since that is where Charlie and Geneva Stevens lived for some 55 years before they moved into town.

They both attended the Phelps school when it was up on the side of the hill to the east of the railroad tracks. And they sent their brood of hail and healthy children to the "new" Phelps School out on the corner of Phelps Road and Marion Center.

Many of the children returned for the reunion on Saturday, along with their mother. Charlie died awhile back.

It was the Stevens' son Bill who got things put together for the Phelps reunion and served as master of ceremonies.

Phelps, originally called Blue Siding, owed its existence to farming and the railroad that ran past it. And to the lumber. There were two sawmills. The Cooper's mill processed hardwoods on the north side of the road. On the south side, the Payton Mill made shingles and stripped hemlock bark which was sent to the tanneries down below.

At one point, the town had a population of 150 people. There was a general store, telegraph office, ticket depot, and a post office and express office.

When the lumber played out, so did the town. But the community of Phelps still exists now in the stories and rememberances of its former residents and the many folks who still live nearby.

There are a lot of ghosts in Phelps, most of them friendly.

You could feel it at the Phelps School reunion. They laid out a big potluck spread. Meatloaf and maccaroni. More kinds of baked beans than you could imagine. Salads and breads. Good hearty stuff. And of course apple and raspberry homebaked pies.

And when the pies were finished and the coffee served they started remembering.

Leslie Klooster, whose family owned the general store before it burned, remembered. He started at Phelps School in 1919 and he recalled taking off to go fishing in the nearby creek. When he and his friends got back to the school they would put hardboard tablets in their pant legs so that when they got a lashing it wouldn't hurt. Of course they bowled bloody murder so, no one would know.

He remembered too a brother who was born in Phelps who later in his life tried to get a birth certificate from the state. The state claimed that Phelps didn't exist.

Teacher Lulla Mitchell Brock remembered what may have been the natioo's first hot lunch program. She brought in an old stove and wash boiler and would put the kid's cans of soup in it to warm them for lunch.

Blossy Balch thought back to old mister Mogott, an immigrant who always appeared especially fearsome to the kids. He had a little place up on the hill and a barn down by Marion Center. She would always grab some of the apples that grew by his barn. About two years ago, she said, she went back and the fear was still there but she got "about 14 of those real good apples" anyway.

Mogott, it turned out, was sort of deaf. Ken Balch recalled that the boys would yell at his mules to whoa. He couldn't hear it ,of course, and couldn't figure out why those ornery creatures wouldn't move.

Even the young folks had some tales to tell. Rod Stevens, grandson of Charlie and Geneva, said his grandfather would always send grandma out of the room when he had a story he didn't want her to hear. He'd get going good on the story, and then about half way through, he'd hear her shout from the next room, "Charlie, that isn't right."

All the others had stories too. Stories about the cold and picking beans to buy boxing gloves and Burr Blanchard trying to get his car up the hill without anyone laughing.

Bill Stevens could remember vividly the feeling of going to school for the first time in Charlevoix – Phelps School only went through the eighth grade. It was like going to New York City, he said. "I thought, boy, if I ever get out of here I'm going back to Mason Creek."

On Saturday many of the 105 people gathered for the reunion did. They went back to Phelps and found the memories as sweet as the wild apples.

As Nina Drost Ouderkirk said, "these old timers, you can't beat 'em."

Letters to the Editor:

Greetings from the East

Dear Editor:

When a third generation summer native is marooned in Princeton, the Charlevoix Courier can save a summer! Thank you! What we've needed!

We've got the spruces. We've got the driftwood from Belvedere Beach. We've got the stones in the Japanese garden from Michigan beach. A Gordon Neff seagull rules our terrace. When a plane flys over, we say, "There goes Johnny Knight at the railroad bridge gunning his Chriscraft for Loeb's Point."

So - Nantucket, eat your heart out! Greetings from Charlevoix-East.

CLAUDIA KENIFECK
Executive Director

Labor Day weekend was blessed with a combination of good weather and lots of activity. The sailing regattas were fun to watch and be a part of; word has it Tina Turner would "Private Dance" in Charlevoix again anytime.

Michigan geared up for a special treat: The Society of American Travel Writers (SATW). SATW held its annual conference in the United States for the first time in almost 10 years, and they chose Michigan as their target.

The Michigan Travel Bureau, under the direction of John Savich, hosted a four-day conference for the SATW at the Grand Traverse Resort in Acme. Following the conference, the writers are taking excursion trips throughout the state.

September 10 and 11 several groups of writers visited Charlevoix. Though they didn't stay long, many world reknown writers got a glimpse of our town. The impact the writers can have on an area is quite incredible.

Color Cruise tickets for October 5 and 12 are now on sale at the Chamber. To make the cruises appeal more as a family outing, special rates for seniors, teens and tots are available. Complimentary cider and donuts will be provided. For more information contact the Chamber.

Billing for the 1986 season is now underway. Doug Shaw, owner of the new Bridge Street Inn, is heading up this year's membership drive. If you would like to be a member of the Chamber and would like to know more about it, we welcome your inquiry.

Clockwise

The Birds

By Bob Clock

Have you ever seen so many seagulls?

This spring and summer must have been ideal for breeding and nesting because gulls seem to be more numerous than ever.

Last Thursday about 5 p.m. I noticed thousands of them wheeling over U.S. 31 between Petoskey and Townsend Road. They were flying hundreds of feet high, but from their profiles there was no doubt they were seagulls.

Near the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant a second but smaller flock appeared, flying considerably lower.

Judy encountered a similar concentration of seagulls recently near the Captain's Corner Shopping Center in Charlevoix.

"It was like 'The Birds,'" she said, a reference to Alfred Hitchcock's famous movie in which birds (not seagulls) terrorized a family.

It is not unusual to see large flocks of seagulls scavenging on freshly plowed fields far from water. But the birds I saw over the highway couldn't have been hungry or they would have been flying closer to the ground or the water.

At first I thought they had been frightened into flight by the spate of sonic booms Thursday, but I don't think they are smart enough to worry about anything.

The only other time I have seen them in such numbers was on a sand and gravel peninsula jutting into Lake Michigan on the north end of Beaver Island. The gulls turned the sky and the beach a dishwater gray.

IF YOU HAVE a son, 13, I suppose you feel a special empathy for the family of Shawn Moore, the Brighton boy who was pulled off his bicycle a week ago Saturday and spirited away by a creep in a Jeep.

Shawn disappeared without a trace and his parents must be growing more anxious with every passing day. Frantic is probably a better word.

Police and FBI agents are checking out every tip, but apparently they lead nowhere.

Can such sick crimes be prevented?

Probably not.

We have always told our kids that there is safety in numbers and we urge them to stick close to their friends when they are away from the house. But this is not always possible, of course, particularly as they grow older.

As of Friday, rewards totaling $46,000 had been posted for the arrest and conviction of Shawn's kidnapper. I hope that such a large sum of money will prod someone to step forward with the necessary information and that Shawn will be returned safely to his family.

Salmon weir

escaped the weir and entered the upper river.

Swan says the new site is much better. "If we can't stop them at this site, we can't stop salmon," he said.

Conservationists and stream fishermen have long maintained that the massive numbers of salmon entering the streams to spawn were causing serious problems for the resident trout. They have also condemned the problems of trespass, bank erosion, and illegal fish taking that occur during the height of the salomon run.

State officials have recently accepted those arguments and the official position of the DNR is now to stop the salmon from entering the tributaries of the Great Lakes wherever possible. They have also moved major fish plants away from some of the areas where salmon were causing major problems.

In the Lake Charlevoix area, salmon plantings were moved from largely the result of a planting of 315,000 salmon in the Jordan in 1982, prior to moving the fish plants to the new Medusa site. Next year will see the return of the four-year-old fish in similar numbers. In addition to returns from the planted salmon, Swan says some 15,000 fish return each year as a result of natural reproduction.

Swan said there are also plans for constructing a blocking weir at the Medusa site this fall to capture a small number of two-year-old salmon from the 1983 plant there.

Two-year-old or "jack" salmon are immature males that attempt to spawn early in their life cycle.

The Medusa weir will help biologists estimate how well the fish planted there have imprinted on Medusa Creek and how many will return to it to spawn during their third and fourth years.

The Medusa site is unusual because the creek is not lengthy and is comprised mainly of water the mouth of the Jordan River to a small creek on the property of the Medusa Cement Co. Fisheries biologists hope the new site will attract the majority of the returning fish, making for a good bay fishery and alleviating the problem of salmon in the Jordan.

Swan explained the state program this way: "Once the fisherman has had the maximum opportunity to catch the salmon in the open water, we have the obligation to get the fish out of the rivers. Although they don't always believe it, we'd like the fishermen to catch every salmon that we plant."

The weir in the Jordan should only be necessary this year and next, Swan said. By 1987 he hopes to have a blocking weir constructed in East Jordan at the M32 bridge. "There are just too many fish returning to do that now," Swan explained.

This year's run could total 25-50,000 three-year-old salmon entering the Jordan, Swan said. This is pumped from the stone quarry.

Salmon were planted only several hundred yards upstream of the creek mooth. Biologists are uncertain whether this allows the fish enough time to imprint on the stream prior to moving out into Lake Michigan to feed and grow. The imprinting is essential when the mature fish return to the stream to spawn and die.

raising efforts (T-shirts, license plates, etc.).

KCB members cited several worthwhile projects they viewed as the responsibility of the city or other civic organizations including: planting crown vetch on the banks of Pine River Channel, more park benches, illumination of the "Now you are in Charlevoix" sign, several suggestions regarding Mt. McSauba, and newspaper stand beautification.

Other projects viewed favorably were efforts to see that new parking lots in the downtown area did not become a sea of blacktop, a roof over the bandstand, a sign replacement fund, extra trash barrels, and a tree inventory project.

There was discussion of the old water tower with quite a few negative votes on making an effort to save it. Some sentiment was expressed in favor of retaining the tower and turning it into a tourist attraction.

In other business, KCB handed out the Mt. McSauba Nature Trail brochure done by Jan Glass and funded by KCB. Alice Lessor, chairman of the special gifts committee, said that they were $1,000 behind last year in cash contributions. Donations can still be sent to her or to P.O. Box 1.

Steve Andreae will investigate state grants and other funding for the promotion of tourism and will work with Claudia Kenifeck at the Chamber.

Fire hall bond

were taken into consideration. Kusina told council that he had offered his building on Antrim Street for the fire hall at a cost of $200,000, but that no action had been taken.

Former Mayor Kenneth Staley confirmed that he had discussed the matter with Kusina prior to his leaving office and that he and Fire Chief John Martin had looked at the building.

"All of this was in city hall when I left. What happened to it, I don't know," Staley said. The current mayor and council members said they had not heard of the proposal but would look into it further.

William Fochtman objected to the projected cost of the new fire hall. "I would hope you wouldn't spend $50 a square foot for a storage building," Fochtman said.

Paul Burlew urged council to take decisive action. "At the last minute everyone comes up with new ideas: 'why don't we put it here? why don't we put it there?' All the while construction costs go up. Let's make a resolution, get it out in the newspaper, and put it up to a vote of the people," he urged.

In other action, council unanimously approved the rezoning of the former Finn Lumber Co. on Pine River Channel and Round Lake from marine-commercial-scenic to commercial-1.

That action paves the way for construction of a 60-unit hotel on the site.

Council agreed to ask bids on a 137 x 104 foot parcel of land the city owns on Stover Road directly behind the Clark gas station. A realtor is seeking to buy it and has asked $4,000 for the property, but the city assessor believes it is worth more.

Sale of the property will be advertised in the newspaper.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Noirot

Wiemer - Noirot

Ingrid Louise Wiemer and Gilbert Alan Noirot were married Saturday evening, August 24, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wiemer, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Noirot, all of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Philip Schairbaum officiated at the double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by approximately 180 guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional long white wedding gown of satin and lace fashioned with a train and laced veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Lisa Wiemer served her sister as maid of honor, and Mindy Noirot, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. They wore light blue floor-length gowns with off-the-shoulder sleeves and carried bouquets of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Tom Dorsek of Sylvania, Ohio assisted the bridegroom as best man, and two brothers, Brian and Alva Noirot, served as ushers.

Elizabeth Humphrey provided music for the ceremony.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents at the Charlevoix Yacht Club,, followed the marriage ceremony. Food was catered by Dave and Gail Phillips, music was provided by the "Jelly Roll Blues Band", and the flowers were the gift of the MacGuillivray family. The rehearsal dinner was held at Phillips Mill Restaurant, hosted by the bridegroom's family.

The newlyweds will be at home in Detroit, where the bridegroom will enter a Ph. D. program and teach at Wayne State University. The bride plans to teach special education classes.

Teen parent foster care coordinator named

Susan Poirier, formerly the foster care specialist at Child and Family Services of Northwestern Michigan's Ludington office, has moved to Traverse City to coordinate the agency's new Teen Parent Foster Home Program.

Counties included in this innovative program include Leelanau, Emmet, Charlevoix, Mason, Manistee and Grand Traverse.

In response to a request from Dr. Agnes Mansour, Michigan Department of Social Services director, Child and Family Services will provide individual counseling, group supportive services, and a supportive foster home environment for teen mothers and their children.

Poirier will oversee the licensing and training of individuals or married couples who will provide a therapeutic home setting for teens within the program.

Shirley Thoms takes over as Extension Agent:

New 4-H leader is a natural for the job

by PEG OHLE

If ever there was a person born, trained, and educated to be a 4-H Club Extension Director, it is Shirley Thoms.

Shirley came to work for the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service this past summer. It is her first 4-H job, but this farm girl knows a lot about 4-H.

Born on a hog and cash crop farm near Harbor Beach in the thumb area of Michigan, Shirley belonged to 4-H clubs throughout her grade and high school days. She was named 4-H queen of Huron County and was state winner in the field of agriculture. This entitled her to attend the 4-H Congress in Chicago, where she was elected an alternate oo the national level.

At Michigan State University, Shirley majored in Agricultural Education and was named outstanding senior among Agricultural Education majors.

Shirley's first job was teaching agriculture on a Navajo Indian Reservation in Kayenta, Arizona. She covered such subjects as agricultural mechanics (including welding), soil chemistry, planting techniques, and operating tractors, as well as biological sciences. She also had a part-time job teaching animal husbandry at the local community college.

"The hardest part of teaching ag mechanics back then was proving I could do it and to let the kids know I could do it," Shirley recalls.

Returning to Michigan, Shirley took a job teaching agricultural subjects at Aranac Eastern High School at Twining, near Bay City. Again she undertook classes in agricultural mechanics, agricultural management, and animal and plant sciences.

When questioned about the field of teaching she had chosen, Shirley said there are now 25 or 30 women teaching agricultural subjects in Michigan, aod "the field is fast opening up to more women."

Shirley plans to spend her first year in Charlevoix County "getting to know all about the local programs and meeting the people and kids in them."

The Emmet County Fair gave her an opportunity to see some of the kids and leaders at work. "I was impressed with their enthusiasm and the unbelievable amount of time and work they put into their projects," she said.

Shirley Thoms

Charlevoix County 4-H Clubs sponsor a wide variety of projects, but most of the emphasis is on live stock, including horses, according to Shirley. There were 59 livestock exhibits from Charlevoix County in the Emmet County Fair this year.

This fall, for the first time, the County will have a Small Animals 4-H Club, under the guidance of Julie Kenney of Boyne City. Emphasis will be on rabbits, small game animals, and poultry, including chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, and pheasants.

There will also be a new horsemanship leader with the addition of Michelle Thayer of East Jordan to the 4-H group.

Other 4-H Clubs specialize in homemaking projects such as sewing, cooking, and preserving. There are also crafts and other hobby-type projects.

4-H, which stands for "Head, Heart, Hand, and Health", was once considered a farm family organization. Today, boys and girls from towns and cities join with their country cousins in all kinds of projects. "4-H is learning by doing," Shirley explained. "The kids don't always know they are learning because they are having so much fun with their projects."

Shirley likes to see kids get recognition for what they do. She recently applied for two Production Credit Association awards for exceptional projects.

October is a busy month for 4-H Clubs. National 4-H Week is October 6 through 12, and the local awards banquet will be held about the middle of the month. As this banquet, kids in different project areas, their leaders, and general supporters of 4-H are recognized for their efforts.

Auditions for musical satire are planned

Audition dates to select performers for "Alice in Blunderland", a one-act musical scheduled for several performances in November, have been announced by Charlevoix musical director, Fran Tollas.

The production, geared to ages from 10 years and up, is sponsored by church groups and local organizations in Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Harbor Springs.

Casting for approximately 20 men, women and children will be supervised by director Judith Darnton and Mrs. Tollas of Charlevoix and Carol Spaulding of East Jordan.

All auditions will be held at the Charlevoix First Congregational Church located at the corner of Park Aveoue and State Street. Audition dates are Monday, Sept. 30 from 3-5:30 p.m. for children only; 7:30-9:30 p.m. for both children and adults; and Tuesday, Oct. 1, from 7:30-9:30 p.m. for both age groups.

Performers should come prepared to do a reading from the script and to sing a song of choice that illustrates vocal range. Scripts will be available to read in the reading section of the Congregational Church after Sept. 15.

The musical uses satire and classic allegorical characters from Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" to illuminate current issues about war and peace. Viewers all over the country have applauded the underlying theme of people attempting to keep this beautiful world intact for future generations.

For further information call Judith Darnton after 8 p.m. at 547-5662.

Rayders fall short in close battle with Northmen

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix Rayders lost a close, heartbreaking game to Petoskey at the Northmen's home field on Friday night.

Petoksey emerged from the seesaw scoring with a 21-14 opening season win, but not before the youthful Charlevoix team had demonstrated an explosive offense and a balanced defense.

Rayder running backs Matt Lignell and Jim Morgridge pounded out a combined total of 214 yards rushing for the evening. Lignell gained 163 on 24 carries; Morgridge, 51 yards on 8 carries.

Lignell rushed for one touchdown and had another called back on a holding call. He added 51 more yards offense on three kick returns.

In the end, however, the impressive offensive show was not enough to offset the Rayder's inability to capitalize on key opportunities. Twice the Rayders coughed up the ball on fumbles inside the opponent's 20-yard line, both times on controversial calls by the officials.

Charlevoix opened the evenings scoring when Lignell burst into the end zone on a 9-yard run around right end. Darrin Battdorif's kick was wide to the left and the Rayder's lead stood at 6-0.

The Rayders threatened to score again early in the second quarter when Lignell punched the ball in with a 7-yard burst around the left side on fourth down. A holding call brought the ball back and Charlevoix failed to score on the final play of its possession.

The Northmen took over on their own 18-yard line and proceeded to march the length of the field with a sustained running attach led by running back Steve Ross who capped the drive with a one-foot plunge. Scott Hicks added the extra point kick and Petoskey was in front 7-6 with 2:54 left in the half.

The Rayders took advantage of the litlle time remaining. Taking the ball on their own 44, they moved down the field on an 11-yard Morgridge run and a 33-yard jaunt by Lignell. With the ball on the Northmen's 14, Charlevoix fumbled, but recovered on the 22-yard line.

With 20 seconds remaining on the clock, quarterback Marc Himebauch threw a strike to end Jim Gibbs for the touchdown. The Rayders elected to go for two points and Lignell scored on a pitch right.

Charlevoix entered the locker room with a 14-7 halftime lead.

Petoskey dominated most of the second half, but the Rayders saved some final heroics for the end.

After failing to move the ball on its first possession of the second half, the Rayders punted and turned the ball over to the Northmen on their own 37. The Petoskey team mounted another sustained drive on the ground, mixing it up occasionally with short passes, and moved the ball to the Rayder 21. On fourth and 11, quarterback Don Proctor dropped back and threw toward the end zone. The ball was tipped by Charlevoix's Battdorif but landed in Dale Fratz's hands for the score. Petoskey added two points with a look-in pass and took the lead 15-14.

A third quarter drive by the Northmen threatened to add to their lead, but with the ball on the Rayder 20, Proctor bobbled the ball after a hit by Sean Ferguson and Matt Hull dropped on the loose ball to give the Rayders possession and stop the drive.

The extreme heat and humidity began to take their toll in the third quarter as many Rayder regulars were sidelined with leg cramps.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Northmen took the ball on their own 20 after a Rayder punt into the end zone. Another balanced drive by the Northmen, combining a potent running attack with short, accurate passes from quarterback Proctor, put them deep in Charlevoix territory. Proctor hit Fratz again on a critical third and 8 call to advance the Northmen to the 7-yard line. Ross hit the line four times and scored on the final try from the one-foot line.

A two-point conversion attempt failed, and the score was 21-14, with Petoskey in the lead and less than three minutes to play.

Lignell returned the kickoff 20 yards and added runs of 5 and 36 yards around end to put the Rayders right back in contention. With the ball on the 22 yard line, first and 10, and 1 minute, 52 seconds to play, Himebaugh broke loose upfield on a counter option, picking up 10 yards before being hit and fumbling. Petoskey recovered and ran out the clock.

Charlevoix observers questioned the call, contending that the fumble occurred after Himebauch hit the ground.

Despite the dissappointing loss, Charlevoix assistant coach Hal Evans expressed nothing but pride in the young Rayder team. "I'm really impressed with them," he said afterward. "These young boys really came through for us. Himebauch really did a good job."

Evans praised the balance of the team's defensive effort. Senior Brian Wilmot led the Rayder tacklers with 13. Tim Salmonson added 11 tackles, Battdorif 10, and Lignell and Hull 9 each. Ferguson contributed 8 tackles.

Hull picked up two fumbles and intercepted one pass, while Lignell made two saves of scoring attempts. Salmonson saved a score on a long runback by the Northmen.

Petoskey finished the game with 37 runs for 171 yards. They completed 9 passes in 16 attempts for 90 yards.

The Rayders were penalized eight times for 60 yards, compared to two penalties and 20 yards for the Northmen.

Charlevoix faces East Jordan on Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Kipke Field.

Matt Lignell sweeps wide to score the first touchdown of the game.

Quarterback Marc Himebauch turns up field on an option play.

Charlevoix cross country team places fourth in Whitehall meet

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder boys cross country team placed 4th among the 13 teams entered in the 12th annual Whitehall Invitational meet which traditionally launches the season in western Michigan, Coach Pete Spieles reports.

"The team looked good for this early in the season. The weather was hot and very humid and it was a rough course," Spieles said of his runners.

Benzie Central with 33 points and Mason County Central with 44 points placed first and second. They are among the top teams in Class C in the state and have full complements of veteran runners. Union Sebewaing with 72 points was third. Charlevoix came in fourth with 92 points.

Top time in the meet was 15:55.2 set by Jeff Barnett of Mason County Central.

Charlevoix's Pat Rajeswki with a time of 16:48.8 placed sixth overall. He was followed by Joe Simpson with a time of 17:14.2 who was 13th; Kevin McLenon, 17:54.9, 12st; Harold Herriman, 17:55.8, 22nd; Mike Dohm, 18:13.9, 30th; Sean Henne, 18:52.2, 41st and Dave Warth, 19:44.9 65th. The times of the top five on the team make up the team's score.

Doug Bergmann was on the injured list and did not run.

In the non-counting (or non-team) event in the girls' meet, Betsy Haggard with a time of 22:35 placed 10th overall and Charlevoix's second runner. Michelle North with a time of 23:52 was 21st. Among the non-team runners, they placed fifth and sixth respectively.

Tom Merta posted the best time among the JV'a or non-counting boys, covering the distance in 18:25. Teammate Ed Knight came in fifth in this group with a time of 20:38 placing him 23rd.

Spieles said Rajewski and Simpson, a sophomore and a junior, did well and McLenon and Herriman ran a good race. He complimented Merta who ran well as JV. The girls did well, he said, considering the weather and the place in the season.

The teams will be at Boyne City Tuesday with Gaylord.

Errors lead to JV loss to Petoskey

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football squad dropped its first game to Petoskey Thursday night by a score of 20-6.

The halftime score was 6-6 but the second half saw the team making numerous mental errors resulting in turnovers, Coach Brian Certa said of the game.

Petoskey got on the board midway in the first period as the result of a 12-yard pass play. The conversion failed.

Charlevoix capitalized on a Petoskey fumble on the 35-yard line in the second period bringing the ball to the two-yard line following a series of running plays. Derek Dutcher then took the ball in on a line plunge. The conversion run was short.

In the second half, Petoskey scored on a quarterback sneak in the third period and on a seven-yard pass in the final period to account for the win.

Coach Certa named Dutcher as the outstanding offensive player and Mark LaBlance, Dan Drury and Scott Denny as standouts on defense.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Again, lots of numbers! Friday, Aug. 30 was Budweiser Olympic Triangle (for which we don't have Official Results), Saturday and Sunday were Red Fox Days and Wednesday, September 3 was the first race of the fall series (for which we didn't have any breeze).

So, on to Red Fox, slightly belated because the Courier went to press before we crossed the finish line. First, a history lesson, and a plea for corrections if we've got our history wrong. The first Red Fox Regatta, I remember, was back in 1966. It was named for the delightful inn in Horton Bay where those lucky enough to have reservations were served a bountiful, family style dinner after the first day of racing. The race start was at Horton Bay both Saturday and Sunday. The two courses were Horton Bay to Charlevoix to Boyne City to Horton Bay (or reverse, if the winds were SE - no race committee ever selects the easy way) and Horton Bay to East Jordan and back (there is no easy way). The Race was sponsored by the Boyne City Yacht Club and most of their members sailed under-rated plywood speedsters called "Thunderbirds". We all anchored out in Horton Bay, rafted together or dinghy'd in to party at Dilworth'a home. Names like Todter, Avery, Irish, Barnes, Begrow, etc. were recognized best by the nature and the quantity of the beverage they consumed. Still, the racing was dead serious!

Years later the Red Fox Regatta has become the Summer's End Event for racing yachts from all over Northwestern Lower Michigan. Now officially sponsored by the Charlevoix Yacht Club, the old members of BCYC still help, and one day the two Clubs will again work together to put on THE Race. Despite an official limit of 75 yachts, well over eighty crossed the line this year. The 25 entries in the Jib and Main Fleet alone were probably more than the total starters in those early years. The names of those first yachts are not easily recalled, but this year's Michigan Crude, Brass Tacks, Traveller, Freedom USA and so on are known on all the top racing circuits.

On Saturday Shadow, starting with the JAM Fleet, led the way to Boyne City. Respite still had the best elapsed time at 3:40.29 and they both saved their times to win Division I and Division V, respectively. Foxy Lady, Bandit and Peregrine took the honors in II, III and IV. The breeze was variabla and spooky; Lady Luck was an important crewmember.

Sunday was a classic follow-the-leader race and the faster yachts tended to overtake and stretch their leads and then count the minutes and seconds at the finish line 'til their higher rated competition came in. Shadow crossed the line first in JAM (Div I) in 3:12:37 but ended up 18th when the corrections were complete! Stalworth won the day in that Division, as did Albatross, Oombriago, Charade and Freedom USA in Divisions II through V.

The Overall top three in each Fleet were: Division I - Spica, Ti-Gi, and Canusa. Division II - Tireless, Nulli Secunds, and Foxy Lady. Division III - Oombriago, Il Marvelous and J. Walker. Division IV - Peregrine, Sabrosona and Smoke on the Water. Division V - Traveller, Freedom USA and Charlie Brown. Congratulations!!! (and all the rest of us had great fun, too!)

Charlevoix school enrollment down slightly

First week enrollment figures at the Charlevoix Public Schools for the 1985-86 school year show a decrease of 20 students, from the 1984 enrollment.

As of noon Friday, the enrollment totaled 1325 compared with 1345 last year. Last year's offical figures were compiled on the fourth Friday of the school year.

On Friday, 554 students were registered at the elementary school (grades K-5) compared to 547 in 1984; 288 at the middle school (6-8) compared to 281 last year and 483 at the high school (9-12) compared to 504 in 1984.

In announcing the enrollment, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren said there would likely be other changes before the official fourth Friday count which established the official enrollment figures for the year.

"This was not a significant change in the enrollment, something we hadn't anticipated," Supt. VanWieren said of the decrese. "As a result, staffing and curriculum will remain the same. We had anticipated a slight drop and made adjustments accordingly."

The decrease in enrollment was scattered throughout the 13 classes. The major decrease was in the number in the senior class. In June the high school graduated 136 students. This year's senior class numbers 105 accounting for most of the decrease.

Following the fourth Friday official count, the enrollment by grades will be used to compare with the 1984 enrollment figures.

Only 5 percent give blood, donors needed

If you've never given blood before, the Red Cross is looking for you. Statistics show that only about 5 percent of the population give blood so there are alot of you out there.

"We're asking too much of our front line troops, and now it's time to call in some reserves," said Dr. Willys Mueller, Director of the Wolverine Blood Services. Mueller was referring to the many regional residents who are regular blood donors, and who are called upon by the Red Cross to give blood each time they are eligible. This means donating every eight weeks or so, and can lead to a depletion in one's iron levels.

That is why, explained Mueller, it is necessary to recruit an entirely new group of blood donors to join those already in the regional donor pool.

The need for new donors has never been greater in the 17 year history of the Wolverine Region. The traditional summer slump in blood donations has been compounded this year by increased hospital usage, concerns about AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and the HTLV III test for the AIDS associated antibody, and more precise hemoglobin testing procedures recently instituted by the region.

Donating blood is a quick procedure, which takes less than an hour from registration to walking out the door. It is only relatively painless for the donor, but can mean life or death for a patient in a local hospital, in need of blood.

If you are already a blood donor, the Red Cross salutes you. Like a seasoned veteran, you have earned your honors, and we encourage you to keep up the good work.

If you are among those who have tried or who are unable to donate, we thank you for your efforts.

But if you are among those who have never donated blood, the Red Cross desperately needs you now. Won't you take one hour of your time to save someone's life?

Call the Red Cross for more information at 347-5984 or 1-313-232-1176.

Marching Band to play at MSU's Band Day

The Charlevoix High School Rayder Marching Band will travel to East Lansing, Saturday, Sept. 14, to be a part of the 31st annual Band Day at Michigan State University, Terry Isenbarger, band director, has announced.

The band is one of 30 high school marching bands selected to participate in this event, Isenbarger said. The bands will perform as a massed band on the Spartan football field at the halftime of the Michigan State-Arizona State football game.

Selections to be played by the massed bands are "I'm So Excited" by the Pointer Sisters; "The Way We Were" by Martin Hamlish; "We are the World" by Michael Jackson and Lionel Richie; and "Hosts of Freedom" by K.L. King.

The band is scheduled to leave Charlevoix at 2:30 a.m. Saturday morning in order to be a Spartan stadium for a rehearsal at 8 a.m.

After the game, the bands will be teated to a field performance by the Spartan Marching Band and the Grand Ledge High School Marching Band.

The Charlevoix High school band members will stay overnight at the Ramada Inn of Lansing and will return home Sunday afternoon.

PERSONALS 080

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal, You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones.

Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish; after third day your wish will be granted; no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted.

INVITATION TO BID

The Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company has a parcel of surplus land which it is planning to sell to the highest bidder. The cooperative suggests that persons interested should submit their written, sealed bids appropriately marked on the outside, to Thomas G. Hanna, Manager, at the cooperative's office prior to Friday, October 4th. The bids should be accompanied by a cashier's check or bank money order in the amount of 10 percent of the bid price. Bids will be opened and tabulated on October 4, 1985, and the cooperative's Board of Directors reserves the right to reject all bids. Terms of sale are cash on closing. The checks of all bidders will be returned except for the successful high bidder and its check shall be applied on the purchase price. In the event the successful bidder refuses to complete the transaction, its check may be retained by the cooperative as liquidated damages.

The property in question is unimproved and is located in Boyne Valley Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and is located on the west side of Dam Road approximately 1/5 mile north of M-75 and comprises approximately 5 acres. The legal description of the property is as follows: All that part of the South Half (S½) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Six (6), Town Thirty Two (32) North, Range Five (5) West, lying Northeasterly (NEly) of the Boyne City Railroad right-of-way.

Nursing home gets county approval

A proposed 106-bed nursing home in Charlevoix Township gained one short step twoard realization last week when the Charlevoix County Planning Commission approved the rezoning of property for the project.

The property, bounded by Garfield and Upright Streets, was rezoned from Agricultural to Professional Office. This county approval of the Township zoning action taken on August 21 leaves only approval by the Township Board for the land to become available for a nursing home.

A prime factor in the rezoning approval appaently was the proximity of the site to the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the offices of several local physicians.

Ralph McRae, who is acting as local liasion person for the Westerville, Ohio construction company interested in building the nursing home, cautioned that the project is a long way from being a reality. "It will be well into next year before we know how things are going," he told the Courier, indicating that the biggest factor now would be approval by the Health Services Agency of the State Department of Health.

Persons interested in having a nursing home near Charlevoix are encouraged to state their views in letters to the editor of the Courier.

New officers assume duties at high school

When classes resumed at the Charlevoix High School Sept. 4 for the 1985-86 school year, class officers and student council representatives elected in May assumed their duties.

Kathleen Buday and Sharon Martin were elected president and vice president respectively by the student body to head the student council. Each class also elected five persons to represent them on the council.

Class officers and student council representatives for each class follow:

Senior class: Robert Waun, president; Bryan Noirot, vice president; Jami Staley, secretary; Cammie Ketchum, treasurer; Julie Blamer, Lynn Bremmeyr, Jamie Campbell, Carl Rothenberger and Shannon Titsworth, student council representatives. Faculty class advisors will be Mary Seaman and Terry Smith.

Junior class: Terry Bonar, president; Karl Erber, vice president; Wendy Voisin, secretary, Rusty Coolman, treasurer; Valerie Barnes, Lori Gleason, Amy McKinney, Michelle North and Dan Staublin, student council representatives. Faculty advisors will be Laurie Keller and Roger Gowell.

Sophomore class: Charles Britton, president; Kerk VanKuiken, vice president; Eric Richardson, secretary; Marty Joy, treasurer; Jill Austin, Jennifer Bonar, Sean Henne, Ellen Pearl and Bonnie Themm, student council representatives. Betty Henne and Yvonne Wendt, faculty advisors.

Oil recycling center opened in Petoskey

At one time or another, most of us find ourselves wondering what to do with that gallon or so of used motor oil left over from a do-it-yourself oil change. And because most people don't know where to take their used oil, it winds up in the trash, down the storm sewer, or on that patch of weeds behind the garage, says Scott Blanchard, education director for Recycle North, a Petoskey-based nonprofit recycling group.

The problem with that, says Blanchard, is that you may wind up swimming in it the next time you jump into your favorite lake. Statistics show that of the 15.5 million gallons of used oil generated in Michigan each year, only 4.5 million gallons are recycled.

"Most people are shocked to learn that used oil dumping by individuals is an even bigger source of oil pollution in the Great Lakes than offshore drilling or tanker spills," he adds.

To help keep oil out of Northern Michigan's lakes, streams and groundwater, Recycle North and Bill's Midtown Mobile of Petoskey have teamed up to offer a safe, simple and environmentally-sound alternative: used oil recycling. Rather than dumping their used oil, do-it-yourself oil changers can now drop their oil off, free of charge, at Bill's Midtown from 7 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturdays. In exchange, they'll receive a bumper sticker and a brochure about recycling.

Bill's Midtown is located at 500 Howard Street across from St. Francis Catholic Church.

Once the oil is dropped off, it is stored in a 1,000 gallon holding tank until it is pumped into a tank truck and sold to a reprocessing facility in Walled Lake.

Bill VanSlot, owner of Bill's Midtown Mobile, started the collection service because he has seen the environmental damage oil pollution causes.

I've got two young kids," he said, "and I want to leave them something."

Scott Blanchard of Recycle North said his group will consider an oil recycling station in Charlevoix if there is enough interest. "Our ultimate goal is to service as much of northern Michigan as possible," he said.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Intensive Coronary Care Unit was the beneficiary last week of a $1,000 gift from the Kappa Sigma Sorority in Charlevoix. Jen Koontz, left, treasurer of the sorority, and Sue Bertlett, right, co-chairmen of the 4th annual home tour sponsored recently by Kappa Sigma, presented the check to Bill Jackson, financial services manager for the hospital. The donation was made possible by proceeds from the home tour which attracted almost 300 people earlier this summer. The tour is held each year to raise funds for the ICCU.

Adults can learn wilderness survival skills

Charlevoix County older youths and adults who want to learn more about wilderness survival should take advantage of the opportunity to participate in the 4-H Challenge wilderness adventure training program, says Shirley Thoms County 4-H youth agent.

Through the 4-H Challenge program, participants learn a variety of skills, including biking and backpacking, canoeing, cross-country skiing, orienteering, and wilderness cooking and survival.

According to Thoms, Charlevoix county residents interested in becoming part of the Challenge program, and after training, serving as group leaders for young people, should sign up now.

Thoms says that anyone interested in becoming a Challenge leader must attend four-weekend intensive training sessions this fall and winter, pass a comprehensive written test, and take a Multi Media Standard First Aid and CPR course. Additional training in areas such as climbing and rappeling, caving, survival, canoeing, kayaking, sailing, bike touring, winter survival (including skiing and showshoeing) wilderness backpacking is available. The workshops will be held in the Upper Peninsula.

"Because Challenge leaders will be involved in high adventure situations and be responsible for youngsters participating in wilderness outings, they must be prepared," Thoms points out. After completing all the training, Challenge leaders become certified and are qualified to take youths on wilderness adventures.

"It's worth all the hard work and studying if you like the challenge of the out-of-doors," Thoms adds.

To be eligible for the 4-H Challenge certification program, applicants must be at least 21 years

Charlevoix County residents interested in signing up for the 4-H Challenge leader certification program should contact Thoms at the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service office, or call 582-6232.

Children's choirs meet

The Charlevoix Community Children's Choirs will begin their year with a family pizza potluck on Wednesday, September 11 at 6:15 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Congregational Church. Bring a pizza to share and beverage. Coffee, dessert and paper plates will be provided.

Since funding may come from a grant Fran Tollas wrote with CHIP, Kari Walker, the new director of CHIP, will be the guest. "Please be thinking about offering your help with calling, rehearsals and planning and let us know in the very short organizational meeting which will follow the dinner," Tollas said. "We will also sing and sign the children up for the year."

If you need any further information plese call one of the directors: Fran Tollas 547-9479 or JoAnn Dannecker, 547-2629.

Davis helps send T-shirts to Africa

Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Davis and Cathlic Relief Services (CRS) have joined together to aid the victims of the African famine, through a "T-Shirts for Africa" drive in Northern Michigan during the month of September. Service groups and individuals throughout Davis' 11th Congressional District will mail the T-shirts to Davis' Washington office, and from there they will be forwarded to Africa.

The need for t-shirts in Africa is almost as great as the need for food, according to relief officials. Nights are cold there and malnourished, poorly clothed Africans are not able to cope with extreme temperatures. T-shirts meet the need well, according to CRS officials.

"The people of Northern Michigan have a reputation for helping people who need help," said Davis. "Everyone has old T-shirts in their closets that can go from being dust-gatherers to life-savers."

Individuals or groups interested in participating are asked to send the cleaned T-shirts to Davis' office at 1124 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515. Persons with questions can call his toll-free hotline at 1-800-682-8982.

Neighborhood watch efforts recognized by Sheriff Lasater

Four Charlevoix area residents were recently recognized by Sheriff George T. Lasater for their assistance during emergencies this summer.

All of them members of the Neighborhood Watch, the three men and one woman helped law enforcement officers in two different situations.

Hugh and Pat Lambert of Marion Township were cited for their efforts in the search for an elderly Charlevoix woman who had wandered away from her home July 6.

Lee Arnold and Enos Bacon, both of Ironton, were cited for assisting at the scene of a personal injury accident on June 15 in the Ironton area.

Long-term predictions not possible yet

Facts and myths of Great Lakes water-levels explored

Many northern Michigan residents have expressed alarm at the ever rising waters of the Great Lakes.

They have watched the water cover beaches, threaten to engulf boat docks, and eat away at shorefront property and homes.

When will the high water cycle end? Is the government able to control the water levels? Those are among the questions being asked by property owners, marina operators, boaters and others involved with the Great Lakes or with waters, like Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, connected to them.

The Michigan Sea Grant Program, a cooperative effort of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, has recently produced a fact sheet explaining Great Lakes water levels and their causes and remedies.

Among the conclusions reached are the following:

The water levels of the Great Lakes constantly change. Over 100 years of record-keeping have shown no regular, predictable cycles. Water level fluctuations consist of three major types:

Short-term fluctuations caused by weather, especially winds. These changes, or seiches, can last from a few hours to several days. Strong winds have been known to "tilt" a lake's surface-up at one end by as much as eight feet. After the winds subside, the lake surface levels out again. Severe shoreline erosion often occurs when seiches happen during a high water period.

Seasonal fluctuations reflect normal yearly changes in precipitation and evaporation. More runoff water from melting snow and spring rains cause lake levels to rise during spring and early summer. These changes are fairly predictable and average one to 1.5 feet per yearly cycle.

Long-term fluctuations are the result of steady high or low rain and snowfall in the Great Lakes basin over a period of several years, and are unpredictable. For example, there was low precipitation during the early sixties, which caused record law water levels in Lakes Huron and Michigan (1964). Then, just nine years later (1973), those lakes' levels reached record highs. The previous high-low cycle took twenty years.

Present high lake levels, similar to those of 1973, are a direct result of a long period of abnormally high precipitation. Records show that the basin has received above average precipitation 15 of the past 18 years. Since 1940, precipitation has averaged 6 percent higher than during the first 40 years of the century. From January through March of 1985, basin precipitation was 41 percent above normel.

Can lake levels be regulated? There are two dams and four diversions within the Great Lakes basin that can be regulated to affect lake levels.

One dam is in the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie, where water flows from Lake Superior to the lower lakes. The other is at the outlet of Lake Ontario to the St. Lawrence River.

The Ogoki and Long Lake diversion in Canada channel water into Lake Superior. The third diversion is at Chicago, where Lake Michigan water is channeled through the city via the Illinois River and passed on to the Mississippi River. A fourth diversion is from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario through the Welland Canal.

The International Joint Commission (IJC) composed of United States and Canadian officials, is repsonsible for deciding how and when to regulate water flow using five of the six above methods. The Chicago diversion rate is set by the U.S. Supreme Court.

According to the IJC, the four diversions have caused a drop in Lake Erie of 4 inches and Lakes Huron-Michigan of 0.24 inches. (Lakes Huron and Michigan are subject ot the same water level changes because they are connected by the deep, unrestricted Straits of Mackinac.) Lake Superior levels have risen about 0.84 inches and Lake Ontario has risen about one inch as a result of the four diversions.

Since May, 1985, the IJC has restricted water flow from Lake Superior to Lakes Huron-Michigan by reducing water flow through the St. Mary's River dam (called a compensating structure). By November, 1985, this action will have reduced the rise of Lakes Huron-Michigan about 3.5 inches, but at the same time pushed up Lake Superior's level to 602 feet above sea level, its maximum allowable level as agreed upon by international treaty. When the lake reaches this level, water flow through the compensating structure at Sault Ste. Marie must be increased.

Long-term lake levels cannot be accurately predicted because long-term precipitation cannot be accurately predicted. However, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers publishes short-term, six-month water level predictions, available free of charge by writing to their Detroit office. The Corps' current projection shows that lake levels have peaked for the summer and will be falling off as a result of normal seasonal fluctuation. Levels over the next six months should be somewhat lower than record highs seen in 1973 and 1952.

Improvement of long-term Great Lakes levels predictions might be possible if a large-scale meteorlogical and hydrological communication, instrumentation, and interpretation system could be developed. This system would involve massive, region-wide monitoring of basin soil moisture content, tributary stream flow, regional precipitation and evaporation rates, and water temperatures. Development and coordination of such a large-scale system is not expected at present.

Further information can be obtained from the Michigan Sea Grant Program at either the University of Michigan, 4107 IST Building, 2200 Bonisteel Boulevard, Ann Arbor, MI 48109, (313) 763-1437 or Michigan State University, Institute of Water Research, 334 Natural Resources Building, East Lansing, MI 48824, (517) 353-3742.

Information is also available from County Extension Office from John McKinney, Governmental Center, 400 Boardman Ave., Traverse City, MI 49684.

New restaurant venture planned

Restauranteurs Dave and Gale Phillips of Phillips Mill and Tom Warth of 218 Bridge Street have joined forces in a joint new restaurant venture.

Warth has reached a lease agreement with Stewart Boal, owner of the building and property which formerly housed Phillips Mill on the Boyne City Road. Phillips Mill closed officially last Sunday. The new business will be known as "The Mill."

The Phillips, who also operated the Grey Gables for many years will oversee food service at both restaurants.

"It is a true joining of forces," Warth said explaining the new arrangement. "Together, Dave, Gale and I have a combination of skills that should bring excellent cuisine and creative marketing to 218 Bridge Street and The Mill."

The Phillips will be chefs at both restaurants and Warth will manage the business and marketing. Warth's downtown restaurant, 218 Bridge, will be open daily for late breakfasts, lunches and light dinners. The Mill will be open weekends through the fall, Christmas season and for special occasions.

"The Phillips and I agreed that together we could offer Charlevoix two high quality dining experiences with varied menus and atmosphere.

"What we're putting together we hope will be beneficial for both of us and add a lot of unique things to the restaurant business in Charlevoix," Dave Phillips said of the agreement.

Warth predicted the coming season will "be full of pleasant surprises at both restaurants."

The dining room overlooking Round Lake will be the centerpiece of 218 Bridge Street, where the emphasis will be on "excellent cuisine at moderate prices," Warth said.

"Dave and Gale will create new and interesting dishes daily, as well as moderately priced steak, fish and fowl dishes, for evening guests. We want 218 Bridge Street to be affordable and excellent. Breakfasts will feature fresh baked goods, for example. Dinners will be high quality yet priced so couples and families will want to return regularly."

The Mill, Warth said, will offer early evening dinner specials and provide later evening dining with entrees at a broad range of prices.

Warth pointed out that the arrangement will allow 218 Bridge and The Mill to complement each other. Using ski groups as an example, he said, "They might eat one night at 218 Bridge and their second night plan a more elegant country dining experience at The Mill."

A dinner-theatre is already planned for the fall at 218 Bridge Street and renovations have begun in the top floor banquet room. Haysleigh ride dinner events are among the plans for The Mill.

This spectacular shot by Charlevoix photographer Terry Salmonson dramatically illustretes the force of a recent atorm over Lake Michigan. The photo was taken on Saturday, Sept. 7, as violent thunderstorms swept the area bringing hail to parta of Charlevoix and tornados to the Jordan River Valley. Salmonson took the shot at night with an exposure of approximately eight seconds. He believes that several separate lightning bolts may have been captured during the exposure. The camera was a Hasselblad with a 150mm lens. The original is in color and can be seen at Salmonson's studio on Bridge Street.

Trivia game to raise money for new track at high school

The Charlevoix Sports Boosters will soon offer residents of the Charlevoix area an opportunity not only to aid a local fund-raising effort but to purchase a unique gift as well, Larry Lemerand, chairman of the project, has announced.

The Sports Boosters hope to generate $8,000 through the sale of the new educational trivia game called "Trifles," Lemerand explained.

The $8,000 generated by the sale of the trivia game will be used as seed money to construct a new eight-lane track at Kipke field. The new field will replace the cinder track in use since early 1930s.

Del Terrill, former track coach and a member of the committee, recalls that some of the last cinders for the track came from the Chicago Club when its tennis courts were rebuilt.

The construction project would also include replacing the lights at the football field, a facility that was given to the high school in September 1954 as a memorial to the late John Knight. Knight, an ardent sports fan, was mayor of Charlevoix at the time of his death in March 1954.

The unique "trifles" fund-raising project ties in with public enthusiasm for trivia games.

"Trifles", the game to be used in the fund-raising project, includes questions about history, geography, science, entertainment and the arts.

The game also includes a special local trivia feature. The game board will not only be customized with local sponsorship but one category of the questions will be customized for Charlevoix. Bob Miles and Chuck Duerr will compile the local trivia and everyone in the community will have a chance to be part of the project by submitting their own trivia questions about Charlevoix for use in the game.

The game board is set up similar to Monopoly, with the various properties being local businesses.

Only 32 positions for participating sponsors are available on the game board. Six of these have already been sold, Lemerand reports.

The places will be sold on a first-come first-served basis. Persons are urged to contact "Moon" (Mary Ann) Price, Jean Loper, Janet Buchanan or Del Terrill to reserve a place on the board.

The game will be manufactured in limited edition and marketed in a pre-sale beginning Thursday, Sept. 26 by 11 athletes in the Charlevoix Public Schools including middle and high school students. If you are not contacted, please call the Charle-

City oks electric system evaluation

City Council approved a site plan for a new single family residence on Belvedere Avenue at its meeting Monday night. Action was deferred on another site plan for offices and an apartment above Bridge Street.

Tom Duke sought approval on behalf of Duke and Duke, a limited parnership, for a single family home to be constructed on a vacant lot at 309 Belvedere Ave. Council approved the plan unanimously, noting that no variances were requested or required for the project.

Paul Bandrowski requested approval for an apartment and three offices on the second floor of 411 Bridge Street. Council adjourned a decision on the issue until next week so that the Zoning Board of Appeals could act this week on Bandrowski's request for parking variances.

He is asking the city to waive the nine parking spaces required for the property. Bandrowski has leased two parking spaces off-site for the apartment and would like to be relieved of the requirement for parking for the offices.

Bandrowski plans to renovate the street level of the old Kusina building for a new business called Villager Candies. He will occupy the upstairs apartment and rent the office space.

Jack Smith of Oleson's objected to the variance, citing the lack of parking in the downtown area.

Council also approved a contract with Roger Westenbroek of Sidewalk proposed for Elementary School

by FRAN MARTIN

The proposed construction of a sidewalk along the north side of Division Ave. from Mt. McSauba Road to the Charlevoix elementary school was discussed at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night.

Vincent Olach, business manager, presented the proposed project to the board. He said it would be more feasible to construct the sidewalk on the north side of the road because there would be no obstructions such as houses and garages built in or to the road right-of-way.

That area, however, is in Charlevoix township. He asked permission from the board to negotiate with the city council regarding snow removal. The proposed construction would extend for approximately one-quarter mile from Michigan Ave. to the school. Presently children who walk to school must travel in the road during the winter months.

Mrs. Donald Voisin and Mrs. John Hess, mothers of children attending the school, commended the school board for its efforts to construct a sidewalk to the school.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren advised the board that the program for dropouts in 10 northern Michigan

Drawinga of the proposed renovation of the football-track complex at Kipke Field, drawn by John Ferguson, locel surveyor and a former Charlevoix High School athlete, are examined by members of the fund-raising project scheduled to be launched Thursday. They are, left to right: Larry Lemerand, general chairman of the Charlevoix Sports Booaters project; Hal Evans, track coach; K. Dale Burge, (with plans), ethletic director at CHS; Dick Swenor, assistant high achool principal and athletic director, Del Terrill, former Reyder track and football coach; and John Ferguson, surveyor.

Obituaries

DAVID E. CARPENTER, 76

David E. Carpenter, 76, of Central Lake, died Sept. 12, 1985, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14, at the Eastport Baptist Church, Eastport. The Rev. John Gillette will officiate and burial will be in Southern Cemetery, Central Lake.

Mr. Carpenter was born Sept. 29, 1908, in Ellsworth, the son of David and Jacqueline (Bentley) Carpenter. He was raised in the Ellsworth area and on Sept. 24, 1942, he married the former Avabelle Watson in Detroit.

For many years, Mr. Carpenter owned and operated a cemetery, Albion Memory Gardens, in Albion. He retired in 1968 and returned to Northern Michigan, settling at Central Lake.

Mr. Carpenter was a member of the Eastport Baptist Church.

He is survived by: his wife; one son, Allen Carpenter of McLoud, Okla., one daughter, Mrs. Dean (Marilyn) Lucas of Gaylord; two brothers, Nathan Carpenter and Lynn Carpenter, both of Charlevoix; five sisters, Mrs. Vernon (Ruth) Vance of East Jordan, Hazel Bartley of Omak, Wash., Lucille Gaddis of Oaklawn, Ill., Harriet Smith of Point Pleasant, W. Va. and Mrs. John (Frances) Boss of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by one brother and two sisters.

The family suggests memorials to the Eastport Baptist Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Central Lake Chapel of the Mortensen Funeral Home, where friends may call.

CAMERON SERVICES

Graveside services for Mrs. Jeannette P. Cameron, 101, Charlevoix's oldest resident, were held Friday, Sept 13, at Brookside Cemetery.

The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated.

Mrs. Cameron died Sept. 5 at the Petoskey Geriatric Village.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Youth wins 4-H award

Justin Parks of East Jordan represented Charlevoix County at the state 4-H horse show held at Michigan State University in East Lansing, held Aug 20.

Justin showed his pony Double C Jamie and received a bronze award in Fitting and Showmanship, Stock and Seat Equitarian, and Western Pleasure. Justin has won several other awards throughout the summer, including: High Point Horse three times, Reserve High Point two times and Grand Champion Pony.

The state 4-H horse show is an annual event designed to give 4-H horse project members an opportunity to evaluate their horsemanship skills by competing against youth from across the state with similar intersest. Four hundred eighty-three 4-H members from 56 Michigan counties participated in the show.

Seniors hope for new home

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix senior citizens may soon have their own club house and dining room.

A group of persons interested in senior activities is negotiating with the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) for the use of part of the VFW Hall on US-31 North.

The facility is already being used for high school completion classes for senior citizens being conducted by the Straits Area Community Education consortium.

If $2,000 can be raised from private sources and details worked out, the Commission on Aging meal site will be moved from the high school cafeteria to the VFW Hall. The new location would consist of two large rooms, providing not only dining space, but room for crafts, games, speaker's programs, and musical events.

While the Commmission on Aging has felt fortunate in having the use of the high school cafeteria for its meal program, the facilities are such that most senior citizens simply "eat their meals and run". There is too much outside confusion to make other programs possible.

The result has been that the Commission on Aging meal program has not been serving as many Charlevoix area residents as it should. Presently, meals are served in Charlevoix only three days a week, instead of five days as they are in East Jordan and Boyne City.

Charlevoix and Boyne City have almost the same population, but records show that during eight weeks this summer, 1,442 meals were served to senior citizens in Boyne City, but only 361 meals were served to senior citizens in Charlevoix. During the same period, 2,479 meals were served in East Jordan.

If and when the Charlevoix meal program is moved to the VFW Hall, the meals will be prepared at the Charlevoix County Senior Center in East Jordan and transported by bus in metal containers and reheated in warming pans at the Hall. Meals served in Boyne City have been handled this way for several years.

Funding for the meal program comes from federal monies as well as from a local (county) grant and contributions from participants. Diners are each asked to make a donation of $1 toward the cost of the meals, although no one is turned away because of inability to pay this amount.

During the above-mentioned eight weeks this summer, the average donation in Charlevoix was 94 cents, in East Jordan, 91 cents, and in Boyne City, 74 cents.

The Commission on Aging's budget for its nutritional meal program for the fiscal year ending this September 30 was $96,857.

The program has now been operating for almost 12 years, and as originally set up, is designed not only to provide a nutrious meal for senior citizens, but to give them an opportunity to get out of the house, participate in programs, and generally socialize with neighbors and friends. The Charlevoix County Transit System provides low cost transportation to the three meal sites in the county.

Sherry Black, who has worked with many senior citizens in the county in her job as coordinator for the Straits Area Community Recreation Consortium, has also organized a "kitchen band" and a vocal group at the Boyne City and East Jordan meal sites. Those senior citizens also participate in exercise classes, handicrafts, card games, learning programs, and other activities. She is looking forward to setting up similar activities for Charlevoix senior citizens in the VFW Hall.

The Hall could also be used for health screenings and giving flu shots and serve as headquarters for inforamation about other Commission on Aging services.

Mrs. Black is heading the group raising funds for the use of the VFW Hall by senior citizens. She stresses that all contributions, no matter how small, will be greatly appreciated. Her address is Parsons Road, Charlevoix, phone 547-2790.

High school completion classes held in Charlevoix this fall

by PEG OHLE

Senior citizens who did not graduate from high school have a chance to catch up with their children and grandchildren.

High school completion classes are being held in Charlevoix this fall, offering such subjects as American literature, basic writing, senior living, American government, and U. S. history.

Sherry Black, Charlevoix County Coordinator for the Straits Area Education Consortium, who has worked with senior citizens in both East Jordan and Boyne City, is teaching three of the classes, and Jim Sturdevant, also an experienced teacher, is teaching the others.

All classes are held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall on US-31 North. American literature is taught Monday morning, basic writing is taught Tuesday morning, senior living is taught Wednesday morning, American government is taught Wednesday afternoon, and U. S. history is taught Thursday afternoon.

The American literature course will focus on the works of such well-known American writers as Edgar Allen Poe, Longfellow, Mark Twain, Robert Frost, Ernest Hemingway, and James A. Michener. The writing course will emphasize spelling, vocabulary, punctuation, sentence structure, and other basics.

Mrs. Black's senior living class will provide students with guest speakers and recreational fun. It will be structured according to the desires of the students.

The American government class will explore the structure and function of the federal government and its political processes. It will also delve into state and local governments.

In U. S. history, the students will start with the background of the country in Europe and follow its development to a great world power.

Classes are now in session, but senior citizens may still sign up. Call 582-6765 for more information.

Travel writers from all over the United States converged on Charlevoix as they saw the sights of Michigan last week, as part of the 30th annual meeting of the Society of American Travel Writers, being held this year in Michigan. On Wednesday, Sept. 11, 18 writers from Hawaii to New York stopped at Tom's Cafe in Charlevoix, to sample Tom's Mom's Cookies as part of a special "Taste of Michigen" tour. The sun came out as the group, which was eating their way from Traverse City to Mackinac Island and south to Detroit, stopped in Charlevoix. They were impressed by the cookies, the tile paintings by Sue and Russell Bolt and Meredith Krell that decorate the cafe, and the beauty of Round Lake and downtown Charlevoix.

High school holds mini-sessions

Parents of students at the Charlevoix High School are advised that the staff at the school will host "mini-sessions" for parents from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 23.

The purpose of this program is to introduce parents to both the daily schedule and the teachers of their students, David J. Smith, high school principal, explained.

After opening with coffee in the cafeteria from 6:30 until 6:45 p.m., the time schedule will be as follows:

First period 7-7:15 p.m.; second period 7:20-7:35 p.m.; third period 7:40-7:55 p.m.; fourth period 8-8:15 p.m.; fifth period 8:20-8:35 p.m.; sixth period 8:40-8:55 p.m. Individual conferences 9-9:30 p.m.

Parents are advised to make a copy of their student's schedule and bring it to the mini-sessions.

"We hope the individual conferences will give parents an opportunity to see a teacher of their choice for a brief conference," Smith said.

Individual Parent-Teacher Conferences for the high school will be held Thrusday, Nov. 7. More information will be available at a later date.

"We are looking forward to seeing as many parents as possible attend the mini-sessions," Smith said in announcing the event.

Middle school parents get walk-through

The Charlevoix Middle School will host a Parent Walk-through at the school on Grant St. on Thursday, Sept. 26, Dennis J. VanGuilder, school principal, has announced.

The walk-through will be held from 6:30-9:10 p.m. Following a brief orientation period at 6:30 p.m., the parents are invited to follow their student's class schedule for the day in order to acquaint themselves with their student's work day and to meet their teachers. Ten to 14 minutes will be allowed for each class.

VanGuilder urges all parents to participate in the walk-through. They are advised to make a list of their student's classes before attending.

Parent-Teacher conferences at the school will be held in November on a date to be announced.

Fire hall committee a good idea

Suggestions for the location of the new fire hall keep popping up like mushrooms after a spring rain.

A few weeks ago council thought it was ready to put the finishing touches on a site plan for the fire station to be located on Mason Street. The station was to be built where the post office is currently, provided the post office moves to a new site.

Council was ready to put the issue before the voters as a bond issue.

Suddenly things began to unravel. Dale Boss suggested a new location for both the fire and police departments on U.S. 31. Ray Wood argued for a fire station near the airport. Bill Kusina said he had offered to sell his building to the previous city administration, but nothing had been done about it. Several other sites suddenly cropped up.

The issue was made all the more sticky by the fact that the new fire truck is scheduled for imminent delivery and a $390,000 bond was approved for the Nov. 5 election.

Why hadn't there been a systematic evaluation of fire hall sites before this time? No one was quite sure.

Amidst the confusion, Mayor Hal Hill did the sensible thing. He appointed an ad hoc committee to investigate the fire station locations and report back to city council by Sept. 23. Hill said he wanted a committee that would investigate the matter objectively. "I don't want 'yes' people," Hill explained.

A thorough evaluation of all possible sites for the fire station is essential. Why it was not done before we do not know.

But voters are unlikely to approve the bond issue with so many alternatives floating around, each with its own adherents.

Several of the proposed sites have merit on the surface. There are also some disadvantages to the Mason Street location.

Only after all sites have been studied and their pros and cons considered can the voters rest assured that the fire hall is going in the right place.

Wherever it is built, the fire station will be around for many decades. Spending a few weeks choosing a site will be time well spent.

City Council

Charlevoix to analyze the city electrical system. Westenbroek, a former general manager for Top of Michigan electrical coop, has recently returned from Bangladesh where he worked for two and one-half years on a nationwide electrical project.

The electrical survey will provide both technical and economic recommendations. Westenbroek will receive $30 an hour and the cost of the study is not to exceed $12,000.

The study will forecast both short-range and long-range growth of loads on the Charlevoix electrical system. Westenbroek will also look at interim costs including the option of purchasing power through the Michigan Public Power Agency at significantly lower rates.

He will evaluate the distribution system as well as study current electric rates and project future rates.

Although there is no time limit for the study, Westenbroek said that most of the study should be completed before the beginning of the year.

In a related matter, council passed a resolution to study through MPPA the potential savings of purchasing power from the City of Lansing. Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Chelsea have also been approached.

MPPA estimates that Charlevoix has the potential to save $77,000 in 1986 on the deal.

The resolution passed by council commits the city to up to $6,250 for the study.

Council also:

–approved the sale of a Fairbanks-Morse 10 cylinder, OP engine and generator for a minimum bid of $12,500.

–agreed to rent space at the city dock to a 99-foot boat next summer. The owner of the boat is seeking a seasonal rental agreement and will allow the city to rent the dock space to other boats when he is not in port. The boat will occupy four slips between two 60-foot docks at the city marina. City Manager Michael Wiesner said the cost might be around $3,000 for the season. He will negotiate a figure that will be at least equal to the regular rental of the space on a daily basis.

Shirley Roloff questioned plans for the city attorney, city planner, and city manager to inspect a planned two-family residence at 306 Petoskey Avenue prior to providing electrical service to the building. Roloff said the owners of the business, who also own Expression Unlimited flower shop, had been inconvenienced by the delay in getting electrical service. The action, she maintained, was discriminatory, since the building had already been approved by the city building inspector.

"You're not giving them the same consideration that you would give anyone else," Roloff said.

City Manager Wiesner said the inspection was planned because of reports that the building would be used for more than the two-family residence for which it was approved. Wiesner alluded to the previous denial of changes in the zoning code to allow the owners to operate their flower business at that location.

City Attorney Jeffrey VanTreese agreed with the need to inspect the property. He said he was not concerned with whether the electricity was turned on or not, but was concerned with whether the building was being put to an approved use.

"We're intimidating these people. It's harassment," Roloff countered.

Council agreed and Wiesner said he would see that the electricity was turned on and would cancel plans to inspect the property.

Chamber Chatter

by CLAUDIA KENIFECK

Now is the time to start thinking about fall activities and Charlevoix is a great place to be in the Fall.

The 1986 Membership Drive will start with a kick-off meeting September 24. This year's membership drive chairman, Doug Shaw, is working with the Chamber in an effort to make this year's drive a big success. If you are not already a member of the Chamber, you will be contacted by sometime in October. Remember, you only get out of something, what you put into something.

Next on the calendar come the Chamber-sponsored Fall Color Cruises aboard the Beaver Islander. In an effort to encourage family participation,, this year's costs vary according to age, with special rates for senior citizens, teens and tots. Complimentary cider and doughnuts on board are included in the ticket price. Because space is limited, you must purchase tickets to make a reservation. The ship will sail from 1-3 p.m. on Saturday, October 5 and Saturday October 12. Cruises will sail regardless of weather.

The 6th Annual Apple Festival is set for October 12 and 13. Area farmers and agricultural exhibits will line East Park with fall harvest sales. This year's Apple Fest will include some new activites such as a scarecrow contest, butter churning demonstrations, and live entertainment. This is a great time of the year to enjoy the last of the cool, clear fall days before we all settle in for winter.

Also, that same weekend Charlevoix County State Bank will be hosting the second annual countywide Industrial Fair. Because of the popularity of last year's fair, the location has been changed to the Charlevoix High School gymnasium to accommodate ten additional exhibitors. Area high schools will have the opportunity to view the displays on Friday, October 11. The general public is welcome on Saturday, October 12. This is a wonderful opportunity to see, firsthand, the varied number of products manufactured in Charlevoix County.

Be sure to include in your weekend a stop at the Mt. McSauba Expansion Open House, Saturday October 12 from 2-4 p.m. hosted by the Friends of Mt. McSauba. Advance notice: keep some time open on the weekend of October 25 and 26 to attend the Friends of Mt. McSauba Las Vegas Nites.

counties planned for the Beaver Island Lighthouse property owned by the school district has been postponed until early next year. The pilot program is being prepared by the Youth Employment Agency headquartered in Traverse City.

VanWieren also advised that controls for the new boilers installed in the K-5 school had arrived Monday and were being installed by the contractor, Wojan Plumbing and Heating. This will complete the renovation program at the school.

In other action:

- The board accepted, with regrets and thanks for a job well done, the resignation of Carolyn DeMoor as a K-5 teacher. Mrs. DeMoor for the past year has been on a leave of absence.
- Adopted a resolution for $28 per pupil state aid incentive. Legislation that would allow this payment is now under consideration. The board voted to apply for the funds should they become available.
- Awarded a contract to Charlevoix Garbage for trash pick-up at the schools at the rate of $300 per month. A second bid for $325 a month was submitted by North Country pick-up.
- Adopted a resolution accepting the Student-Parent Handbook. Changes in the book relate to the attendance policy.
- Adopted a resolution approving the hiring of Kenneth Piude as U.S. History instructor.
- Heard that the high school will conduct a mini-session for parents of students on Monday evening; the middle school will conduct a walk-through for parents on Thursday, Sept. 26, and the K-5 is hosting its first parents nights Monday and Tuesday of this week. Also heard that the high school would be the site of the second county-wide Industrial Fair Oct. 11-12. The fair is sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank.

The board then adjourned to executive session to discuss personnel.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Oct. 7.

Clockwise

Grown in Michigan

By Bob Clock

What a year for Michigan fruits and vegetables!

Has Michigan sweet corn ever tasted sweeter?

Have Michigan honey rock melons ever been more flavorful? You don't even have to shake them, thump them or sniff them. There's not a bad one in the barrel.

Michigan cabbage is green and crisp. Michigan cauliflower is frosty white. Thick shelled Michigan green peppers and crunchy Michigan celery have a tang and aroma all their own. Michigan sweet and sour cherries drip with flavor.

The humble Michigan potato, chock full of vitamins, minerals and other earthy condiments, is food for the gods. Boil one is a little salted water, lace it with butter and you have a meal fit for the most discriminating gourmet.

Michigan mackintosh apples keep the doctor coming back for more.

We would have to give up picnics and potluck suppers without the Michigan navy bean.

And tomatoes! There is no flavor equal to that of a Michigan tomato still warm from the afternoon sun.

DOES MICHIGAN-grown produce really taste better is it all in my imagination?

During the off-season, of course, the Clocks don't hesitate to buy imported fruit and vegetables from other states — corn from Florida, melons from California, onions from Texas, tomatoes from all over.

But they always fall short in the flavor department.

My big downfall is sweet corn. Along about May every year I can't wait any longer and buy a dozen ears of Florida corn. With salivary glands working overtime, I rush home, strip off the husks and plunk the ears in boiling water. When the corn is cooked, I pick it out with corn tongs, heap it high on a platter and, armed with butter and salt, sit down to enjoy — enjoy.

But I don't enjoy. The corn always tastes like a musty mangrove swamp and I storm and rage, vowing never again to buy Florida corn.

Judy says I go through the same song and dance every year but I never learn. She has a longer memory than I have.

ALL OF WHICH is prologue to an idle thought that crossed my mind the other day.

Can you imagine how delectable pineapple, bananas, oranges, grapefruit and tangerines would taste if we could only grow them in Michigan?

Why, we'd put Florida, Texas and California out of business.

The Sunbelt is just lucky we can't grow cotton, either. It would probably taste like cotton candy and we'd all die fat and sticky.

You're holding onto a precious freedom.

A free press only stays that way with your support.

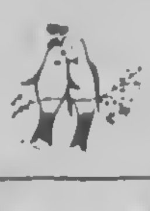
Weddings



Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ivan

Darnton-Ivan

Judith Ann Darnton and Paul Michael Ivan exchanged marriage vows on Saturday evening, September 7, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Darnton of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ivan of Freeland.

The Reverend Philip Schairbaum officiated at the double-ring rites, assisted by Father Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Approximately 165 guests from several Michigan cities, as well as from New York City and Vermont, witnessed the double-ring ceremony in which the bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

The bride wore her mother's 1940 wedding gown of ivory silk satin brocade which was remodeled to her specifications. It was fashioned with short sleeves, tiny back buttons, a fitted bodice, and princess floor-length skirt. The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis.

Elizabeth Welland of New York City assisted the bride as matron of honor. Joseph Ivan, a brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Marilyn Danosky, David Darnton, Theresa Ivan, and Mark Ivan were ushers.

Jeanne Lignell provided organ music for the ceremony, including selections from Handl's "Water Music" for the processional and recessional numbers.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at Stafford's Bay View Inn after the ceremony. They were assisted by the bridegroom's parents, who had hosted the rehearsal dinner the previous evening at the Belvedere Golf Club House.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island and the Upper Peninsula, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix. The bridegroom is employed by the City of Charlevoix, and the bride, who holds a master's degree in fine arts and a teaching certificate, is a substitute school teacher in the area. Girl Scouts plan Bike-a-thon

Charlevoix Girl Scouts invite the community to participate in a Bike-a-thon for the benefit of St. Jude's Children's Hospital. Bicycle and tricycle riders of all ages are asked to attend.

The event will be held at the Charlevoix Elementary School on Saturday, Sept. 28. If the weather is not suitable, Oct. 5 is the alternate date. Riders start at 9 a.m. and finish at noon.

Sponsor forms are available at all Charlevoix Public Schools, St. Mary's Catholic School and the Charlevoix Children's House. All participants through the age of 18 must have a parent accompany them for the start of the Bike-a-thon. Permission forms are necessary.

A grand prize of a 10-speed bicycle will be awarded to the person who earns the most money for St. Jude's Children's Hospital. Prizes will also be given to the rider who logs the most miles in each age group. The catagories are tricycles and bicycles - age 8 and under, 9 through 12, and 13 through adult.

Everyone who earns $25 or more will receive a St. Jude's T-shirt and $75 or more will earn a St. Jude's tote bag.

Auction jamboree benefit

Country music lovers and auction fans are in for a treat on Sunday, September 22, when the Nordic Bar, situated on Boyne City Road in Boyne City, hosts the fourth annual March of Dimes Auction Jamboree. Three country-western bands will perform and dozens of items donated by merchants of Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim Counties will be auctioned off to help fight birth defects through the March of Dimes beginning at 1 p.m.

Harry Pearsall, well-known auctioneer in the area; is donating his services, auctioning off various items, including sports equipment, clothing homemade crafts and baked goods, services, meals, and merchandise donated by various businesses in the area.

The bands who have donated their services for the day are Shades of Blue and Rawhide, with Sagebrush the host band. A luncheon will be available at a special price.

Paula Sweet, coordinator of the auction, invites everyone to come and help top last year's receipts of $1,500. A small donation covers entry and a chance at winning the door prize, still to be announced.

Victoria Rogers and Jeffery Renaud

Rogers — Renaud

The engagement of Victoria Rogers to Jeffrey Renaud, both Charlevoix residents, is being made known.

Miss Rogers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogers and Mr. Renaud is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Renaud. Both families reside in Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a graduate of Petoskey Beauty Academy. She is a licensed cosmetologist and is currently employed at Tom's Cafe.

Her fiance is also a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School. He is employed at Lexalite Corporation in Charlevoix.

Grange officers installed

Barnard Grange held the installation of new officers for 1985-86 on Tuesday Sept. 10 with Bill Stevens and Bill Parsons officiating and Anna Warner acting as chaplain. A good crowd of members were also in attendance.

The following officers were installed: master, Norman Empey; overseer, Jack Steve; secretary, Beverly Smith; treasurer, Charles Dhaaeleer; steward, Dudley Stevens; assistant steward, Bill Stevens; lady assistant steward, Kay Empey; chaplain, Mary Warner; gatekeeper, Dan Stolt; Flora, Catherine Stebe; Ceres, Josephine Stutzman; Pomona, Lucy Stolt.

Outgoing Master Bill Stevens thanked the members for their efforts and cooperation in making this Grange become number 1 in the state and number 3 in the nation in growth in 1984. Incoming Master Norman Empey expressed his desire that we continue to grow and prosper during his term in office.

Dental Hygiene Week set

This is National Dental Hygiene Week, which is being celebrated by members of the Northland District Dental Hygiene Society with the message, "Dental health is more than just a pretty smile".

The week is set aside to focus greater public attention on the importance of preventive dental health care as well as the role of the dental hygienist in providing that care, according to a local dental hygienist.

"Americans today invest time, energy, and money striving for total health," she explains. "What many don't seem to realize is that they will not achieve total health without taking care of their dental health. To many, dental care just means having an attractive smile.

"Teeth, like the heart and lungs, are complex organs, with their main function being chewing. Thorough chewing is essential to proper digestion, and in addition, teeth help in speaking clearly. The shape of the dental arch and the way the teeth fit together can affect speech," she continues.

Because good dental health is essential to overall health and speech, teeth should be taken care of properly. The Northland District Dental Hygiene Society suggests these basic steps in dental health:

Brush and floss thoroughly at least once a day; or more often if your dental hygienist recommends it.

Eat well-balanced meals and limit snacks.

Use fluoride toothpaste and fluoride mouthrinse.

Visit your dental hygienist and dentist on a regular basis.

United Way set to go

by ANNE KELLY

The annual United Way campaign will kick off a house-to-house collection on Thursday, Sept. 26, according to Darrell Linder, campaign chairman.

This year's goal has been set for $30,000 and increase of $5,000 over last year. "The United Way Board is confident that the generosity of individuals and industries will once again help United Way meet request increases from agencies served and exceed its goal," Linder said.

Jim Marshall, president of the United Way Board, said the agency funds the following agencies: the American Red Cross, United Way of Michigan, the Women's Resource Center, Friends of Camp McSauba, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Daggett, the "Say No" program of Planned Parenthood, Charlevoix Hospice, Salvation Army, Chip Counseling Center, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Bergmann Center, Charlevoix Riders, and the Volunteers in Probation.

The last two programs, according to Marshall, are new this year and have been carefully screened before being added to the roster. The Volunteers in Probation is an organization which has trained over 100 volunteers to work through the probate and district courts with individuals on probation. Counselor, Gayle Gennett, presently heads this organization.

Success rate of cases followed show that individuals with problems helped by the program seldom repeat their offenses and are shown how to lead productive lives as good citizens. It is a preventive program and has 32 active volunteers presently participating.

The Charlevoix Riders is a program of special benefit to handicapped children through horseback riding. Marshall explained that "kids suffering from multiple handicaps are able to work up from the sensitivity level to the environment level and often surprise themselves and others with their own capabilities."

According to Barbara Lane, program director, "It is gratifying to to see a child who wants to leave a wheel chair to ride a horse... when sometimes the first words spoken by a child are to a horse or about his horse."

All these groups or agencies, Marshall explained, operate literally on a shoestring budget. Their keystone is volunteerism, but of course there have to be paid staff and qualified resource people to run the organizations, he added.

All needs of the perspective organizations are carefully screened before they qualify for funding.

It's people like Frank Rothschild, according to Linder and Marshall, who make good things happen for United Way.

Rothschild received an award, presented by Jim Marshall and the United Way Board, in appreciation of his outstanding contribution of time and energy during last year's campaign. His contacts with people out of town for solicitation of special gifts - phoning, writing letters - and his continual moral support were invaluable to the 1984-85 campaign.

A man like Rothschild, is what United Way is all about - volunteering to help others, they noted.

Rayders turn East Jordan miscues into points

The East Jordan Red Devils were in a generous mood on Friday night as they turned the ball over to the Rayders on three occasions in the first half.

Charlevoix accepted the gifts and promptly turned them into touchdowns, paving the way for the Rayder's 34-6 home field victory.

It was new head coach Roger Gowell's first win. His team's first half scoring was swift and certain, leaving East Jordan dazed at the turn of events.

The Red Devil's misfortunes started early in the first quarter. Deep in their own territory, the Red Devils pitched to halfback Aaron Spence. Rayder middle linebacker Brian Wilmot stripped the runner of the ball and Sean Feruson recovered it in the end zone for the score. Charlevoix's kick was wide and the score stood at 6-0.

The Devils fared little better on their second possession. This time Marc Himebauch intercepted a pass on the East Jordan 22-yard line. Halfback Matt Lignell broke loose for the score on the first play from scrimmage. Himebauch threw to Tim Salmonson for two points and a 14-0 Rayder lead.

East Jordan showed signs of regaining its composure in the second quarter. A 90-yard drive highlighted by the running of Ted Snowden and Steve Dionne threatened to put the Devils back in the ball game. With the ball second and five on the 5-yard line, the Red Devils coughed it up again with Charlevoix recovering on its own 11.

The Rayders went to their strength–handing the ball to Lignell on three running attempts that gained only short yardage. On the fourth try, Lignell broke around the right side and was off on a 78-yard touchdown run. The kick was wide and Charlevoix was in front 20-0 with 2:53 left in the half.

East Jordan could do little on the next series and was forced to punt after three plays. This time Charlevoix went to the air for its theatrics. Quarterback Himebauch threw 7-yards to Darrin Batdorff. With seconds remaining Himebauch connected on another perfectly thrown pass, this time for 43 yards to flanker Jim Gibbs.

On the third and final play of the series, Himebauch lit up the scoreboard lights again with another pass to Gibbs in the end zone with one second on the clock. Lignell ran the extra point to make the halftime score 28-0.

The teams played workman-like ball in the second half. East Jordan opened the half with an 18-play drive that started on their own 30 and ended with Snowden scoring from the 8. The extra point attempt failed.

The Charlevoix reserves put one on the board in the fourth quarter. The drive started at mid-field. Scott Crandall ran for 18 and the drive was climaxed by a 3-yard jaunt by Mike Thompson.

Lignell gained well over 100 yards rushing for the second time in as many games. He carried 19 times for 172 yards, most of it in the first half. The versatile halfback added 9 tackles on defense.

Charlevoix posted 302 yards rushing on 42 attempts for the night. Himebauch completed seven of 12 for 115 yards in the air, including one touchdown and extra point. Jim Morgridge rushed for 48 yards in seven attempts. Thompson had 40 yards on nine attempts.

The Red Devils' Aaron Spence (40) drives through the Rayder defense.

Wilmot led the defense again this week, causing two fumbles and making 11 tackles. Batdorff contributed nine tackles on defense.

East Jordan finished the night with 195 yards total offense. Snowden rushed for 68 yards in 10 carries to pace the Red Devils.

JV squad dominates Red Devils

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team behind a combined running and passing attack defeated East Jordan 30-6 on the Red Devils field Wednesday night.

"Everyone played well. It was an all-'round team effort," Coach Brian Certa said of the win.

The team will travel to Rogers City Thursday.

The Rayders scored in each of the quarters with Derek Dutcher accounting for three of the team's five touchdowns.

The first TD came early in the game when Dutcher scored from 5 yards out following a ground attack.

A 50-yard pass play from Dan Drury to Scott DeYoung set up the Rayders' second scoring play which saw Dutcher go in from the 11.

East Jordan then recovered a Rayder fumble on the 30-yard line and moved ot the 2-yard line from were Dave Freel scored the devils only TD. The half ended with Charlevoix ahead 12-6.

As the second half got underway, Drury scored on a 3-yard plunge following a long drive. Later in the period Drury threw 20 yards to DeYoung to give the Rayders their fourth TD.

Dutcher then droped off the scoring in the final period with a breakaway 34-yard run.

Harriers win first meet of season

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers posted their first win of the season Tuesday, September 10, during a triangular meet at Boyne City.

The Rayders had 23 points. Gaylord placed second with 52 and Boyne City was third with 59.

Charlevoix's Pat Rajewski paced the meet with a time of 15:29. Other top 10 finishers included Eric Dickinson, Gaylord, 2nd, 15:30; Joe Simpson (Cx), 3rd, 15:47; Mike Dohm (Cx), 4th, 18:50; Mike DeSchryver, Boyne City, 5th, 15:51; Kevin McLenon (Cx), 6th, 16:06; Hal Leach (BC), 7th, 16:12; Paul Owen (Gay), 8th, 16:16; Sean Henne (Cx), 9th, 16:29; and Tom Merta (Cx), 10th, 16:32.

Harold Herriman, the Rayders' seventh runner, finished in 12th place with a time of 16:54.

Coach Pete Spieles said he was pleased with Dohm's time and with the others who came through to win the meet. He said he felt the course which had been altered recently because of a construction project, was not a full three-mile course resulting in the good times.

In the JV meet, Rayder runners finished second and third, Dave Warth in a time of 17:06 and Ed Knight in 17:42. The winning time was 17:03.

Betsy Haggard set the pace in the girls division with a time of 18:50.

Heidi Olinger with a time of 20:24 was fourth and Michelle North, fifth, in 10:25.

Charlevoix hosted Boyne City in a dual meet Tuesday, September 17.

Rayder JV golfers top Petoskey

Rain washed out the varsity golf team's match with Petoskey on Monday, Sept 9. The golfers reached only the 5th hole at Belvedere Golf Course before the rain forced a postponement, Coach Glen Taylor reported.

The junior varsity team fared better, completing their match with Petoskey on Monday at the municipal course and coming away with the 190-204 win. Geroge Ketchman of Petoskey took medalist honors with a 45.

For Charlevoix Ty Wagner had a score of 49 with Tim Berry and Scott Crain at 50 and Dylan Stewart 51.

For Petoskey Steve Johnston had a 52, Jason Hutchens 53, and Joe Robbins 54 to go with Ketchman's 45.

Golfers win one

The Charlevoix Rayder golfers posted a 180 to 212 win over the Gaylord Blue Devils at the Belvedere course Thursday.

Denny Curtis with a score of 41 was medalist for the meet. Teammates, Scott Wise and Marty Joy each had scores of 45 and Pat Gibbons posted a 49.

Jason Clement and J.T. Aude scored 49s, Bill Collins 55, and Brian McLauhlin 59 for Gaylord.

Flag football starts

The flag football season sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department will open Wednesday with all four teams seeing action, according to Dwight Boss, city recreation director.

The Seahawks, coached by Jiggs Whitley and Paul Parrish, will take on the Forty-Niners, coached by Mark Husak and Howard Zoet at 6 p.m. at the Carpenter Avenue field. Mike Reinhart's Raiders will take on the Redskins coached by Dudley Stevens and Shannon Reynolds at 7 p.m.

The teams will play a series of six games through Oct. 16, Boss said.

Yachting Notes

...by A. Nony Mouse

Sure is tough to write the story of a race when you don't have the results. Anyway, last Wednesday's Race was interesting! A northerly breeze of 15-20 knots lasted throughout most of the afternoon; by start time it had changed to variable, northeast to northwest, and ranged from two to 12 knots.

One major shift, just before the first gun, caused a brief postponement of the start sequence as it looked as though a different course might be required in order to provide the desired (directly upwind) first leg. The breeze coughed a couple times, died out, then resumed right out of the North. The temperature and starting flag drops were simultaneous.

Jib and Main combines with Fleet #3 to start first; CHEEMAUN and MINT JULEP seemed to have great starts from opposite ends of the line and the equality of those starts was demonstrated by their meeting in the middle just a few minutes later. Then the breeze caughed again, and by the time we started with Fleet #2, the yachts out in front were sitting there waiting for us.

We felt the shifting was unpredictable and would continue so we went right up the middle, tacking on every shift — but sailing into the header just a little further whenever we were not yet back to the rumb line. (Some said we went to the right side, but it only looked that way as most went 'way left, expecting a westerly shift trend.) It worked well, but the faster "NIGHT MOVES" nosed us out at the first mark. The hot "WING NUT" was back a bit and the rest of our Fleet back even further, so all was well. Around the buoy, 'chutes up the WING NUT just screams by — Ah So!

'Twas a fun race, we enjoyed catching up to FLASH (Gordon) with Henry, the old man of the sea, still mumbling, three legs later, about their rotten start. Even the sun brightened a little near the end when it became obvious that TRAVELLER probably had captured LAST Place!

Shifty and Light Air Pointers for the newer skippers: If the shift trend is to the left, stay to that side of the fleet. If the shifts are simply back and forth, try to stay near center. Unless you're very good at tacking, don't tack on tiny shifts in variable breezes. When in doubt, tack quickly if it will take you back to where you want to be, otherwise delay the tack. Never sail to a breeze unless it's very near. When in a breeze, try to stay in it even if it leads you off course a bit (especially down wind!).

Starboard tack is almost always favored in puffs, port in lulls (Northern Hemisphere). Never cover the guy you want to beat if you're behind, unless he gives you enough time, then always do. Going 'way out to one side of the beat will seldom reward you more than just being on that edge of the fleet but the risk of severe loss is vastly increased. While learning, trying to stay with a hot boat is great "make-your-boat-go" training and will generally keep you with the shifts (just don't accidentally block his desire to tack on a shift). Keep weight forward in light air ... and DON'T rock the boat!

Don't forget dues are due! And come on down Fridays after work, drinks of yachtsman quality at seaman price together with good company!

...the End of the Mouses' Tale.

Elk Rapids defeats Rayders as girls lose in overtime

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team fell victim to a late surge and accurate free throw shooting from Elk Rapids. The Rayders lost by a 55-53 score in overtime Thursday.

After leading by eight points with 2½ minutes to go, the Rayders lost the lead in the final minutes. Michelle Gagnon evened the score at the buzzer to throw the game into overtime.

The score was tied 10-10 at the quarter before the Rayders took a 23-20 lead at halftime. Then increased the lead to 38-33 at the three-quarter mark but were outscored 17-12 in the final period.

In the overtime, Elk Rapids outscored Charlevoix 5-3 for the win.

With seven seconds to go, the Elks' Jill Rhoades, who had 24 points for the game, scored the winning basket.

The Rayders outscored their opponents 24-22 baskets from the floor. Elk Rapid had 11 of 19 from the free throw line to Charlevoix's five of eight.

Amy Pischner had 21 points and Ellen Pearl 12 for the Rayders.

The Rayder JV's lost by a score of 42-39.

In a game played on the home court Tuesday, the Charlevoix varsity rolled over East Jordan 57-12.

Charlevoix headed the visitors 16-2, 29-4 and 49-8 by quarters before outscoring East Jordan 8-4 in the final period.

Gagnon, Cindy Boss and Barbie Boss had 10 points each and Lara Stargardt had 11 assists for the Rayders.

Jody McDermott had six of the visitor's 12 points.

The Rayder JV's won 41-19 with Allison Hall scoring 10 points. Stacy Gebott was the top player on defense.

Charlevoix will play at Petoskey Thursday and host Boyne City on Tuesday.

College Night draws students

The 32nd annual College Night will be held at Petoskey High School on Wednesday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m. Over 50 representatives from colleges, universities, nursing schools, vocational and business schools, and all of the armed services will be represented.

Thirty area high schools have also been invited. Parents are also encouraged to attend.

Approximately 1,000 students and parents are expected to attend representing 32 area high schools.

Junior and senior students are encouraged to attend, but all students are welcome. The general public is also invited.

The program is coordinated by Mrs. Ruth Kalkbrenner, guidance director of Petoskey High School. For further information call 347-6023 ext. 222.

College Night is held early in the fal each year so that graduating seniors will have sufficient time to choose a college and make application for admission and scholarships.

Over 50 institutions will send admission staff members.

A representative of Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority will again be available to explain the State of Michigan Scholarship and Financial Aid programs. All students who wish to apply for any type of scholarship or financial aid should make this one of their visits.

Students and parents should arrive at 7:30 p.m. Please report directly to the first session using the students last name for the following program plan:

7:30 p.m. First session; A-G first choice, H-O second choice, P-Z third choice.

8:10 p.m. Second session; A-G second choice, H-O third choice, P-Z first choice

8:50 p.m. Third session; A-G third choice, H-O first choice, R-Z second choice.

There will be three 30-minute sessions. This will allow students to visit three representatives, and discuss their questions in depth.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION
SEPTEMBER 9, 1985

Wolvarine Power Supply Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Box 369, Boyne City, Michigan, 49712, has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules, Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, or on the basis of handicap, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color, or national origin, or on the basis of handicap, in its policies and practices relating to applications for service, or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in, any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complaintants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

WRIT OF ATTACHMENT

At a session of said Court, held in the County Courthouse in the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, this 10th day of September, 1985.

PRESIDING: The Honorable Richard M. Pajtas

TO: CHARLEVOIX COUNTY SHERIFF GEORGE LASATER.

YOU ARE COMMANDED to attach so much of the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, monies and effects of C. ROBERT MILLION, Defendant in the above-entitled cause, not exempt from execution, wherever found within the County of Charlevoix as will be sufficient to satisfy Plaintiff's demand and costs, and safely keep the same to satisfy any judgement that may be recovered by Plaintiff in this case.

YOU ARE FURTHER COMMANDED to post a certified copy of this Writ of Attachment upon the following personal property in which the Defendant has an ownership interest, in a conspicuous location:

33' Eggharbor Fiberglass Inboard Cabin Cruiser carrying the registration MC 8566 KC and believed to be presently located at the Belvedere Club boat docks, Belvedere Avenue, Charlevoix, Michigan.

THE PLAINTIFF HEREIN IS HEREBY COMMANDED to notify the Defendant of this action and the issuance of this Writ by:

1. Forthwith sending copies of the Summons, Complaint, Verified Motion for Exparte Writ of Attachment, and Writ of Attachment to the Defendant via first class mail, return receipt requested, restricted delivery, to him at the address of record as shown in the Judgment of the Court of Common Pleas of Hamilton County, Ohio, dated December 3, 1984; that being 7506 East Woodsage Lane, Scottsdale, Arizona 85258; and by:

2. Attempting to personally serve Defendant with the foregoing documents as filed in the within matter, whether defendant be found within this state or another, and if such service be had, filing such sworn statement of personal service with this Court; and by:

3. Publication of this Writ once in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper widely circulated within the County of Charlevoix.

Ski and Shore hires Johnson

Richard W. Georgl, president of Ski and Shore Real Estate of Charlevoix has announced the addition of James F. Johnson to his staff.

Johnson, former manager of the Holiday Inn of Petoskey from 1974 to 1981, has returned to northern Michigan bringing with him vast experience in resort, hotel, motel, bar and restaurant management and coordination.

"This valuable experience in Hospitality Management makes Jim the unique specialist that is necessary in today's demanding market place," said Georgl. "Ski and Shore of Charlevoix has created the Hospitality Division to specialize solely in the sale of resorts, hotels, motels, bars and restaurants nationwide."

One of Johnson's first positions was as general manager of the 600 member Walnut Hills Country Club in East Lansing. He was also employed as an Innkeeper for Topeka Inn Management Inc., where he was responsible for three properties in the chain of 80 Holiday Inns. Most recently, Jim was General Manager of the Enzian Lodge, Vail, Colorado.

Johnson, who carried a Colorado Real Estate License with Ski and Shore of Vail, is active in promoting tourism in the northern Michigan area. He holds membership with the Petoskey area Chamber of Commerce, he was treasurer of the Northern Convention Bureau of Michigan. He also belongs to the Western Michigan Tourist Association, as well as the International Organization of Hotel-Motel Managers, the Club Managers Association of America, Michigan Lodging Association, and Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association.

James F. Johnson

Officers take on duties at Legion

Katie Curtis was installed as president of the Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, at a recent installation ceremony held at the post home. She succeeds Sue Lochner in the office.

Other officers installed at the same time were Rosalynn Goldstick, first vice president; Gertrude Holt, second vice president; Mrs. Lochner, secretary; Nancy Wood, treasurer; Josephine Bindi, chaplain and Mary Ann Farkas, historian. Installed as members of the executive committee were Betty McKenzie, Linda Webster and Janice Jones.

District president Hazel Lane Robinson of Rogers City was the installing officer.

During the business sessions, letters of appreciation including one from Jack Gebott, director of Camp McSauba, were read. Several cards to be sent to shut-in members were signed by those present.

Members who are no longer using their auxiliary caps and would like to sell them area asked to call Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Lochner or any auxiliary officer or committee member.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will open with a potluck supper at the post home at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 1 with legion members.

Day of Recollection set

The annual fall Day of Recollection, sponsored by the Northwest Region of the Gaylord Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, will be held at the Sacramentine Monastary Tuesday, Sept. 24.

Registration opens at 8:30 a.m. and the first conference will begin at 9 a.m. Reservations may be made by calling Sister Marie at 347-3657 as soon as possible.

The Rev. Casimir Zawacki, pastor of St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix, will be the director for the day.

All women in the region are invited to attend.

Garden Club news

The East Jordan Garden Club held it's annual Flower Show on August 19 at the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The theme of the show was "Hats Off to Flowers," a variety of hats were used to emphasize a theme on each table.

The judges, Anna Belle Webb, Portia Crawford, Lois Pollack and Derith Lane awarded blue ribbons to members Evelyn Gidley, Bernadine Grieg, Cyg Riley, Peggy Midener, Jane Bowen, Betty Yenni and Jan Bircklebow.

Many ribbons in second, third and honorable mention were also awarded. Floral arrangements were on display to the public from noon until 5 p.m.

AMVETS Carillon

The dedication of the AMVETS Fort Custer Memorial Carillon located at the Fort Custer National Cemetery at Augusta outside Battle Creek is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 22.

AMVETS National Commander Robert Medairos and AMVETS Michigan Department Commander Wallace Gasman will be present for the event.

The carillon is being dedicated as a living memorial to American's veterans who served their country honorably for the cause of freedom.

New pastor arrives from South

by PEG OHLE

The new man in town who speaks with a deep southern accent is Bruce Hamilton, pastor of the Community Church of God.

He and his family recently moved to Charlevoix from Gadsen, Alabama, and before that he served pastorates in Tennessee and West Virginia. He told the Courier he selected Charlevoix as his next pastorate "almost blindly", but he is happy with his decision.

"Everyone has gone out of their way to be nice to us," he said. "We are thankful we could come to a community like this."

Reverend Hamilton and his wife, Linda, and children Debbie, eight, and David, four, will soon move into the Charlevoix High School building trades house on the south side of Charlevoix. The house, which the church is helping them buy, will be the family's first house. In other towns, they have lived in rental properties.

Linda Hamilton is as southern as her husband. She was born in Mississippi and met her Florida-born husband-to-be at a Church of God International Youth Convention in Boston. "I knew when I first met her and kissed her that I wanted to marry her," he recalls happily. I checked with her pastor and her grandmother to see if she was being courted. She wasn't, and we were married 53 weeks later. That was 12 years ago."

Reverend Hamilton is a graduate of Warner Southern College in Florida. He later did graduate work at Anderson College in Indiana and took journalism courses while serving in West Virginia. These courses have resulted in his doing work for the Warner Press in Anderson, writing for the National Youth Magazine, preparing adult Sunday School lessons, and editing "Pathways to guidance", a daily devotional guide.

Answring this reporter's question, Reverend Hamilton said the Church of God was founded in 1881 in northern Indiana. "We like to call it a 'movement' rather than a denomination," he explained. "We believe that Jesus prayed for us all to ber one, and we are working toward that. We recognize there is a difference in beliefs and in approach, but we can all find a oneness in Jesus."

Reverend Hamilton has already joined the County and City Ministerial Associations and will be a member of the new Rotary Club. His main hobby is amateur radio and he likes to bicycle. However, he is unsure about how he will be able to manage Charlevoix snows on a bicycle.

Last week, Reverend Hamilton stepped on a boat for the first time in his life, but before he was permitted on the boat, he had to remove his leather-soled shoes!

To help him find his way around the countryside, Reverend Hamilton bought a County Plat Book, on which the church secretary indicated where his church members live.

Linda and Debbie are interested in finding a Brownie troop so they can carry on with the Brownie work they have done in the past. The family is also looking for their first pet dog.

The new minister hopes to add a midweek service to serve his church members. He sees it as a means of reaching specific groups such as single persons, senior citizens, and teenagers. In the meantime, he is preaching two sermons each Sunday, one at 11 a.m. and one at 6 p.m. Sunday School meets at 9:45.

Persons calling the church office will be greeted with the message, "God loves you." Reverend Hamilton says this is the message he hopes to bring to everyone.

JAMES SHEPARD, Superintendent, Charlevoix-Emmet School District, received the first copy of Science Screen Report from John F. Macierz, General Motors Public Relations.

Science films given to schools

Local public school students will have the opportunity to view eight new science films during the 1985-86 school year courtesy of the General Motors Corporation.

Science Screen Report, a monthly film series focusing on the lastest developments in science and technology, is being made available by GM to all public schools in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and others throughout the state of Michigan beginning this fall. The 13-minute programs and accompanying lesson planning guides are porduced in cooperation with the National Science Teachers Association. They are designed to stimulate interest within today's video generation in science-related fields.

During a presentation of a sample copy of the series to educators in the Charlevoix-Emmet District, John F. Maciarz, of GM Public Realtions, noted, "As we approach the 21st century it is obvous that science and technology will play an even greater role in both our personal and business lives. Our future employees and customers will have to have a better science and technical background. It is appropriate for GM to assist educators in emphasizing the importance of science-related studies."

"Hopefully this effort will help make students aware of some of the challenges ahead as they elect fields of study for tomorrow's job opportunities," Maclarz added.

Dr. Phillip E. Runkel, superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Michigan, indicated this program will provide an excellent opportunity for the Michigan Department of Education and General Motors to work together to develop a cooperative program to assist students in the very important area of career awareness.

Starting in October, the eight presentations will be distributed through the district's Regional Education Media Center and will become a permanent addition to its library.

Vets outpatient clinic opens

The long-awaited Veterans' Outpatient Clinic at Gaylord will open Monday, Oct. 7, Frank Taylor, Medical Center director at the Saginaw VA Medical Center, has announced.

Located adjacent ot the Otsego Memorial Hospital, the Gaylord Veteran Outpatient Clinic will be open three days a week - Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

There will be no walk-ins. All appointments must be scheduled in advance by calling the Saginaw VA Medical Center, at 517-793-2340.

Ronald G. Geer of the Office of Veterans Affairs for Charlevoix County said that mileage will not be paid for those visiting the new clinic and that it is imperative that veterans make appointments prior to visiting the Gaylord Clinic.

The mission of the Gaylord Outpatient Clinic will be to enhance the services provided by the Saginaw VA Medical Center to the veterans residing in the northern Michigan counties of the Lower Peninsula.

Anyone desiring more information regarding the new Gaylord veterans' facility is asked to call Geer at his office at the county building Tuesday or Thursday of each week.

School students to take tests of Michigan Assessment Program

Parents of children in the fourth, seventh and 10th grades in the Charlevoix Public Schools will be given the Michigan Education Assessment Program tests beginning Wednesday, Sept. 18, advises Condit Drury, coordinator for the program.

The state-required reading and math tests are given to students in these grades to determine their skills and areas where they need help, Drury explained.

Test results should be available by mid-November. At that time parents will be informed of the results. The results will also be used to improve the school program and to work with individual students.

Parents are advised that they can help by making sure the child, if possible, attends school on the day of the test; gets a good night's sleep; has a good breakfast; and asks the teacher questions if he does not understand the directions.

Parents can also assist by encouraging the child to do his best on the test because it will help him get a better education Drury says, and by letting the child know you are confident in his ability.

Anyone with questions is encouraged to call their child's teacher.

New construction continues strong

New construction projects in Charlevoix County continue at a good pace.

During August, the Department of Building Inspection issued 67 permits, down only two from July and four from the peak of 71 in June.

Nineteen permits, including one for a 32-unit apartment building in Boyne City, were issued for new family dwellings. Five individual houses will also be built in Boyne City, two in Charlevoix Township, two in Evangeline Township, one in Eveline Township, five in Hayes Township, two in Evangeline Township, and two in Wilson Township.

Additions to and remodeling of residences accounted for another 16 permits, residential garages for 12, and residential outbuildings for eight.

In the commercial category, one permit was issued for a new building, one for remodeling, and three for outbuildings.

In addition, six permits were issued for mobile homes and one for a demolition.

Construction costs for the above projects are estimated at $1,998,010, bringing the total amount of construction started in the county this year up to $9,337,709 (exclusive of electrical, plumbing, heating, and air conditioning work).

Children's Choirs welcome kids

The initial meeting for those interested in the Charlevoix Children's Choirs was held at the Congregational Church on September 11.

Families and choir members were on hand to enjoy a pizza potluck dinner and to hear Fran Tollas explain the program for the year. Also on hand were Joann Dannecker and Kari Walker, new executive director of Chip Counseling Center.

Walker explained that Chip, which is acting as the sponsoring organization for a grant, was involved in order to support efforts in community self-esteem.

Children, grades K-7, who enjoy singing are invited to join these community choirs and may still sign up for participation. Musical performances may be planned in the various churches throughout the year and practices will be held, starting Wednesday Sept. 18, on Wednesdays from 3:45-4:45 p.m.

Industrial Fair gears up for repeat engagement in October

by PEG OHLE

When the officers and board of directors of the Charlevoix County State Bank decided last year to promote an Industrial Fair as part of their Centennial celebration, they didn't know what to expect.

They hoped the Fair would act as a vehicle for local manufacturers to show off what they make and introduce themselves to the community as employers and business men who add much to the area's economy.

The Fair was an overwhelming success, with 24 companies displaying their wares in the Charlevoix Elementary School on a rainy October Saturday. From the time the Fair opened at 10 a.m. until it closed at 4 p.m., men, women, and children in large numbers viewed the displays and made appreciative comments.

They were surprised to learn the number and variety of products manufactured in Charlevoix County. They were interested in the job opportunities the companies provided. They were impressed with the companies' contributions to the community as substantial taxpayers and employers. And many said they wished there were more companies like this in the area.

Needless to say, the exhibitors at the Industrial Fair were happy. They liked the advertising and public relations opportunities the Fair provided. They enjoyed meeting their neighbors in other manufacturing pursuits as well as the general public. They appreciated the business contacts they were able to make.

With this kind of success, the Charlevoix County State Bank could only decide to make the Industrial Fair an annual promotion. They announced their intentions early this summer, and already more companies have signed up for this year's Fair than last year. It will be held October 11 and 12 at the Charlevoix High School. The first day, a Friday, will be reserved for high school students.

One repeat exhibitor will be Al Wojan, whose Charlevoix Door and Window Company was completely gutted by fire last winter. He ha since built up the business to the extent he can once again show his products.

LoAnne Brown, vice president of the bank, originally conceived the idea of the Industrial Fair. She spearheaded its promotion last year, and is busy working on this year's Fair. Her enthusiasm for the event is revealed when she says, "We feel that too few people understand or realize what industries do for our community and think it's about time that local redsidents realize that without our industries, we could not survive."

Any long-time local resident can attest to the fact that life was hard when people had to depend on a three-month tourist season for their livelihood. While tourism is still the one important big business in Charlevoix County, it takes people like those at the Charlevoix County State Bank to make us remember that tourists come and go but local people need year-around paychecks.

Last year's Industrial Fair, sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank, drew many interested spectators. It will be held again this year, on October 11 and 12, at the Charlevoix High School. Friday, October 11, will be reserved for high school students.

County costs up slightly in '86

by PEG OHLE

The cost of operating Charlevoix County government in 1986 will be somewhat higher than it was in 1985, and landowners will be paying more taxes.

The County Board of Commissioners last week set the millage rate at 4.7, an increase over the f985 millage rate of 4.6774.

Also, the State Equalized Value of property in the county has increased from $400,414,177 in 1984 to $418,806,610 in 1985 (basis for 1986 taxes).

This increase of over $18 million in property values is attributed to some $12 million in new property descriptions and $6 million, or 1.5 percent, more in State Equalized Value on previously taxed properties.

Property taxes provide the largest percentage of county budget revenues. Other monies come from federal and state revenue sharing, court costs and fines, department fees for licenses and permits, industrial facilities taxes, interest on investments, and "pass through" funds from the state for such services as secondary road patrol and civil defense, among other sources.

Federal revenue sharing funds, which accounted for $280,000 of the county's budget revenue this year, will not be available after September 30 of next year. fn future years, other sources of revenue, especially property taxes, will have to make up for this discontinuance of federal funds.

The Transit Committee of the County Board also recommended that the full voted millage of .25 be levied for operation of the County Bus System in 1986.

The quarter-mill levy, voted in November, 1982 for three years, has never been levied in the full amount. In 1984, the levy was .1533 mills, and in 1985, it was .1745 mills, which has left the Transit fund in a deficit situation. It is expected that by levying the full voted millage, the deficit will be partially cut.

The Transit System is funded largely by state monies but receives some monies from the federal government as well as from the local tax levy. Fares account for only about 17 percent of the income.

The system's 1984-f985 budget was $287,980. The ridership is down "two or three percent" from last year, according to manager Art Saworski, who believes the present economic upswing has made it possible from some previous riders to buy automobiles. Approximately 70 percent of Transit System customers are senior citizens, handicapped persons, and students, all of whom ride for half fare. The average fare paid is 75 cents.

Present plans call for putting a millage renewal proposition on the primary ballot in August, 1986.

Board debates density of Water's Edge project

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board passed a new site plan review amendment to the township zoning code on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

But the zoning body failed to come up with new controls on the density of multi-family developments like the proposed Water's Edge condominiums.

The Zoning Board is scheduled to meet Wednesday, Sept. 25 in working session to work on the new density provision. The board will then meet in regular session on Oct. 9. Both meetings are at 7:30 p.m.

Charlevoix Township recently rezoned some 40 acres of land on Lake Charlevoix from residential (R-2) to planned unit development. The zoning on this property, owned by Water's Edge, will not take effect until Dec. 10, giving the township time to amend its zoning ordinance.

Proposals for changes in the density requirements of multi-family developments ranged from one unit per 100 feet of lake frontage to six per hundred feet on Lake Charlevoix and eight per 100 feet on Lake Michigan.

The board could not agree on whether density should be controlled solely on the basis of lake frontage or should include a factor for the total acreage of the property. The proposed Water's Edge development contains some 1,450 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage.

Larry Campbell, chairman of the zoning board, argued against density based on lake frontage alone. He said this could restrict the development opportunities of people with large tracts of land on the lake.

Ward Kuhn, an attorney hired by a recently formed environmental group, said the township needed anti-funnel development controls similar to those contained in many zoning ordinances of townships surrounding Grand Traverse Bay. Kuhn is a Traverse City attorney representing ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team) which has filed petitions to overturn Charlevoix Township's rezoning of the Water's Edge property.

Of the current zoning Kuhn said "there are probably as many opinions as there are people in this room on how many units can be built on this land."

The existing density provisions, he said, were "unrelated to the fact that this parcel is on a sensitive body of water." He urged the township to "provide for a set of rules that everyone can understand."

Kuhn said the zoning of property on Lake Charlvoix should take into account only the frontage and not the total size of the parcel. "I have never seen an ordinance that takes into account the land behind the frontage," he told the board.

Dr. C.L. Humphrys, professor of resource development at Michigan State University, also attended the meeting at ALERT's request. Hummphrys said he strongly supported Kuhn's opinion. Most lake associations now watch very carefully any keyhole or funnel developments, he added, pointing out that many ordinances used the average width of current residences on a lake as the measure of allowable density.

Clarence Goldstick, a member of the zoning board, said he would favor the density requirements of the present zoning ordinance. "f'm sticking with the zoning we have," he said. "f think you have to take the area into consideration. You can't just go on front footage."

Jeff DeGayner, a Petoksey resident and developer, suggested the density for multi-family developments should be eight units per 100 feet on Lake Michigan and six units per 100 feet on Lake Charlevoix.

Dawson Way, president of the Lake Charlevoix Association and a neighbor to the Water's Edge property, noted that many condominiums are rented througb most of the summer on a time-sharing basis. This could bring a new group of vactioners to the unit every two weeks, Way said.

"You get density by location and density by usage," he added, urging the board to consider the rental factor in controlling density.

Growth Alliance approved

Governor James J. Blanchard designated the Antrim-Charlevoix Community Growth Alliance as the official economic development coordinating agency for the two counties.

The designation was made on the Governor's behalf by Micki Pasteur, director of Local Government Services for the Michigan Department of Commerce.

The designation makes the Antrim-Charlevoix CGA eligible for up to $125,000 in state funds. fn addition, $5,000 in computer equipment for CGA will be donated by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Dick Beagle, coordinator for the Antrim-Charlevoix Business and Industry Taskforce, will serve as coordinator for the new CGA. The CGA will be headquartered in offices in the Boyne City City Hall.

Beagle said the new CGA will have three major components; a small business assistance center which will aid companies and entrepreneurs with technical advice and loan applications; an area development office which will list on computers all available commercial property in thbe area; and a local procurement service to help area firms obtain federal government contracts.

Governor Blanchard proposed establishment of the Community Growth Alliance (CGA) program as a means of coordinating the efforts of local economic development agencies with the Michigan Department of Commerce. Lack of such coordination in the past has impeded local development efforts, the Governor noted at the time.

"The CGA's are playing an important role in our campaign to stimulate economic development by helping avoid unnecessary duplication of effort," Governor Blanchard said.

The Antrim-Charlevoix CGA is the 23rd to be established since the program got underway last year.

To qualify as a CGA an agency must represent all major local economic development interests, including governments, colleges, business and labor organizations, local economic development corporations and others with formal roles in business expansion and retention in the designated area.'

Tax abatement is approved '84-85 city audit reviewed

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council approved a special commercial tax district for Wilmot Electric and then gave the company a 12-year tax abatement at a special council meeting on Monday.

Council set up a Commercial Redevelopment District at the corner of Mercer and Taylor Roads, in the new industrial park, to allow Wilmot Electric to qualify for the tax break.

Council applied the tax abatement formula for the industrial park to the Wilmot property, which although zoned commercial is considered a part of the new park.

fn applying for the tax abatement, Charles Wilmot, president of the business, noted that the company currently employs 11 people, but expects to add from six to ff more as a result of the project.

Council approved the tax abatement by a 4-f, with Shirley Roloff the lone dissenting vote. Roloff said council should "take a long hard look at tax abatements."

A site plan for second-floor offices and an apartment was also approved by council during the special public hearing. Council passed a plan submitted by Paul Bandrowski to build the offices and appartment at 4f1 Bridge Street (the old Kusina building).

The Board of Appeals last week approved a variance in the required parking for the building. Under a recent amendment to the City Code, new residential areas in the central business district are required to provide additional parking; seven parking spaces would have been required for Bandrowski's project.

The appeals board noted that the owner intended to pave a small parking area behind the building and designate it for retail businesses and that he had leased two parking spaces from Bartlett's Decorating Center on West Hurlbut.

Council met as a committee of the whole for the remainder of the evening. During this portion of the meeting it heard a report on the city audit for 1984-85. Rick Peterson of Hill, Woodcock, and Schroderus presented the report which showed that the city on March 31, 1985 had operating fund revenues of $5.1 million and expenditures of $4.8 million.

Peterson cautioned that the summary figures did not attempt to address internal transfers of cash.

The largest source of funds was "charges for services" which accounted for 7f.8 percent of revenues or $3.8 million. Taxes and assessment added over $820,000 (16.1 percent) to the city treasury.

The city's largest category of expenditures was for the electric system which cost $2.7 million last year (56.4 percent of the total).

That was followed by public safety – police and fire protection – which cost $72f,614 for the year.

Peterson was questioned about the balance in the city's electric fund. He said the cash balance was

Pair convicted

CHARLEVOIX – A jury found two men guilty last week of the sexual assaults of two teenaged girls in South Arm Township in 1984.

A jury of f2 deliberated nearly six hours Thursday, Sept. 19, before returning with the guilty verdict. The trial took place in 33rd Circuit Court. George Hyde, 39, of Bellaire was convicted of first degree criminal sexual conduct. Marvin "Buddy" Finch was found guilty of first degree and third degree criminal sexual conduct. Sentencing was to take place Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the Charlevoix County Courthouse.

Authorities said the girls were driven by car to a remote area in South Arm Township near the Antrim County line on April 28, f984. They were taken to a deserted farm house or cabin and sexually assaulted outside near a wooded area.

First degree sexual conduct is punishable by up to life in prison. Third degree is punishable by up to f5 years.

Band Booster drive

The Charlevoix Band Boosters have announced a fund-raising drive from Sept. 25-30.

Band members from the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades and the high school will be going door to door selling gift selections of cheese and salami priced from $4.50 to $f2. Delivery of the food assortments will be in about three weeks, in plenty of time for Christmas and Thanksgiving gifts.

Included in the Band Boosters offerings are Wisconsin select cheeses, salami, nacho sauce, and gift assortments.

The group hopes to raise $3,000 to buy light summer band uniforms for warm weather appearances like the recent trip to Band Day at MSU or performances at various summer parades.

The band also is in need of percussion marching equipment.

Randels to leave Courier soon

Robin Randels, advertising manager for the Charlevoix Courier has resigned from the paper effective this Friday to take a position with the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Randels will become an account executive with the 600,000 circulation newspaper based in Atlanta, Georgia.

She has been advertising manager for the Courier for the last three years. Prior to that she worked in the advertising department of the Petoskey News Review.

Randels graduated from Michigan State University in 1979 with a BA in communications. She was born in Flint and graduated from Flint Southwestern High School.

"f have enjoyed working in Charlevoix and Petoskey," Randels said, "and I will certainly miss the people and the northern Michigan country. But my husband Pete and f are looking forward to the challenge of the move to Atlanta and the new career opportunities."

Randels said she also hopes to study toward a masters degree in business in Atlanta.

During her tenure at the Courier and News Review Randels was the recipient of many advertising awards (see story below).

"We'll miss her dedication, professionalism, and buoyant spirits," Doug Truax, editor of the Courier commented. "And we know the community will miss her. In many respects she is the paper's contact with the business world. We wish her well in the South and we will think of her often – especially during the winter."

Courier wins advertising awards

The Charlevoix Courier received awards in four of the five divisions of the recent Michigan Press Association display advertising contest.

Judging was divided into two basic categories for newspapers with circulations over 25,000 and those with circulations under 25,000. The Courier has a circulation of some 3,500.

Among the awards were one first place and three seconds. The Courier received its first place for Best Ad fdea – a promotion done for Dental Health Week.

ft also received second place awards for: Best Use of Color (Multi-Color); Best Special Section (fdea); and Best Use of Newspaper Art Service.

The only other northern Michigan papers receiving awards were the Petoskey News Review which received a third place for Best Use of Color (Multi-Color) and the Traverse City Record-Eagle which took third place for Best Use of Color (Spot Color).

Beaver Islanders charged in assault

Two Beaver Island men are scheduled to appear for preliminary examinations in 90th District Court here Tuesday on felony charges growing out of an altercation with a Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputy on the island Tuesday, Sept. f7.

They are Terry VanArkle, 44, charged with felonious assault and resisting and obstructing a police officer and Daniel Higdon, 41, charged with malicious destruction of property (a police vehicle) and resisting and obstructing a police officer.

According to Sheriff Goerge T. Lasater, the altercation ocurred at 7:f5 p.m. Sept. f7 when Deputy Kenneth Capman was serving a subpoena to VanArkle who was being called as the prosecutor's witness in another felony case on the island. The altercation followed and, according to the charges, Capman, who is the deputy assigned to the island, was attacked by the two men.

Mr. Wojan died Wednesday, Sept. 18, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born at Lark's Lake in Emmet County June 6, 1908, Mr. Wojan was married to the former Helen J. Markowski Nov. 16, 1929 in Cleveland. During the ensuing years they divided their time between Lark's Lake and Cleveland until coming to Charlevoix in 1950 to make their home. Mr. Wojan was a carpenter by trade. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Ronald G. of Fairfield, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. John (Elaine) Shumway of Houston, Tex., Mrs. John (Joyce) Erber of Bruce Crossing and Mrs. Paul (Noreen) Moore of Lark's Lake; 10 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Irene Krasowski of Avon, Ohio, Mrs. Stella Kosewicz of Cleveland and Mrs. Joseph (Jean) Barton of Kissimee, Fla.

Beacons of Blessing by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

In terms of church-pastor relations, I'm enjoying what is known as the honeymoon right now. I have every confidence that it is going to be a long and joyful time because I have faith in God and I also believe in His people. Charlevoix, you are beautiful. But do you know how blessed you are?

You are blessed because God is!. I've noticed a lot of dairy farms nearby. Everytime I see a black cow eat green grass, give white milk and yellow butter, I know God is. What kind of a world would this be without God? Why do atheists argue so hard against something they say doesn't exist? The Bible shouts it. History confirms it. Common sense declares it. God is and we are blessed.

Charlevoix, you are blessed because God has spoken. What He has said is in the Bible. Maybe not every single word. John said all the books in the world could not hold all He has said or done. But there is one complete, inerrant Word and this is how a lost soul can get to heaven. God has spoken and we are blessed and ministered to by His Word with all the knowledge we need to get from Charlevoix or Bay Shore or Boyne City or from wherever to glory. That does something for my soul.

We are blessed because that precious Book points us to Jesus. Suppose I were to ask you to go to the Traverse City airport and pick up a friend for me. I didn't give you any description or arrival time. I just said go. Would you go? I don't know too many who would wander through an airport stopping people to ask, "are you Pastor Hamilton's friend?"

But if I told you to meet the Republic flight that arrives at 1:15 and that my friend weighs 400 pounds. He'll wear a green suit, purple socks and a red tie. Would you know him then? Why, you couldn't miss him.

We are blessed because we know who our Savior is. He is not Buddha, Krishna, Moon or anybody else. He had to be born in Bethlehem not in Florida or India. He had to be born of a virgin, wrapped in swaddling clothes. There's no doubt about his being baptized in the Jordan or doing miracles. He was sacrificed on a Roman cross, buried in a borrowed grave. But most of all, he arose from the dead on the third day with all power.

We are blessed because we know Him. He's the source of my joy, my excitment with you Charlevoix the Beautiful. With Him in our lives, there is nothing we cannot do.

Gayle Gennett wants to be 'child advocate'

New elementary counselor tackles single parent family issues

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

The first grader buried her face in her arms on her desk and refused to communicate. Her first-grade teacher stopped in mid-lesson to try to fathom the problem. Twenty other students watched curiously.

On the playground another child, a second-grade boy furiously hurled rocks at everyone nearby. Children scattered, some taunted him until he burst into angry tears.

In another classroom a frustrated boy slammed his book on his desk. Nothing made sense. He couldn't grasp arithmetic.

These are not unusual school problems. They happen daily, everywhere.

In Charlevoix, as in many communities, these problems appear to be increasing and classroom teachers talk of "burn-out," or "frustration."

Gayle Gennett, a counselor at Charlevoix High School for 11 years, has been talking about these problems with school administrators for several years. They agreed that it was important to deal with these behaviorat as well as academic problems as soon as they occur. By high school they show up as more serious anti-social behavior — drugs, alcohol, violence, and dropping out — and change is harder to achieve.

Gayle Gennett is the first full-time counselor at Charlevoix Elementary School. She was appointed to the job, according to Principal Vane Smith, when retirements and personnel shifts between the three school levels freed up the necessary funds.

The changes in society, the influx of people and problems, the violence on television, videos and films, the increase in the number of single parent households, all account for an increase in behavioral problems, even in the elementary school, Gennett and Smith observed.

"From 50-75 percent of the children in Charlevoix's kindergarten and first-grade classes, in 1984-85, came from single parent households, our teachers estimated," Gennett stated during a recent interview. She is in the process of compiling the statistics on the elementary school students' families for this year.

A yellow legal pad on her lap holds lists of names of children from single parent homes. The list is twice the length for the lowest grades than the shorter list for the third, fourth and fifth grades. The counselor is puzzled by the apparent recent increase in single parent households in the Charlevoix school system.

Charlevoix may have among the highest percentage of children in lower elementary grades from single head of household homes in the state. Gennett is researching the statistics and wondering why.

"Many people are moving here for jobs. Others are returning home after a divorce. Some people move to Charlevoix because they prefer our community. It is not that so many divorces are taking place in Charlevoix per se," she observed.

But the problems faced by single parent households are reflected in school and Gennett's first concern is to provide support for those parents, their children and those children's teachers.

"In over two decades of teaching, I cannot believe the difference in children," observed a recently retired Charlevoix teacher.

"We look for answers to why these kids are so much more aggressive, why they are not kind to one another, why they do things that are so nasty.

"The behavior of these kids is a reflection of their society," the retiree added. "We needed a counselor in the elementary school. I was frustrated dealing with these problems all the time. I wanted to give these children the love and nurturing they needed, but I didn't have the time."

Gennett is tackling the problem head-on. She is using every opportunity to let teachers, parents and the children know she is there to help.

"Maybe you've had a bad day.

"Maybe mom or dad has yelled at you.

"Maybe someone's picking on you on the playground.

"Maybe you are having a hard time with a class and you are worried."

Gennett paused to let each "maybe" sink in. She was speaking to a fifth-grade homeroom. Children were seated on the beanbag chairs and around the floor of her office. It was an introduction she gave to all the elementary students. Last week, during the parent walk-through, she had introduced herself and her goals to every group of parents.

"I don't want you to worry," she said to the children who were divided between watching her, staring at goldfish swimming in her aquarium, and inspecting her posters.

"Are you like the counselor I am seeing after school?" a shy boy whispered.

"Yes. And if you have a problem and need to talk to me anytime, let me know.

"I want you to feel at home in my office," the slight blond woman said. "And you know, you are not in trouble if I ask your parents to come in."

She pointed out the puppets in the back of the office. "Sometimes it's easier to talk about your problems to a puppet. Sometimes you may want to come in here and just draw and tell me about your worries."

When the children filed out to class, Gayle explained. "I have already had several calls from parents who want to talk. Teachers are coming to me with concerns about foster care problems, abuse and divorce. They have needed a resource person, someone who can work with the teachers and other agencies if necessary.

"The family as we knew it hardly exists anymore. Only seven percent of the United States population fits the traditional role of an intact family with mother staying at home to care for the children.

"The impact of videos is raising problems. Children are seeing inappropriate violence and nudity. They are troubled by it.

"Alcohol, sexual abuse, domestic violence are other problems we are studying."

Gennett established A Guidance Advisory Board composed of teachers, administrators and a parent, to "help me identify needs."

While initial focus is on the problems of children from single parent households, Gennett emphasized, "My office is open to anyone — parent, teacher, child — with any concerns.

Describing herself as a "child advocate" — "I am here for the children" — Gennett said that other concerns she will be addressing include the special problems of "blended families", the problems of step-parenting; the worry about kidnapping (she will run a program entitled "Steal Proof Our Children") and academic problems.

Gayle Gennett introduces herself to elementary school students.

Gifted conference planned

A conference titled "Bright Beginnings" dealing with gifted and talented children is planned for Friday evening, Oct. 4, and all day, Saturday, Oct. 5. The conference is jointly sponsored by ten northern Michigan intermediate school districts, including Charlevoix-Emmet.

"Bright Beginnings" is designed for school administrators, board members, educators, as well as parents and other interested persons.

Sessions will include presentations about what is happening for gifted children in northern Michigan and other parts of the state.

Contact the Charlevoix-Emmet intermediate school district at 547-9947 for further information.

Opinion

Guest Viewpoint

by Anne Kelly

Take the sound of one marching band, from one small town. Place it on e Big Ten football field and multiply it by 30.

Presto! What do you get? Band Day at MSU, Saturday, Sept. 14, was a big day for our young Charlevoix musicians, not because Michigan State whipped Arizona State 12 to 3, but because, for perhaps the first time in their performing careers, they realized that they sounded good to a lot of people.

The members of the Charlevoix Marching Band, along with their flag corps, are the unsung heroes of the football season. Yet they may never make the sports page.

Like the football players and, yes, even the cheerleaders, they put in hours of practice for each game. They practice in the summer before school starts, they practice for a class hour every day of the week in band, they practice many evenings during marching band season, and they practice in private, all in order to polish their sound and their skills. To get where they are, on the field at half time, many have been studying music end playing in the band since they were in the sixth grade.

The football season starts, the scoreboard lights mark the minutes and seconds until halftime, and the band marches out in cadence, taking positions on the field with as much pride as any players on any team. They are "River City's Boys Band," they are the pride of our community, they are the Rayder's Marching Band.

When the flash cubes pop at quarterbacks, and catch the wide receiver in midair, fans will hear the band leading the battle cry. It is the band that provides the pep section at every home game, along with the cheerleaders.

When fans line up at the concession stand for their popcorn end Cokes, the band will be on the field strutting their stuff.

What is football without the infectious excitement generated by a band? Without the fluttering of syncopated flags, the high stepping of the drum majorette, the roll of the drums, and the big, brassy sound of school spirit, a football game would be ebout as unheralded es e track meet.

Sports fans, mark time! Take notice of one of the finest bunch of kids and groups of dedicated musicians as you'll ever see on e hometown field. These kids could all be doing something else — or nothing else. Give them e hand when you watch them perform at helftime this weekend.

The Chamber of Commerce is ready for your input. We are always open to suggestions, and many of you have made a point of taking the time to visit the Chamber and express your thoughts. "A Penny for your Thoughts."

A 1985 Membership Survey is now being distributed, in an effort by the Chamber to get your views on the progress of the organization and the community. Before we can plan to attack and address the problems and opportunities that lie before us, we must know how you, the general membership, feel about them. Maybe just as important is your evaluation of us, the Chamber itself.

The penny is for your thoughst: your response is for the good of the organization. Please take a few minutes to fill out the survey when you receive it.

Open to all members in a opportunity to attend the West Michigan Tourist Association's 68th Annual Convention on Tourism to be held at the Grand Traverse Resort September 29 through October 1.

The Chamber will pick up the tab for any Chamber member wishing to attend the Monday, Sept. 30 program. The day will include workshops with interesting speakers and lunch. Some of the topics covered will include festivals, events and promotion of tourism. Deadline for registering with the Chamber is Thursday, Sept. 26.

If you haven't already seen a copy of the article about Charlevoix in the Sept.-Oct. issue of Lakeland Boating, make it a point. Author Marjorie Cahn Brazer's description of our town is not only accurate, but tastefully done. Be sure to pick up a copy at one of our local news stands.

Letters to the Editor:

Responsibility begins at top

Dear Editor:

Concerning the seemingly (according to press coverage) major event of the Monday night Council meeting, I take umbrage in behalf of the City Menager and City Attorney.

I do not quarrel with the Council's decision regarding the inspection of the property at 306 Petoskey Rd. However, I do vehemently disagree with the manner in which the subject was introduced by Council member Roloff and also the manner in which the entire Council and press exacerbated the incident.

When employees (City Manager and City Attorney) are doing their jobs in e manner unacceptable to their employer (City Council) then it is necessary for the employer (City Council) to provide direction. But, in a discrete way, and not in public.

Much was said about consideration of others, while little was extended to the City Manager or City Attorney who were being verbally chastised for merely attempting to discharge their responsibilities as they thought proper.

As to "illegal electrical inspection"... that phrase is a total misnomer. It was not the purpose or intent of the inspection group to inspect electrical installation or usage. The purpose (be it misdirected) was to determine conformance to the remodeling permit issued by the city.

And now as to apologies, I feel two are required and both by the responsible persons which in this case happens to be the City Council. First, to the offended parties and secondly to the City Manager end City Attorney for the indiscrete manner in which the Council provided belated direction. I say belated because it was obvious that all Council members were up-to-date on the latest "rumors," but the entire weekend obviously had to pass before they knew what their employees had planned.

I would suggest that being as acutely aware of what the city management is doing is equally as important as staying up-to-date on the lastest "rumors."

Contaminated soil should be removed

Dear Editor:

Consumers Power Co. (CPCo) is attempting to minimize the health effects of the radioactive waste spill that contaminated 5,300 cubic feet of soil at the Big Rock nuclear plant. We are told that the waste consists mostly of the isotope cesium-137, but that once this waste reaches Lake Michigan, the water will be safe enough to drink.

However, this is what Dr. Dean Abrahamson, nuclear scientist and medical doctor, now head of the School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota, had to say about cesium-137 as quoted from a paper presented at the Salzburg Conference for a Non-Nuclear Future:

"Of the total inventory (of nuclear waste produced by an operating reactor in a year), ignore all but one fission product isotope, cesium-137. It is sufficiently unpleasant that if all the other fission products appeared as common ash, cesium-137 would itself constitute a major problem of radioactive waste. About three percent (60 pounds in a large reactor) of the reactor's yearly fission products appears as this waste material. As reference values, the official guidance for a maximum permissible body burden is about one trillionth of that amount, and local surface contamination of one thousandth of that amount per square mile would give an ambient exposure to ionizing radiation of about 1,000 times the usual natural background of exposure. The half-life for this isotope is 30 years, and hence over a social time interval, such as a generation, the radiological activity of cesium-137 wastes would diminish by only a half. Cesium-137 illustrates the significant social problems associated with fission wastes; the amounts are physically smell, the times involved may be politically long, and the potential for damage is very large."

Concerned citizens should send this information to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Health asking them to request the contaminated soil be removed if Lake Michigan and the aquifers in that beautiful part of Michigan are to be protected.

Also, our Senators should be alerted to these concerns and relay them to the NRC. The NRC is under great pressure from this Administration to accommodate utilities and the nuclear industry. Only e very substantial showing of public concern will save our state from this further contamination.

New fire hall site proposed

Dear Editor:

I would like to put in a few words about the location of the new fire station. I think a very good and practical location would be the site of the car wash on the corner of Hurlbut and State. No large building there to have to demolish.

Another good reason to locate there is the extra wide and fairly traffic-free street, compared to anywhere downtown. It has to be maintained to the former location of the Charlevoix Hospital. For this huge fire trucks cen only be advantagious, why not take advantage of it?

Another advantage is the downhill drive down South Hill. This might mean something only once in several years, but it might mean everything then on a frosty, sleet covered street some winter night.

And as for the post office. If it needs more room, there is plenty of room between the office and the alley in the back to add on. That post office has a new and expensive roof and the building is sound. Why waste it? Don't anyone went to show any thrift any more?

Clockwise

Under one roof

By Bob Clock

Fireman Doug Bergmann and Jim Elliott, vice president of the Charlevoix Fire Department, wish newspapers would quit yapping about the "fire station addition" or the "fire hall addition."

They point out, and rightfully so, that the proposed addition to the east of city hall on Mason Street, will really be a "public safety building," since it also will house police cars and ambulances.

They hope that point sinks in before voters go to the polls Nov. 5 to decide whether the city should sell $390,000 in general obligation bonds to finance the addition. Pardon me, the "public safety building."

Two weeks ago, Mayor Hal Hill appointed a blue-ribbon committee to investigate suggested locations for the public safety building other than the Mason Street site. The committee is scheduled to report Sept. 30.

REGARDLESS OF where the building is located, Bergmann and Elliott believe that all of the city emergency vehicles should be kept under one roof.

"Ambulances require very meticulous cleaning and maintenance at all times," they declared in a statement for the press. "This can best be accomplished when the ambulances are housed under the same roof as the fire equipment and not in separate buildings as they are now."

Furthermore, they point out that the city can expect to realize definite savings in heat, light and general maintenance.

Another advantage to one-roof storage is that the fire dispatcher knows exactly what equipment has responded to an alarm — and what equipment is available for backup.

Charlevoix's fire-fighting equipment presently is housed at two locations — the fire station at city hall and the former Erber garage on Clinton Street. It will be housed at three locations when the new fire engine arrives in the next few days and is tucked away in the former Charlevoix Oil Co. building on Michigan Avenue.

Bergmann and Elliott say there is bound to be some confusion among firemen as to where to report when an alarm is sounded when equipment is located all over town.

MAYOR HILL, COUNCIL members and members of the fire department already have started to fret over the fate of the bond issue. They know how desperately the money is needed, yet they are afraid they won't be able to get the message through to the voters before the election.

Maybe I'm living in the clouds, but I don't think they have anything to worry about.

The public demonstrated its support of the fire department very handsomely by coming up with the cost of the new fire truck, which was paid for through donations and a variety of fund-raising activities. I think Charlevoixans will come through again by approving the bond issue, particularly since our tax levy for bonded indebtedness will actually decrease in the years ahead — even with the new bonds.

I, for one, cannot think of another organization in town more deserving of support than the fire department. Everytime the fire siren sounds, I'm grateful that our firefighters are ready and waiting to respond. They may be volunteers, but when it comes to fighting fires they are real pro's.

assistance, Sheriff Lasater, Deputy David Kurchinski, Capman and Special Deputy James Hibbler arrested VanArkle and Higdon and brought them to the county jail on the mainland.

Capman was admitted to the hospital where he was treated and held for observation until Wednesday.

Both men demanded preliminary examinations when they appeared before District Judge Harvey C. Varnum Thursday.

Both have been released on bonds set by Magistrate Wayne L. Barnett. VanArkle's bond was set et $500 cash and Higdon's at $250 cash.

They have engaged Charlevoix attorney, David Campbell, to represent them.

City council

$466,199. During the course of the year, he said, electricity, sewer and water took in some $300,000 more than was spent for those services.

In other business, Ed Whitley, head of the city electric service, told council that his crews buried some 35,000 feet of electric cable in 1984. Ninety-eight percent of the cable on the north side has been buried, he told council, although the progress may not be visible to most people since the overhead wires have not been taken down in much of the area.

He said removal of the overhead wires would occur this winter or spring.

Vince Olach, business manager for the Charlevoix schools, told council that a sidewalk had been proposed on the north side of Division Street between the Elementary School and Mt. McSauba Road.

Some 200-300 kids walk to school along that route, he said, and a sidewalk would reduce the risk.

Olach noted the best site for the sidewalk was on the north side of the road, on property in Charlevoix Township. Materials, labor, and equipment had been donated for the construction of the sidewalk, but the city's help was needed for snow removal.

Council agreed to use the city's new snow blower to keep the sidewalk clear during the winter.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Way

Howard-Way

Kathleen Howard and Gary Way were married Saturday, August 24, at the First Presbyterian Church in Boyne City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Howard of Boyne City, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Way of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Milton Walls, Jr. officiated at the ceremony, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a lace gown fashioned with a high neckline and sheer yoke and carried a bouquet of pink roses with miniature carnations.

Kelly Looze assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Donna Schroeder, Chris Wilhelm, and Lori Talboys were bridesmaids. They wore rose colored suede dresses with high lace necklines end carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations. Taya Drost as flower girl, wore a dress similar to that of the other attendants. Brandon Looze was ringbearer.

Doug Way served as best man, with Barney Way, Jeff Renaud, end Marty Jensen helping as groomsmen. Ron Way and Chris Howard served as ushers.

The bride's parents hosted a recpetion at the Eagles Hall following the ceremony. Scott Way and Pam Drury were host and hostess. The bridegroom's parents hosted the reheersal dinner at their home.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is employed in his father's construction business and the bride is a bookeeper for DCL, Inc.

Finelizing plans for the cruise, are (left to right) Kit Hinshaw, manager of Star of Cherlevoix operations locally, Mrs. Nancy Porter, chairperson of the house-to-house division, and Derrel Linder, central cheirmen of the 1985 United Wey fund drive.

United Way house drive begins

Nearly 100 volunteers will meet Thursday evening Sept. 26 to kick-off the 1985 Fund Drive of the United Way with a house-to-house solicitation in Charlevoix.

Workers will meet at the Star of Charlevoix from 6-6:30 p.m. for orientation and assignments. The solicitation will take place between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.

At 9 p.m. following the solicitation, all volunteers of all division for the fund drive and members of the boards of the fourteen agencies in the United Way will board the Star of Charlevoix for a complimentary cruise provided by the Star of Charlevoix management.

Alice in Blunderland audition call

The theme is hope in a time when too many of us doubt there is a future. The medium is satire, music and wit.

"Alice in Blunderland," a one-act musical, to be performed in Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan and Harbor Springs, in November, is holding open auditions Monday, Sept. 30 (3-5 p.m. for children, 7:30-9:30 p.m. anyone) and Tuesday, Oct. 1, 7:30-9:30 p.m.

All auditions will be at Charlevoix's First Congregational Church. The organizers are also seeking people interested in assisting with make-up, scenery, publicity, lights and sound.

Director Judith Darnton Ivan and co-producers Fran Tollas and Carol Spaulding are looking for a cast of 20-25 men, women and children for this musical.

"Alice in Blunderland," loosely based on Louis Carroll's tales of "Alice in Wonderland," has been called a "creative approach ... that reaches the heart." It deals directly with the terrible fact that national and international studies reveal a deep anxiety among youth who truly believe they will not live to adulthood because of the threat of nuclear destruction.

"Alice in Blunderland" sends Alice, representing the audience, into Blunderland where the Cheshire Cat, a journalist, directs her to search for truth. Encounters with snobbish and apathetic Flowers, the superpowers Tweedledum and Tweddledummer, a stuffy Prime Minister, purveyors of the dangerous "fairy dust" Biggie Rat and Mad Hatter, the mad scientist Dr. Carpenter, Forest Gnomes, an Oyster Convention, and Rabbit (who knows the truth) are among the semi-familiar characters who confuse Alice.

Director Darnton Ivan said there are eight major roles. Alice's is one of the most demanding parts, best suited, she thinks for a young woman in her late teens or early 20s.

All the other parts, according to the director, are suitable for men or women, and she hopes to achieve a balanced cast of men, women and children. "There are many spots for children in the chorus," she emphasized.

"All the major parts — Alice, the Rabbitt, the Cheshire Cat, and others — require some singing. The Flowers have some dancing. Lois Hodgson of Charlevoix has agreed to choreograph the Flowers' movements."

People wishing to audition are asked to prepare a song and read a scene from the script. Scripts may be reviewed at the reading room of Charlevoix's First Congregational Church. An accompanist will be on hand for the auditions, although actors may bring their own. Everyone should bring their own music for the auditions.

The play is scheduled to open Saturday evening November 9 at the East Jordan Civic Center (8 p.m. curtain). It will be performed at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix Sunday, Nov. 10 at 4 p.m.; in Boyne City at the Methodist Church, Saturday, Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 17 at the Harbor Springs Methodist Church at 7 p.m.

Rehearsals will begin in early October. The rehearsal schedule calls for three nights a week with children scheduled for early rehearsals and special afternoon rehearsals.

Co-producers Tollas and Spaulding explained that proceeds from ticket sales will pay for the rental of the play materials. Any profits will be turned over to the Peace Education Network.

"It's an uplifting and positive play," described Spaulding.

"Everyone who has seen it says it is good entertainment," Tollas observed.

"It has been played nationally and gotten very positive reactions," Tollas concluded.

For questions about the auditions or to volunteer to help with the play's production call Judith Darnton Ivan in Charlevoix, 547-5662.

Plate night is planned

The Charlevoix Co-operative Nursery School has extended an invitation to residents of the community at attend a "Plate Night" at the Charlevoix Elementary School Thursday, Sept. 26.

The hours will be from 4-5:30 p.m. and 6-7:30 p.m.

Plate night is an annual event sponsored by the Co-operative Nursery. Children of all ages can enjoy decorating a paper form with special felt markers. The designs are then molded into a plastic plate.

The attractive plates, done in colors of the child's own design, make excellent Christmas gifts, a wall decoration or a child's personal plate at meals. The costs is $3.50 per plate. For more information regarding the project call Margaret Arnold at 547-5199.

Rayders fall one short

by DOUG TRUAX

Charlevoix and the Rogers City Hurons stood toe to toe like two heavyweight prizefighters and slugged it out Friday.

When it was all over both were still standing.

Charlevoix, however, came up on the short end of the score, losing 27-26.

The Rayders were left contemplating what might have been. There were at least six plays that could have won it for Charlevoix, including a 70-yard touchdown run by halfback Mike Thompson that was called back on a penalty and a 71-yard TD scamper by Tim Salmonson after an interception that was brought back on a face mask call.

The Rayders put on a game struggle despite the loss of Matt Lignell, the team's leading ground gainer in two previous games. Lignell suffered a severely sprained ankle in the first quarter after being tackled on a punt return. He is expected to miss at least one game.

Rogers City got on the board early and in spectacular fashion when quarterback Chad Muckie hit end Ron Smolinski on a 71-yard touchdown bomb with 8:21 remaining in the first quarter. The kick was good and the Hurons had a 7-0 lead.

Charlevoix scored before the quarter was over on a sustained drive that saw Jim Morgridge, who replaced Lignell, take it over from the 1. The kick was no good and the Rayders trailed by a point.

The lead switched to Charlevoix early in the second quarter when quarterback Marc Himebauch threw to Salmonson on a 3-yard TD. The two teamed up for the two-point conversion, putting the Rayders in the lead 14-7.

Late in the second quarter, Charlevoix put the stop to a Huron drive forcing them to punt. The Rayders couldn't hang on to the kick, however, and Rogers City recovered on the Charlevoix 15. Two plays later Smolinski scored from the 8. The kick was no good and the Rayders held a 14-13 margin.

The Hurons scored again before the half when they returned a Charlevoix punt to the Rayder 19. Muckie hit two quick passes and then with fourth and 2 on the 11 yard line Muckie dropped back to pass, found no one open, and scrambled for the score. The extra point failed and the Hurons led 19-14 at the half.

In the third quarter Himebauch threw to Salmonson again for a 21-yard TD. Again the conversion failed and the Rayders were up by one point again. The Rayders threatened to widen the lead when Thompson raced around the left side for 70-yards and an apparent touchdown. The play was called back on a penalty, however.

Salmonson had the same luck early in the fourth quarter when he returned an intercepted pass 71 yards only to see the play returned on a face mask call. Two plays later Smolinski ran 17 yards for a Huron score.

Charlevoix made an impressive drive in the fourth quarter to try and take the lead. At 6:42 Thompson climaxed the 70-yard drive when he scored on a 13-yard run after reversing his field.

The Rayders went for the victory with a two-point attempt, but the pass was incomplete and Rogers City held on to a 27-26 victory.

Charlevoix rushed for 122 yards on the night in 33 attempts. The Hurons managed 42 yards in 28 attempts.

Himebauch completed 11 of 18 passes for 135 yards, two touchdowns, and one extra point. The Huron quarterback was 16 of 29 for 226 yards.

The overall yardage figures reflected the closeness of the game: Charlevoix 257, Rogers City 268.

Matt Lignell (42) is brought down by Aaron Veselenak (42) and Jim Bauer (82) of the Hurons.

Flag football season gets rolling

The Seahawks edged the Forty-niners 21-19 and the Redskins trounced the Raiders 52-8 in the first night of play in the Charlevoix Flag Football League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department.

In the Seahawk-Niner game, Scott Miller passed 12 yards to Chris Dobroski to put the Seahawks on the board 7-0 after Miller ran the conversion. The forty-niners counters with an 18-yard pass from Paul Zoet to Guy Gengle but the conversion failed.

In the second quarter, Ryan Smith scored from the 8-yard line with Miller scoring the extra point. Later in the period, Erick McElroy intercepted a pass to give Dobroski a chance to add a second touchdown, this time from the 10-yard line. Luke LaBlance added the conversion.

The Niners fought back, with Matt Gibbons scoring from the 18-yard line in the third quarter and Zoet passing to Livingston in the fourth quarter. A conversion by Livingston following the first brought the score of 21-19.

The Redskins had a heyday with the Raiders as Chris Seymour scored four touchdowns of runs of 5, 7, and 8 yards, a 20-yard punt return, two conversion runs and a pass interception. Jason Corwin scored on a 32-yard pass from James Corwin and on an 11-yard run and added a conversion on a pass from his brother. Dennis Mailloux with a 20-yard run and James Corwin with a 37-yard romp rounded out the scoring for the victors.

The Raiders eight points came on a 40-yard touchdown run by Chad DeYoung in the first quarter and a safety by Ed Penfold in the fourth quarter.

Golfers win three straight

Charlevoix Rayder linksters had an outstanding week of play with wins over Rogers City, Mackinac Island and Petoskey.

Dennis Curtis was the medalist in all three meets. He posted a 39 in the meet with Rogers City which the team won by a score of 176 to 218. Pat Gibbons had a score of 43, Scott Wise 45 and Dave Clark 49.

For Rogers City, Eric Steinorth had a 49, Chris Lamb 50, Chris Conley 55 and Amy Wozniak 64.

Rogers City did not have a JV team.

In the meeting with Mackinac Island, Curtis tied the team record of 38 set by Steve Keller. Joining him in compiling a score of 180 to Mackinac Island's 244 were Scott Wise with a 46, Marty Joy 47, and Pat Gibbons 49. Clark also had a 49.

Dennis Bradley carded a 58, Tim Musick 59, Milton Bazinau 62 and Mike St. Onge 65.

The visitors did not field a JV squad.

In the meeting with Petoskey, a rained-out make-up game. Curtis carded a 39 to lead the pack as the Rayder posted a 178-184 victory over the Northmen. Other Rayder scores were Scott Wise 42, Marty Joy 47 and Dave Clark 48.

For Petoskey, Kirk Shanley was low with a 44, Mike Ketchman 45, Steve Likins 46 and Pete Hill 49.

The Charlevoix JV's dropped their match to the visiting Northmen by a score of 237 to 244.

Wes Cumberland was medalist with a 41. Tim Berry had a 43, Scott Crain 49, Dylan Stewart 55 and Dan Bickersteth 56.

Charlevoix will travel to Harbor Springs Wednesday, host Boyne City Thursday and travel to Cheboygan Monday.

Basketball team drops Petoskey

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team, playing its first Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game of the season, defeated arch rival Petoskey by a score of 58-41 on the opponent's court Thursday.

Charlevoix will host Boyne City on Tuesday, Sept. 24, and the following Tuesday, Oct. 1, entertain Gaylord.

"The victory was a solid team effort," Coach Henry Wagner said of the game. "They are a young team. I feel they played a fine defensive game. We run a lot, but we have a team that can do it," he continued.

Nine of the 10 players who saw action scored.

Charlevoix jumped to a 20-6 first period lead, increased it to 29-18 at halftime, and made it 40-28 going into the final period when they outscored their host 18-13 for the victory.

Charlevoix scored 23 field goals to Petoskey's 16 from the floor. Charlevoix connected on 12 of 21 charity shots while collecting 19 personal fouls. Petoskey had nine of 23 free throws and 16 personal fouls.

Michelle Gagnon with 12 points and Cindi Boss with 10 paced the Rayders. Brenda Kolinski had 22 points for Petoskey.

Harriers take second in Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder cross country team, with 45 points, came in second behind Benzie Central in the Ludington Invitational meet Saturday.

Coming in third was Mason County Central with 71 points. Benzie Central won the meet with 30 points. Benzie and Mason county had placed one-two in State Class C compotition in 1984 ahead of Charlevoix who took third place.

"It was a really good day. The runners did a great job ... both the boys and the girls: In the boys' race, Rajewski and Simpson moved moved up well; McLenon and Dohm did a good job helping each other," Coach Pete Spieles said. "The girls ran well as a team coming in sixth and Betsy Haggard ran very well. Even the independents did well in the open race."

The winning time in the boys meet was 18:37 set by Jeff Barnett of Mason County Central.

Pat Rajewski was fifth in a time of 17:00 followed by Joe Simpson, 8th in 17:26; Doug Bergmann, 9th in 17:37; Mike Dohm, 10th in 17:38 and Kevin McLenon, 13th in 17:44. Tom Merta come in 18th in 18:23 and Harold Herriman, 28th in 19:11.

Seven teams were entered in the Class C division.

The girls ran in an open race in which all classes participated

The winning team was 20:43.

In finishing in sixth place among the 13 teams in the race won by Petoskey with 66 points, the Charlevoix girls had 166 points. Haggard finished in sixth place with a time of 21:32; Michelle North, 23rd in 23:06; Heidi Olinger, 34th in 23:41; Noni Pace, 49th in 24:47 and Barb Haggard, in 25:01.

In the race for those boys who did not run with a varsity team, Sean Henne placed first with a time of 18:13. Ed Knight, Dave Warth, Nick Swanson and Brian Anderson also participated but their times were not available when the team departed for home.

Charlevoix will be at Petoskey on Tuesday.

The Charlevoix Rayder cross country team came through with a 16-45 win over Boyne City in a dual meet held here Tuesday.

Several Traverse City runners, both boys and girls, also participated but not as a team, Coach Pete Spieles said.

Bergmann ran well for his first competition. He equaled his own personal record on the course after being laid up because of an injury. In fact, the entire group looked good. They are showing a lot of improvement over this time last season," Coach Spieles said of the teams.

In winning the meet, the Rayders took four of the first five places with sophomore, Pat Rajewski, covering the distance in 15:57. The course record, set by Bill Taylor, is 15:06.

Coming in behind Rajewski were Joe Simpson in second place in 16:23; Doug Bergmann, running his first race since recovering from an injury suffered prior to the season, was third in 16:29; Mike Dohm, fourth in 16:31 and Tom Merta, sixth in 17:10.

Kevin McLenon placed ninth in 17:25; Harold Herriman, 10th in 17:41; Sean Henne, 12th in 18:00; Jeff Skeel, 15th in 18:49 and Ed Knight, 16th in 18:50.

Boyne City's Mike DeSchryver came in fifth in 17:03.

In the girls division, Betsy Haggard set the pace with a time of 20:35. The course record is 19:24 set by Ann VanDam of Petoskey.

Michelle North came in second in 21:43; Nonie Pace, seventh in 24:08; Barb Haggard, eighth in 24:15. Heidi Olinger also ran.

Boyne City's only entry finished in sixth place in 23:40.

Charlevoix will be at Petoskey Tuesday and at Rogers City October 1.

JVs defeat Rogers City Hurons

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team, in its third game of the season, defeated Rogers City 19-6.

"The team did well. They played four periods of good all-around football on both offense and defense. I can't pick out a few for their efforts. Everyone played well," Coach Brian Certa said of the game.

This week the team will travel to Boyne City for a game at 6:30 p.m.

The young Rayders posted a 7-0 halftime lead after scoring on a 4-yard run by Derek Dutcher in the first period. Roger Smith kicked the extra point.

The Rayders scored again after a second long drive that included ground gains and passes. Dutcher carried from the 1-yard line to score.

Midway in the final period a series of passes set up the 20-yard scoring pass from Dan Drury to Roger Smith.

A 50-yard pass from Drury to Chad Thorp was the chief ground-gaining pass in this series. The kicks for the conversions were wide on both touchdowns in the second half.

Girls shoot for cash

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team will hold their fourth annual Shoot-a-thon Saturday, Sept. 28, Coach Henry Wagner has announced. The event will be held at the high school gymnasium.

The Shoot-a-thon is the teams only fund-raising project during the season. The funds are used to purchase team equipment and to underwrite the cost of the varsity team's trip to the state finals.

Members of both teams participate in the event, seeking pledges for the number of free throws they can shoot. "They not only raise funds but get a lot of practice time in," Wagner said of the project.

Kentucky Fried Chicken will supply food for the players during the Shoot-a-thon as their contribution to the project.

Recreation leagues organize

Organizational meetings for independent volleyball and basketball are planned for Wednesday, Oct. 2 at the Charlevoix City Hall.

Prospective players and managers of volleyball teams (womens, mens, and co-ed leagues) will meet in the community room at 7 p.m.

Prospective sponsors, managers and basketball players will meet at the same site at 8 p.m.

Dwight Boss, recreational director, has asked for a good representation in all divisions of both sports in order to make plans for the opening of the season in late October.

CYC Announcements: Masquerade Ball - date changed to Saturday November 2 - rumor has it that "Take Four" will be the live music - more later, but keep the date open. Just one week later, Nov. 9, is the fantastic Awards Night. Commodore's Ball is December 7. All these are free, if you're a sustaining member - if not you can upgrade at anytime for the difference in costs, but the sooner you do the more you save. Racing Skippers are nuts not to, as the Race Fees and CYC Regatta Fees (such as Red Fox, Bud Olympic Triangle, Boyne City Race, etc.) are all waived (not your PHRF Rating Cost) and you actually save money. It's also a bargin for you who are thinking about joining - just a flat $200 covers everything.

Look here: we got results. Race 1: Abandoned - no wind. Following results are by Fleet with top 20 overall shown parenthetically:

Race 2, Fleet 1: 1-Moonshadow (1), 2-C'Brown (2), 3-Plastic F (3), 4-Kritter (4), 5-F'Machine (8), 6-Tigger (8), 7-C'bine (9), 8-Pygy (10), 9-Trav'r (15). Fleet 2: 1-Wing Nut (5), 2-N'Moves (7), 3-Bandit (11), 4-Canusa (12), 5-B'Tacks (13), 6-M'Hell II (14), 5-Mar'tha (18), 8-Babe (19), 10-Ribit as a DSQ. Fleet 3: 1.Tireless (16), 2-F'Lday (17), 3-Flash (20), 4-Blasen, 5-S'ctre, 6-N'Secundus, S-S-She was DSQ. JAM Fleet: 1-Mint J., 2-Maureen, 3-C'Whip, 4-Apo'cary, 5-Mud D, 6-Cygnus, 7-S'Piper, 8-C'Maun.

Race 3, Fleet 1: 1-Charlie Brown (1), 2-Kritter (2), 3-Pygy (3), 4-Plastic (4), 5-Trav'r (5), 6-F'Machine (6), 7-M'ahadow (9), 8-Tigger (13), 9-C'bine (17T). Fleet 2: 1-Brass Tacks (7), 2-M'Hell (8), 3-N'Moves (10), 4-W'Nut (11), 5-Canusa (12), 8-M'tha (18), 7 Bandit (19). Fleet 3: 1-Tireless (14), 2-Flash (15), 3-Spectre (17T), 4-Blasen (20), 5-F'Lady, 6-N'Secundus, 8-S-S-She, again, DSQ. JAM Fleet: 1-Mud Duck, 2-Ph'cla, 3-C'nus, 4-Ribit, 5-S'worth, 6-M'reen, 7-C'lwhip, 8-C'maun, 9-Apo'cary, 11-S'Piper on a penalty.

Footnotes on the last race - Beautiful, warm evening, Moonshadow sure looked pretty coming up through the fleet with the 'chute pulling hard, even in the light air. The new J-24, Brass Tacks, seems to have it all under control as she put Fleet 2 away. Two back-to-back firsts for Tireless. Bandit starts firsts, finished last - Ol' Man; either read your own tips on light air racing or borrow another Mylar Genoa. (Ed. Note: sure was a pretty start.)

The Fleet Point Standings (not in order of position), 20 or less: No. 1 Flying M 11, Kritter 5.5, Trav'r 14, C'Brown 1.75, Plastic 8.75, Tigger 14, Moons'w 7.25, C'bine 16, Pyggie 10.75. No. 2 M'Hell 7.5, N'Moves 4.25, Canusa 9, W'Nut 4.25, B'Tacks 5.25, Babe 17, Mar'ha 13, B'ndt 9.75. No. 3 Flash 4.25, Blasen 8, F'Lady 6.5, T'iess 0.5, S'S'She 16, Spectre 7.75, N'Secundus 12. JAM Mint J 12.25, Mud D 5.25, Ribit 14, Cygnus 8.75, Drug Store 13, Maur'n 7.5, S'Piper 18, Che'aun 16, Phoen'a 11.5, C'Whip 9.75, S'worth 15.

We're resuming the old Friday Activities Evenings with the voluntary hosts while maintaining the professional help, come on down after 5.

...the End of the Mouses' Tale.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP BOARD MINUTES

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was held on Tuesday, Sept. 10, 1985. All board members were present and approximately 31 guests were in attendance.

The minutes were read and approved.

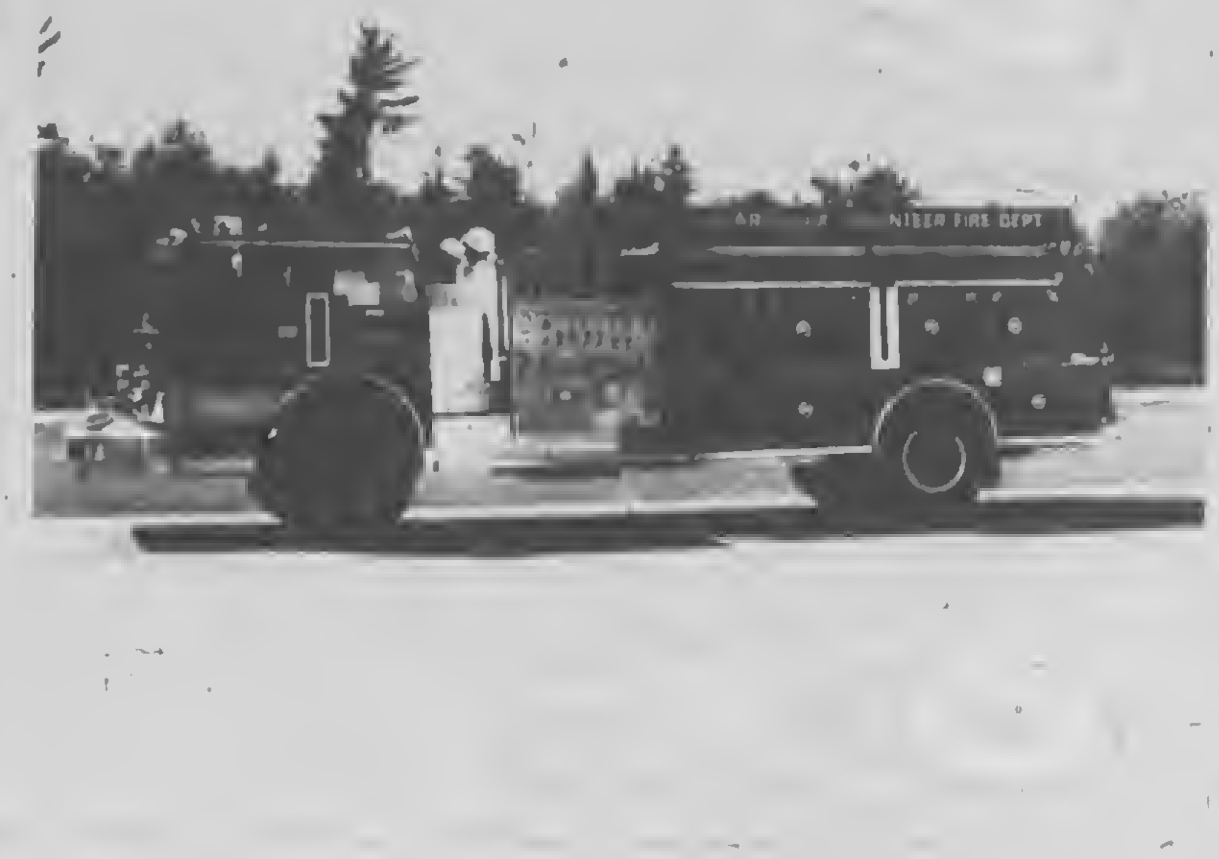
Several guests had questions pertaining to the landfill and many were in support of the township's pursuit to get Dawson Way, owner of the landfill, to comply with the court ordered stipulation dated April 4, 1985.

Drain Commissioner, Clayton Healey reported that he now has the go ahead needed from Valentine Niznek to start the Ironton Drain #1 Project which is an effort to keep water moving away from the Sequenota and Ferry Road areas into its natural course to the lake during wet seasons. A resolution was adopted to authorize the township clerk and supervisor to sign the application for the drain.

Howard Woodbury and Alan Sibinic were reappointed to the Eveline Township Planning Commission for a two-year term commencing October 1.

Checks amounting to $6,406.87 were approved for payment.

Adjournment at 10:45 p.m.
Marsha Beishlag, Clerk



Charlevoix's new fire engine, shown above, is scheduled for arrival here during the first week in October. The engine was shown at the International Fire Chiefs Convention held in New Orleans from Sept. 14-17. The fire engine then left New Orleans for Shawano, Wis. where it will receive finishing work to the gold leaf trim, final checkout, and U.L. testing before being driven back to Charlevoix.

Church shows prison ministry movie

Charlevoix's First Baptist Church will be showing a motion picture release of International Prison Ministry of Dallas, Texas, entitled, "Honey, Your Mama's in Prison."

The film is a unique look at the importance of the family and the tragedy of family break-up as seen through the eyes of mothers who have been imprisoned for murder, assault, trafficking in drugs, forgery, and embezzlement.

It was filmed inside one of the largest women's correctional facilities in the United States - Florida Correctional Institution, Lowell, Florida. The entire prison population of 650 inmantes were involved in the making of the 45-minute documentary as were the officers and staff of the institution. Family members of some of the inmates were also interviewed.

International Prison Ministry, the producer of the film, is a non-denominational organization whose principal work is providing free Bibles and books to prisoners in over 6,000 prisons and jails in the United States and Canada.

The film is free to the public and will be shown at the First Baptist Church, Hwy. M-66, on Sunday, Sept 29 at 7:00 p.m.

Rustic camping promoted

Boasting more than 14,000,000 acres of Michigan forest and a wealth of wildlife and water activities, the Department of Natural Resources has undertaken a major campaign to familiarize Michigan residents with the pleasures of rustic camping.

The major campaign messages will be carried by the state's top-rated radio stations as public service announcements and as news releases in the state's newspapers and periodicals. Posters and artwork have been developed to illustrate the very special nature of rustic camping, and Forest Management Division personnel are inviting the public to enjoy "some of Michigan's finest resorts for just $4 per night."

Although the campaign will begin this fall, plans to extend and increase the effort are scheduled for early spring.

Anyone interested in receiving a free Directory to Michigan's State Forest Campgrounds should write to Information Services, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

Dinner theater productions coming

Pritchard Productions is bringing a series of dinner theatre evenings to Charlevoix, at 218 Bridge Street, restauranteur Tom Warth and producer David Pritchard announced this week.

Warth, owner of 218 Bridge Street who announced his association with chef Dave Phillips last week, has already begun renovations to transform 218's third floor banquet room into an intimate dinner theatre with a seating capacity of 46.

The dinner theatre season will open with "I Do, I Do," on Thursday, October 3, to run through October 20. That production will be followed by the musical revue "The Gay Nineties," Thursday, October 25 and through November 7. Scheduled for a special Christmas production is "The Christmas Show," a jubilant musical.

The New Year will open with Neil Simon's "I Aught to be in Pictures," December 27, playing through January 5. The season will close with the musical production of "Sing, Sing America," from February 6 through March 2.

Show schedules call for performances Thursday, Friday, Saturday evenings. Thursdays, dinner is at 6 p.m. with curtain time 7:30. Fridays and Saturdays, dinner at 7 p.m. and curtain 8:30. Sunday, supper at 4:30 followed by curtain at 6:00 p.m.

Warth, who is excited about the possibilities of developing a year-round calendar of theatrical events in Charlevoix, says he plans to offer tickets for the dinner-theatre package or theatre alone. There will be reduced prices for children at matinee performances and some special performances.

David Pritchard, the 31-year-old founder of the theatre company, is bringing dinner theatre to Charlevoix after several years' experience at Caberfae and McGuire's in Cadillac, as well as his summer theatre in Petoskey at the Ross Stoakes Theatre in the Virginia McCune Art Center.

Pritchard, a strong advocate of dinner theatre, talks with enthusiasm about the "intimacy of a dinner theatre experience."

"Today the theatrical meccas are gone," he adds, pointing out that "New York and Los Angeles no longer have the monopoly on good theatre. Theatre has diversified across the country and we have access to a lot of fine talent.

"Our job, in dinner theatre, is to make each a special production."

Pritchard explained that he travels the country auditioning talent for his productions. He is bringing Rebecca Ternigan of Memphis, Tennessee, to Charlevoix as his director. Her background includes acting roles in a variety of feature films, including "Ode to Billy Joe," and television movies, as well as directing work with Pritchard.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on October 21, 1985, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. at Charlevoix High School the Board of Education of Charlevoix Public Schools will hold a public hearing to consider the levying in 1985 of an additional proposed millage rate of 1.25 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 1.25 mills be levied in 1985 from within its present authorized millage rate. The additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1985, by five and seventeen one hundredths per cent (5.17).

The increase restores the millage rate to the amount authorized by the voters on June 10, 1985.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing the Board of Education may approve the levy of all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Moped law explained

Whatever it is called, if it has a motor and two or three wheels, it has to be registered before it can be driven on public highways, roads and streets.

If it has two horsepower or less, no gears and a top speed under 30 miles per hour, it's a moped and the operator has to have either a driver's license or a special moped license to operate on public highways. The minimum age for a special moped license is 15.

If it has more than two horsepower, a gear shift and a top speed of over 30 miles per hour, it is a motorcycle. The operator must have a driver's license with a motorcycle endorsement.

According to Secretary of State Richard Austin this distinction is not clearly understood by many parents who purchase mopeds for their children. "Some dealers apparently are not aware of the laws that apply to moped operation," Austin said. The sharp rise in the number of these new two- and three-wheeled vehicles has contributed to the confusion.

Austin said the law requires all motorcycle riders and all moped operators under 19 years of age to wear helmets, but for safety sake, all moped operators regardless of their age should wear helmets.

Businesses selling mopeds must make application for a moped registration with the Secretary of State for their customers. This requirement was added to the law in 1983 in order to insure that mopeds are property registered when sold by moped dealers.

Local trivia game sales begin

"Trifles", the trivia game customized for Charlevoix as a fund-raising project, will move out into the community this week when Charlevoix High School athletes begin selling purchase certificates for the game Larry Lemerand, project chairman, has announced.

On Thursday, Charlevoix middle and elementary students will join the project by taking into each of their homes one purchase certificate for the game.

The games will be delivered early in December thus making it an ideal Christmas gift for anyone with a Charlevoix association, Lemerand continued. Each game will sell for $15.

The fund-raising project has assured the sponsors, the Charlevoix Sports Boosters, a minimum of $9,000 to be used as seed money for the renovation of the track/football complex at Kipke Field. Included in the project will be a new modern eight-lane track replacing the outdated cinder track constructed more than 50 years ago and the revamping of the football complex.

The trivia game can be played by two to four players testing their knowledge of history, geography, science, entertainment and arts plus a special category — trivia about Charlevoix which Bob Miles and Chuck Duerr are compiling. This category gives everyone an opportunity to contribute some interesting bit of local history to be included in Charlevoix's own "Trifles" game, Lemerand said.

If you are not contacted by the young students and athletes, please feel free to contact Del Terrill; Janet Buchanan, Jean Loper or "Moon" Price or call Barb Miller at 547-3222.

Merit program honors students

Two Charlevoix High School seniors, Danielle L. Johnson and Thomas F. Ochs, have been designated Commended Students in the 1986 Merit Program, David J. Smith, high school principal, has announced.

Danielle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Robert Reid and Tom the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ochs.

As entries in the 31st annual National Merit Scholarship Program, the two students will receive a Letter of Commendation in honor of outstanding academic promise, demonstrated by placing in the top five percent over one million participants in the program.

"Being named a Commended Student in the extremely competitive Merit Program is a credit to these young men and women and to their schools, which play an important role in the development of academically talented youth. The high test performance of the Commended Students is indicative of exceptional scholastic ability, which is essential in a nation that prides itself on cultivating individual excellence.

"We hope the honor these students have earned will provide motivation for them to use their talents to the fullest and also will serve as an example for other aspiring young citizens," an officer for NMSC, which administers the program, said

Participants entered the current Merit Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October 1984 when most of them were juniors. Although their qualifying tests scored very high, the 35,000 Commended Students nationwide scored slightly below the level required for semifinalist standing. Only the 15,000 semifinalists, whose names were announced Sept. 11, will continue in the competition for some 5,800 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1986.

City's choice: downtown site for fire station

by DOUG TRUAX

An ad hoc committee studying sites for the new fire and police hall recommended adding to the existing building rather than constructing new quarters elsewhere during a meeting of city council on Monday night.

Support for the City Hall site for the fire and police expansion came from city officials and the police and fire chiefs.

Mayor Hal Hill presented the findings of the ad hoc committee which estimated costs for the City Hall location as $390,000. Building a new public safety building at the airport, the committee said, would cost $450,000. Other locations examined included the Kusina Motors property on Antrim Street, estimated to cost $536,000 for the fire department alone, and the Fochtman property on U.S. 31 north of the bridge, estimated at $650,000.

The committee said sites other than City Hall would cost an additional $14,200 per year for added secretarial services, copy machines, janitorial help, and the like.

Estimates on the costs of the various alternatives were prepared with the help of Pat Birtles of Birtles and Olson Architects, Cadillac.

Birtles said the costs for the City Hall location were based on roughly $50 per square foot and were derived from more specific plans than the other sites which were estimated at some $35 per square foot.

He noted that any site other than City Hall would require the construction of offices for the police department, living quarters for firemen, and storage for the city ambulances. Those facilities currently exist at City Hall where the ambulances would be moved from temporary storage buildings at the back of the building into the area now occupied by the fire trucks.

Fire Chief John Martin cited several advantages to having the public safety building located at City Hall including its central location to the "high exposure area of the downtown," fire runs being equal in distance and frequency to the north and south, and the office support provided by other city departments.

Traffic in the summer months can best be handled from the center of town, he said, since the fire trucks need go only one block south to reach four lanes on Bridge Street. To the north, he added, the trucks can reach a traffic light in one block and are able to move freely from that point.

Police Chief Jack Mol spoke in favor of providing an enclosed area for the two patrol vehicles. It would prevent vandalism, he said, and would avoid ice and frost problems in the cold weather. A police garage would also provide room for securing stolen or impounded vehicles for brief periods and would allow prisoners to be brought into the Police Department with less risk of escape than the open parking lot, be added.

Several of the 30 people attending the meeting questioned the mayor and city officials extensively about the cost of the various building sites proposed and the loss of parking if the fire hall was built downtown.

Bartles defended the $35-50 per square foot costs as realistic for this type of building. He noted that a bid from Peninsular Construction was nearly identical to his figures for the building.

Amusement park planned?

The City Planning Commission has approved an amendment to the City Code which would allow miniature amusement parks in commercial (C-1) zones south of the Pine River Channel.

The commission action follows efforts by the owners of "Adventure Golf" to locate one of the miniature golf-amusement parks on M-66 next to Captain's Corner.

The commission was approached by W.J. Gremore of Adventure Golf and his attorney at a meeting on Sept. 25.

The commission approved the request to amend the special uses provided in C-1 zoning to include "mini-amusement parks."

A public hearing on the matter will be held at the next city council meeting on Oct. 7 at 7 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall.

In recommending the change in zoning, the planning commission stipulated that such a project should not be located next to a residential area. It also told Gremore that it was not giving any assurances to him on his preferred location for the mini-golf amusement park.

Gordon Block of the planning commission expressed concern about the proximity of the proposed amusement park to the cemetery, and there were concerns about the effect of the lighting on residential neighborhoods. But the proposed change was approved by the commission without objection.

Sirens send many for cover

The foul weather that slammed into Charlevoix last Tuesday evening caused Earl Muma, director of Emergency Services, to activate the emergency warning system and send local residents scurrying for cover.

It was the first time the emergency system had been used, other than for testing.

"Fortunately, no damage was done," Muma said, "but the potential for serious problems existed. We urge people to pay attention to the warning we issue and are gratified by the response to last week's emergency."

Muma activated the emergency warning sirens – which were joined by the city fire sirens – following reports of a water spout and a tornado in the Atwood-Norwood area at 5:45 p.m. The reports said the tornado was heading east toward Charlevoix.

At 5:49 the decision was made to set off the sirens of the Big Rock Public Warning System along with the tornado warning tape. Following the sirens, the tape told people to take cover.

Funnel clouds were also cited in the East Jordan area.

The National Weather Service in Sault Ste. Marie did not issue any tornado or severe weather warnings and at least one television newscast reported water spouts but minimized their potential for damage or harm.

Local reaction to the emergency warning varied. Some grumbled that the sirens had caused unnecessary fear and panic. Others gathered along the Lake Michigan shoreline to watch the waterspouts. Many took cover until the all-clear was sounded sometime after 7 p.m.

At McDonald's restaurant the customers were sheltered in a back storage room, according to Manager Marcia Hansen. A visiting cross country team was among those taking refuge and they were fed and given drinks. "Everyone was calm and cooperative," Hansen said.

Patients at the Charlevoix Area Hospital were moved out of their rooms and into a central hallway, according to Dave Knight, public

Intake almost ready

No, Martha, that's not a giant black water snake. It is, however, the concluding phase of the water intake system.

The entire 1,500 feet of water intake pipe is bolted and fused together and scheduled for submersion in the bottom of Lake Michigan this week. The stainless steel intake screen is also assembled and ready to go into the lake bottom. Much of the onshore work is completed and the contractor is hoping to make the October 10 deadline for completion of the work.

KCB to view video

A new feature video is about to be debuted soon. This one, however, doesn't feature the latest rock group and you can't pick it up with your satellite dish.

You'll have to attend the next meeting of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. Saturday, Oct. 5 at 9 a.m. in the new dinner theater room of 218 Bridge St. restuarant.

The featured video is the completed 24-minute Operation Petunia tape which will be receiving its first public showing.

The video was shot by Gerry Brindel, owner of Northern Michigan Video Services, who volunteered his time for the project. Final editing of the film was done based on the suggestions of the 35 people attending a recent KCB meeting. Bob Miles compiled the editing suggestions. The tape features Dale Boss, originator of Operation Petunia. The musical background is Elizabeth Humphrey's "Charlevoix the Beautiful" performed by Vince Chew vocalist, accompanied by Humphrey on piano, Phil Schairbaum on bass, and Dan Staublin on drums. Narration is provided by Bruce MacArthur.

Claire Martin Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country teams and Coach Pete Spieles will host the fourth annual Claire Martin Cross Country Invitational meet at the Belvedere Golf Course Saturday, Oct. 5.

Division II (Class C and D) will start at 10 a.m. Division 1 (Class A,B, and strong C) will follow at 10:30 a.m. with the girls division scheduled for 11 a.m. The course is five kilometers.

Parking meters to stay

Keep your loose change handy. The parking meters are staying up through November 1.

That was the directive Mayor Hal Hill and city council gave Police Chief Jack Mol following a public meeting on the downtown parking problem. They have also asked Mol to enforce the two-hour parking regulations on side streets between Bridge and State streets.

Traditionally parking meters have been removed after Labor Day and parking violations in the downtown area have been ignored.

The meeting on parking was called by city council in an attempt to air problems expressed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchant's Association, and others regarding off-season parking.

The last-minute council action came despite Mol's statement that enforcing the two-hour parking would be "almost impossible" with existing staff. He noted that for the next two and one-half weeks he would be the only policeman on duty during the day. "You can't do it piecemeal," he told council.

Mol said he would comply with whatever directives he received, however.

Mayor Hill and council were pressed by the Chamber of Commerce throughout the meeting to solve the off-season parking problem by stricter enforcement. "What we're hearing is that you've got to enforce the existing laws," Chamber Executive Director Claudia Kenlfeck told the council. "We need direction and support from city council."

Hill threw back the challenge. "The merchants could do a lot to help themselves out," he said. "Don't throw the blame up here. I was hoping that you can police yourself."

Not everyone at the meeting agreed there was an off-season parking problem. "Parking is not really a problem except for 8-10 weeks a year," Nancy Burnsides said. "If we can solve that we don't really have a problem." She suggested free two-hour parking during the summer, with heavy fines – up to $100 – for those with several parking violations.

Mol questioned suggestions for year-round enforcement of parking. "Think about what a parking meter attendant would do on Jan. 13, for example," he said. "He'd have trouble finding someone to talk to."

Apple Fest is on tap

Now that cooler temperatures and blustery winds have arrived in northern Michigan, a great way to spend a weekend is by going to Charlevoix's 6th Annual Apple Festival, Oct. 11 and 12.

Held in the downtown East Park area, Apple Festival is for the entire family.

One of the new entries for the festival will be a Scarecrow Contest. Sponsored by the local Girl Scouts of Charlevoix, the contest is open to teams of not more than eight people. Couples, singles, kids, or the whole family are welcome to pre-register for the event, which will be Sat., Oct. 12 at 10 a.m.

Each team will be given similar materials to create a scarecrow, including: hay, clothes, vegetables, etc. At 11 a.m. the judges will make a decision on the best looking scarecrow and prizes will be awarded.

For more information and to register, contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

The local 4-H group will sponsor a

Jobs for seniors are promoted

by PEG OHLE

It is advertised as a project to promote the "Economic Recovery of Older Workers".

Called Project Aerow (Academy for Economic Recovery of Older Workers), the project is being actively promoted in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties by Dot Johnson, who meets regularly in Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, and Petoskey with senior citizens who are in need of gainful employment.

Miss Johnson is trying to help men and women over 55 who meet certain needs specifications. She emphasizes that she and Project Aerow do not "get" people jobs, but does train them and put them on the right track to get jobs by themselves.

The "right track" could mean an examination of employability skills, seminars, classroom lessons, on-the-job training, or counseling. "We do what we have to do to help them get jobs," Miss Johnson explains. "We send them on referrals; we work like an employment agency for those who can't afford it."

Aerow pays transportation costs to meetings or job interviews as well as printing and postage costs for resumes. For those who qualify for on-the-job training, Aerow pays half of their wages.

Among the occupations in which Aerow people have found jobs are machinist, maintenance, retail sales, office-clerical, production, flower arranging, and auditing. "What labor demands," Miss Johnson points out.

Funds for Aerow in northwest Michigan come from the Governor's office for Older Workers under the Job Training Partnership Act. The project is run by the Northwest Michigan Area Agency on Aging, headquartered in Traverse City. It is planned that 70 persons over 55 in the ten-county area will receive Aerow services.

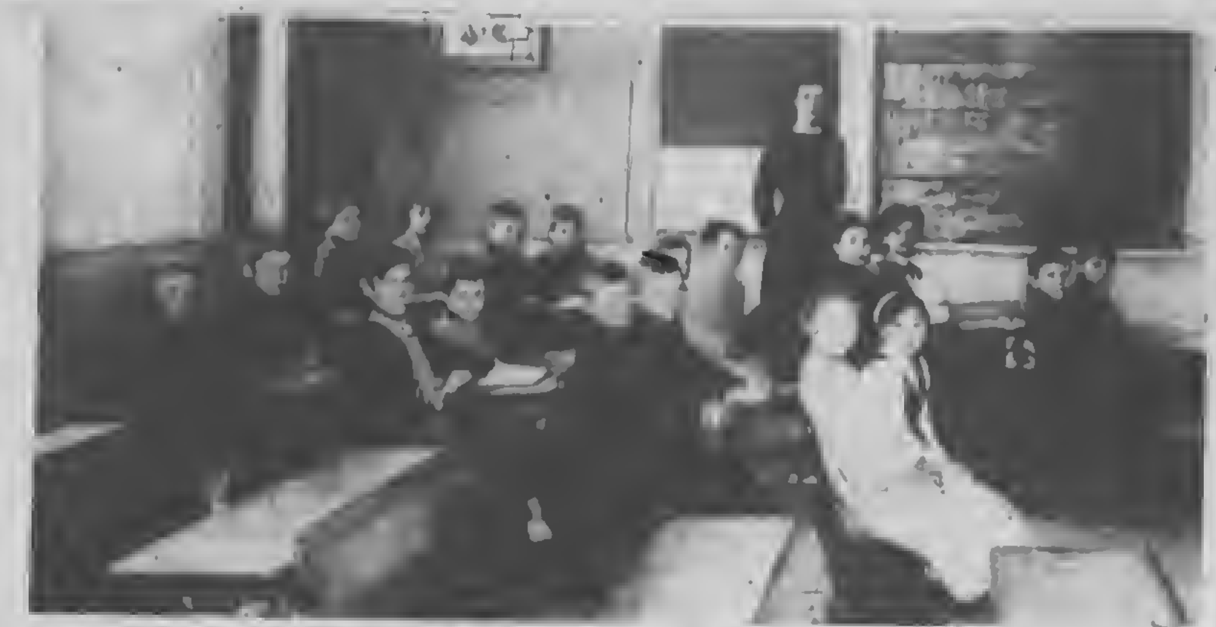
Aerow funds for the current fiscal year amount to $166,000. Last fiscal year, the project was funded at $200,000 and serviced 90 senior citizens, 20 over the target number. Of these 90 persons with whom Aerow worked, 55 now have part or full time jobs and Aerow is still working with 28 others, according to Miss Johnson.

Every once in a while, Miss Johnson runs across a senior citizen who does not qualify for Project Aerow services, but she is well enough acquainted with other programs for senior citizens that she is able to make proper referrals for them.

Miss Johnson is at the Friendship Center in Petoskey from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. She can be reached there by phoning 347-3211 and asking for Project Aerow.

Miss Johnson is also at the law library in the County Building in Charlevoix from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesday; at the East Jordan Senior Center from 12 to 2 p.m. on Monday; and at the Boyne City Senior Center from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday. She appreciates appointments for interviews.

Miss Johnson can also be contacted at home evenings by calling 347-2867.



Charlevoix Yesterday

The teacher was Ella Meggison. Mayne would like to hear what happened to the students who no longer live in the area. He says the Hilton School house is still standing on US-31 about five miles south of Charlevoix.

Grandvue hosts party

The Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary will host its fall games party at the facility on October 10, at 1:30 p.m, it was announced at a recent meeting of the group.

Members are asked to fill a table for games and to bring their own prizes, cookies for refreshments and baked goods for a bake sale held in conjunction with the party.

This is one of the Auxiliary's few fund-raising projects.

At the Auxiliary meeting, Ronald Conkle, administrator, displayed two carts to be used in the therapy room. The Auxilairy is underwriting the cost of these and several other pieces of equipment for use in the therapy department with funds collected during the annual Tag Day in July.

At Christmas time, Dr. Robert G. Martin photographs patients and the pictures are then given to their families. The Auxiliary contributed $150 to the project. They also allotted $50 to Brenda Joyce to be used to take patients on outings.

Following the business meeting, Lucy Gatza, Carol Banfield and Marcia Breakey, representatives of Michigan Home Health Care, presented an informative report on the work of their organization.

It was also announced that a foot care clinic is being held at the office of Dr. Richard Mansfield the third Tuesday of every month.

Hostesses at the meeting were Phyllis Malpass and Betty Yenne.

American Legion plans benefit for Crain family

The Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, will host an all-day event Sunday, Oct. 6, for the benefit of the Michael and Anna Crain family to assist with mounting medical bills due to the latter's illness, Louis McKenzie, general chairman of the event, has announced.

The benefit will open with the regular monthly all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. until 12 noon at the post home.

An entire afternoon and evening of entertainment and refreshments will follow. It begins at 2 p.m. with several area bands playing until 10 p.m.

A buffet lunch including potato salad, sandwiches and a choice of beverages will be served throughout the afternoon and evening. A free will offering will be accepted.

Mrs. Crain has required repeated surgery and use of dialysis equipment.

The couple has three children.

Brien Phillipa, back row second from left, recently completed the last step in achieving his Eagle scout award with a community service project for the Girl Scout Camp on Merion Center Road. Brien organized a workforce of volunteers to paint the inside of the camp, build several equipment boxes for camping, and construct a sign for the girls to bring to various functions. Pictured are front row: Malissa Eaton, left, and Amy Phillipa of Troop #253. In the background are Troop Leader Jaanne Eaton, Phillipa, and his helpers Mike Dobuiia, Herbie Pines, Mike Ocha, and Josh Strzyzkewski. Missing are scouts Bill Burns, Bob Normen, and John Norman.

Charlevoix Scouts host 300

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11 headed by Louis Edwards as Scoutmaster will host the Charlevoix Scout Rendezvous at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club located on U.S. 31 North Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 4, 5 and 8.

The Rendezvous, the former fall Camporee is for Scouts from the five counties that comprise the Northern District of the Scenic Trails Council - Cheboygan, Emmet, Otsego, Antrim and Charlevoix. It is expected to attract upwards of 300 Scouts, plus their adult leaders, who will pitch their tents and camp at the site for the weekend.

The theme of the Rendezvous will be in the grand tradition of the Old West and this country's pioneer days.

The event will feature four areas for earning points: a. compass course; the construction of a travois, a primitive vehicle used by North American Plains Indians; a pioneer cooking contest utilizing an open fire, simple utensils and foods; and a camp inspection.

In keeping with the Old West theme there will be demonstrations of muzzle loading firearms; the use of a bow and arrow; the use of a tracking dog and horses of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department's volunteer mounted auxiliary. The latter two events are being arranged by the Sheriff's Department. Numerous contests will also be held during the day on Saturday.

Another feature of the Rendezvous will be a trading post were Scouts can swap any equipment used in scouting. This could include uniforms, kerchiefs, patches, camping equipment and the like.

The Rendezvous will open with a campfire Friday night during which troops will be introduced; Saturday will be devoted to the point earning events interspersed with the demonstrations and contests followed by a campfire Saturday night.

On Sunday a pancake breakfast for the entire camp prepared and served under the direction of Scouter Dave Phillips will be followed by the breaking of camp. There will be religious services prior to the campfire Saturday. At that time Catholic Scouts will be transported to St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Boy Scout Committee consisting of Scoutmasters Edwards, David Novotny, Gerald Chase, Melvin Thayer, John Ochs, Nick DeYoung, Charles M. Bergmann and Phillips has planned and will execute the program for the Charlevoix Scout Rendezvous.

Aide visits

Congressman Davis' District Representative Betty Mankowski will visit the Charlevoix area in the near future.

She will be in East Jordan on Tuesday, October 8 between 10 and 11:30 a.m. at the East Jordan City Hall and at the Senior Citizen Center between 11:30 and 1 p.m.

Northerners are buckling up

According to a recent study by District Health Department No. 3, northwestern Michigan is doing a better than average job of buckling up.

During the late summer of 1984 over 2,000 front seat passengers were observed throughout the District's four-county area (Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties). Results of that survey of 25 locations indicated a seat belt usage at the rate of just over 15 percent.

These same 25 locations were re-surveyed in 1985 and the results showed a dramatic increase in safety belt use following the July 1 effective date of the mandatory seat belt law (Public Act 1 of 1985).

The survey indicated that the use of seat belts increased to 49 percent in the four-county area.

Seat belt usage in Charlevoix County increased from 15.4 percent in 1984 to 44.8 percent in 1985.

Charlevoix had the lowest compliance in the four-county area.

Antrim County showed the highest compliance with 51.9 percent of those observed wearing their seat belts after the new law.

The Health Department is proposing a comprehensive educational program throughout the area to be followed by a third survey in Aug. 1986 in an attempt to increase front seat adult safety belt use to 70 percent or more.

According to Judy McNitt of the Michigan State Police Traffic Service Division reliable statewide figures for safety belt use are not available, although general observations have shown that northern rural areas have a lower percentage of motorists buckling up.

Although exact statistics are not yet available from the Traffic Service Division of the Michigan State office of Highway Safety Planning, it is believed that the use of seat belts does save lives.

"Wearing a seat belt will not give you immortality, it just gives you a chance to walk away from a motor vehicle accident," according to Wendy Sewell, Child Passenger Safety Coordinator for District Health Department No. 3, "The goal of our program is to make every ride a safe ride — right from the start."

Wildlife hotline

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has set up a new telephone hotline – 517-373-WILD – to answer the public's questions about Michigan wildlife.

The hotline's two-three minute recorded messages will provide the latest information about hunting season dates, hunting license costs-availability deadlines, hunting tips and conditions in various parts of the state, rules reminders and rules changes, hunter safety, bird migrations and other general news about the state's wild animals and birds.

Tony Genco of the DNR's Wildlife Division, who is coordinator of the new hotline program, says additional tips will be given on mushrooms, wild berries, wildflowers and other plants in season. The recorded messages will be updated once a week.

"We expect that the new hotline will be helpful to many different users of Michigan's outdoors," says Genco, "hunters, campers, nature photographers, birdwatchers, hikers – especially our visitors from out of state."

Genco welcomes ideas for additional information the public wants to receive through the WILD hotline program. Call him with comments and suggestions at 517-373-9312, or write to DNR Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

Reporter's Notebook

Written word crew revisited

by Peg Ohle

Fifty-one years ago this summer, right out of Journalism School at the University of Illinois, this reporter went to work for the National Editorial Association (N.E.A.) in Chicago.

The N.E.A. was a trade association composed of weekly and small daily newspapers published throughout the United States. In those depression days, most newspapers were struggling for existence and the N.E.A. was striving to provide them with ideas to promote advertising and subscription revenues and offering suggestions on how better to serve their communities.

The National Recovery Act (NRA) had promulgated rules and regulaltions by which newspapers were to be run, but despite their dislike for this kind of government interference, most editors and publishers abided by the law and fulfilled their responsibilities of reporting all the aspects of life in their small towns.

It was a time of economic-chaos but not a time of shirking duties.

We recall all of this because two weeks ago we went to Minneapolis to attend the attend the 100th anniversary celebration of the National Newspaper Association, the successor to the National Editorial Association. We had been part of the organization when it celebrated its 50th anniversary; now we wanted to learn of the concerns of newspaper people 50 years later.

The subject matter covered in two days of general sessions partly answers the question:

–A talk by Dr. Charles Garfield, researcher into human performance and productivity, who told editors and publishers how to tap the energies and talents of their executives, managers, and employees at every level.

–Another employee-management talk by Dr. James J. Renier, vice-chairman of Honeywell, Inc., who reported that by involving employees in workplace decisions and creating a climate of mutual respect, productivity and employee self-esteem will increase dramatically.

–A history of the use of computers by newspapedrs, delivered by Frank C. Romano, president of Graphic Arts Marketing Associates. He predicted that within the next five years, most reporters will write their stories on their own computers.

–A three-way "straight talk" presentation by Max Heath, a Kentucky newspaperman, Anthony J. Schiavone, North Central Manager for the United States Postal Service, and John Mason, St. Paul Mail Classifications Manager for the Postal Service. Poor mail delivery service of newspapers and high postage rates were freely discussed.

–A sorecast of economic conditions for the next five years and an explanation of how those conditions could affect the newspaper business, by John McDevitt, Corporate Economist for the 3M Company. Some signs which can cause changes in the economic climate were cited as rising medical costs, devaluation of farm lands, control of oil prices by OPEC, high consumer borrowing, and over-importing foreign goods.

–A discussion of newspaper credibility, with suggestions about how newspapers can attain and keep a high level of credibility among the general public. Many of the suggestions dealt simply with "getting to know each other".

–A look at the problems of libel, procedures for dealing with complaints, and assuming responsbilities. The high cost of libel insurance was noted.

It was evident that the base of concerns of newspaper editors and publishers had broadened in the last 50 years, but problems of business management and profit and loss were at least in the background of all the talks.

Good employee relations can only make for more efficient workers; computers are step-saving, money-saving devices; the Postal Service must work with newspapers to keep mailing costs down; knowing what economic trends mean will help in planning investments in equipment and services; keeping the credibility of a newspaper at top level will mean easier business contacts; and libel expenses can be avoided by using professional reporting skills and techniques.

In other sessions there was recognition of four-generation newspaper families, presentation of service awards, a film history of American newspapers, and awards in many categories to prize-winning newspapers. Each event brought out the "proud" side of American newspapers.

Smaller groups talked about journalism education, government affairs, study missions (trips to foreign countries to study newspapers there), long range planning, member services, and communication among newspaper people through National Newspaper Association publications.

All in all, it was a rewarding experience to "go home again". We detected none of the arrogance so often attributed to people in the communications field, but perhaps if we could have our druthers, we would just be part of the newspaper business and forget about the "media". In some ways, the "media" has spoiled it for us, but we're glad we're part of the written word crew.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum
First Congregational Church
United Church of Christ

As the professional baseball season winds down, this story comes from the Kansas City stadium. It seems a dog wandered out onto the field, trotted around, and sat down on third-base. The fans erupted: "Get off the field!" "Run for home!" "Bite the ump!" All the yelling was to no avail; the dog stayed on third. Remarked a sports commentator, "The dog did not move because there was no dominant voice from the crowd."

It may be only a loose parallel, but spiritually speaking, we humans also need a dominant voice in our lives to help us get on to where we ought to be. We are often overwhelmed by the myriad of voices that shout directions to us - "Go here!" "Go there!" "Do this!" "Do that!" Amid such a cacophony comes One who speaks a quieting yet strengthening word to us: "Everyone who is of the truth hears my voice." (John 18:37) It is a voice which echoes above the deafening sounds of our age, a voice which leads us "into green pastures ... beside still waters... along the path of righteousness." (Psalm 23) It is the Voice of Jesus leading us back to God. May we listen to and follow that Voice, that we may walk confidently to the place of rest and refreshment which is our true home in God.

Letters to the Editor:

McSauba aid appreciated

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Camp McSauba Staff, I wish to express our gratitude to the following who contributed to another record-setting year at the Camp:

The Charlevoix United Way, Charlevoix Knights of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. William Dreyer, Charlevoix Women's Club, Charlevoix VFW Auxilatry No. 1153, East Jordan American Legion Auxilairy No. 227, Charlevoix Lions Club, East Jordan American Legion, Rebee-Sweet Post No. 227, Charlevoix I.O.O.F., Round Lake Lodge, Oddfellows, Charlevoix, M.E.S.P.A. (public school custodial, secretaries, culinary and aides), Charlevoix Beta Sigma Phi, Beta Mu chapter, Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, East Jordan Snowmobilers Club, Charlevoix Beta Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigma Chapter, Charlevoix Education Association, Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department, Charlevoix American Legion Auxillary No. 226, Dr. David Strawbridge, Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate District Education Association, Mr. and Mrs. John Pfluecke.

Further, we wish to recognize the support of Ken Swan in providing the Horseback Riding program at Windmill Farm as well as Oleson's, the Charlevoix Courier, Petoskey News-Review, Dave Hand of Ace Hardware, Dick Kenney of Charlevoix Kit Carson Lumber Company, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wojan, McLelland's Home Furnishings, for their individual conributions to the camp program.

1986 will mark Camp McSauba's 11th year of service to children. We eagerly await its arrival knowing that we have the support of the aforementiooed groups and individuals as well as a host of other citizens in our community.

Over the last two years the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus, the Charlevoix Lions Club and the Friends of Camp McSauba, Inc., sponsored two fund-raising efforts in the form of a two-day Las Vegas Nites program. Over $10,000 was netted which allowed the Friends of Camp McSauba to join with the City Council in expanding the restroom facilities at the Camp McSauba Lodge. With $7,800 still owed on the "note", it is the hope of the Charlevoix Lions and the Friends, that this balance maybe paid off through a Third Annual Las Vegas Nites fund-raiser.

This gala event will be held Friday, October 25 and Saturday, October 26 at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. All proceeds will go to the Camp McSauba Capital Improvements Fund for repayment of the note.

To date, we still have a few openings for anyone wishing to work at this year's Las Vegas Nites program. Specifically, we need blackjack dealers, persons to sell chips, waitresses and admissions personnel. Those interested in laking a shift or two can contact me at 547-5233.

Again, thanks Charlevoix, for your continued support of the children of Camp McSauba.

Director, Camp McSauba
Co-Chair, Las Vegas Nites '85

Don Carey -- a great coach

The following letter to Coach Don Carey was made available to the Courier.

Dear Coach Carey,

Recently my mother forwarded an article from the Charlevoix newspaper to me which announced your retirement. I wanted to finally communicate to you the extremely positive effect I believe you had on my life, and apologize for taking so long to convey this feeling.

First, after many years of watching high school football, I have come to appreciate what a truly fine technical coach that you are. Seldom have I witnessed teams that have been coached as well as the teams that I played on. Every aspect of preparation, from scouting to implementing different offenses and defenses to exploit each opponents weaknesses, was well thought out and developed to perfection. Certainly your teams were always at an advantage from a coaching and preparation point of view.

Second, your ability to use the talents of the players within each individual team you coached was outstanding. I remember how you changed offenses and defenses to obtain maximum effectiveness from the players available. This in itself is a unique skill as a coach.

Third, and most important, you were able to convey to your teams, attitudes that would benefit them throughout life. I learned from you many philosophies thah have helped me to this point in life and will continoe to help me throughout my life.

A partial list includes: Attitude is more important than ability, treat each person as an individual and communicate with each one in the manner that is most effective to produce positive results with that individual; you play like you practice; and finally, that a good work ethic will not only produce the desired result bot earn you the respect of your peers.

In summary, I know that it was not easy to maintain the consistently high standards that you did. I sincerely believe that you have had a tremendous impact on those you have coached over the years. I thank you for what you gave to me and I deeply appreciate the impact you had on my life. Please take pride in what you accomplished. You were a great coach and a man that did make a difference.

Sincerely,
Larry Hutchinson
Duluth, Minnesota

Clockwise

Grand old relic

By Bob Clock

Every time I visit the Charlevoix Middle School I breathe a sigh of relief that it is still standing.

Remember a few years back when the powers-that-be wanted to build a new high school out in the boonies, move middle school students to the present high school and pull down the old brick school in the valley?

The scheme was bad economics from the start, since the price-tag for the proposed high school site was astronomical, as I recall. Then school district residents would have had to cough up the cost of the building twice in order to pay high interest on the construction bonds. Bad, bad, bad.

However new-school proponents were adamant. One night they held a meeting at the middle school so that everyone in town could see first-hand that the building was past renovation. But the scheme failed. All of the visitors were enchanted by the highly polished terrazzo floors, the balconied gymnasium, the tall double-sashed windows in the classrooms and other timeless accoutrements.

It reminded them of the schools they attended when they were kids — and they loved it.

The purpose of the meeting backfired and the school was saved. If the new building had been built, we would still be in hock up to our eyebrows.

Of course, a too of money has been plowed into the old building since then, most of it in the name of energy conservation. Many of tall windows have been abbreviated to keep out the winds of January and other steps have been takeo to button up generally.

Of course the money spent on renovation has only been a pittance compared to the cost of a new school.

I THINK PART of the charm of the middle school is its layout, which is an architectural nightmare. In comparison, Detroit's confusing Ren-Cen complex is a model of simplicity.

For example, the middle school has one room where shop students do their book work. It is connected to the outside world by means of two stairways, one in front, one in back. As far as I can figure out, there is no other room on that particular level.

The newer part of the building is connected to the older part by the gymnasium. If you want to go from the office area off Grant Street to the cafeteria, you have to up a short flight of stairs, walk through the gymnasium, out the rear door, and down another flight of stairs.

I also have heard there are tunnels in the school connecting the various components, but you couldn't prove it by me.

Most of the parents attending Thursday night's mini-sessions found the building as confusing as I did, but they seemed to have a good time searching for the various rooms where their children's teachers hold court. It probably wouldn't take long to learn the layout of the building if you set your mind to it; but for occasional visitors it is a veritable maze.

In any event, the middle school is a grand old relic. I am glad all of my kids have had a chance to attend.

With the renovations, I am sure the middle school will continue to serve Charlevoix for many years to come.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the construction of the public safety building at City Hall along with the construction of a oew post office would reduce the 33 existing parking spaces to 20. In the long run, he added; the city would add another 33 parking spots when the Erber Building on Clinton Street was removed. The ultimate net gain woold be 20 parking spaces in the area.

relations and marketing director.

Three physicians were called in and others were put on standby. Extra blankets and medical supplies were put on carts in the hallways. Patients and staff were briefed regularly, Knight said, and visitors were served free coffee after the emergency was over.

Swanee Lee Alden, who lives on W. Lincoln Street, was among those taking cover.

"I was happy to hear the sirens. I don't feel they should criticize Earl for putting out the alert," Alden said. She had read an article in Reader's Digest on tornadoes and knew what to do. She and her two children turned the radio to WKHQ and went into the bathroom, got in the bathtub and hung onto the pipes. "I did pray," she recalled. "I really felt that everything was going to to be fine. I thought it was nice that the emergency proved our system worked, that people were out there doing their job."

That sentiment was echoed by Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol. "It went great," he said. "Fortunately nothing happened, but it was a good experience for people who have to handle these things."

Mary Frame, who lives close to the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, said her first reaction was that lightning had struck the plant. Only after hearing the public address warning did she realize it was a weather emergency.

"I went in the house and turned on the radio and thought about where to take cover. I also opened the windows some to equalize pressure."

Once she was aware it was a tornado warning, she said, she recalled all the precautions she had learned growing up in tornado country in southern Michigan.

"The sirens certainly do get your attention," she added.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Crumbaugh

Mr. and Mrs. Brian LeClaire

Mrs. Adrian Walter Zackheim

DeMoor - Crumbaugh

Lynne M. DeMoor of State College, Pennsylvania and Jeff Crumbaugh of Ann Arbor were united in marriage on Saturday, August 17, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeMoor of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Crumbaugh of St. Louis.

The Reverend Philip G. Schairbaum officiated at the ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents. Approximately 180 guests were present.

Shari Mol served the bride as maid of honor and Lori Droppers served as matron of honor. Jan Mountcastle and Kelly Wietecha were bridesmaids. Steve and Stuart Crumbaugh, twin brothers of the bridegroom, served as best men, and Tom Stackhouse and Ralph Reichle were groomsmen. Chris Joseph and Bob Rosen assisted as ushers.

Organ music was provided by Elizabeth Humphrey.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Charlevoix Yacht Club following the ceremony, with Mike and Cathy Crumbaugh assisting as host and hostess. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Ricciardi's of Charlevoix.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the new Mr. and Mrs. Crumbaugh are at home in State College, where the bride is completing her second year of graduate school in nutrition science at Penn State University. Her bridegroom is on an academic leave of agsence from the University of Michigan Medical School to attain a master's degree in nutrition science. (Photography by Valentine Studio)

Postmus - LeClaire

Holly Louise Postmus and Brian George LeClaire, both of Boulder, Colorado, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, September 7, at the First Congregational Church of Boulder.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roger W. Postmus of Ann Arbor aod Charlevoix. Her maternal grandparents were the late Captain and Mrs. Hubert E. Paddock of Charlevoix.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin LeClaire of New Munich, Minnesota.

The Reverend Bruce MacKenzie conducted the double-ring rites in which the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by her father and mother.

The bride wore a white organza gown featuring fitted sleeves, a Basque bodice embroidered with appliqued lace, and a full organza skirt which ended in a flowing chapel-length train. Her headpiece was organza gathered into a band of embroidered lace and accented with pearls. She carried a bouquet of Japnet and white dendrobium orchids, stephanotis, variegated ivy, and grape ivy.

Mrs. Thomas Harris of Boulder assisted the bride as matron of honor. Elizabeth Postmus of Ann Arbor and Katherine Postmus of Burlington, Vermont, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore tea-length gowns of light blue voile featuring scoop necklines and puffled sleeves edged in lace. Their bouquets were composed of mixed sonia roses, lilies, stephanotis, and variegated ivy.

Christopher Walzer of Boulder served as best man. John LeClaire of Denver, bother of the bridegroom, and Joel Schwieters of Minneapolis were groomsmen. Duane Funk of Arvada, Colorado and Charles Weidman of LaFayette, Colorado assisted as ushers.

Organist Erick Brunner played Clark's "Trumpet Voluntary" for the processional number and Clark's "Trumpet Tune" for the recessional. Vocalist Gretchen Lewis sang "Bist der Bei Mir" by Bach.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Red Lion Inn in Boulder following the ceremony. They were assisted by Kathy Raczkowski.

Following a wedding trip to Vancouver, British Colunbia, tbe newlyweds are at home at 5000 Butte, Number 7, Boulder, Colorado. (Photography by Elizabeth Postmus)

Parson - Zackheim

Sarah Babst Parsons and Adrian Walter Zackheim were married Sunday, September 1, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Philip Schairbaum performed the 5:30 p.m ceremony which was followed by a dinner reception at the Chicago Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sally Angell Parsons of Birmingham and Donald Holcombe Parsons of Palm Beach. The bride's parents are summer residents of the Chicago Club.

The bride is also the great-grandaughter of the late Earl D. Babst, formerly chairman of the American Sugar Refining Company, and a summer resident of the Chicago Club for 65 years. The bride's grandparents are Mrs. Robert C. Angell and the late Professor Angell, also summer residents of the Chicago Club.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alex Zackheim of Forest Hills, New York.

Edwina Uhl attended her cousin as maid of honor, and Susan Parsons, Sue Nesbitt, Louise Parsons, and Cathryn Grubbs were bridesmaids.

Gordon Edelstein served as best man, and James Parsons, Donald H. Parsons, Jr., and Adam Parsons, the bride's brothers, and William Woodside were ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, and William Smith College. She is employed by British Historic Buildings, a real estate firm in London and New York. The bridegroom is a graduate of Grinnell College and received a master's degree from the University of Toronto. He is a senior editor at Doubleday & Co., Inc., New York.

After a wedding trip to Italy, the newlyweds will reside in New York City.

German choir to visit

In October the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix is having visitors, 46 of them, from Germany.

A church choir, or "Kirchenchor," an organist, and a brass ensemble from the Evangelical Church of Ubbedissen-Lamershagen near Bielefeld, West Germany, will arrive on Monday, October 7.

To welcome them, a potluck dinner will be served at 6 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Congregational Church by their host families and the church choir. A short program will follow, and the visitors will then go home with their host families.

On Tuesday evening, October 8, at 7:30 p.m. the choir, organist, and brass players will present a concert in the church sanctuary. No admission will be charged but a free will offering will be received to help defray expenses.

The German group will be visiting Mackinaw City on Wed., Oct. 9, and will give a concert in the Church of the Straits.

The Kirchenchor will be on tour in Michigan and Illinois from September 26 to October 13. After arriving in Toronto and spending a day at Niagara Falls, they will travel to Haslett to be the guests of the Haslett Community Church, United Church of Christ, a sister church of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

In 1984 the choir of the Haslett church traveled to Ubbedissen in an exchange of friendship. Now, as this choir tours Michigan, they will be learning about the work of the church in the inner city as well as in the suburban aod farming communities of our state. A visit with legislators, native Americans, retirement homes, and homes for the handicapped and disabled children are high on their list of activities.

Installation service planned

A service of installation and celebration will be held at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix on Sunday afternoon, October 6, at 3:30 p.m. for new pastors, Rev. and Mrs. Bruce E. Hamilton.

The special guest speaker for the occasion is Rev. Richard L. Willowby of Anderson, Indiana. Willowby serves as managing editor for the Church of God national magazine, Vital Christianity.

In addition, Rev. Richard Bartlett, pastor of Pine Grove Church of God in Traverse City, will participate in the installation representing the Michigan Ministerial Assembly of the Church of God. The Charlevoix Ministerial Association will bring words of welcome to the Hamiltons through their president, Rev. David Yingling.

The church extends an invitation to all to join in this special occasion.

Walkathon planned

The Boyne Valley Lioness Club is sponsoring a Walkathon Saturday, Oct. 12. The walk will begin at 9 a.m. from the Boyne City boat launch and proceed to the fronton Ferry.

Pupils from the middle school, elemeotary school and the high school will participate.

Funds raised form the Walkathon will be used for needed community projects.

In case of rain the walk will be held the following Saturday, Oct. 19.

Rayders crush Boyne City

by DOUG TRUAX

It took Charlevoix several minutes to get its game into gear on Friday, but when the Rayders got rolling the Boyne City Ramblers were no match.

The Rayders trounced the visiting team 40-8. After building up a 28-0 halftime lead, Coach Roger Gowell substituted freely in the second half against the outmanned Rambler team.

Ironically, the sweetest moment in the game may have belonged to Boyne City when Rambler Dan McGeorge broke loose on a 66-yard touchdown run. The score was the first for the Ramblers in two games, against 128 for their opponents. Boyne City lists only 19 players on its 1985 roster.

Charlevoix gained a total of 367 yards on the night, 287 by rushing. Rayder quarterback Marc Himebauch hit on five of eight passes for 80 yards.

Boyne City, on the other hand, managed only 103 yards for the game, rushing 30 times for 81 yards. They picked up 3 first downs, two by rushing and one on a penalty.

"Our team played an excellent defensive game," Coach Gowell said afterwards. "Offensively we sputtered a little bit and then started to come on strong."

Himebauch put Charlevoix on the board for the first time with a 5-yard option run with 4:21 remaining in the first quarter. The conversion passed was missed.

The Ramblers began the next series at their own 13. McGeorge lined up in the shotgun, but the snap was off the mark and McGeorge fell on the ball in the endzone for the two-point safety.

Charlevoix scored again in the second quarter when Himebaugh hit end Tim Salmonson on a 41-yard toss. The extra point was missed and the Rayders held a 14-0 advantage.

Running back Mike Thompson, starting for the injured Matt Lignell, added six more points on a 37-yard sweep around end. Himebaugh hit Salmonson for the two-point conversion.

After stifling the Boyne offense, Charlevoix launched another impressive drive before the half, traveling 60 yards for the score. Scott Crandell ran 19 yards to the Boyne 36. One play later, Jim Gibbs made a diving catch for a 35-yard completion. Thompson took the ball in from 4 yards out for the score. The extra point try failed and Charlevoix led 28-0 at the break.

Charlevoix's power running game picked up where it left off after the half. The Rayders mounted a 55-yard drive on their first possession of the half with Thompson running for 22 yards and Morgridge taking the ball in for the score from the 15.

With a 34-0 lead the Rayder bench began to see extended action.

Reserve back Jamie Bartlett rushed for a first down on fourth-and-five and then broke away for a 17-yard TD run with 3:32 remaining in the third period.

Boyne City got a taste of paydirt in the fourth quarter. With 7:55 left in the game, McGeorge attempted a handoff on a dive play but found no one there. He took the ball into the hole himself and snaked his way upfield for the 66-yard score. McGeorge hit Tom Lasater with a pass for the two-point conversion.

Eight Rayder backs contributed to the night's rushing total, led by Thompson with 123 yards and two touchdowns on 12 carries. Morgridge ran for 44 yards on 9 carries, and Clint Walker added 33 yards in eight attempts.

Salmonson led the receivers again with two grabs for 44 yards. Jim Gibbs caught two for 35 yards.

The defensive effort was well balanced with Brian Wilmot, Tim Melke, and Karl Jaskierski coming up with seven tackles each. Jason Fettig and Bartlett added five apiece.

Wilmot, Fettig, and Karl Johnson each picked up Rambler fumbles.

The Rayders travel to Cheboygan next week and Gowell predicts it will be a tough game. "If they play their best game, they are capable of winning," Gowell said of his team.

Injured running back Lignell is a possible starter for the game, although Gowell says he will have to wait for this week's workouts to see how well he has recovered from the ankle sprain he suffered one week ago against Rogers City.

The Rayders are now 2-2 on the year.

Piling up the yards

Running back Jim Morgridge (41) heads up field as Matt Hall (51) delivers a block.

Golfers add more victories

The Charlevoix Rayder golfers had another great week, winning over a strong Boyne City team by three strokes, 183-186, defeating Sault Ste. Marie 188-197, Gaylord 185-212 and losing to Harbor Springs by five strokes 185-180. The latter was a triangular meet with Gaylord and Harbor Springs played at Harbor. The Boyne City and Soo meets were played at Charlevoix's Belvedere course.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs Wednesday and travel to the Michigan-Huron Conference meet at the Alpine course at Boyne Mountain Monday, Oct. 7.

In Thursday's meet, the Rayders took on a strong Boyne City contingent playing six rather than five players. The Rayders edged their opponents by three strokes, 183 to 186 with Denny Curtris and Dave Clark as co-medalists with scores of 42. Scott Wise carded a 49 and Denny Clark 50.

Todd Buckmaster had a score of 45, Pete Smith 46, Troy Fall 47 and Joe Schlink 48.

In this meet, all the JV players of both teams participated with Charlevoix posting a 243-278 victory. Andy Stewart was the medalist with a 44, Tim Berry had a 47, Scott Crain a 49 and Dylan Stewart a 51.

Scott Wise was a 43 was medalist in the meet with the Soo with Denny Curtis and Dave Clark adding 45s and Marty Joy a 55. Charlevoix won 188-197.

In the meet with Gaylord, Charlevoix outshot the Blue Devils 185-212 in the triangular meet with Harbor Springs. Wise with a 43 had the top score followed by Curtis with 45, Denny Clark with 46 and Joy with 51.

Against Harbor, Brian D'Neill was medalist with a 39. Eric Allerding carded a 45 and Rick Shepherd and Rick Benson 48s.

The Harbor Springs JVs defeated Charlevoix 209 to 242 with Rob Johnston of Harbor as medalist with a score of 48.

Scoring for Charlevoix were Wes Cumberland with a score of 55, Scott Crain 58, Dan Bickersteth 60 and J.D. Boydston 69.

Basketball team defeats Ramblers

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team defeated the visiting Boyne City quintet 33-22 in a game played here Tuesday.

Charlevoix had 13 field goals to the visitors nine and connected on seveo of 13 charity shots as they led their opponents six to four at the quarter, 14-13 at halftime and 26-13 going into the final period. Boyne City hit on four of 11 free throws. Charlevoix had 15 personal fouls to Boyne's 21.

Amy Pischner had 10 points and nine rebounds while teammates Kris Austin and Michelle Gagnon had 15 and 14 rebounds respectively. Julie Montgomery had 15 points for Boyne City.

Gaylord will play here Tuesday, Charlevoix will travel to Chegoygan Tuesday and Grayling will play here the following Tuesday.

In the JV game Tuesday, Charlevoix won 34-29. Jill Austin had nine points and Becky Smith eight for the young Rayders.

Middle School teams suffer loses

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams opened their 1985 season Monday by dropping games to Boyne City. The seventh-grade lost by a score of 47-12 and the eighth-grade was defeated 22-18 their respective coaches, Barry Pierce and Stan Martin, report.

In the seventh-grade game, Charlevoix trailed 24-6 at the half.

Stacey Fershee had six points for Charlevoix. Chrissy Grevasi had 13 for the visitors.

The eighth-graders got off to a good start and led 13-6 at the half only to be outscored 16-5 in the second half for the four-point loss.

Chrissy Dillon and Melissa Boss shared scoring honors with four points each for Charlevoix. Montgomery had eight points for Boyne City.

The teams next scheduled games will be at Harbor Springs Oct. 7.

Junior varsity wins third game

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team boosted its record to 3-1 Thursday when they defeated Boyne City 35-20.

Boyne City jumped to an early lead, scoring on their first possession on an 11-yard run by Troy Heiermann.

The lead was short-lived as Scott DeYoung scored on a 35-yard pass from Roger Smith with Smith kicking the conversion. A 30-yard pass play from Dan Drury to Mark LaBlance had put the ball in scoring position.

On the next possession, a Drury to LaBlance pass good for 30 yards put the Rayders ahead 15-6 after Drury ran for the conversion.

Two more scoring plays in the second period, a 22-yard pass play to Scott DeYoung followed by a 20-yarder to Chad Thorp with Smith adding the P.A.T. on a kick gave Charlevoix a 28-6 advantage at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Aaron Richards scored on a 10-yard pass from Rich Tarpey. A Tarpey to Phil Hayes pass added the two points for the conversion.

As time ran out in the period, Marv Witthoeft ran 10 yards for a score with Smith kicking the conversion.

The young Ramblers managed one more scoring play, a 50-yard pass play from Heiermann to Richards.

Coach Brian Certa said the entire team did well. On offense he credited Drury, LaBlance, Smith and Heath Moore with fine play and Mike Smith, Drury, Thorp and Witthoeft on defense.

This week the team will host Cheboygan on Thursday.

Frosh conquer Boyne

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman football team, coached by Eric Lundteigeo, posted a 32-22 win over Boyne City Wednesday night in its first game of the season.

David Miller scored three of the team's five touchdowns while Jason Whitley scored on a run and Bob Jess on a pass from Mike Himebauch.

Miller scored in the first quarter on a breakaway 19-yard run and again early in the second quarter on a 30-yard jaunt. This time Shawn Putman passed to Jamie Montieth for the conversion.

Boyne City then cut the Rayder lead to 14 to 8 by scoring on a 20-yard run and adding a conversion.

In the second period, Charlevoix countered with a scoring play by Jason Whitley on a 12-yard run as the half ended 20-8.

As the second half got underw Himebauch hit Jess with a 20-yard pass to take a 28-8 lead before Boyne City scored on a 13-yard run and a two-point conversion on a run.

The final period saw Miller score his third touchdown, this time on a 50-yard run. Boyne City scored on a run from the 10 as the game ended 32-22.

Charlevoix will host Cheboygan at Kipke Field next Wednesday.

Rayder runners win dual meets, place second in Invitational

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix-Rayder harriers won double dual meets over Petoskey and Traverse City in a meet held Tuesday at Petoskey.

In the duals, Charlevoix defeated 22-33 and Traverse City 15-14. Petoskey won over Traverse City 15-47.

The JVs and independents in both boys and girls divisions ran in one race.

The Rayder varsity squad ran without regulars Joe Simpson and Doug Bergmann, both of whom are benched with injuries, Coach Pete Spieles said.

Of the meet, Spieles said Pat Rajewski ran a good consistent race, Mike Dohm probably ran his best race, Kevin McLeoon came along well, and Tom Merta and Sean Henne ran good races and did a good job of filling in for Simpson and Bergmann. "Betsy Haggard probably ran her best race today," Spieles commented.

Betsy Haggard

Pat Rajewski

In the meet, Rajewski came in first in a time of 16:10 with Dohm in second place in 16:26. In the meet with Petoskey, Kevin McLenon was fourth in 17:00; Merta, seventh in 17:13 and Henne in eighth in 17:31.

Harold Herriman finished in 11th in 17:35 and Ed Knight in 18th in 18:16.

In the dual with Traverse City, Charlevoix runners took first, second, third, fourth and fifth places with their times listed above.

In the open division, Dave Warth set the pace with a time of 18:03 with Hal Chase in 27th in 22:44; Nick Swanson 28th in 22:47 and Brian Anderson 37th in 25:42.

In this division, Petoskey had 32 points, Traverse City 40 and Charlevoix 55.

Among the girls, Betsy Haggard came in second behind Anne VanDam of Petoskey in 20:17. VanDam's time was 20:09. Michelle North was in sixth place in 21:33; Heidi Olinger seventh in 21:53 and Tina McLenon 27th in 27:00.

"We accomplished what we set out to do," Coach Pete Spieles said of the results of the annual Petoskey McDonald-Optimist Invitational Cross Country meet held Saturday.

The Rayders in the 11-12 C-D class placed second behind Benzie Central; the young Rayders in 9-10 C-D placed third behind Benzie and Kalkaska and the girls third behind Benzie and Suttons Bay.

In this meet, each runner participates in his division even when it means breaking up a regular team, Spieles said. "This is good," he said. "It gives you a chance to see how your runners atack up against others in the same age group."

In the senior division (11-12) Benzie finished with 57 points followed by Charlevoix with 74. The winning time was 16:04.

Joe Simpson finished in sixth place with a time of 16:45; Mike Dohm, seventh in 16:46; Kevin McLenon, 13th in 17:20; Harold Herriman, 16th in 17:44 and Ed Knight, 32nd in 19:13.

Seven teams plus three incomplete teams were entered in this division.

In the Junior Division (C-D, 9-10) Pat Rajewski had the winning time, 16:11, followed by Sean Henne in sixth in 17:04; Tom Merta, ninth in 17:30; Dave Warth, 23rd in 18:22 and Mike Stargardt, 48th in 22:46. Hal Chase and Brian Anderson finished in 52 and 53 respectively in times of 25:32 and 25:47. Six teams and four incomplete teams participated in this event which was won by Benzie Central with 63 points followed by Kalkaska with 85 and Charlevoix with 97.

In the girls divisioo, in which all four classes participated, Charlevoix was third with 101 points behind Benzie Ceotral with 63 and Suttons Bay with 85. Betsy Haggard finished in seventh place in 20:38; Michelle North in 10th in 21:20; Heidi Dlinger in 14th in 21:57; Barb Haggard in 33rd in 24:21 and Lori Raymond, 37th in 25:11. Tina McLenon was the sixth runner who finished in 45th place in 27:31. Seven teams and four incomplete teams participated. The winning time was 18:51.

Flag football results

In the single game played in the flag football league Wednesday night, the Forty-niners defeated the Raiders 16-2.

The second game between the Seahawks and the Redskins was postponed until Monday.

The 49ers and the Raiders played an evenly matched first half with neither team making much progress in a light drizzle.

As the second half got underway, the 49ers Brian Livingston broke away for a 6-yard scoring play to put his team ahead 6-0. Earlier Toni Wachal had scored a safety for the Raiders.

District garden clubs to meet in Petoskey

Fall brings a busy schedule once again to the members of the twenty-two garden clubs in District V of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan.

Geographically this covers the distance from Traverse City north throughout the entire upper peninsula.

On Monday, Oct. 7, this group will assemble at the Zion Lutheran Church in Petoskey for its annual meeting. Hosting the event, will be Boyne City Garden Club, Charlevoix Area Club, East Jordan and Petoskey members. The general chairman is Mrs. Louis Mangolas of Boyne City. Serving with her from Charlevoix are Mrs. James Block, Mrs. Franklin Curtis and Mrs. Robert Riggle.

District Chairman, Mrs. James D. Lawrence of Williamsburg, will preside at the business meeting which will be opened with a prayer by Carol Dutcher of Charlevoix.

The two speakers of the day will be Cheryll Jean Leach of East Jordan, describing "Color and Dyes From Nature's Royal Rainbow," and Frederick W. Case, well known authority on Michigan wildflowers. Luncheon will be served; the cost of the entire program is $8.50.

On Tuesday Oct. 8 at 1 p.m. the Charlevoix Club's regular meeting will be held at the home of Marge Dinwiddie, 807 E. Dixon. Co-hostesses will be Agate Santek and Lucille Witthoeft. The program by Jolyn Hall on herbs will also include instructions by AnnaBelle Webb on the making of potpourri from your gardens. New members, Mrs. Maurice Dixon and Mrs. Raymond Slone will be welcomed. Elections of officers for 1986 will be held, and members are requested to bring copies of the club bylaws for updating.

At the conclusion of the formal meeting, all who are interesed in the progress in the enlarging of the memorial garden are urged to cross the street at Mercer and Dixon and view for themselves what it planned for the future beautification of this spot. Citizens and friends are invited to make this visit also.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Wednesday night September 25, brought weather that many of the more veteran skippers tend to regard as typical of Fall Yacht Club Racing on Lake Charlevoix: gusts of 30-35 knots, rain, 2-3 foot chop, dark low rolling overcast skies, and weather legs that seem to last forever. Despite that, 30 intrepid crews met, hoisted sail, conquered the course, and then headed in for cocoa and hot buttered whachamacalits.

At the finish in Fleet I, it was Charlie Brown, Moonshadow, Plastic Fantastic, Pyggie, Traveller, Tigger, Kritter, Columbine and Flying Machine.

In Fleet II, Night Moves displayed her moves on Brass Tacks with a 21 second margin for first place with Wing Nut, Bandit and Merry Hell II trailing, followed by Canusa in the Cabossa.

In Fleet III, Blasen III recaptured one from Tireless with a 9 second drubbing followed by Flash, Spectre and Nulli Secundus.

The ever popular JAM Fleet brought home Mint Julep, Cheemaun, Stallworth, Cool Whip, Maureen, Cygnus, Apothecary (ever notice how those ingots stick together), Mud Duck and Ribit.

Thus, for the half-way mark of the Fall Series (that's right, folks, three more races), the scores are:

Fleet I: Charlie Brown 2.0; Moonshadow 8.75; Plastic Fantastic 9.5; Kritter 12.5; Pygmalion 14:75; Traveller 19.0; and Flying Machine and Tigger at 20.0.

In Fleet II: Night Moves 4.5; Brass Tacks 6.75; Wing Nut 7.0; Merry Hell II 12.5; Bandit 13.75; Canusa 15.0; Maranatha 21.0 and Babe 25.0.

In Fleet III: Tireless 2.0; Flash 7.0; Blasen III 8.25; Spectre 11.75; Foxy Lady 14.5; Nulli Secundus 17.0 (Note: Jim Miller is racing well in San-Sue-She but not being scored.)

In the JAM Fleet: Mint Julip and Maureen at 12.5; Mud-Duck 13:25; Cool Whip 13.75; ~~Cygnus 14:75;~~ Cheemaun 17.5; Stallworth 17.75; Apothecary 20.0; Phuenicia 22.5; Ribit 23.0; and Sandpiper 29.

Til next week, watching the western skies...

... End of the Mouse's Tale.

Mr. and Mrs. William Petter

Petters celebrate 60

Mr. and Mrs. William Petter of Ellsworth will be feted at an open house on Saturday, October 12, at the Ellsworth Westleyan Fellowship Hall in honor of their 60th wedding anniversary.

The Petters are lifelong residents of Ellsworth and active members of the Wesleyan Church and senior citizens group.

The eight Petter children will be present from 2 to 5 p.m. to host the party, and friends and relatives are invited to attend. The family requests there be no gifts.

Obituaries

GRACE E. REDDEMAN

Funeral services for Mrs. Grace E. Reddeman, 82, former Pontiac resident, were held Friday at Christ of the Lakes Lutheran Church in Waterford Township. Interment was in Oxbow Cemetery at Milford.

Mrs. Reddeman died Wednesday, Sept. 25, at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dibley, with whom she had made her home in recent years.

Surviving are a son, Sgt. Donald M. Reddemer of Fort Hood, Tex.; two daughters, Mrs. Donald (Gloria) Dibley of Charlevoix and Mrs. Richard (Majorie) Prather of Grand Rapids; 12 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; a brother, Charles Bradshaw of Pontiac and two sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Schlaefer of Drayton Plains and Mrs. Maude Stanton of Harbor Springs and Florida.

The family suggests memorials to the Christ of the Lakes Lutheran Church Building Fund or the American Cancer Society. Envelopes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of local arrangements.

The Loveland Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements in Pontiac.

IRVING L. HALLETT

Graveside services for a former Charlevoix resident, Irving L. Hallett, 87, will be held at St. Mary's Cemetery at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 5. The Rev. Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Church will officiate.

A memorial mass for the former Charlevoix resident was held at Birmingham on Saturday, September 28.

Mr. Hallett, member of an early Charlevoix family died Thursday, Sept. 19 at Birmingham.

Born in Chicago in 1897, he came to Charlevoix at the age of one year with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hallett, to join his grandfather, Luke Hallett, who had settled here. They built and operated the Hallett House located on Belvedere Ave. and for 50 years the Hallett Hotel located on the site of the present Oleson complex.

He was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and attended the University of Notre Dame, leaving his studies before graduating to enlist in the U.S. Navy during World War I.

He was married ot the former Lela Genett and resided here until the 1940s when they moved to southern Michigan. Mrs. Hallett preceded him in death.

He is survived by two sons, Irving L. (Bud) Jr. of New Jersey and Richard F. of Birmingham; six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

STEVE J. PATERKA, SR.

Funeral services for Steve J. Paterka, Sr., 74, were held at St. Mary's Church on Monday, Sept. 30. The Rev. Casimir Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Sunday evening.

Mr. Paterka died Saturday, Sept. 28 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Chicago June 16, 1911, Mr. Paterka was a professional vaudevillian in Chicago prior to coming to East Jordan and then to Charlevoix in 1946. Until recent years, he often appeared in local minstrel shows for the benefit of the Charlevoix Area Hospital and other organizations.

He was a pipefitter by trade in Chicago and after coming to northern Michigan was employed at body shops in the area. He also farmed. He had been greenskeeper at the Charlevoix municipal golf course prior to his retirement in 1974. On June 16, 1949, he was married to the former Martha Svoboda at Charlevoix. He was an avid fisherman and artist – painting and doing wood carving. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Steve J., Jr., of Charlevoix and Charles R. of Ypsilanti; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Diane) Roberts of East Jordan and Mrs. Victor (Sally) Malkowicz of Boyne Falls; eight grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Pro-Life film showing

To coincide with the National Conference of Catholic Bishops Annual Respect Life Program beginning Sunday, October 6, Action Pro-Life Chairperson, Margaret Martin, invites all to view the film, "The First Days of Life".

The film is a celebration of life, a scientific presentation of the development of the unborn from the moment of conception through actual birth, Ms. Martin says.

The goal of Action Pro-Life is education based on the premise that all life, born and unborn, deserves respect and protection at every stage of development, according to Ms. Martin.

The program will be held at St. Mary's School Hall at 11:45. Baby sitters will be provided and

4-H Week observances planned in county

Over 1,000 4-H members in Charlevoix County are planning special activities and events in observance of National 4-H week, October 6 to 12, according to Shirley Thoms, Charlevoix County 4-H Agent.

The Charlevoix County 4-Hers are among nearly 4.5 million young people across the country who will participate in the week long celebration using the theme, "4-H for Youth, for America".

"What we do for our youth today, we do for America tomorrow," Thoms said in explaining the theme. "Through 4-H, young people can acquire knowledge and develop life skills that enable them to become self-directing, productive, and contributing members of our society.

"Specifically, they learn good health habits, develop respect for themselves and others, explore career and leisure time opportunities, share responsibility for preserving the environment, learn how to use technology, and develop leadership and citizenship skills through participation in 4-H. And, that's something to celebrate.

"But 4-H is not only for youth," Thoms added. "It's for adults who, as volunteer leaders, can share their skills and expertise with young people. It's for families who can participate in the fun and learning together. It's for the community, which benefits from the community service carried out by youth. And, It's for America, which benefits as a new framework of leaders takes its place in our society."

It is through this network of volunteer leaders, state, land-grant universities, state and local governments, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, that 4-H has been able to stimulate youth to develop life skills. Programs are conducted in 3,150 counties nationwide. In addition, some 82 countries around the globe enroll approximtely five million youth in programs similar to 4-H.

Thoms is proud to point out that approximately 38 percent of the boys and girls in Charlevoix County participate in some kind of 4-H work, far above the average.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on October 21, 1985, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. at Cherlevoix High School the Board of Education of Cherlevoix Public Schools will hold a public hearing to consider the levying in 1985 of an additional proposed millage rate of 1.25 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 1.25 mills be levied in 1985 from within its present authorized millage rate. The additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1985, by five and seventeen one hundredths per cent (5.17).

The increase restores the millage rate to the amount authorized by the voters on June 10, 1985.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing the Board of Education may approve the levy of all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

$230,000 machine is 'state-of-the-art'

New fire engine makes debut in Charlevoix

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

"There's no fire engine in the world like Charlevoix's new four-wheel drive pumper. It is unique. It is state-of-the-art."

Dennis Zeman, President of 3D Fire Aparatus of Shawano, Wisconsin, made those comments as he described the process of designing the fire engine which arrived Friday in Charlevoix.

After four years of research and fund-raising the new engine came home this weekend. Sunday afternoon the Charlevoix Volunteer Firemen gave a short demonstration of its capabilities, directing plumes of water high over Round Lake.

Designed to pump 2,000 gallons of water a minute, the 34½ foot-long fire engine has four-wheel drive, hydraulically controlled equipment units, its own generator, a specially designed wheel base for short radius turning and maneuverability, and over 4,000 feet of hose.

"The Charlevoix Volunteer Firemen really looked at this as a 20-year project. They studied their community, they looked at their terrain and planned for the future. They are very credible people," Zeman said.

The new engine was conceived as the result of committee studies authorized by Charlevoix City Council in September, 1981.

Despite being surrounded by lakes, the committee discovered, Charlevoix did not have an adequate supply of water immediately available to fight fires. Charlevoix's fire hydrants, which should deliver water at a rate of 750 gallons per minute, did not meet the minimum standard. Of 20 hydrants tested, only one met the standard, three delivered water at 500 gallons per minute and two produced less than 200 gallons per minute. The study also showed that the fire department's pumper engine was 15 years old and rated at 750 gallons per minute.

"It is easy to conclude how handicapped our fire department would be in the event of a major fire in the area surveyed," the committee submitted.

Purchase a new pumper, with a minimum capability of 1,500 gallons per minute and the installation of dry hydrants around Round Lake, so the fire department would be assured an unlimited supply of water, was recommended.

In July, 1982, the Volunteer Firemen of Charlevoix began a fund-raising campaign for the new pumper. In less than two years $153,000 was raised in private donations from individuals, businesses and industry. The City of Charlevoix is making up the difference between the funds raised and the fully-equipped engine's final cost of $230,000.

The four-wheel drive was a specification requested by townships served by the city fire department and Hayes Township contributed $15,000 for that purpose.

The new engine, which is capable of pumping at 2,300 gallons a minute, using two six-inch suction hoses, is equipped with an electronic governor to control the amount of water pumping and spraying from the deluge gun, according to Douglas Bergmann, president of the volunteer firemen.

"A bad downtown fire would require this," Bergmann explained. "We are capable of pumping from Round Lake to the Elementary School," Bergmann offered as an example. "The fire at Lexalite seve-

Volunteer firemen gave the new fire engine a workout at the Beaver Island dock on Saturday. A public demonstration is scheduled for this coming Saturday, Oct. 12.

Mini-amusement parks ok'd by Council

City Council approved the inclusion of "mini-amusement parks" in the special uses allowed in commercial (C-1) zones south of Pine River Channel at its meeting Monday night.

The zoning change was approved unanimously and could pave the way for at least two "adventure" or "contour" mini-golf amusement parks in the Stover Road and M-66 area.

In a related action, council approved the sale of a parcel of land on Stover Road to A.G.A. Real Estate of Grawn for $17,000. Gary Vockey, a representative of A.G.A., says his company expects to build an adventure golf park on the parcel and the adjoining property. Construction could start as early as this fall, Vockey said.

The parcel sold by the city is between the Clark gas station on U.S. 31 and Brookside Cemetery.

W.J. Gremore of Harbor Springs has expressed interest in building a similar amusement park on parcel located directly across M-66.

Both developers had previously approached the city about putting a mini-golf park on the "Fochtman" property immediately north of Pine River Channel.

The City's approval of the change in the zoning ordinance includes several stipulations including restrictions on lighting, the condition that such parks not be immediately adjacent to residential lots, landscaping requirements, and the like.

In approving the land sale, council did not accept the buyer's request that the city provide sewer to the property at no cost. The city did agree, however, to move or buy overhead power lines in the area at its own expense.

Vockey says that A.G.A. currently has three other adventure golf facilities in Michigan.

Council also approved a site plan for a 24-unit apartment complex on Petoskey Avenue to be called the Lake Harbor Apartments. The site, which is next to the Chez Charlevoix condominiums, will be developed by the Tecklin Corporation.

Previous hearings on the apartment complex had been postponed because of concern over the adequacy of storm and sanitary sewers in the area.

Those concerns were expressed again Monday night. Bud Gebeau, a resident of Chez Charlevoix, told council that "what you are doing you ought to take a long thought about." He said council was leaving itself vulnerable to responsibility for future health problems.

A study of the sewer capacity convinced the city that the apartment complex would not cause major problems.

Jordan weir lawsuit thrown out of court

by PEG OHLE

The salmon blocking weir on the Jordan River above Rogers Bridge will remain in place, at least for the time-being.

That was the Court's decision in a suit brought by Arthur D. George, president of the Little Traverse Bay Chapter of the Salmon Association of Michigan, against the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Tempo Tech, a private company with a contract to harvest the fish, to force removal of the weir. The case was heard in Charlevoix Circuit Court last Friday. It ended in the Court granting a motion for Summary Dismissal of the suit.

In 95 minutes of debate before Judge Richard Pajtas, the Court never got around to considering the "meat" of the suit:

That the placement of the weir, closing the Jordan River for fishing from its mouth to the weir, harvesting the fish, and imposing fishing restrictions on the public, are all illegal activities and not permitted by a state law.

Instead, the time was spent in arguing whether or not George, as a representative of the Little Traverse Bay Chapter of the Salmon Association of Michigan, was legally entitled to bring the suit.

The question was brought up at the start of the hearing by Ronald Zellar of the State Attorney General's office, representing the DNR, and echoed by Greg Rappleye of the Grand Haven law firm of Scholten, Fant & Marquis, representing Tem-

Hayes zoning gets first court test

by PEG OHLE

A Plaintiff's Motion for Partial Summary Dispostion will be heard Wednesday afternoon, October 9, in Fox & Associates' lawsuit against Hayes Township over the Township's zoning ordinance.

The motion will be heard at 1:30 p.m. in the Cheboygan County courtroom of Circuit Judge Robert C. Livo. At that time, Fox & Associates will request that the Judge declare Section 5.13 of the zoning ordinance invalid and order the Hayes Township Planning Commission to approve Fox's plan for a Planned Unit Development on 338 acres of property with 2,800 feet of Lake Charlevoix shoreline he owns in the Township.

Section 5.13 is the basis for the lawsuit which was filed last January. This section, the "Shoreline Protection" part of the ordinance, provides for not more than "one slip or dock space for each 100 feet of lake frontage or lake access of more than one single family living unit for each 100 feet of lake frontage". The restriction on number of boat slips does not apply to rowboats, canoes, dinghies, rubber boats, or other such hand-powered vessels.

In his plans for a Planned Unit Development, Fox proposes a greater number of dock spaces per 100 feet of lake frontage as well as a greater density of living units per 100 feet of lake frontage.

In the Plaintiff's Motion for a Summary Disposition hearing, Fox

Pipe installation aborted

Workers float the new intake pipe into Lake Michigan in an abortive attempt to put the pipe in place on the lake bottom on Friday. Winds picked up before the pipe could be installed and it was returned to shore. Ryba Marine will attempt to get the 1,500-foot pipe in again on Thursday, according to a construction spokesman.

Shrine band to perform here

The famed "Million Dollar Shriners Band" will present a program of classical and marching music on Saturday evening, October 12, at 8 p.m. in the elementary school building.

The band is being brought to Charlevoix from Grand Rapids by the Northwest Shriners Club. There will be no admission charge for the program, but a free will offering will be accepted to carry on the work of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Services provided by Shriners Hospitals are well known to many, but the numbers of children helped run into many thousands.

In their 62 years of existence, Shriners Hospitals have cured or substantially helped more than 297,000 crippled and burned children.

Since the first Shriners Hospital opened in 1922, approximately 371,484 operations have been performed, 6,845,526 physical therapy treatments have been given, 346,442 braces and prosthesis have ben applied, 4,207,190 X-rays and photos have been taken, and 2,876,343 outpatient clinic visits have been handled.

In 1984, 16,063 new hospital applications were approved by the 22 hospitals.

Since 1922, the Shrine of North America has spent approximately $866 million operating Shriners Hospitals and approximately $186 million on construction costs. The 1985 Shriners Hospitals budget is $150 million, which includes an operating budget of $122 million and a construction and equipment budget of $28 million. A portion of the operating budget – $8.6 million – is dedicated to research.

Counselor helps people cope with stress

by DOUG TRUAX

Mary Misslitz-Frame

Stress is something Mary Misslitz-Frame understands well, on both a personal and professional level.

She gained the academic knowledge at Michigan State University while studying toward an M.S.W. degree in social work. The personal understanding came more painfully.

Both have been important to her work as a counselor and teacher, and she puts that knowledge to work every day in her work as a counselor. She will also share it in a Stress Management course offered this month at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

It was a desire to know more about stress, Frame says, that led her into a mid-life career change as a counselor. Her first husband died suddenly of a heart attack when he was only [illegible]. "My interest in stress was really grabbed when he died," she recalls. She was acutely aware of both the stress that may have contributed to his death and the stress she felt as a mother suddenly losing a loved one and responsible for a family.

Frame responded to the pain and confusion by starting college and "doing fairly extensive research on the effects of stress."

She entered college in the mid-sixties, at a time when it was rare for a woman in her mid-thirties to be launching a new career. In 1977 she received her masters degree in social work and in 1978 began private practice in individual and family counseling.

"One reason I went into counseling was that they didn't think gray hairs were any deterrent".

In addition to her practice she taught classes at Michigan State and Lansing Community College. In 1980, she and her new husband Robert moved north to Charlevoix where she worked first for the Northern Michigan Hospitals and then opened her own practice.

"My long-term goal when we moved north was to be in private practice in five years. It was less than that before it happened," she recalls. "I believe in helping people set long-term goals. It is amazing to me how they have a way of working out."

Since she has been in private practice, Frame has engaged in a wide range of counseling, including individuals and families with problems not only with stress but such problems as divorce mediation, sexual abuse, and plain old problems of day-to-day living.

She finds that people often misunderstand the role counseling can play. "People think that if they get involved in counseling, it has to be a long-term, expensive proposition. Some people just need to talk it out with a trained person who can help them make growth choices – to see the options in the midst of a crisis."

And sometimes they wait too long, she says. "They don't always have to wait until they are in the midst of a full blown crisis."

The family is central to understanding and resolving any crisis, Frame says. "It comes down to the family we grew up with," she notes. "Counseling always involves the entire family, whether I am seeing one person or a family."

People cannot cut off the family without a severe loss, she says. And therapy is not going to work, she adds, if it is not transferable to the family. For that reason, Frame is enthused about the experiences she has had at the Eagle Village family enrichment programs.

"The final task we all have to learn somewhere along the line," she adds, "is how to be our own good parent. I'm still working on that."

Among the persistent problems facing couples, she says, is not making time for each other. "Nearly everyone, when asked what they do together for fun, says nothing. They might be doing things together, but they don't call it fun. Or they might be having fun but they don't do it together."

Frame continues, "Too many of us are wrapped up in our own interests, our goals, our success. We just don't leave time for the family. I try to help people take a look at priorities and goals, and how they are going to achieve them."

She is convinced that counseling can make a difference. "It is culturally ingrained that we should be independent, self-sufficient, and work through everything ourselves. It is easier for many people to go to a physician for medication than to [illegible] counseling. But you cannot medicate for chronic anxiety, depression or many physical symptoms."

Her life experiences, both the pain of grief and loss and the positive ones – which have included being a junior and senior high school teacher, a real estate saleswoman, a swimming instructor, a member of the national ski patrol, a girl scout leader, and much more – have helped in her counseling, Frame concludes. "There is a lot to be said for having been there."

The Stress Management course offered by the Charlevoix Area Hospital and Mary Misslitz-Frame starts at 7 p.m. Thursday, October 17 and continues for five more Thursday evening sessions.

The cost is $60 with a $10 optional book fee. Call Dave Knight at 547-4024 or Mary Frame at 547-6622 for more information.

Editorial

Council decision not amusing

On Monday night City Council took action that could pave the way for Charlevoix's south side to become the plastic, honky tonk capital of the North.

Council agreed with the City Planning Commission to allow "mini-amusement parks" as a special use in commercial property south of Pine River Channel.

These "adventure" or "contour" mini-golf amusement parks, which sometimes include water slides and the like, are the latest rage in summertime entertainment.

No voice was raised against the project. Amazingly there were not even serious concerns expressed. No representative of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful voiced concern about the massive change two such parks would make on the important southern entrance to the city. No city official spoke to the question of traffic congestion and confusion at an intersection already verging on chaos on busy summer days and evenings.

Perhaps most surprising of all is how quickly and little noticed this major change in the look and feel of this once quaint and quiet resort town sailed through the public forum. Less than two weeks ago the matter was brought before the Planning Commission which quickly embraced it and passed it on to council where it was similarly accepted without serious reservation.

The message is clear. Charlevoix's south end is fair game for development of any type. This stands in marked contrast to recent disapproval by council of a request to allow flower shops and a few other businesses in existing residential homes on the north side. The proposal was greeted with a howl of protest, despite the fact that the business in question would have been housed in a building barely distinguishable from other homes in the area.

We think Charlevoix will be the loser for this shortsighted zoning policy. Say goodbye to any illusion of a quiet, small-town look to the south side. Even Traverse City can't boast two adventure golf business side by side.

We hope the questions on this approach do not come too late...like when the traffic from Stover Road, U.S. 31, M-66, Captain's Corner shopping mall, the bank, and two mini-amusement parks all converge on a one block stretch of road.

UNILATERAL FORGIVENESS

Consider this statement: There is no record in the Gospels of anyone Jesus Christ forgave iof their sin having asked for forgiveness! tt's true!

The love of God expressed to us through Jesus Christ in the forgiveness of our sin is not dependent on any action or any prerequisite on our part.

The Scripture describes unilateral forgiveness this way in Romans 5:8, (NIV) "But God demonstrates His own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us." That's fantastic. Before we were born, before any possibility existed that we could do anything to merit His love and forgiveness, God loved and forgave us. He forgave us, knowing that we would sin. He continues to extend forgiveness knowing that t will continue to sin from time-to-time.

The Gospel of Matthew records the healing of the paralytic in chapter 9. In this story a paralytic is brought to Jesus to be healed. Jesus first words to the man are, "Take heart; son; your sins are forgiven" Mt. 9:2 (NIV). The skeptics standing nearby accused Jesus of blasphemy, since the power to forgive sins resides in God alone. And that was precisely the point. Jesus had made the statement to prove that He had the authority to forgive sins. He then turned to the paralytic and bid him get up, take up his mat and go home. The man had been brought for healing. Jesus first forgave his sin, then healed him. Forgiveness of sin was given and had not even been asked for!

Luke the Physician records in his Gospel (Luke 7:36-50) the forgiveness Jesus gave to the "sinful woman" who washed His feet with her tears and dried them with her hair and there is no record of her having asked for forgiveness. The love of Christ flowed to her in unilateral forgiveness.

It's hard for us to understand the love of Christ, and to accept His unilateral forgiveness because it is so vastly different and far superior to human love and forgiveness. As humans we insist that certain conditions be met before we will love someone (they must be "our type", they must act nice, they must be "likeable", etc.). tf we are to forgive someone who has offended us we insist that they first come and apologize. How often have we said, or heard someone say, "I'm not going to forgive that so-and-so until they come crawling on their knees and say they are sorry!". Our forgiveness depends upon their apology. God's forgiveness requires nothing first.

Do not confuse God's unilateral forgiveness with approval of our sin. Sin always separates us from God. Yet His forgiveness flows unilaterally to us, not demanding anything first. Repentence must follow forgiveness of course, but it is not a requirement before forgiveness is granted! There isn't anything we can do to merit God's forgiveness. tt is unilateral, it flows from the forgiver. "But God demonstrates His Own Love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us."

Receive His forgiveness. Go and sin no more! (John 8:1-1t)

Hayes zoning court test

states, through his attorney Seberon Litzenburger, that the enabling act of the Township Rural Zoning Act authorizes a Township Board to regulate the use of land and structures to promote the public health, safety, and welfare, but does not give the Township authority to regulate boats or water.

Fox further claims that the enabling act "does not include language authorizing a Township to prohibit, restrict, or otherwise diminish the right of a riparian property owner to grant easements, rights-of-way, or licenses over and across his riparian lands so as to provide access to navigable waters."

By enforcing Section 5.13 of its zoning ordinance against his Planned Unit Development, Fox further claims that the Township is depriving him of his riparian rights without due process of law.

Fox & Associates' lawsuit against Hayes Township dates back to last January and covers discussions and meetings Fox had with Township Planning Commission members over a period of time in 1984 regarding his Planned Unit Development

Fox has stated that, as talks progressed, he made several changes in his plans in an effort to meet the Hayes Township zoning regulations. His first plans were presented on April 17, 1984 and called for 32 buildings containing 228 condominium units, 106 units on the lakefront and the rest offshore along a proposed 18-hole golf course. The plan also called for 66 boat slips. The Township expressed concern over this number of buildings and units, so Fox presented a revised plan on May 15. This plan called for 27 buildings containing 168 condominium units and 66 boat slips.

The Township again turned down Fox's plan, citing Section 5.t3 of the zoning ordinance. At the same time, the Township stated it would permit a Planned Unit Development with t26 units, 28 of which would have lake access (one per t00 feet of lake frontage) and 28 boat slips (again, one per 100 feet of lake frontage). Fox did not accept the Township's offer because he considered it was not an economically feasible plan.

Despite the many discussions and meetings, Hayes Township denies that Fox ever applied to its Planning Commission for approval of a Planned Unit Development.

The Township's answer to Fox's complaint contains the wording, "Plaintiff attended several meetings of the Planning Commission requesting its opinion as to various forms of possible development and was repeatedly advised that any Planned Unit Development would first have to meet the requirements of Section 5.13 of the Township zoning ordinance. Talks never progressed beyond informal discussions because Plaintiff was unwilling to comply with the Defendant's zoning ordinance."

If Fox did not apply for a zoning permit for a Planned Unit Development, can Hayes Township be cited for not issuing him one? The judge will have to decide. Hayes Township also claims in its answer that the enabling act of the Township Rural Zoning Ordinance does permit it to restrict the number of boats docked along its shoreline and permit riparian rights owners to give other persons rights of access to navigable waters.

The judge's decision growing out of Wednesday's hearing will probably be appealed no matter who wins the lawsuit, but the final decision will be carefully studied because it is expected it will affect all land use zoning.

Jordan River weir

po Tech.

They hammered on the point that the Grand Traverse Bay Chapter of the Salmon Association of Michigan was not incorporated and that it had not been registered in Emmet County (its mailing address) as doing business there. Therefore, the Defendants contended, it was not a legal entity and could not file suit.

On the other hand, Plaintiff George and his attorney, Peter Vellenga of Boyne City, insisted that the parent Association, the Salmon Association of Michigan, is incorporated, and that as part of that Association, the Little Traverse Bay Chapter had a right to file suit. "We abide by the Salmon Association of Michigan's rules as a Chapter, and I am president of the Little Traverse Bay Chapter," George explained.

The only exchange of harsh words during the hearing came when Vellenga told the Court, "t am ashamed to see the Attorney General's office be part of a smoke screen to keep from getting to the real issues in this case."

Judge Pajtas explained his decision to dismiss the case was based on the fact he did not believe the Plaintiff was qualified to file the suit. This decision was met with consternation by some 30 members of the Little Traverse Bay Chapter who had sat through the hearing.

One of them, Randy Whitten of East Jordan, vowed to continue the fight to have the weir removed and brought up the question of "Chapters" in general: "What about the local Chapter of the American Cancer Society? Must it be registered in the County in order to collect money and do its work? What about fraternity and sorority Chapters? Are they or are they not legal entities?"

The weir was placed in the Jordan River in early September and the DNR plans to keep it in place until the salmon runs are over, some time in November. Some 315,000 Chinook salmon were planted in Lake Charlevoix in t982 and are now returning to spawn in the rivers and streams that flow into the lake.

The DNR contends the spawning ruins sport fishing in the rivers and defends closing the Jordan from its mouth to the weir because otherwise "hordes of fishermen would cause problems of trespass, bank erosion, and illegal fish taking."

Arthur George is a well-known proponent of public fishing rights. He told the Courier, "It is an injustice to the people of the state to allow a company to harvest game fish under such pretenses. People pay $15 for a license to fish and aren't permitted to use it."

George has vowed to carry on his fight.

Favorite lakes

By Bob Clock

The other day my colleague Shelley Deneau asked me to write a one-page essay about my favorite lake.

"That's a snap," I said to myself. "Isn't Charlevoix's Round Lake the most perfect lake in the world?"

Of course my friend's request started me thinking about all of the lakes I have known intimately over the years and the task suddenly became more complicated.

What about Sugar Loaf Lake near Chelsea where my parents had a summer cottage when I was a toddler. I remember my grandmother poking a hole through the pointed end of a muskmelon rind, tying a string through it and letting me pull the rind through the water behind me — a genuine melon boat.

It was at Sugar Loaf Lake that my mother caught two bass and a bullhead on a fishing expedition one evening. She put them in the ice box to be cleaned by my father when be arrived from Detroit the next morning. The two bass obligingly died, but the bullhead refused to give up the ghost and thrashed around all night, knocking over catsup bottles and breaking eggs. None of us got any sleep.

OR SUGDEN LAKE in Oakland County where we stayed a number of summers in the t930s. The lake had so many fish all so eager to be hooked that t could take orders on demand.

"We're going to have a crowd for breakfast," my mother would say. "t could use about a dozen nice perch."

A half hour later she'd have a dozen nice perch, and a few sunfish and bluegills to boot.

Or Lake Chemung in Livingston County, another favorite summer retreat. The water was clear and cool and the rock-hard sand bottom invited day-long swimming parties around the raft my Uncle Jim built at the edge of the drop-off.

OR LAKE OF THE CLOUDS in Ontonagon County. When I was in college t worked one summer as a section hand for the Gorman Lumber Co. in Ontonagon. To my knowledge Gorman was the last logging company in the Upper Peninsula to have its own railroad.

The company was owned by two aging spinster sisters, Lenora and tna Martin, who had frequent weekend visitors, most of whom wanted to visit the Porcupine Mountains. So after pounding spikes and tamping ties all week, I was often called upon on weekends to escort visiting dignitaries up the tortuous trail that led to the top of the Porcupines.

The visitors' astonished oh's and ah's when they reached the rocky pinnacle and looked down on Lake of the Clouds were always worth my trouble.

Or Lake Chuzenji nestled in a hollow high in the mountains northwest of Tokyo. When I was in the army t liked to visit Lake Chuzenji, particularly in the fall when the blue waters were fringed with yellow aspens and a few outrageous hardwoods.

In fall, Lake Chuzenji looks for all the world like the lakes of Oakland County. t never felt quite so far from home while hiking along her shores.

AND THEN THERE'S Round Lake.

Have you ever attended a band concert in East Park at sunset when Round Lake catches the last rays of the dying sun? As seagulls wheel above the shimmering water, every sailboat, every fishing shed, every condominium, every home on her high banks stands out in sharp relief, as if glowing with its own luminescence.

Round Lake is still far and away my favorite.

Chamber Chatter

by CLAUDIA KENIFECK
Executive Director

Last week's special city council meeting to discuss the parking problem drew a large crowd. It was the first time ever that the City Council, DDA, Chamber, merchant group, mayor and city manager have sat down and discussed a city problem together as a group.

Though parking meter enforcement is not the final solution to the parking problem, it is a measurable step in the right direction.

The survey forms coming back to us are telling us what we need to know: Where to put our energies and what our weaknesses are. If you haven't already done so, please take the time to fill yours out and return it to our office.

The West Michigan Tourist Association Annual Conference held at the Grand Traverse Resort last Monday was very educational. The Chamber came away with some good ideas.

With so many things going on this weekend, let's hope for decent weather!

The Industrial Fair is so large this year, it will fill the entire high school gymnasium!

Apple Fest '85 is full of fun for the entire family. There are still openings for the Scarecrow Contest. Sign up before 10 a.m. Saturday.

Finally, a few seats remain on the Beaver Islander for the Chamber Color Cruise which sails Saturday from 1-3 p.m. Come and enjoy the last of the fall colors.

The truck carries two different nozzle tips for the turret-mounted gun, permitting varied types of sprays depending on conditions, a six-kilowatt generator, and two 1,500-watt quartz lights," which can light up the night just like daylight," according to Bergmann.

In explaining the new truck's features, Zeman said, "tt is designed to be the first vehicle through snow in winter, across sand in summer, and carry all the equipment needed so it alone could fight any fire."

Zeman's Company was proud of Charlevoix's custom designed truck they requested permission to show it off at the International Fire Chiefs Convention in New Orleans, Sept. t5-16, before sending it to Charlevoix.

"You always show off your latest and best," Zeman remarked.

The new fire engine was awarded first place at the Fire Engine Festival held at Petoskey last weekend.

The Volunteer Firemen of Charlevoix have announced that on Saturday, October 12, at 2 p.m. there will be a public demonstration of the capabilities of the newly equipped fire engine.

This demonstration will be held at the City Dock in downtown Charlevoix. Thre will be free balloons for everyone.

Engagements

Deborah Davis and Brian Williams

Davis - Williams

Mr. and Mrs. J. Calvin Davis of Houston and Little Rock announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah, to Brian Williams of Houston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a 1982 graduate of Alice Hastings High School and is currently studying elementary education at Houston Community College.

Her fiance is a 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School and received a degree in civil engineering from Michigan State University. He is employed by Zapata Off-Shore Company in Houston.

Democrats see film

A larger than usual number of Charlevoix County Democrats turned out for an evening meeting held at the Charlevoix City Hall on September 17.

Some ideas were discussed for increasing local party strength and providing incentive for Democrats to attend committee meetings. Party finances and voter registration were several of the topics touched. The meeting concluded with a film of a rousing speech given by Hubert Humphrey only weeks before his death.

The next Charlevoix County Democratic meeting will be Saturday, October 26 at the UAW Hall in Boyne City. Coffee and rolls will be provided.

Make up artist gives tips to local women

by PEG OHLE

Robert Tamiggi, who has advised many motion picture and television stars on how to apply their makeup, was kept busy "making over" several local women when he visited Charlevoix for a three-day work demonstration recently.

Among those who sat for Tamiggi's makeover was Sherry Sheldon, who also consented to have a reporter listen in and take notes as Tamiggi explained each step in applying makeup. The notes, taken by the male member of the Courier staff, are skimpy and disjointed, but here and there an idea comes through:

Start your makeup application with a mild freshener. It picks up the oils that lie on the surface of the skin.

Always test makeup on the jawbone or use a cosmetics sponge of foam rubber, which doesn't stimulate the oil glands.

Press powder to the face, then take a brush and dust all you want.

The main objection to women wearing makeup is that they wear too much. The trend now is a soft and natural look.

The eyebrow arch is always located at the center of the eye.

tt is not necessary to apply mascara to the lower lid if you apply eye shadow as Tamiggi suggests.

Apply lip liner with mouth closed. Start in center of upper lip and smile with lips closed and work to edge.

This winter season, lips have never been prettier – since the 40's.

Nose corrections are usually not done by makeup artists. They are done on a surgeon's table.

Debbia Bellinger, owner of New Creation Hair Designs, where Tamiggi did his work, says he applied makeup to and advised 21 women while he was in town.

"Everyone had a good time," she reports, "and all the women were amazed at how much they learned from him. He taught them a great deal."

Tamiggi liked Charlevoix so well that he wants to come back in about six months, according to Mrs. Bellinger.

Real estate course offered

All Michigan real estate licensees are required to complete a six-hour real estate continuing education course as approved by the Department of Licensing and Regulation prior to renewing their licenses for 1986.

This approved course is being offered by the Michigan Association of Realtors in conjunction with the Antrim-Charelvoix Board of Realtors on Wednesday, Oct. 23, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., at Grey Gables Inn of Charlevoix.

The registration fee is $25 for members and $35 for non-members. Registration for the course should be sent to the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors, Pine River Building, Charlevoix, MI 49720 (616-547-4732) by October 16. Registrants must write their license I.D. number of their checks.

Foot care clinic planned

A foot care clinic, expecially for the elderly, will be held at the Wellness Center at 624 State St. in Boyne City the third Tuesday of every month.

The hours will be from 9 a.m. until noon. This month the clinic is scheduled for Oct. 15.

The clinic will be conducted by Michigan Home Health care. The cost will be $7.

Basins will be provided but clients are asked to bring their own towels. Appointments are not necesary but they will be appreciated.

The care will include soaking of the feet, filing of nails, corns and callouses and application of lotion.

Harriers retain Invitational title

Coach Pete Spieles told runner Doug Bergmann to take it easy on his injured right knee during the fourth annual Claire Martin Cross Country Invitational on Saturday.

Bergmann cruised through the course, placing first on the team and fourth overall.

Charlevoix defended its boys title in the meet, putting three runners in the top 10 and claiming class A-B and large C division honors with 152 points. Kalkaska followed with 191 and Petoskey was third with 192.

The Charlevoix girls ran off with the class C-D title in division three. They had 81 points and were followed by Mancelona with 166.

The boys won handily despite being without top runner Pat Rajewski. Bergmann ran the course in 17:05 for his fourth place finish while teammate Joe Simpson was fifth at 17:08 and Mike Dohm took eighth with a 17:12.

Other runners for Charlevoix in the boys division included Shawn Henne (17:30), Kevin McLenon (17:40), Quentin Miller (18:07), Tom Merta (18:35), Dave Warth (18:43), and Ed Knight (18:55).

Leading the girls team was Betsy Haggard who placed seventh overall with a time of 20:58. She was followed by Michelle North in eighth place at 21:21. Other runners for the girls team included Heidi Olinger (21:54), Barb Haggard (23:20), Lori Raymond (23:39), and Noni Pace (23:[illegible]).

Running for Beaver Island were Kerry Speck (24:03) and Carrie Wojan (26:57).

A total of 133 runners representing 13 schools took part in the meet.

Fastest run of the day was by Mancelona's Jeff Thomas in the boys C-D race. Thomas, defending state class D cross country champ, was clocked at 16:32.

The event was held in blustery weather with winds of 20-30 mph. The course covered 3.1 miles.

Runners are silhouetted on the hill at Belvedere Golf Club during the running of the Claire Martin Invitational.

Runners take pair

Charlevoix's Cross Country teams picked up a pair of victories Tuesday, October 1, in dual competition against Rogers City at the Belvedere Golf Course.

The boys, led by the first place finish of Pat Rajewski, posted a 19-40 victory while the girls, behind Betsy Haggard's top finish, won 19-36.

"Both teams had excellent days with several personal best times for the course," said Rayders' coach Pete Spieles.

Boys top 10: 1-Rajewski, Charlevoix, 16:01; 2-Mike Dohm, Charlevoix, 16:12; 3-Jeff Kimerer, Rogers City, 16:17; 4-Joe Simpson, Charlevoix, 16:30; 5-Kevin McLenon, Charlevoix, 16:39; 6-Kirk Ikens, Rogers City, 16:44; 7-Sean Henne, Charlevoix, 16:49; 8-Wayne Repke, Rogers City, 16:59; 9-Tom Merta, Charlevoix, 17:06; 10-Harold Herriman, Charlevoix, 17:13; Other Charlevoix placers: 12-Dave Warth, 17:43; 13-Ed Knight, 17:58.

"We are still without Doug Bergmann (injured) but Henne is doing an excellent job of filling in and Dohm ran very well," said Spieles. "We are running about 42 second between our first and sixth places and that's pretty good."

Haggard's time in the girls race was 20:06 while others in the top five were: 2-Michelle North, Charlevoix, 20:38; 3-Heidi Olinger, Charlevoix, 20:54; 4. Monica Beck, Rogers City, 21:07; 5-Barb Haggard, Charlevoix, 22:24. Other Charlevoix places: 8-Noni Pace, 23:22; 15-Tina McLenon, 27:15.

"The girls all ran very well," Spieles.

Chiefs wallop Rayders 41-0

The Cheboygan Chiefs got the big plays when they needed them – and when Charlevoix least expected – to take a lopsided 41-0 victory on Friday.

The Rayders were unable to mount any significant offense on the night, picking up only six first downs and rushing for 104 yards.

Cheboygan, on the other hand, piled up 517 yards total offense, including 440 yards on the ground in 50 rushing attempts.

The Chiefs have now won four straight games. Charlevoix's record drops to 2-3 overall, 1-3 in the conference.

On several occasions the Rayder defense held until third or fourth down, only to watch the Chiefs break a big play for a score.

Cheboygan started its touchdown parade in the first period when Dude Sigler went 16 yards and Mike Edwards kicked his first of five conversions.

In the second quarter DeanVan Horne hit on two TD passes, one to Ken Pletcher for 14 yards and another to Zigler for 13 yards for a 21-0 lead at the half.

Cheboygan opened the second half with a 62-yard touchdown pass from VanHorne to Pletcher. After a series of downs by Charlevoix, the Chiefs got the ball back on their own 20 yard line. Sophmore Jason Grondon broke an 80-yard run for a touchdown.

Grondoo bettered that run in the fourth quarter, going 86 yards for the final Cheboygan score.

For the Rayders, Brian Wilmot had 11 tackles and was credited with a fine offensive and defensive game by assistant coach Hal Evans. "Wilmot played his heart out," Evans said.

He also credited the defensive work of Kent Seymour who came off the bench to add nine tackles, while Scott Crandell had eight and John Jaskierski picked up a fumble recovery.

Rayder quarterback Marc Himebauch hit five of 12 passes for 48 yards.

The Rayders were again without tailback Matt Lignell due to a sprained ankle. Also absent were fullback Jim Morgridge and Kevin Shepard due to illness.

Basketball squad drops two games

Charlevoix dropped a second straight Michigan-Huron Shores Conference basketball contest Thursday, as host Cheboygan posted a 53-38 decision.

The loss dropped Charlevoix to 2-2 in league and 3-3 overall headed into a home game Tuesday, Oct. 8, with Grayling.

Cheboygan jumped into an 11-8 first period lead and pushed the margin to 33-23 at the half with a 39-23 at the half with a 39-31 spread going into the final stanza.

"They got a good team and start two sophomores," said Charlevoix coach Henry Wagner.

For Charlevoix, Michelle Gagnon was the only player in double figures with 11 points while for Cheboygan, Scarlett McGee hit 13 points, sophomore Mary Yankoviak 11 and Jody Curley 10.

Cheboygan had 18 field goals, 17 of 25 from the charity line with 19 fouls while Charlevoix hit 13 baskets, 12 of 22 free throws with 11 personals.

Cheboygan also took the JV game 33-22.

The Rayders dropped their first Michigan-Huron Shores Conference basketball outing in three starts on Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Charlevoix failed to overcome a poor start as Gaylord broke to a 29-15 lead and was never headed. Charlevoix dropped to 3-2 overall.

"We just didn't look very good," said Coach Henry Wagner of the games's first 16 minutes.

Gaylord took a 15-9 first period lead and posted a 14-6 margin in the second stanza. Charlevoix came back with a 14-8 third period cushion to cut the deficit to 37-29 but then mustered just four points in the final quarter.

Amy Pischner led Charlevoix with 10 points while for Gaylord, Chris Fortier had 14 points and Heidi Hella 12.

Gaylord canned 22 field goals, two of eight from the line with 12 fouls while Charlevoix mustered 12 field goals, nine of 17 charity throws with seven personals.

Gaylord also took the JV game.

Alcohol enforcement grant is given

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the East Jordan Police Department, and the Boyne City Police Department will share in a $25,000 grant for alcohol enforcement.

The grant was awarded by the Federal Office of Highway Safety Planning. It will allow for equipment purchases, training, and overtime to place deputies and patrolmen in crucial areas, and at crucial times; to detec introxicated drivers and apprehend those who violate the drunk driver statute, according to Sheriff George T. Lasater.

"Charlevoix County was designated as a target county in Michigan for added alcohol enforcement because of the large number of alcohol-related traffic accidents and fatalities," Lasater explained about the grant.

Lasater pointed out that in the last 18 traffic fatalities handled by the Sheriff's office, 14 have been alcohol-related. "As Sheriff, this means we have a problem on the highways in our county and we must do what we can to make the highways safe," he added.

To answer the criticism of his handling of alcohol enforcement made by some people, Lasater cites the above figures and continues, "In the last nine years, I have had to knock on 48 doors to advise the next of kin that they had someone killed in a traffic accident, and out of 48, 32 were caused by alcohol and an intoxicated driver. We are not trying to stop people from drinking, just asking that they make arrangements so they are not drinking and driving."

Youth bowling starts

Paul Bunyan Lanes has announced that leagues for young people will begin next weekend.

On Saturday Oct. 12 the Saturday Middle School league will get underway at 11 a.m.

The Charlevoix High School bowling league starts on Sunday, Oct. 13 at noon.

The leagues are open to anyone in the middle or high schools.

Paul Bunyan Lanes is located on U.S. 31 South.

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

Well, it comes down to only one more race for the entire year. The cacophony of racing sounds that are so familiar to us, such as the crack of the tacking sail, the sound of the bow wave of the chasing boat, challenges of "coming up," and the boom of Phil's shotgun as your timer begins its beeping will be but a pleasant, warming memory over the next six months while we dream of Spring Series.

The race committee has determined that the scheduled event on 10-16 will be an entertainment night (see next week's column) and will score the Fall Series of four races with one discard.

The fourth race, a 6.71 n. mile event on 10-2 gave us a full, unshortened course under typical fall weather conditions.

Fleet I brought home Plas, Fan'c, Krit'r, Travel'r, Moonshadow, Pyggle, Chuckle B, Columbine, FlyMach, and Tig'r.

Fleet II produced Merry Hell, Wing Nut, Nite Moves, and Bandit (in last place??).

Fleet III gave us Tireless, Blasen, Flash, Nulli Secundus, and Spectre.

The JAM Fleet showed Mint J. Cygnus, Mud Duck, Cheemaun, Apoth'c'y, Coolwhip, Phoneicia, Stalworth, Ribit and Sandpiper.

Thus, the scores going into the last race for the combined fleets (with one throw-out) are:

Fleet I: Chuckie 2.0; Plastic and Moonie 5.75; Krit'r 7; Pyggle 11.75; Trav'l 12:75; Flying 19; and Tig'r 20.

Fleet II: Wing Nut and Nite Moves 4.5; Brass T and Merry H 6.75; Bandit 10.75 and Canusa 15.

Fleet III: Tireless 0.75 (how about that!!); Blasen 5.75; Flash 7.0; Spectre 11.75; and Nulli Secundus 15.

JAM Fleet: Mintie 0.75; Muddie 8.0; Cyggie 10.25; Mo 12.5; Coolie 12.75; Cheemaun 13.5; Stalworth 15.75; Apoth'y 16; Phoen'a 18.5; Froggie 22 and Sandpiper 29.

Don't forget! Only one more race, so give it your best shot.

Till next week, watching the western skies.

....End of the Mouse's Tale

JV gridders lose one

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Charlevoix junior varsity football team Thursday night.

The young Rayders battled unbeaten Cheboygan (4-0) to the wire before bowing 19-18 to go 3-2 for the year.

Charlevoix scored in the first period on a 31 yard pass from Dan Drury to Scott DeYoung and Cheboygan came back with a 15 yard run in the second period for a 6-6 halftime standoff.

In the third quarter Cheboygan scored from the five and kicked the extra point to go up 13-6. Charlevoix then bounced back in the final stanza with a 20-yard run from Derek Dutcher and took an 18-13 lead minutes later when Marv Witthoeft broke loose on a 62-yard romp.

Charlevoix then had the ball late in the game with a first and 10 but fumbled at the CX-25. Cheboygan slowly drove deep, scoring with 1:10 left on the clock to win the game.

Charlevoix got one last chance after a fumble with 40 seconds left but could not move.

"We had an outstanding defensive game and good all around play by everyone," said Rayder coach Brian Certa. "It was a good game but we just had too many turnovers."

On defense for Charlevoix, Chad Thorpe was credited with a good defensive effort with several key tackles.

Thursday, Oct. 10, Charlevoix is at Gaylord.

VFW reports on activities

The 13th Distict president of the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be present for an inspection of floor work at the October 3 meeting of the Charlevoix VFW Auxiliary, members were advised by president Arlene Staley at a recent meeting of the orgnization.

Members were also told that annual dues would be increased by $2 effective Nov. 1. At the present time dues are $10 for those members less than 67 years and $5 for those past that age. Members are reminded to pay their dues now and save the $2 increase. The dues include a subscription to the National Auxiliary magazine, cancer insurance and cancer grants to members.

At the same meeting the group voted to make a generous donation to the Post for necessary kitchen repairs and to the VFW Children's Home at Easton Rapids in memory of member Edna Woodard who died August 24. The charter was also draped in her memory.

It was announced that the family potluck dinners would be held the last Sunday of each month during the fall and winter. Post and Auxiliary members, their families and prospective members are invited to attend. They are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. Mrs. John Curtis will be the hostess at the Sept. 29 dinner.

Members continue to sell tickets on a beautiful blue and white quilt-comforter made by members. They are asked to sell the book of tickets each has been alloted and return the money and stubs prior to the drawing on Oct. 12 during the Apple Festival.

Mrs. Rosalyn Goldstick presented an audit report of the secretary's and treasurer's books for the past quarter and also on the bingo concession fund.

Members were reminded to save Glen's green slips with the proceeds going to the cancer fund and that small robin pins benefiting the project were available for $1.

Rosemary Warner, hospital chairperson, reported that gifts were sent to hospitalized veterans and cards to those were ill.

Sue Fowler, dental hygenist for Dr. Jeffrey Porter, demonstrates tooth cleaning on Lisa Skippergosh. Students from the kindergarten visited Dr. Porter's office as a part of their alpha phonics program. They brought along "Mr. T", their alpha phonics inflatable toy, and viewed all of the dental facilities at the office.

Obituaries

Richard D. Boulton

Funeral services for Richard Daniel Boulton, 48, of Charlevoix were held Thursday, October 3, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Father Wilbert Hegener, O.F.M. officiated. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

A rosary was recited Wednesday, October 2, at the Winchester Funeral Home in LChgarlevoix.

Mr. Boulton died September 29 in Antrim County.

He was born February 28, 1937 in Charlevoix, where he had been a lifelong resident.

He was employed at the Bendix Corporation in Charlevoix from 1976 to 1979 and since that time had been a self-employed commercial fisherman.

Mr. Boulton was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church. He married the former Mary Ann Napont on October 28, 1961 in Charlevoix.

Survivors include his mother, Mary Washegesic of Charlevoix; his wife; one son, Clint, of Charlevoix; one daughter, Ann Marie, of South Dakota; two brothers, Robert and Gerald, both of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Duane (Janice) Newstead of Petoskey and Donna Washesgesic of Charlevoix.

Winifred Bachman

Winifred C. Bachmann, 71, of Central Lake, died Sept. 18, 1985, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral was Sept. 20, at the Central Lake Congregational Church. The Rev. Paul Doriani officiated and burial was in Southern Cemetery, Central Lake.

The former Winifred C. Lamb was born Dec. 9, 1913, in Hagensville, Mich., the daughter of Patrick and Louise (Erke) Lamb. She grew up in Rogers City and on May 17, 1936, married Paul Bachmann there. The couple moved to Central Lake in 1942 where they opened and operated Bachmann's 5¢-$1 store.

Mrs. Bachmann was a member of the Central Lake Congregational Church and the church fellowship. She was also a Sunday School teacher for many years and was a member of the Central Lake Lioness Club, the Women's Club and the F.J. Lewis-Mark Chapter 213, Order of Eastern Star.

Mrs. Bachmann is survived by her husband; one son, Michael and one daughter, Mrs. Keith (Donna) Batterbee, both of Central Lake; three sisters; one brother; four grandchildren; many nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Central Lake Congregational Church. Visitation and an Eastern Star service, was held at the Central Lake Chapel of the Mortensen Funeral Home.

WATCH elects officers

WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) has announced the election o a new slate of officers.

Elected president was Jerry Puhl. Tim Hall was elected vice-president for future planning and computer services. Terry DeBruyn was chosen vice-president, ways and means.

Outgoing WATCH president Howard F. Neilson was elected chairman of the executive committee and Charlotte Sanderson becomes secretary-treasurer.

Neilson said he was pleased with the progress the group had made in the last year. "We set some objectives and we have met all of them," he said.

Among those objectives, Neilson said, were an increase in membership (now 600 members and growing), a new directorship with local people in control, and a solid financial position ($25,000 in reserves currently).

Neilson said the group will soon be publishing a newsletter twice a year, with the first one scheduled for the end of November.
